THE FLAGMAN IS A GIRL

Rude motorists, broiling sun, rocks kicked up by passing trucks and long hours of breathing road fumes were the lot of Laura Coats, 14, who worked full-time during the summer as a flagman on a construction job in Bend, Ore. On the other side of the coin, Miss Coats earned $5.85 per hour, which made her suffering bearable. She will continue as a part-time worker on the road project on Highway 26 through the winter months. (UPI Telephoto)

JUDGE IGNORES PLEAS

Construction Ban To Remain

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A superior court judge, brushing aside a claim that the ban on consturction in much of Southern and Central Marin will bankrupt developers, refused yesterday to lift the ban pending a court appeal.

Judge Ira A. Brown Jr. declared a temporary stay against the ban by the Regional Water Quality Control Board "would be against the public interest." He said he had "serious concern" that lifting the ban even temporarily would permit a flood of new construction.

Seaside attorney Saul M. Weingarten, representing real estate interests fighting the ban, attempted to assure the judge that there would not be a spurt of construction if the ban were lifted. But the judge asked, "Can't the court assume they're ready to build? Otherwide, what's the pressing need for a stay?"

The judge ruled after arguments against a stay by Deputy Atty. Gen. Roderick E. Walston, who said "this would be a most inopportune time to issue a stay order" since the rainy season is about to begin. Wet weather overwhelms sewage treatment plants in the three jurisdictions under the ban: the City of Mill Valley, Richardson Bay Sanitary District, and Ross Valley Sanitary District.

Judge Brown set trial for 1:30 p.m. on Oct. 15 in his courtroom in city hall. He warned Weingarten that no more than that half-day will be allowed for the trial. "If it goes longer, I will take it off calendar, declare a mistrial, and you can start all over in another department," Brown said.

And if the appeal goes to another judge, Brown added, it will be at least "several months" before trial.

Weingarten, arguing against the construction ban, said it was "illegal, enacted without due process and without due notice to parties affected." He said the State Water Resources Control Board had denied his appeal "out of hand" without hearing his evidence.

He also objected that the attorney general's office had delayed his appeal by having it moved out of Marin Superior Court. Such continued delay, he predicted, meant "some are going to become bankrupt."

Walston noted that neither Southern Marin discharger was party to the legal challenge to the ban, and that the regional board had found "gross violation" of its standards in Richardson Bay sewage. The wet weather flow through the Richardson Bay Sanitary District's treatment plant was nearly 50 per cent over its capacity, he said, and in Mill Valley the flow was nearly 300 percent over capacity.

He said that 90 per cent of test fish in a sample of effluent are supposed to survive under regional board standards, but that "no fish have survived whatsoever" in samples from the Richardson Bay district.

In other arguments, Weingarten objected that the regional board's timetable for improvements by mid-1973 was too short. He said the dischargers would need four to five years because they had to wait for the Army Corps of Engineers to dredge channels for the effluent.

Judge Brown, however, said "we are not bound by the corps' schedule."

Weingarten claimed that new construction would not increase pollution from the already overloaded sewage systems, a point Walston branded as "axiomatically incorrect."

The regional board's construction ban was imposed on the two Southern Marin dischargers in June, and on the Ross Valley district in July.

Disaster Plans To Be Viewed

Marin County officials and city officials will meet tomorrow to see whether they can agree on an "integrated" disaster and civil defense plan, which is almost ready to submit to state and federal disaster officials for approval.

The session will begin at 4 p.m. in the board of supervisors' chambers of the Marin County Civic Center.

Frank E. Kirby, acting coordinator of emergency services, sent each of Marin's 11 cities a copy of his bulky, draft emergency plan two weeks ago for study and criticism at tomorrow's meeting.

The proposed plan is designed to replace an obsolete one that was created 11 years ago — and which state and county officials admitted left Marin and its citizens almost totally unprepared to cope with any disaster.

Kirby has prepared the skeleton of a specific disaster plan for the City of Novato, to serve as a model for each of the cities to adopt. In addition, he has outlined plans for Marin County government to establish an emergency operational area which would take over leadership and supply manpower when a city found its own resources overtaxed and asked the chairman of the board of supervisors to declare a local emergency.

The Novato plan calls for the mayor or a councilman to serve as city director of emergency services, the city manager or other official appointed by the council to serve as coordinator, and staff members to head up six control and guidance sections, plus eight emergency service sections.

The mayor and city manager would lead the operations control section, and the manager also would be responsible for the intelligence (data gathering) and public information sections. The fire chief would head the radiological defense section, and the police chief the communications and warning sections.

County personnel would handle several of the emergency services the city would need, through coordination from the area (county) emergency office. These would include welfare and shelter, and health and medical services.

Law enforcement, traffic control, fire protection, engineering, supply and manpower services would be coordinated by local department heads unless the disaster was too large for the city forces to handle. In that case the city's available manpower would become part of the respective control or service staffs at the county level, for direction by the county for the duration of the emergency.

Kirby's outline sets up procedures and proposed enabling ordinance, for commandeering public and private manpower and property for use in the

FAIRFAX POLICE CHIEF HELD UNDER FIRE

Reports Say Resignation Has Been Asked: Mayor Denies It

The hold of Fairfax Police Chief James R. Orr on his job appeared shaken today amid reports that he has been asked to resign or be dismissed.

Mayor Cornelis Van Vliet today would say only that Orr's continuance at his post was a matter "that is not yet resolved."

Councilman Robert R. Souza, however, confirmed reports that City Administrator Robert E. Crowe had been instructed by a majority of the council to "negotiate" with Orr, as a result of three closed sessions of the council in recent weeks.

The sessions, at the time they were called, were said by the city administrator to involve a high official of the city and "a very serious matter." The administrator after the last closed meeting would say only that he had been instructed to discuss the problem with the city attorney and the official involved.

A three-man majority consisting of Van Vliet, Souza and Councilman Lee Nelder reportedly is disenchanted with Orr for "failing to get tough with hippies" in the town, neglecting to report juveniles' alcohol purchase at a Fairfax store to state Alcoholic Beverage Control authorities, and going on vacation without telling Crowe where to reach him.

Also, "some of the charges go way back" to Orr's conviction for disturbing the peace outside a San Rafael teen-age dance hall four years ago, one councilman said. Orr had received a vote of confidence from the council after a municipal court jury found him guilty of profanity when trying to enter the hall in search of his own teen-age daughter.

During the closed-door hearings, the council also reportedly discussed a charge that Orr pulled a gun on a police department employee two years ago.

The 43-year-old Orr has been chief in Fairfax for nine years, having served on the San Anselmo police force 10 years.

Souza denied that the council was "digging way back" to justify action against Orr. "There is information which involves current activities . . . sho w an overall pattern," he told a reporter.

Souza said that the council had talked with Orr at only one of the three closed sessions.

Under the Ralph M. Brown governmental antisecrecy act, although the council can discuss the charges against Orr in closed session, he could demand a public hearing, if he wished to fight the charges. Also, any decision reached by

METHADONE PROGRAM

Ex-Addicts Given Hope For Future

By JEFF GREER
(Second of two articles)

The answers aren't simple, admits Vic Chiarolla. He is the young doctor of pharmacology who oversees the program for medical doctors from the Marin Community Mental Health Center and the county health department.

One key is the concept of "cross tolerance."

All of the opiates — heroin, morphine, opium and the like — create somewhat the same reactions in the body, Ciarolla explained.

"If we build up the dosage of methadone sufficiently, we can 'blockade' the effects of heroin or the others," Ciarolla said.

Methadone does not leave its user irrational or euphoric, like the other narcotics, Ciarolla said. Hence, a heroin addict switched over to the equally addicting but inexpensive methadone is given a steady, 24-hour-long level of ability. He can work and live a social life without having to "hustle on the street" to support a craving for heroin, costing $50 to $100 a day.

The Open House program is only beginning, but its founders make it clear that some day its customers will face the travail of weaning themselves from methadone addiction. The "kicking" may be even more painful and slower than heroin withdrawal Ciarolla noted.

But while using methadone, the addict will be "relatively a normal individual. Meth doesn't insulate the user from his or her own feelings. Therefore, the individual will have a lot of anxieties they've been avoiding by shooting heroin previously.

The Open House methadone maintenance program has enjoyed cooperation from law enforcement agencies throughout Marin and from the county's probation department.

The program's enrollees are carefully screened. They must be at least 21 years old, in contrast to other Open House antidrug programs aimed at teen-agers. To be eligible, the heroin addict must have "had the habit" for at least two years, and have made at least two unsuccessful attempts to break the habit by means other than methadone.

Chiarolla stressed that methadone should be a last resort. "Straight detoxification, groups, or residential drug cure programs are better" for a

No-Fault Insurance Is Beaten

The only surviving proposal, one its backers claimed would have saved California motorists $50 million annually in automobile insurance premiums, was resoundly killed last night by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

"School was out before the hearing began. It was an exercise in futility," complained the bitter author, Assemblyman Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello, after the two and one half hour committee hearing.

Fenton's bill was a modified version of a plan now being tried for the first time in Mas-

Atom-Blast Test Beneath Desert

YUCCA FLATS, Nev. (UPI) —United States scientists triggered an underground nuclear test today which had a force of less than 20,000 tons of TNT.

The detonation, code named Pedernal, was triggered 1,240 feet below the desert floor in the Yucca Basin of the Nevada Test Site.

The Atomic Energy Commission said all radiation was contained underground.

Little Marin Support To Integration 'Consortium'

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

A California Department of Education proposal for a "tri-county regional consortium" to spread school integration across San Francisco-Marin-San Mateo county lines has drawn no enthusiasm in either Marin or San Mateo.

The idea was broached last spring, and pressed during the summer, but a meeting scheduled in San Francisco for Aug. 20 was canceled, and Marin school superintendents have heard no more of the matter since.

However, Ples A. Griffin, chief of the bureau of intergroup relations in the state Department of Education, said today that the proposal is not dead.

A bill which would provide federal funding for such purposes is moving slowly in Congress, so there is "no immediacy," he said.

Griffin wrote county and district superintendents in Marin and San Mateo inviting them to meetings on the consortium in San Francisco in June and again Aug. 20. The June meeting was exploratory.

The letter regarding the August meeting had specific recommendations. It urged that school boards review attendance practices, "especially interdistrict attendance policies and procedures, which . . . inhibit the extension of integrated attendance centers," and that they adopt resolutions" sup-

Supervisors Abandon Proposal For Glass Shield In Courtroom

Cost-conscious Marin County supervisors — faced with sizeable courtroom expenses — declined yesterday to order a bullet-proof glass shield for one courtroom, criticized defense attorneys' plans to import a pathologist from Vienna, and appointed a committee to audit all trial expenses connected with last year's shoot-out at the Hall of Justice. (Other supervisors stories on page 7.)

Meanwhile, Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson was approving part of the expenses requested by defense attorneys for Ruchell Magee, to bring in experts from as far away as Vienna in connection with the exhumation of the body of Judge Harold J. Haley, slain in the shoot-out.

The bullet-proof shield had been urged last week by Superior Court Judge Henry J. Broderick to make at least one courtroom suitable for handling "sensitive" trials.

The Viennese pathologist, Dr. Leopold Breitenecker, had been requested by Ernest L. Graves, defense attorney for Ruchell Magee, to perform a new autopsy on the exhumed body of Judge Haley. Graves called the Viennese "one of the foremost forensic pathologists in the world."

"If we can't find a qualified pathologist any closer than Vienna, there's something really wrong," declared Supervisor John F. McInnis. Chairman Louis H. Baar agreed, and also called for a county audit of the $20,758 in legal fees billed by Graves from May through August.

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell explained that the attorney's fees are $350 per trial day and $50 per hour for work outside the courtroom.

The board formed an audit committee consisting of County Administrator John F. Barrows, Mitchell, County Counsel

SOMETHING'S SPROUTING

A Pompous Funeral For A Simple Man

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court, official Washington and the family and friends of Justice Hugo L. Black have bid him a last goodby.

More pomp and circumstance surrounded the leavetaking Tuesday than the Clay County, Ala., storekeeper's son, a man of simple taste, might have wished.

But his family had to choose Washington Cathedral to accommodate his Supreme Court associates, law clerks who served during his 34 years on the bench, many other figures in the legal community and just plain people who admired and loved him. He was buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

The rites brought together all living present and past members of the high court except retired Justice John M. Harlan, 72, who is in the hospital suffering from cancer.

If the sparkling stain glass, multi-colored flags and soaring gothic arches seemed not quite right for the one-time Baptist Sunday school teacher, the mind and heart of Black came through in the music and words spoken over his undraped pine coffin.

Since the U.S. Constitution had been the great love of Black's life for most of his 85 years, he would have smiled when his friend, the Rev. Duncan Howlett, refused to label him a "strict constructionist."

Howlett, former minister of All Souls Unitarian Church, read passages underlined by Black in the books in his library —works by Aeschylus, Diogenes, Virgil, Cicero, Jefferson, Thomas Carlyle and Edith Hamilton.

'Brewer Equipment' Is Offered For Sale

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—Among surplus state property advertized recently by the State of Oregon was "brewer equipment, including crocks and beer kegs."

An official hastened to explain that the equipment was seized by the Oregon Liquor Control Commission in a raid on an illegal operation.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

A Castro Warning

MIAMI (UPI) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro warned the United States Tuesday night to stop publicizing Cuban refugees who flee his land illegally or he might start sanctioning the skyjacking of U.S. planes.

Speaking at the 11th anniversary celebration of the founding of the revolutionary defense committees — local cells which encourage spying on one's neighbors — and monitored in Miami, Castro told the crowd:

"Let them (the U.S. government) reminder that their planes fly here, let the imperialists remember we haven't yet awarded a medal to a skyjacker.

"But if they promote illegality here, we will promote illegality there."

Kidnap Demands

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The kidnapers of millionaire industrialist Julio Hirschfeld Almada again contacted his family today to reiterate their demands for $240,000 ransom in exchange for his life.

Hirschfeld, 54, who holds the cabinet-level post of director of airports, was abducted from his car Monday by three men and a woman armed with machine guns. They said they were "revolutionaries."

Mexican "sugar king" Aaron Saenz said the Hirschfeld family is very confident that the exchange will be accomplished.

Mrs. Gandhi 'Queen'

MOSCOW (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi today completed a visit that moved the Kremlin to censure Pakistan and treat its Indian guest like a queen.

Mrs. Gandhi was scheduled to return to New Delhi today.

Mrs. Gandhi arrived Monday for talks with all three members of the Soviet leadership. Diplomatic sources said the talks were aimed principally at strengthening the new Indo-Soviet alliance against common rivalries with China and India's conflict with Pakistan.

China Readies Fete

HONG KONG (UPI) — Peking's Tienanmen Square, traditionally the center of China's National Day activities, has been decorated "magnificently" in preparation for the Oct. 1 celebrations, Peking Radio said today.

Huge color portraits of Mao Tse-tung, the 77-year-old chairman of the Chinese Communist Party, have been erected in Tienanmen, "the Gate of Heavenly Peace".

The broadcast made no mention of the traditional mass rally and parade which officials said had been canceled.

Chinese officials said it was decided to hold smaller, scattered gatherings instead of the mass rally this year.

Hirohito In Belgium

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Emperor Hirohito of Japan paid his second visit to Belgium in 50 years today and was greeted at the airport by the royal family led by King Baudouin.

Hirohito was met by Baudouin, Queen Fabiola, Prince Albert, Princess Paola and thousands of cheering and waving Belgians.

Hirohito, who will visit Belgium for three days, first came to the country in 1921 when he was the crown prince.

Friendship Visit

PARIS (UPI) — The highest level Chinese Communist delegation to visit Western Europe since Mao Tse-tung proclaimed the People's Republic of China on Oct. 1, 1949, arrived today in Paris and announced it had come to weave new ties of friendship with France.

The delegation was led by Chinese External Trade Minister Pai Hsiang-kuo and included eight high ranking trade and foreign ministry officials. Krench officials gave them a red carpet welcome at Orly Field and noted with pride the high rank of the delegation members.

The last Chinese cabinet minister to visit Western Europe was Chou, who went to Geneva in 1954 and 1962 for the conferences on Indochina. However, these visits were not "official visits" as diplomats term that of this mission.

Luna 19 Won't Land

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union's unmanned Luna 19 raced toward the moon today in the tracks of its ill-fated predecessor but the Soviets indicated it would not attempt a landing.

The spacecraft blasted off Tuesday, just 17 days after Luna 18 vanished during an unsuccessful attempt to land in the moon's Appolonius Mountain range. Soviet reports Sept. 11 said Luna 18's touchdown had been "unlucky."

Liner Damaged In Collision

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — American President Lines reported its 19,000-ton liner the SS President Wilson was stuck and damaged in a collision with a Chinese freighter at Keelung, Taiwan.

A spokesman said Tuesday the Wilson, which left San Francisco Sept. 10 on a 43-day tour of the Orient, was inbound toward the port of Keelung when the outgoing freighter struck it above the waterline and ripped a 100-foot section out of the starboard bow.

There were no injuries to passenger or crew, according to reports radioed by Capt. J. D. Cox, and the liner put into Keelung for temporary repairs.

Viet Police Ordered To Get Tough

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu today ordered police to shoot "on the spot" any demonstrators caught in firebombings or causing serious damage to property.

"Henceforth, if somebody is caught redhanded firebombing property, he can be shot on the spot, if necessary, or put in jail," Thieu told the police officials.

A government spokesmen said demonstrators for and against Thieu's regime would be tolerated but they "must be orderly."

"Those who burned cars have brought losses to public funds and properties of the population and thus created confusion in the daily life of the population," Thieu told 400 police commanders from throughout the nation.

Thieu's new tough policy has been made necessary, he said, "to maintain order because without a strict policy, the country will fall into disorder."

As Thieu delivered his pronouncement, Ge. Doung Van "Big" Minh charged that Thieu "has refused to wake up to the grave crisis and instability" caused by his decision to run without opposition.

Minh dropped out of the presidential race and charged that Thieu had rigged the election. He issued a statement today from his Saigon villa.

Long Weekends

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The nation's leisure time spending is expected to toal more than $250 billion a year by 1975 as a result of the four new Monday holiday weekends, says the American Automobile Association.

Major Counteroffensive Against Reds In Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI) — Tens of thousands of American and South Vietnamese troops poured into the Cambodian border area 80 miles northwest of Saigon today in a major counteroffensive against three North Vietnamese divisions menacing Tay Ninh Province.

Massive U.S. air support including seven strikes by B52 bombers and jet fighterbombers was brought to bear in the action which military men said could be one of the few major pitched battles of the Vietnam War. But squalls from dying typhoon Stella grounded most helicopter gunships.

The Communists opened their offensive Sunday near the Cambodian rubber plantation town of Krek across the border from Tay Ninh City in an effort to drive the South Vietnamese from their last toehold inside Cambodia.

Military sources said the Communists, using North Vietnamese regulars, hoped to score a major victory and embarrass President Nguyen Van Thieu before the Sunday presidential election in which he is the only candidate.

UPI correspondent Kenneth J. Braddick reported from Tay Ninh City that South Vietnamese Gen. Nguyen Xuan Tinh told him about 50,000 South Vietnamese troops, plus a regiment of U.S. armored cavalry and elements of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division, were sent into the fight against the three NVN divisions of about 36,000 men.

Braddick said Tay Ninh City, 50 miles northwest of Saigon, was jammed with troops, vehicles and huge piles of supplies. He said "long, long columns of trucks have been moving through the city in the rain all day long."

The South Vietnamese and U.S. reinforcements pouring into the area included two brigades of airborne troops, armor, Ranger groups, the American 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment and an undisclosed number of troops and helicopters of the 1st Air Cavalry, which has its headquarters 50 miles east of Saigon in Xuan Loc.

'Prison Probe' Bill Reaches Full Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A proposal ordering a major legislative investigation of embattled California prisons this year and next cleared the Senate Rules Committee today and went to the floor.

The measure by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, a former district attorney, calls for a committee of five senators and five assemblymen to conduct an "in depth" investigation into the "administration and operation of all state penal institutions."

Nejedly told the Rules Committee he was confident the committee could submit its first report by next February with at least preliminary recommendations for remedial legislation.

He said he had been told by both prison personnel and inmate representatives that a "review of the situation can't be adequately made by the Department of Corrections."

Nejedly said members of the legislature have the "objectivity and capacity to review the circumstances and report them to the public."

A representative of the Department of Corrections told the committee, "We certainly have no opposition to the resolution."

The committee fixed the life of the investigative committee at two years, but Nejedly expressed confidence the work could be accomplished in less time.

"If we don't do it in two years, we shouldn't even get into it," he said.

In a related matter, the Rules Committee held for further study a measure by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, directing a legislative study to determine whether San Quentin Prison should be retained, abolished or replaced.

Bagley said the Joint Legislative Budget Committee should make such a determination before additional funds are committed to refurbish the aging 100-year-old prison.

"Let's face it, San Quentin is a volatile situation," he said. "Personally, I would like somebody to take a look at the institution other than the Department of Corrections."

DEFENSE

emergency, with a corps of legal advisors to protect all parties' interests and a system for fair payment for supplies needed.

Both on the city and on the county level "all forseeable tasks are assigned," according to the plan, with a set of priorities for each section.

Only when no city or county agency exists that could handle some emergency problem, is any new organization called for.

The skeleton plan requires each control and operating section to prepare "annexes" describing specific assignments and policies for integration into the city and county plans.

The plan calls for considerable work by emergency councils to be created in each city and on the county level to establish overall policy and to advise on standard operating procedure. In each governmental jurisdiction, the present top officials also would be required to designate a list of successors to step in if the official were incapacitated.

Leadership of the county disaster organization would rest with the board of supervisors, and its chairman would be director of emergency services. His assistant would be the county administrator; the supervisors would appoint a coordinator of emergency services — Kirby — charged with the day-to-day preparedness organization and disaster planning.

The county-level emergency plan also calls for recruiting private industries' officials to guide some of the service sections not mentioned on the city level, such as utilities.

Kirby's plans spell out how alerts would be sounded for the county after notification from state and federal sources. The board chairman also could declare an emergency — subject to ratification within a week by the board of supervisors.

An emergency operations center in the Marin County Civic Center would be backed up by an alternate center at the Marion School in Novato, plus other alternate sites yet to be chosen.

The county plan, in addition to control and service sections envisioned for the cities, calls for special sections to control manpower, food supplies, petroleum supplies, and three post-disaster divisions to help recovery operations — industrial production, construction and housing, and economic stabilization.

Arrest On Possessing Dope Charge

Officers said Robert Henry Waldman, no known address, was arrested at about 5:30 a.m. after officers found him sleeping in his auto on Hawthorne Avenue.

Inside the vehicle, officers said, they found two metal containers and a plastic bag of suspected marijuana and a wooden pipe used for smoking the weed.

Waldman was booked into Marin County Jail where he remained in lieu of $1,050 bail and was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Guilty Plea To Burglary Try

Hall previously had pleaded innocent to burglary, but the charge was changed yesterday by agreement of Hall's attorney and the district attorney's office.

He is to be sentenced Nov. 9.

Hall was arrested July 31 by a security guard who found him outside a broken door to the office of Dr. Zane R. Gard at 77 Marsh Drive, San Rafael.

Citations To Be Given To Cyclists

The Petaluma Police Department will step up its bicycle safety campaign Friday when it starts issuing citations for infractions of safety rules.

Police Chief Larry D. Higgins said the number of violations and bicycle accidents has been on the increase despite past efforts of school safety talks and bike-a-rama programs.

In the past, when officers observed a youngster riding a bicycle unsafely, only a warning was issued. Beginning Friday, officers will write citations which will be sent to the parents along with a list of 13 safety rules to be reviewed with the youngster.

If additional citations are issued within a short period of time, they will be sent to the Sonoma County Juvenile Probation Department and the child and parents will be required to meet with a probation officer.

Higgins said repeat violators over the age of 18 will receive misdemeanor citations and be required to appear in traffic court.

"This program may not be popular with everyone, but we have a very serious problem here and something must be done," Higgins said. A similar program has been used by the Rohnert Park police department for more than a year.

Higgins said he also would be working with the city traffic committee to make streets safer for bicyclists. He recommended that congested areas on East Washington Street and Petaluma Boulevard be avoided by bicyclists because of heavy traffic and construction hazards.

Woman Hurt In Kentfield Crash

The woman, Tracy Sue Schieman of 14 Willow Avenue, suffered a broken left foot and injury to her right hip in the accident, hospital officials said. She was a passenger in a car driven by Christine Montoya, 22, of 112 West Street, Sausalito, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Miss Montoya was driving north on College Avenue at 3:35 p.m. when her attention was diverted to the right and she inadvertently steered the car that direction, off the road and into a large tree, about 375 feet north of Woodland Avenue, highway patrol officers said.

Miss Montoya was not injured.

STATE PLANNER — E. Jack Schoop of San Rafael, chief planner for the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, will become planning director for the State of Wisconsin on Nov. 1. A former newspaperman and planning director for Anchorage, Alaska, he joined BCDC in 1966. Schoop, his wife, Marilyn, and their three children live at 216 Mount Shasta Drive.

NO-FAULT

Fenton's modified bill generally would have entitled motorists to recover up to $10,000 for medical expenses, wage losses, disfigurement, dismemberment and funeral expenses. Property damage would not have been covered.

If an injured person's medical expenses were higher than $1,000, he could have sued for more than the $10,000 basic payment.

"The present system stinks," Fenton told the committee.

Fenton said his bill would have resulted in prompter insurance payments, which now often are delayed for up to 16 months.

The author also said the measure would have resulted in lower insurance premiums.

Firemen's Fund, which backed the measure, predicted Californians would wind up paying $50 million less in premiums under the bill.

But opponents on the committee noted this would still have amounted to only $5 for the average premium.

State Real Estate Commissioner Richard Barger also backed the measure.

He and other insurance representative predicted if California doesn't enact a similar law within the next two years the federal government will.

BULLET

Douglas J. Maloney and Tax Collector-Treasurer Stanley J. Fontez.

What effect the auditing committee could have is problematical; in most cases the bills are paid under court orders, and Mitchell has warned he might face jail if the board prevents him from paying them.

Meanwhile, yesterday, Judge Wilson authorized less than half the money requested by defense attorneys for Magee for expenses in connection with the exhumation of Judge Haley's body.

Novato Attorney Robert D. Carrow had requested a total of $5,000 for air travel expenses and services ot three doctors and a medical photographer.

Wilson refused to authorize county funds for air travel and approved only $400 for the services of one doctor for whom Carrow had requested $900.

The judge authorized $1,500 for the services of Dr. Breitenecker of the University of Vienna Medical School in Austria; $400 for the services of his son, Dr. Rudiger Breitenecker of the Greater Baltimore Medical Center in Maryland; $250 for Dr. Robert Hirshfeld, of the department of radiology at the Baltimore Center, and $200 for Andrew Gero, medical photographer at the Los Angeles City Medical Center.

Carrow said today the judge's cuts in his requests would not stop plans for the exhumation.

"We'll pay the travel expenses ourselves if we have to," he said.

The bullet-proof shield failed to win the four board votes necessary to spend the money, and was tabled. Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos and Lt. Ronald Retana reported yesterday that the glass partition between courtroom audience and the judge, jury and courtroom attaches would be an added protection, but could not reduce the need for security manpower.

Supervisors Arnold M. Baptiste and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. had opposed the shield last week; Supervisor Michael Wornum had voted for the shield only if it would reduce manpower requirements.

SCHOOLS

It also urged that they "affirm your support and participation in a proposed tri-county (Marin, San Mateo, San Francisco) regional consortium" to explore establishing "one or more integrated education programs" through interdistrict transfers "providing integreated attendance centers in one or more districts," also "short-term integrated education programs among two (or) more districts," and "regional planning to seek funding to establish a tri-county consortium on a permanent basis."

Result of this letter was that several school boards in Marin reaffirmed standing policies on interdistrict pupil transfers. None adopted resolutions supporting the San Francisco integration program. None pledged participation in the tri-county consortium.

Most superintendents who received the letter said they merely sent copies to board members and it has never been put on the agenda for action.

One who got action was Clifford W. Campbell, superintendent of Dixie district. He said he felt the state was "putting on pressure" and that board response was needed. The Dixie board refused to take a stand on San Francisco integration, reaffirmed its attendance policies, and instructed Campbell to attend any future meetings regarding the consortium to find out what might be planned. It did not endorse the consortium.

Supt. Milton S. Cohen of Larkspur district attended the June meeting. He said several "high officials" of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare were on hand. He said it appeared the plan was to "use the suburbs to do a better job of busing" San Francisco pupils for integration purposes. His board's response was to adopt a resolution affirming support for neighborhood schools.

Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry of San Anselmo district was directed by his board to write the state Department of Education asking clarification of the second letter. He said he has received no reply.

No action was taken by other Marin districts.

Virgil S. Hollis, Marin County superintendent of schools, said districts had asked that he have representatives at all meetings on the matter to keep informed as to what was going on, but none had pledged participation.

Armin D. Weems, assistant superintendent of San Mateo County schools, called the response of school districts in that county "very, very poor."

the council legally should be taken in open meeting.

Councilman Francis J. O'Connell exclaimed "where did you hear all that!" when asked about the reports today. He refused to comment on the closed hearings. Councilman Frank J. Egger and Nelder were not available for comment, and Crowe was in San Francisco at a meeting of League of California Cities officials.

Brooks Will Leave Top Demo Post

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Northern California chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, John Brooks, has resigned, effective tomorrow.

Brooks, a San Leandro real estate developer elected to the position in January, said "the demands on my time are simply too great for me to provide the leadership which the party needs in Northern California."

Brooks, according to the committee's office, has appointed John Merlo of Chico, northern treasurer of the committee, as acting northern chairman. He will serve until December, when a successor will be selected at the committee's executive committee meeting.

Brooks said that the position "requires a full-time chairman north, which, unfortunately, I cannot be at this time."

Bound Over On Felony Charge

Reuban D. Gaynor, 40, of Richmond, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on two felony charges of drunken driving. He is to appear in superior court Oct. 18.

Gaynor is charged in connection with an accident Aug. 31 in Novato on Highway 101 in which 12 persons were injured.

OBITUARIES

James V. Tacherra, 14, Dies

James V. Tacherra, 14, a student at Petaluma Junior High School, died yesterday at a local hospital following a long illness.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Tacherra, 4850 Bodega Avenue, and was a ninth-grade student.

He is also survived by two sisters, Cynthia and Katharine Tacherra of Petaluma; his maternal grandparents and paternal grandmother.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Vincent de Paul Church, Petaluma, followed by burial at Calvary Cemetery. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. today at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma.

W. J. PETERSEN

William J. Petersen, 85, retired Petaluma poultry rancher, died yesterday at a local hospital following a short illness.

He was born on the island of Fohr, Germany, and came to the U.S. in 1901, settling in Petaluma. Petersen was a ranch employee until 1922 when he purchased his own ranch. He retired in 1953. His wife, Keike, died in 1913.

He is survived by three daughters, Lillian Nommsen, Petaluma city clerk; Clara Mogel and Minnie Combs, all of Petaluma; nine grandchildren and three great-children.

Funeral will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma, followed by burial at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

WILL RAMPE

Masonic services for Will E. Rampe, 85, of San Anselmo, a lumber salesman, were to be held today in Novato.

Rampe, of 160 Butterfield Road, died Saturday at Franklin Hospital in San Francisco after three weeks' hospitalization for a heart ailment.

He was a salesman with Service Lumber Co. of Black Point for the past 15 years, and formerly was a lumber broker in San Francisco for many years.

Rampe was a member and past master of Mount Moriah Lodge No. 44, Free and Accepted Masons in San Francisco, the Knights Templar and Shriners. He had formerly lived in San Francisco and was a Marin resident for the past eight years.

Inurnment will be private.

MAJ. COOPER

Maj. William F. Cooper of Greenbrae, a veteran of the Spanish-American War, died in a local hospital Monday following a short illness. He was 91.

Cooper was born in Nashville, Tenn. He lived in Hawaii, Atherton and San Francisco before moving in 1969 to the Tamalpais retirement residence at 501 Via Casitas.

During the Spanish-American war, he served in the Philippine theater with the first Tennessee Volunteer Infantry. He also served in France during World War I. He was awarded the Purple Heart when he was temporarily blinded.

He worked for the Bank of Hawaii and was a salesman for Hobb's Battery Inc. in San Francisco.

Cooper is survived by his wife, Anita Lorenze Reed Cooper, and a sister, Mrs. Lucius Burch of Nashville.

Private funeral is pending.

MRS. NEWMAN

Effie B. Newman, mother of Elizabeth Benedict of San Anselmo, died yesterday in a local hospital following a long illness. She was 86.

Mrs. Newman was born in Kansas, and came to California in 1953. For the past two years she had made her home with her daughter at 114 Sycamore Avenue. She also is survived by a brother, Bert Smith of Grandview, Wash.; a sister, Pansy Meisner of Portland, Ore.; a granddaughter and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be held at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow in Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael, followed by private burial.

R. B. JOHNSON

A Mass of Resurrection for Ronald (Ron) B. Johnson of San Rafael will be offered at 10 a.m. Friday in Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church in Mill Valley. Johnson, 24, died Monday in his San Rafael apartment.

A native of Mill Valley, he was a lifelong resident of Marin County, residing at 509 Canal Street. He attended Tamalpais High School and College of Marin, where he majored in police science. Johnson was a reserve policeman and a police cadet with the San Rafael Police Department. He also was a Marine corps veteran of the Vietnam war.

Johnson is survived by his parents, Harry and Eleanor Johnson of Mill Valley; a brother, Bradley Johnson, and a sister, Lynn Johnson, also of Mill Valley.

Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel, Mill Valley. The funeral will begin from the chapel at 9:30 a.m. Friday, then proceed to the church.

Entombment will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

MRS. ZIEGLER

Private funeral for Sophie Ziegler of Tiburon was held today in San Rafael. Mrs. Ziegler, 86, died Saturday in a local hospital following a long illness.

A native of Germany, she had lived in California and Marin County six years, residing at 142 Stewart Drive.

Mrs. Ziegler is survived by a daughter, Lilo Wilde of Tiburon.

Private inurnment will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

J. FREYMILLER

Funeral for Jack Earl Freymiller of Petaluma, a San Francisco carpenter, will be tomorrow at 1 p.m. at Anderson's Funeral Parlor in San Francisco.

Freymiller died yesterday following a long illness in a local hospital.

He was born in Spokane, Wash. He has lived in San Francisco and he moved to Petaluma in February.

He was a member of Carpenters Union Local No. 2164 and the Masons, George Washington Lodge No. 525, both of San Francisco.

He is survived by his wife, Polly Freymiller; a daughter, Leotta Cunningham of San Mateo; a son, Terry Freymiller of Redding, Shasta County; five sisters, Hulda Johnson, Ruth Anderson, and Ann Wong, all of Illinois, Betty Paolini of Roseville, Placer County, and Kelly Weaks, of Spokane; a brother, George Freymiller of Novato; and two grandchildren.

An Associate Member Named

Sydney Buisson, 22, of 232 San Carlos Way, Novato, was appointed last night by the Marin County Republican Central Committee as an associate member.

Miss Buisson, a nursing student in San Francisco, has been active in precinct work and on the committee's publication, Trumpetings, reported chairman Rodgers C. Broomhead of Ross.

The committee also donated $25 to the California College Republicans to support the statewide group's campus registration campaign.

The committee postponed again endorsement of the proposed Golden Gate National Recreation Area because a resolution had not been prepared.

Youth Booked— Burglary Charge

A 19-year-old San Pablo youth was arrested yesterday in connection with a San Rafael burglary and possession of alcohol by a minor.

David Wayne Renfro was booked into Marin County Jail at 10 p.m. and held to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said they found Renfro lying in his car at 9:15 p.m. two houses away from a burglary at Kenneth D. Guinther residence, 19 Maple Hill Drive. Witnesses said they saw Renfro around the Guinther residence shortly before the burglary was discovered, according to the police report.

Police said they found two cans of beer in Renfro's car.

Hearings On County Plan Scheduled

The first of a series of public hearings on the preliminary Marin County master plan will be held tomorrow night in San Rafael.

The meeting is set for 8 p.m. in the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. auditorium at Third and Brooks streets, San Rafael, with Larkspur Councilman Benton A. Sifford as chairman.

The hearings, sponsored by Marin's City-County Planning Council, will be held in five different localities during the next 30 days.

Public controversy over the countywide plan has focused on three major issues:

The goal of greater economic self-sufficiency (including visitor enterprise development), the proposed limitation on population growth and the proposed national parkway from the Golden Gate Bridge to Point Reyes National Seashore.

The plan calls for future urban growth to be concentrated in existing city areas in the eastern one-third of the county, with the rest of Marin remaining predominantly open and rural.

Tomorrow — PG&E Auditorium, San Rafael, 8 p.m.

Oct. 6 — Tamalpais High School, rooms 123 and 124, 8 p.m., Margaret B. Azevedo, county planning commissioner, chairman.

Oct. 13 — Novato Community House, 8 p.m., William B. Lynch, county planning commissioner, chairman.

Oct. 14 — West Marin School, Point Reyes Station, 8 p.m., John F. West, planning commission, chairman.

Oct. 21 — Sir Francis Drake High School Little Theater, San Anselmo, 8 p.m., Woodrow Capurro, San Anselmo city councilman, chairman.

Comments made at the hearings will be presented at a countywide symposium on Oct. 30 from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at College of Marin's Olney Hall.

Creek Protest Figures Fined

Two persons have been fined $50 in Marin Municipal Court in connection with their arrests at a 1969 demonstration against the Tamalpais Creek flood control project.

Judge Robert A. Smallman fined Michael Robert Welch and Charles Ernest Wollard after they pleaded no contest to a misdemeanor charge of trespassing.

Following their pleas, an additional charge of failing to disperse was dismissed.

They were among 38 persons arrested in the demonstration. Warrants have been issued for three of the defendants whose cases have not yet been settled.

Mill Valley District Hires Two Teachers

Trustees of the Mill Valley School District have approved hiring two new reading specialists for district schools.

They are Carolyn Janson, Park School, at $8,496 a year, and Jacqueline Berreman, Strawberry Point and Marin Terrace schools, at $9,390 annually. The hirings were approved Monday night.

"TO YOU THE EARTH YIELDS HER FRUIT"

— Kahil Gibran

More than ever before people are aware of the value of nutrition. There are probably many reasons for this and one of the most important is that never before in the history of man have there been so many food substances in the market place that have little or no food value. Fortunately, consumer groups and Government agencies are encouraging shoppers to read labels.

When an individual first becomes aware of the value of nutrition and diet he may become confused by many often contradictory ideas. Having been in the health food business for over thirty-five years and having watched many fads and faddish movements come and go, I came to a conclusion: Keep a balance in all you do. Use the time tested ideas of old, but always keep an eye on the latest findings of our food scientists.

Food should be pleasing and enjoyable. Life is meant to be enjoyed fully. If we let instinct and intelligence guide us into sensible eating habits, we will probably find a new meaning in this rapidly changing time of instant and incomplete nutrition. A deeper understanding of the laws of nature will lead us to a simpler life — one with an easier style of living and better health. To help you on this path, we have made available to you many books which we feel will help you decide which is the best path for you. You will find these listed on the left side of this page.

With best wishes for better nutrition and thus a happier life, we're wishing you Here's Health!

Ex-Addicts Given Hope For Future

majority of addicts, he declared.

The buildup of the methadone program is proceeding cautiously. Screening processes will admit only five newcomers a week until the caseload reaches 50 persons. Eventually the program will reach 100 addicts, under Open House contracts with the mental health center and county and state health programs.

No one knows how many heroin addicts Marin harbors, but experts and users "on the street" estimate 2,000 teenagers and adults use some form of narcotics.

The average heroin addict often must steal — and sell at 10 cents on the dollar — $500 to $1,000 worth of someone else's belonging daily to assure his or her ability to buy the dreadful necessity. The addicts' burglaries are a significant percentage of Marin's crime bill, authorities agree.

Hospitals have treated heroin addicts' withdrawal travails with methadone, but the Open House plan is Marin's first methadone maintenance program. Dr. John S. Guerrant, chief of the community mental health center, said the plan has worked well in other areas, for as long as five years in New York City.

"It's much too early to tell about the Marin program," he admitted.

Perhaps, but its addict-participants already have changed observations about what's happening to them.

"I've had my habit for 17 years off and on. I was always rational. I've worked since 1968 at the same job. We're out of work right now because of the (longshore) strike.

"I've hung it up (quit taking heroin) 15 or 16 times . . . and always used again. Just enough to give me life enough." He admitted that "sometimes I had to hustle" in addition to his regular job to earn $60 to $80 a day for heroin.

Another Jim, who said at 46 he was the oldest man in the methadone program, enthused that in the two weeks he's been taking the synthetic narcotic "I've stopped thinking about heroin. I have no desire to score."

"It's a great mental thing," methadone user Jack Gallagher interjected. "I don't even think about it, man. I can even see other people fix" without desiring heroin.

Tom, who had never held a job in his life until he joined the methadone program three weeks ago, said he is enjoying work as a maintenance man. Now 25 years old, he dropped out of school at 14, and first was sent to the California Rehabilitation Center for addiction treatment three years later.

"I've been running ever since. This is the first time I've felt halfway human again . . . it sure beats the streets. Even though I feel I've been putting less into it than I get out of it, I've got a job, I'm making friends. The people that mean anything at all to me" think his methadone regime is "the greatest thing that ever happened," Tom declared.

Gallagher, a thoroughgoing extrovert, has been named the methadone addicts' public relations chief. He and the other methadone recipients decided on their own to call in a reporter to tell their story — without consulting Chiarolla or other Open House staff members.

"We were concerned about it being premature," Chiarolla admitted.

"But then we told them it's their program; they had to protect it," he added.

Gallagher said methadone recipients use much of their newfound freedom from "hunting for a fix" in seeking jobs. Friends of friends help some find work. Open House itself sponsors a garden work hiring service, hauling service, and wholesale manufacture of candles, pillows and other craft objects for sale to merchants.

Gallagher also busies himself with a new special camera that makes identification cards for the methadone recipients, and serving on the program's screening committee.

And he's the methadone experiment's most vocal disciple.

"Man, it's the greatest," he says in a booming voice. "It gives me 14 hours a day I used to have to spend trying to score. I have time for my family again, instead of being out of my head or worrying. I even have a sex life again . . ."

Petaluma Pushes Probe On 12-Month School Year

An intensive study of a 12-month school year for possible use next fall was approved last night by the Petaluma Board of Education.

Schools Supt. Lesly H. Meyer said Dr. Dan Montgomery would leave his post as principal of Petaluma Senior High School to coordinate the study that also will involve the old Adobe School District on Petaluma's eastside and the Cotati School District.

Merey said the study should be completed by next February and that a board decision must be made then if the plan is to be put into effect next September. Vice principal Gerald J. Dadey was named acting principal of the school during Montgomery's absence.

Meyer said the board had many questions about the effect of the 12-month plan on students, teachers, parents and the general community, but said it held enough promise for educational improvements to warrant a full-scale study.

The board heard Marvin Woodstrup report on the year-round school plan being considered by the Fairfield-Suisun district in which students would be in class for nine weeks followed by three weeks of vacation. Meyer said the Petaluma study would be based on research already done in Fairfield.

Initial study, he said, has shown that districts that have switched to the 12-month plan have made better use of school buildings and materials such as textbooks and equipment. In some districts the 12-month plan has done away with the need for double sessions at crowded schools and even delayed the need for additional school buildings.

Under the plan, each school would be divided into four groups with three student groups on campus at any one time.

Meyer stressed that students from the same family — even if they attend schools in different districts — would be placed on the same schedule to reduce inconvenience.

"We have many challenging questions to answer," Meyer said, including the effect on student activities such as football, in-service training for teachers and providing recreational activities for students during the short vacations.

Meyer told the board he believed that most problems could be solved and the plan put into effect successfully.

He said that in addition to educators, the Montgomery study committee will also include students, parents and citizens-at-large.

In other action, the board approved the hiring of Charles Garzoli Jr. as a high school teacher at a salary of $7,543.

Alcohol Blamed For Many Highway Deaths

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fifty per cent of highway fatalities are alcohol-related incidents, reports the Consumers Insurance Information Bureau.

Nurse Arrested On Bad Checks

According to Corte Madera police, Carol Ann Daenzer of 731 Robbin Road was returned to Marin County from the San Mateo County Jail where she was being held on similar charges.

Officers said she is suspected of writing 12 bad checks totaling $969 in Corte Madera during July.

She was booked into Marin County Jail where she remained in lieu of $3,000 bail and was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Following her court action here she will be returned to San Mateo County and the Orange County for similar court appearances.

County Will Eye A Clearing House

Marin county supervisors agreed last night that it well might be that Marin could use a central clearing house for information on mental health services and coordination of efforts to combat drug and alcohol abuse.

The Marin Mental Health Advisory board told the supervisors that there was need for such a clearing house and the supervisors asked Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella to find out how to establish one, recommend who should operate it and determine the cost.

At the suggestion of Supervisor John F. McInnis, the supervisors asked the advisory board to see what can be done for drifters who suffer ill effects of drugs or narcotics and turn to the county for help. Such drifters, he noted, are apt to have neither friends nor relatives to turn to and come to public notice only when they seek general relief.

Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

JUDICIAL MERGER — Approved an ordinance consolidating the Western Marin Judicial District in Point Reyes Station with the Central Judicial District, which means that Judge David R. Baty of the Western Marin District will become a Marin Municipal Court judge as soon as SB 1051 becomes law to create a fourth municipal court. The ordinance also provides that the judges can set up special municipal court sessions in West Marin if public convenience so requires.

WELFARE — Passed a resolution asking the state Legislature to give counties a five-month moratorium on the strict enforcement of new regulations under the 1971 Welfare Reform program Campanella said the new state regulations are coming in via phone and telegram, and enforcement errors are bound to occur. Without the moratorium, the county could be held liable for the errors, said Campanella.

AVIATION — On a motion by Arnold M. Baptiste, appointed Richard P. Nave to the Marin Aviation Commission to succeed Ray W. Foreaker Jr., who resigned because he will take over as county public works director. Nave had been squeezed off the seven-man commission when William A. Gnoss was named in his place last July.

STRAWBERRY — Appointed Thomas Benbow Miller of 105 East Strawberry Drive, Strawberry, to the Strawberry Recreation District. He succeeds Conrad von Blankenburg, who resigned.

HUMAN RELATIONS — Hired F. David Carr of Fairfax as human relations coordinator of the Human Rights Department for $899 per month.

CLINICAL PHYSICIAN — Turned down a request for a clinical physician to work three-fifths time at the health clinic at 920 Grand Avenue in San Rafael at a cost of $11,058 this fiscal year. Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., Michael Wornum and Arnold M. Baptiste voted in favor, but they were defeated by John F. McInnis and Louis H. Baar. A four-fifths vote was necessary for the fund appropriation.

PHONE RATE — Asked the state Public Utilities Commission not to grant Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. a rate hike this fiscal year because a previous rate increase granted two years ago will also take effect this fiscal year.

CONFERENCE — Authorized Human Rights Director Gerald J. Hood to attend the National Association of Human Rights Workers conference in Seattle from Oct. 3 through 7 at a cost of $250.

DRAKE — Approved a resolution to make Marin a sister county of Devon, England, where Sir Francis Drake was born. Drake landed in Marin County on June 17, 1579.

DOUGHBOY — Heard Lawrence T. O'Brien — who made an unsuccessful bid on behalf of the United Veterans Council of Marin for placement of the county's Doughboy statue nearer the Veterans Memorial Building — say that the veterans "can live with" the placement of the statue near Civic Center Drive north of the building's parking lot.

GALA — Commended Leon G. Kalimos, executive director of the Veterans Memorial Building, and Campanella on the smooth opening of the building Saturday night.

GRANT SEEKER — Heard from Peter Palmer, chairman of the Marin Mental Health Advisory Board, that the county should hire a specialist in seeking private and public grants available in health, education and welfare. Such a person would raise "five to 10 times his salary," Palmer said. The supervisors expressed interest and asked Palmer and Campanella to prepare a report on the matter.

British Official Supports Admitting China To U.N.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)— British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home said today that when Communist China is allowed to play its full part in the United Nations "a mighty voice will be added to our counsels."

Douglas-Home, in a policy speech to the General Assembly, also warned that new fighting will break out in the Middle East if a new mechanism is not found for Arab-Israeli tlaks. And he ruled out U.N. interference in violence-torn Northern Ireland.

He spoke immediately after Canadian External Affairs Secretary Mitchell Sharp said the seating of Red China would mark a turning point in U.N. history and give the world organization opportunity for a "new beginning."

Douglas-Home spoke in the light of Britain's 20-year history of recognition of Communist China.

"In the Far East," he said, "we have seen that China has for too long isolated herself from the world community.

"When she plays her full part here in New York, a mighty voice will be added to our counsels and a major step will have been taken towards the true representation here of the balance of world powers and world opinion, from which consensus can be hammered out, however painful at times the process may be."

Suspended Sentenced In Greek Plot

I-J Special Report

ATHENS — A student who is on leave of absence from San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo yesterday received only a suspended sentence for his part in a plot to free a man who tried to assassinate the Greek premier.

John Skelton, 26, whose home is in Yardsley, Pa., was sentenced along with Lady Amalia Fleming, 62-year-old widow of the discoverer of penicillin, and three other persons.

Lady Fleming was given a 16-month prison sentence but it is expected that the government will take away her Greek citizenship and deport her to Britain rather than imprison her.

She told newsmen, however, that she would rather go to jail than lose her Greek nationality. Lady Fleming, daughter of an Athens doctor, holds dual citizenship because of her marriage to the late Sir Alexander Fleming.

All five defendants were arrested Aug. 31 on charges of plotting to free Alexandros Panaghoulis, 33, sentenced to die three years ago after an abortive attempt to blow up a car in which Premier George Papadopoulos was riding.

The escape attempt failed.

A five-man military tribunal found Lady Fleming, Skelton and three others guilty after 90 minutes of deliberation.

It was not clear yesterday whether Skelton would be expelled from the country or permitted to continue his studies at Athens University's theological school, where he is on a World Council of Churches scholarship.

Skelton was a student at the seminary in San Anselmo before going to Greece two years ago. Convicted along with him were an American woman and two Greek citizens. Skelton was the only one not sent to prison.

Creation Of Jobs Approved

A $280,000 federal program to create 29 jobs in Marin County won a unanimous go-ahead from the Marin County Board of Supervisors last night at the Marin Civic Center. (Another board of supervisors story, page 1)

The program, established by the Federal Emergency Employment Act of 1971, is funded by $252,000 in federal money, with $28,000 local matching funds.

John C. Obenhuber, program coordinator, reported that the 29 jobs will be created, most of them in lower paying categories.

Supervisors Michael Wornum and Arnold M. Baptiste wanted to know why no police and firemen's jobs are being created.

Obenhuber explained that the rate of unemployment in fire and police work is low, and the comparatively high salaries for police and firemen mean that fewer new jobs could be created for the same amount of money.

These are the jobs to be created:

Marin County, three typists, three park groundsmen, one investigator trainee for the public defender, two library clerks, one sanitarian aide, one buyer for the purchasing department, one zoning assistant in planning, and one building maintenance man. Total 13.

Novato, two maintenance men; Larkspur, one building and planning technician; Fairfax, one park maintenance man; County schools office, one counseler aide and one professional educator; Marin General Hospital, two eligibility workers, one billing clerk, and one insurance clerk; Marin Head Start, one teacher and one teacher's aide.

Other cities and public agencies did not apply for the program or were too late in aplying, said Obenhuber.

Filling of these jobs will be by regular county recruiting through the county personnel office.

Bicycle Trails Due Discussion

Proposals for a uniform countywide bicycle licensing ordinance and support for the county's master plan for bicycle trails will be discussed at today's meeting of the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen, beginning at 6:30 p.m. in Tiburon Tommie's restaurant, Tiburon.

The group also will consider Novato's proposal that the Golden Gate Bridge District take delivery of its new fleet of 132 commute buses at various cities throughout Marin to spread the sales tax revenue.

Consideration of a uniform countywide noise abatement ordinance, brought up before the council's August hiatus, will be resumed.

No Audience Hike At Night Session

Last night's meeting of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, the first regular evening meeting in about six years, drew an audience of about 35, no more than usual for a daytime meeting.

It may not have been a real test of the drawing power of evening meetings because only two items were listed on the evening agenda, whereas a normal Tuesday agenda carries between 40 and 60 items.

An ordinance to consolidate the Western Judicial District with the Central Judicial District was expected to be controversial, but not a single person arose to speak for or against it.

"Where's everybody from West Marin?" asked chairman Louis H. Baar. Protests were expected from West Marin because of opposition to the removal of the Western Judicial District Court from Point Reyes Station. West Marin residents and the Point Reyes Light had asked for night meetings on grounds that the public found it difficult to attend day meetings.

The only other agenda item last night was a report on the Emergency Employment Act of 1971, which would create 29 jobs in the county.

The longest discussion occurred on an unscheduled item — the veterans' request for a change in location for the Doughboy statue. The veterans delegations of about 10 was the largest contingent.

County Administrator John F. Barrows said, "there was no more and no less attendance than for an afternoon meeting, which would indicate that there is no more turnout at night than during the day."

Supervisors will try these night meetings at least two more times, on the last Tuesdays in October and November.

SMOG — DEATH TO TREES

Although yellowing, dying trees were discovered in the San Bernardino National Forest in Southern California as early as 1940, it was several years before researchers discovered they were being killed by smog from the Los Angeles basin. Ten years ago the Ponderosa pine at left was green and healthy. Today, after exposure to severe photochemical air pollution, the same tree (right) is almost defoliated. Researchers say the deterioration has been at an "alarming rate," with 8 per cent of the Ponderosa pines in certain areas dying between 1969 and 1971. (UPI Telephoto)

Fireman Funding Will Be Pressed

Marinwood Community Service District directors last night agreed to press their fight for federal funds to hire a new fireman, and discussed other fire protection problems including the proposed Renaissance Pleasure Faire site in Upper Lucas Valley.

Genevieve T. Bolding, district business manager and secretary, reported the board recieved a letter from the county personnel office, ruling that the district was inelibible to hire a fireman under President Richard M. Nixon's emergency employment program. Directors voted to refer the issue to the county counsel's office, Mrs. Bolding said, to seek an affirmative opinion.

Fire chief Gaylord E. Bonfield reported that plans for the fair on the Graves Ranch, Upper Lucas Valley Homeowners Association proposals to acquire 300 acres of land on the ridge for open space, and the expected subdivision of the Lewis Ranch might require another fire station somewhere in County Service Area 13, which contracts with Marinwood for fire protection.

Technically, the county fire department is responsible for part of the western Lucas Valley area. However, it has no equipment closer than Woodacre since closing out the station at the Marin County Juvenile Hall pending turning the facility's protection over to Marinwood.

The district directors endorsed Bonfield's requests for changes in county plans for water main and hydrant installations at the Juvenile Hall . The board took no action on the other fire problems, including Bonfield's submission of a 10-year plan for his department including addition of a truck to combat brush and grass fires.

Marinwood Community Services Board Also:

TENNIS COURTS — Reiterated its policy that the tennis courts must be kept open for unrestricted play during nighttime hours, restricting tennis lessons to daylight hours.

INSURANCE — After receiving notice that U.S. Fidelity Co. had refused to renew the district's general coverage policy because the firm is dropping coverage of public buildings, approved a policy with Hartford Insurance at an annual premium of $1,800 — up $700 from last year — with a $1,000 deductible clause.

TEEN PROGRAM — Voted to continue the summertime teenage drop-in program at the community center through December on Friday nights, at a maximum cost of $100 for supervision.

SPANS — Approved spending $350 for two used bridge spans which the Army Corps of Engineers will place across Miller Creek without charge, as part of a training program.

MAINTENANCE — Voted to bill the Upper Lucas Valley Homeowners Association an extra $340 for repairs to vandalized sprinkler in the planting area maintained under contract with the homeowners.

CLAIMS — Ordered small claims court action against two persons who have refused to pay $25 and $12 signup fees for district recreation classes. Warned another family that it faces court action unless a $150 park vandalism claim is paid within 10 days.

KAISER-AETNA — Approved revised fire protection plans for the Sequeira Ranch condominium project, but voted to oppose rezoning of the property at Oct. 11 hearings before the county planning commission on grounds it would create a "a community within a community."

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to Oct. 26. District directors Donald A. Duerr and Frank Solomon Jr. were absent.

Meat Firm Is Slapped With $535,181 Fine

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A record $538,181 in civil penalties has been assessed by Sacramento Superior Court Judge B. Abbott Goldberg against a defunct Northern California meat company and its two officers.

Goldberg handed down the judgment Tuesday against Bennett's Quality Meats, Inc., which had outlets in six California cities, and David Ray Bennett and Wilbert O. Paul.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Gordon Bowley said the fine against the now defunct bulk meat and food freezer sales organization and its officers is probably the largest ever assessed in a California consumer fraud case.

Goldberg ruled the defendants advertised meats at low prices to "bait" the customers to the store with no intention of selling the meat at the advertised prices, Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger said in a statement.

Fleischman Waiting For Cove Offer

Belvedere developer Leonard B. Fleischman today told the Independent-Journal he had heard nothing about the Tiburon City Council's offer Monday night of $125,000 for his property on Strawberry Cove.

Fleischman, telephoned by the I-J for his reaction to the offer, said he was "unaware of it. I don't know how to react until I get an offer," he said.

He declined to react to the I-J's report of the offer, saying he preferred to await receipt of the offer in writing to read the conditions.

Fleischman's 6.7-acre parcel has been snarled in controversy since 1968, when he first proposed its development with 112 apartment units. He and Peacock Gap developer Paul J. Broman have trimmed the proposed project to 72 units, and are scheduled to take it before the Bay Conservation and Development Commission Oct. 7.

The I-J incorrectly reported yesterday that the 72-unit project still must go before the board of supervisors. It has been approved already by the supervisors and the county planning commission and now needs only BCDC approval.

$400,000 For Mobile Home Sewer Service

The Novato Sanitary District has learned it would cost a developer about $400,000 to provide sewer service at a proposed 400-unit mobile home park on the south side of San Antonio Creek, west of Highway 101.

The study by staff members indicated the developer, C. D. Veronda would have to construct a treatment plant and mains, reported Bill L. Bayless, assistant district eingineer. The study was made at Veronda's expense, Bayless said.

Directors, meeting Monday night, also passed a resolution on intention to enter district employees in the state public employees retirement system, taking them out of social security.

They also approved an agreement with Pacific Gas and Electric Co. for relocation of a truck sewer line at the utility's substation in Ignacio.

Jury Reported Going Over Quentin Unrest

The Marin County Grand Jury met in a special session today at the Hall of Justice reportedly to consider requests of Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales in connection with the violence at San Quentin Prison Aug. 21.

The session was expected to last all day and it was not known if indictments would be returned today or the hearing continued to another day.

San Quentin guards were expected to testify concerning events at the prison last month when inmate George Jackson allegedly pulled out a smuggled gun, launching an escape attempt in which Jackson, two other inmates and three San Quentin guards were killed.

According to one source, inmates themselves believe that among those against whom Bales will seek indictments are John Clutchette and Fleeta Drumgo, so-called Soledad Brothers who, along with Jackson, are accused of killing a guard at Soledad State Prison last year.

Other inmates mentioned include Louis N. Talamantes, who already has a trial pending in Marin Superior Court stemming from an assault on another prisoner in March 1970, and inmates Hugo A. Pinell and John Larry Spain.

Attorneys for Pinell and Spain earlier this month sought, but were denied, a Marin Superior Court order forbidding Bales to indict them.

It was unknown if Bales today would seek to indict East Bay attorney Stephen M. Bingham, already charged by Bales in Marin Municipal Court with five counts of murder in connection with the Aug. 21 events at the prison. Bingham, who has been missing since Aug. 21, is accused of smuggling the gun to Jackson.

It was also unknown if Bales would seek indictments in connection with the fatal stabbing of San Quentin guard Leo Davis, who was killed July 21 at the prison hospital while guarding an inmate who had been stabbed several days before.

Guilty Plea In Joy-Ride Charge

Frederick Neville Henderson, 39, of Novato, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of joy-riding.

He is to be sentenced Oct. 15.

Henderson, who previously was charged with car theft, was arrested after he abandoned a 1971 auto in front of 2060 Redwood Highway, Larkspur, on Sept. 16. The car had been taken several days before from Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael.

Wine With Lunch Is Ruled Out

There will be no wine and beer-drinking in the Civic Center cafeteria because it is too close to courts and the county jail, the state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control has declared.

Michael A. Chrystal, senior administrative analyst in the county administrator's office, said the operators of the Civic Center cafeteria, Donald A. Giovanoni and Camille Bamatter, have been so notified by the state.

The department of alcoholic beverage control also contended that Giavanoni and Bamatter are not the sole owners of the cafeteria because the county gets a percentage of the profits.

The sale of beer and wine within a public building and so close to courts and the jail would cause a law enforcement problem, said ABC.

Chrystal said the cafeteria owners will ask the Marin County Board of Supervisors next Tuesday whether or not the county wants to appeal the decision.

Last June 15, the Marin County Board of Supervisors supported the cafeteria's application for a beer and wine license by a 4-to-1 vote, with chairman Louis H. Baar dissenting.

Behr's Bicycle Path Bill Clears Hurdle

By I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to establish a statewide network of bicycle and pedestrian paths, stalled since July in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, today sailed out of the committee to the lower house floor with a unanimous vote.

The bill, SB 265 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, will need Senate concurrence in Assembly committee amendments once it passes the lower house.

The ways and means committee amended the measure to limit its requirement for paths in new developments to those with 200 or more units.

The committee also endorsed Behr's bill to create a fourth Marin Municipal Court judge. The bill, SB 1051, which also raises the salaries of court aides, went to the Assembly floor.

It also will require Senate concurrence in Assembly amendments. At the request of Marin County officials, it was amended to provide that a court office could continue to be maintained in West Marin after the West Marin Judicial District is eliminated by the fourth judgeship.

Water's The Topic

Marin Alternative will discuss its campaign against Marin Municipal Water District's referendum on the Nov. 2 ballot at the organization's monthly meeting at 8 p.m. today in the College of Marin Student Center. The referendum would permit the district to join the Sonoma County Water Agency in building a new aqueduct from the Russian River.

County Seeking Applicants For Grievance Job

Applicants, particularly from among minority groups, are sought for the job of grievance counselor in the Marin County Human Rights Department, Executive Director Gerald J. Hood announced.

Salary range for the job is $666 to $859 per month. The grievance counselor handles complaints on discrimination in housing, employment, youth and education. Qualifications include a degree in the field of counseling or equivalent experience.

Tomorrow was the original deadline set for applications, but Hood said he would extend it another week. Applicants must submit resumes and professional recommendations to the Marin County Personnel Office, room 342, Civic Center, San Rafael, Calif. 94903.

Plans Denied To Replace Store; Firm To File An Appeal

Plans to replace Mill Valley's Safeway market with a new store and small shopping center have been denied by the city planning commission because the project would create "undue impact" on the community.

The proposal to demolish the Safeway and adjacent medical building and service station to build a new Safeway, a discount drug store and another service station was denied 4-0 Monday night, although two commission members, Richard Jessup and Louis E. Bartolini, expressed a desire to approve the planned unit development, secretary Evelyn Mc Creary reported.

If Jessup and Bartolini had voted against denial, a 2-2 deadlock would have resulted, eliminating the developer's chance to appeal the decision to the city council, Mrs. Mc Creary explained.

Safeway representatives now will appeal the planners decision, she said.

Opposing the plans were chairman Robert E. Burton and commission member Paul E. Rosenthal. Burton said he felt that since approval already had been given to another chain discount drug store (Thrifty) in East Mill Valley, a second would be an "unnecessary proliferation" of this type of land use, Mrs. Mc Creary said.

He voted to deny the application because of its "undue impact on the community," she said.

Safeway representatives had received informal approval of plans in May from the city's architectural advisory committee.

Building Moratorium To Be Asked

The North Marin Federarion, representing homeowner and improvement associations, will push for a moratorium on townhouse and apartment construction at a special meeting of the Novato Planning Commission at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the community center.

The federation has proposed a moratorium until the city's general plan is revised.

A revised general plan is mandatory for "regulating the future potential of the greater Novato area," the association said in a statement released yesterday.

"The primary concern during the present trend toward high density saturation is the great danger of urban sprawl and ecological imbalance in local areas which will destroy any hope for an orderly growth pattern on a well-planned basis," the federation said.

The federation also proposed that the city form an ad hoc committee of citizens to assist in revision of the general plan.

Fall Recreation Program Slated

A variety of recreation programs has been scheduled for the fall months by the City of San Anselmo, the city recreation department has announced.

While some programs are already under way, the bulk will begin next week. Registration may be made by phoning the recreation office at Memorial Park.

Bid Opening Set On Tiburon Project

Bids will be opened Oct. 27 in Sacramento for a widening project on Tiburon Boulevard, according to officials of the state Division of Highways.

The project, estimated to cost $79,000, will include widening the boulevard and constructing traffic channels at the intersections of Avenida Miraflores, Rock, Hill Drive, San Rafael Avenue and Lyford Drive.

Senate Passes Bill To Limit Teacher Power

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation limiting the power of schoolteachers to suspend unruly students has been approved by the Senate and returned to the Assembly for concurrence in amendments.

The measure by Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, would allow a teacher to suspend a student from his class, but not from the entire school. Now the student can be removed from the school for more than a day.

It cleared the Senate Tuesday on a 21-8 vote.

The Senate floor sponsor, Sen. George R. Moscone, D-San Francisco, said a pupil should not be suspended from all classes just because he has a "personality conflict" with a teacher.

Students still, however, could be expelled from school by the principal.

Florida Study Shows Mumps To Be Very Common Disease

Many of us have no idea how common mumps really is. Physicians must report each case to the health department but the viral disease is so easily recognized by laymen that the doctor is not always consulted. This is understandable because, in children, complete recovery is the rule. Furthermore, we have no specific remedy.

HEALTH OFFICIALS took a sample survey of residents in Hillsborough County, Fla. These investigators found that, in a two-year period, 126 individuals contracted mumps. Thirty-four of these people were seen by their physician; 24 were diagnosed via phone consultation. Sixty-eight of them (60 per cent) were recognized by the parents or school teacher.

We assume that these youngsters were kept at home until they recovered.

Although mumps is a reportable condition, the health department was notified in only 6 per cent of the 126 total.

IT WAS ESTIMATED that there are 20 cases of mumps per 1,000 population per year. This is 10 times more than figures based on reported cases alone. Blood tests were conducted on 233 family contacts who were exposed to the 126 victims in this study.

Surprisingly, many were immune even though they did not recall having mumps. The authors concluded that 25 per cent of the cases of active mumps go undetected because the sufferer does not have the usual manifestations.

AS FOR the new mumps vaccine that was recently licensed, is it needed or is the disease mild enough to ignore? Based on the Florida study, it is obvious that mumps is more common than we realized. More important, complications do occur and the most feared of these is sex gland involvement in adolescent and adult males. The latter side effect is painful and may lead to sterility when both sides are involved.

MUMPS VIRUSES may also spread to the brain, heart, eyes, ears, pancreas and other organs. The vaccine usually protects against the disease, but revaccination may be needed at a later date to booster the immunity.

SOFT BONES

R.S. writes: My mother used to be tall and straight as an arrow but now, in her seventies, she is short and pitifully bowlegged. I'm in my fifties and built much like my mother. Is there anything I can do to prevent getting into the same shape?

REPLY

Concentrate on good posture and maintain muscle tone through regular exercise. Bowlegs and stooped shoulders in the elderly usually come from softening of the bones or Paget's disease. The symptoms often can be avoided or kept under control with more calcium in the diet, small doses of estrogens and vitamin D.

EAR SURGERY

L. S. writes: I'm 35 and hard of hearing. The doctor wants to loosen a stiff bone in my ear. Do you think this will do any good?

REPLY

Yes, if you refer to otosclerosis, or hardening of the ear bones.

CAUSES OF HEARTBURN

I.L.K. writes: Is heartburn always due to excess acid?

REPLY

No; it may stem from spasm or irritation of the lower part of the esophagus (gullet).

FEVER BLISTERS

T. R. writes: Are cold sores on the lips contagious?

REPLY

Yes — on contact. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on these lesions.

Decline In Business Index Laid To Unemployment Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal officials said today an 0.9 per cent drop in the government's composite index of leading business indicators last month was due chiefly to increased claims for unemployment insurance.

The drop in August of the index that is considered a key barometer of future economic trends reversed a generally upward movement of the index for the past 10 months.

But administration spokesmen tried to put the best face on the statistic.

"Month-to-month movements in the composite index are especially difficult to interpret at this juncture because it cannot be determined how soon the leading indicators will fully reflect the changes resulting from the new economic program," said Harold C. Passer, assistant Commerce secretary for economic affairs.

The Commerce Department report said unemployment insurance claims increased $53 million in August to $327 million. It said five other indicators showed unfavorable declines.

The administration took new steps Tuesday to enforce its 90-day wage-price freeze, ordered into effect by President Nixon Aug. 15 as a key part of the new economic policy:

—The President announced a $2.4 billion pay raise for military personnel would be postponed until after the freeze. Nixon signed a bill extending the draft two years. It contained a provision to put the raises into effect Oct. 1, but an aide said Nixon had a Justice Department opinion showing the raise could be delayed.

—The Justice Department charged a Corvallis, Ore., property owner with violating the freeze by increasing rents $15 a month. It was the fourth court suit filed to enforce the freeze. Earlier legal actions were aimed at a teacher pay increase, an apartment house rent hike, and an increase in ticket prices by professional football's Atlanta Falcons.

Dividend Declared

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Unionamerica Inc. (NYSE, PCSE) has declared a regular quarterly cash dividend of 20 cents per share for the quarter ended Sept. 30, payable Oct. 1 to shareholders of record Sept. 1. Unionamerica is the parent company of Union Bank, Western Mortgage Corp., the Swett & Crawford Insurance Group and other financial service interests.

Tough School Bus Safety Rules Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Studies of traffic accidents involving school buses show a "consistent" pattern in which children are killed or injured when they are thrown out of the vehicles.

Douglas W. Toms of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration gave this reason to a House Commerce subcommittee Tuesday for a new set of tougher safety regulations.

Toms said the rules would force bus operators to eliminate "lethal surfaces," strengthen seats, increase padding, and tighten standards for tires and window strengths.

West Marin Woman Is Found Dead

Avril Weber, an artist who lived on Terrace Avenue, was discovered hanging from the gate at the John Doss residence, 9 Brighton Street about 10 p.m. Monday. She was found by Dr. Doss's young son, Thomas said.

According to the coroner, Dr. Doss reported the woman had tried, unsuccessfully, to hang herself two days earlier and had attempted to drown herself earlier yesterday.

Survivors include her mother, Marian Weber of San Francisco.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Sinai Memorial Chapel in San Francisco.

Judge Blocks Reduction In State Aid Payments

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A federal court order has halted the state's planned reduction of aid to the Families with Dependent Children Program that was to go into effect Friday.

U.S. District Judge Albert C. Wollenberg issued a temporary restraining order Tuesday and said the state had until Oct. 15 to show cause why it should not be made permanent.

The reductions to the program that provides welfare payments to 444,481 families was slated to save California up to $200 million yearly.

Judge Wollenberg said the state violated the decision of a three-judge panel by not giving each welfare recipient a specific reason for reducing payments and not allowing that recipient time to appeal the reduction.

The temporary restraining order said that if reduced payments have already been mailed, the state must send each recipient another check for the amount of the reduction.

A reduction notice and appeal procedure was submitted to the court Sept. 9 and state Social Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson sent each county welfare department the general notice for distribution of funds.

Couple Stumbles Upon Dynamite

OAKLAND (UPI)—A strolling couple stumbled on what sheriff's deputies say was enough dynamite to level six city blocks Tuesday in bushes in Joaquin Miller Park.

Alameda County deputies, responding to a call from the couple, also found four U.S. Army automatic rifles wrapped in plastic bags, but no ammunition.

An investigation is under way.

Wage-Price Freeze Through Elections?

CHICAGO (UPI)—The White House is secretly drafting plans for the creation of a "superpanel" of federal judges who would make the final decisions on wage-price issues, the Chicago Sun-Times said today.

In a dispatch from its Washington bureau, the paper said the White House staff is drawing up plans for the second phase of the wage-price freeze "with an unhappy awareness that they will probably have to live with (its) machinery through the 1972 elections.

"Finding no cause for optimism that conditions will be ripe to lift the restraints before November, 1972, the President's specialists are struggling to design an apparatus which will be so manifestly equitable that no group, particularly labor, can reject it with impunity from public opinion," said the story by Charles Bartlett.

The story noted that judges seem best fitted for the role of superpanelists because, "although they are rarely economists. they... have been confirmed by the senate as impartial arbiters, because they command special prestige, and because they will be faced primarily with issues of equity."

The commission of judges would apparently rest at the top of a hierarchy of industry oriented subcommissions, all comprised of one representative each from industry, labor and the public sector, the story said.

The White House appears prepared to set guidelines to restrain the rise of stock dividends, but is likely to reject pressures for a ceiling on interest rates, the Sun-Times said.

Waterbed Show Slated At Center

The latest in waterbeds, including mattresses, frames, sheets and heaters, will be on display at the Sausalito Art Center's waterbed show, scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 16 and 17.

All exhibitors will be members of the Waterbed Institute, according to center director Shelagh Considine, and will be on hand to answer questions about quality, price, comfort and general safety.

The show will begin each day at 10 a.m. and last until 6 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

PINEAPPLE FLAVORS both the cooking liquid and the sauce of this elegant chicken entree. Chicken, still an economical buy, makmakes this a dish that fits into tight budgets with sophisticated tastes.

EMPRESS CHICKEN ALMOND

Elegant Dish With Little Fuss

Browned chicken breasts are simmered in a pineapple and curry flavored syrup, then topped with a sour cream sauce with pineapple chunks and green onion.

This is a quick dish to do and requires little fuss, just a watchful eye to see that the sour cream sauce does not boil and become curdled.

If the fancy food section of your supermarket doesn't carry toasted almonds, toast your own. Spread shelled almonds in a shallow pan, bake at 350 degrees for 10 to 20 minutes, then chop. With the fresh nut crop coming on the market, it would be economical to stock up now and freeze the shelled nuts in moisture-proof containers for later use.

EMPRESS CHICKEN ALMOND

- 1 can (1 lb., 4-oz.) pineapple chunks
- 6 large chicken breasts
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 teaspoons curry powder
- 2 teaspoons garlic salt
- ¼ cup water
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 2 tablespoons chopped green onion
- ¼ cup toasted almonds

Drain pineapple reserving all syrup. Saute chicken breasts in butter until golden. Stir in curry powder. Sprinkle with garlic salt. Pour syrup over chicken, add water, cover and simmer 35 minutes until tender. Remove chicken to heated serving platter. Stir sour cream into pan juices but do not boil. Add pineapple chunks and green onions. Spoon over chicken.

Makes six servings.

Food Page

A PERSIAN-style dinner that lends itself to American tastes is this beef mixture which can be formed into meatballs or a meatloaf. Here is the meatball version with raisins, brown sugar, pineapple, nuts and soy sauce for a sweet-and-sour taste.

Exotic Persian Beef An Eastern Delight

The aura of the Near East is no further away than your kitchen. Persian Beef Exotica served with rice will set your table aglow with tantalizing aroma, bright color and intrigue like the Arabic lands themselves.

Its basic beef mixture claims versatility — half the portion can be used to make meatballs, the other half to make a deliciously different meat loaf. Either can be prepared partially ahead and then frozen to await that occasion for dining. This dish highlights the Persian preference for the sweet and sour and much texture. To the meatball creation, raisins, brown sugar, pineapple, nuts, vinegar and soy sauce are added, and to the meat loaf mixture, stuffed olives and bleu cheese.

PERSIAN BEEF EXOTICA

3 pounds lean ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups soft bread crumbs
1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce with mushrooms
½ cup water
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup finely chopped onion

Place beef in large bowl, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Top with bread crumbs. Pour tomato sauce with mushrooms and water over crumbs. Add eggs and onion. Mix lightly but thoroughly. Divide into two equal portions.

MEATBALLS

To one portion of meat mixture, blend in ¼ cup seedless raisins, ¼ cup chopped nuts and ½ teaspoon allspice. Form into 1-½-inch balls (about 24); dust lightly with flour. Arrange on shallow baking sheet, brown at 375 degrees 15 minutes. Meanwhile in 10-inch skillet, combine 1 (8-ounce) can of tomato sauce with mushrooms with 1 (8-½-ounce) can undrained crushed pineapple, 1 tablespoon soy sauce, 1 tablespoon vinegar and 1 tablespoon brown sugar. Add meatballs to skillet, cover, simmer 10 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

MEAT LOAF

To other portion of meat mixture, blend in ¼ cup chopped stuffed olives and 2 tablespoons crumbled bleu cheese. Form into loaf. Bake in shallow pan at 350 degrees 1 hour. Drain excess fat. Pour 1 (8-ounce) can of tomato sauce with mushrooms over and around loaf. Continue baking 15 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Wrap and freeze meatballs after browning step, if desired. Reheat in sauce allowing extra simmering time. Wrap and freeze meat loaf before baking. Allow extra baking time if not completely thawed when ready to bake.

Confections Welcome At Tea Time

There are high teas and low teas, the difference being the elaborateness of the fare served. Instead of the usual cookies and crumpets, why not serve some confections?

Appropriate for tea time or after dinner coffee are creams, fondants and various fudges. Crunchy brittle is suitable after an informal repast.

Cooked fondant is the basis of many centers for dipped chocolates, bonbons and mints, all good tea time sweets. Many beginners prefer making uncooked fondant as a starter. It's attractive, foolproof and quick.

Creams are cousins of the fondant family but more closely related to the fudges. Cream and butter are added giving the candy a richer flavor than fondant.

Sugar cubes lend a different texture to the candy plate. They can be colorfully decorated according to the occasion.

RIBBON FONDANT

Basic Mixture

½ cup soft butter
3 tablespoons light corn syrup
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons vanilla
1 box (1 lb.) powdered sugar

Cream butter with corn syrup, salt and vanilla. Gradually beat in powdered sugar. Knead with fingers until smooth. Divide into 3 equal portions. Reserve one portion for white layer.

Green Mixture

⅓ cup finely chopped nuts
Green food coloring

On platter or waxed paper, flatten out one portion of basic fondant mixture. Sprinkle with nuts and a few drops green coloring. Fold and knead mixture until nuts and coloring are evenly distributed. Add additional coloring if necessary to make a medium green color.

Red Mixture

2 tablespoons finely chopped, well drained maraschino cherries
Red food coloring
¼ cup powdered sugar

On platter or waxed paper, flatten out one portion of basic fondant mixture. Sprinkle with chopped cherries, a few drops red coloring and powdered sugar. Fold and knead mixture until smooth and well mixed. If too soft, knead in a little additional powdered sugar.

To assemble, line a 10 x 4-inch loaf pan with aluminum foil. Press green fondant mixture into an even layer in bottom of pan. Top with white mixture in an even layer, then red mixture. Cover and chill until firm

DECORATED SUGAR CUBES

1¼ cups sifted powdered sugar
⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar
1 egg white
¼ teaspoon vanilla
Food coloring
Sugar cubes

Sift together powdered sugar and cream of tartar. Add egg white and vanilla. Beat with electric mixer or rotary beater until very stiff; if necessary, add a little additional powdered sugar. Divide into 3 portions in small bowls or cups. With food coloring, tint one portion pink, one green and one yellow.

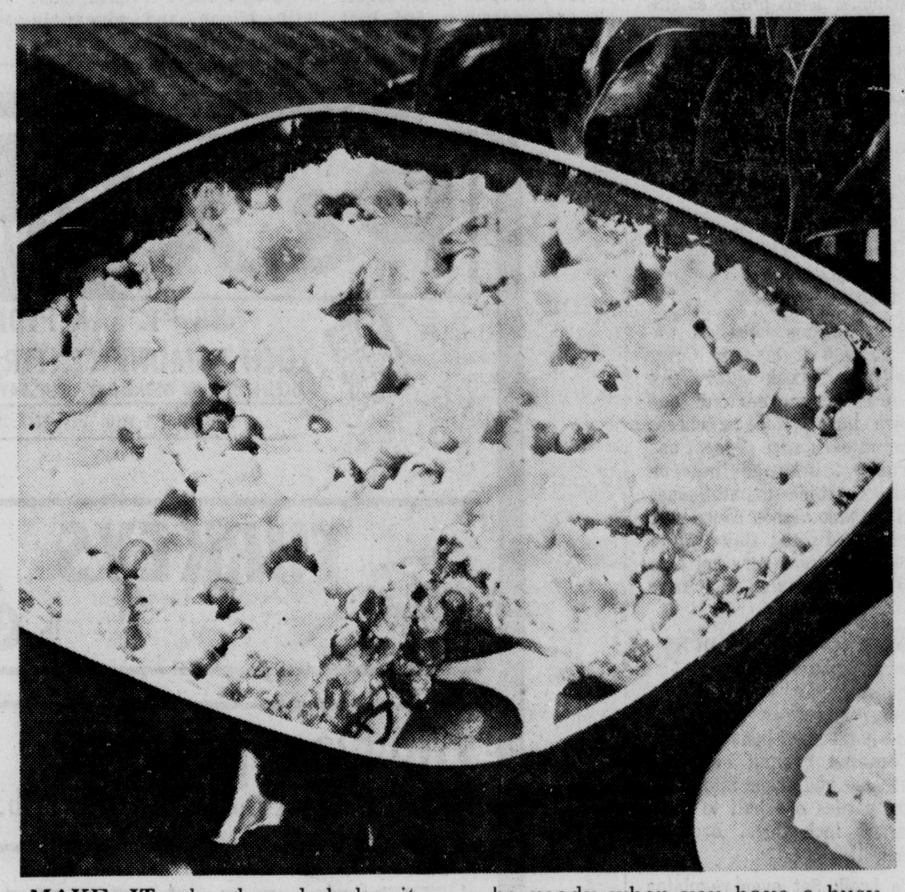
Using a cake decorator and one color frosting at a time, make flowers, leaves, borders and other decorations on sugar cubes. Let stand until decorations harden.

Versatile Meals Don't Just Happen

Fixing new and different meals every day can be hectic. Versatile meals don't just happen — especially on days when time is short and appetites are long, as is often the case with today's busy family.

Make-ahead cooking lets you prepare foods during the less busy day, then freeze or refrigerate them until they're needed. If two hours before mealtime isn't when you get your greatest cooking inspiration, don't fight it. Instead, prepare the dishes anytime that's convenient.

Ham-Vegetable Strata is a recipe that lends itself to make-ahead techniques. It combines ham, peas, bread, sauce, and cheese into a meal that's baked and served together.



MAKE IT ahead and bake it later for about an hour — this ham and vegetable casserole will be ready when you have a busy day or get home late from the office or college.

ADVANCE PREPARATION: Combine one 10 ½-ounce can condensed cream of mushroom soup and 2 beaten eggs; stir in 1½ cups milk. Cut 4 slices bread into 1-inch cubes. Put half of the cubes in 9x9x2-inch baking dish. Top with 1½ cups finely diced fully cooked ham and 1 cup cooked peas; sprinkle with remaining bread cubes. Pour soup mixture over. Cover; chill 6 to 24 hours. Spread 2 slices bread with 1 tablespoon butter; cut into ½-inch cubes. Wrap; chill.

BEFORE SERVING: Sprinkle buttered bread cubes on casserole. Bake at 325 degrees till set, 50 to 60 minutes; during last few minutes, top with 2 ounces sharp process American cheese, shredded (½ cup). Let stand 10 minutes before serving. Makes 6 servings.

Banish The Morning Blues With Sausage-Topped Pizzas

Apathetic morning appetites awaken when imaginative and diverse foods are served. So stop being conventional; start being creative!

Bring to the breakfast table entrees such as sausage-topped easy-do pizzas, beefburgers on buns and bacon-Hawaiian toast.

A breakfast providing one-fourth to one-third of the day's nutritional needs promotes efficiency in mental and physical work, provides energy and helps eliminate a craving for high-calorie mid-morning snacks.

EASY-DO PIZZAS

1 pound pork sausage links
2 tablespoons water
4 slices bread, toasted
4 slices mozzarella cheese
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
½ teaspoon oregano

Place sausage links and water in cold frying-pan. Cover tightly and cook slowly five minutes. Remove cover and brown links. Place a cheese slice on each slice of toast and arrange 3 sausage links on each. Combine tomato sauce and oregano. Spoon sauce over each sandwich. Bake on a cooky sheet in a very hot over (450 degrees) six to eight minutes. Four servings.

BEEFBURGERS ON BUNS

2 pounds ground beef
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
6 to 8 hamburger buns

Combine ground beef and seasoning and shape into six to eight patties one half to three quarters inch thick. Broil or panbroil.

To broil: Set oven regulator for broiling. Place beefburgers on rack under broiler so surface of patties is three to four inches from heat. Broil for seven to eight minutes on one side. Turn and continue cooking 6 to 12 minutes longer, depending upon degree of doneness desired. Serve on hamburger buns. Six to eight servings.

BACON-HAWAIIAN TOAST

12 slices bacon
4 eggs
1 cup pineapple juice
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
8 slices bread
4 slices pineapple, if desired

Beat eggs until light and fluffy. Add pineapple juice, sugar, salt and cinnamon and beat thoroughly. Pour over bread and let stand five to 10 minutes, turning if necessary. Place bacon in a cold frying-pan. Cook slowly, turning frequently. Pour off and reserve drippings as they accumulate. Remove bacon to absorbant paper. Fry bread in bacon drippings on both sides until golden brown. Remove to warm platter. Fry well-drained pineapple slices in drippings. Serve French toast with bacon and pineapple slices. Four servings.

A Brightener For Those Lunch Boxes

To brighten lunch box blues, perk up a coffee break or top off a tasty meal, have caramel brownies on hand. You'll also find them handy when just sneaking a snack.

CARAMEL BROWNIES

1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup lard
2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
1 cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Melt lard and add brown sugar, eggs, vanilla, nuts and sifted dry ingredients and mix thoroughly. Spread in a greased and floured jelly roll pan (15½ x 10½ inches). Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 minutes. Cool and cut. Yield: 6 dozen 1½-inch square brownies.

Try Cottage Cheese With Light Meal

Cottage cheese is one of the most versatile of foods. Throughout the year — but particularly during the summer months when appetites often are at low ebb — its refreshing flavor and easy digestibility undoubtedly contribute to its appeal.

Fortunately, cottage cheese is a nourishing food. Thus it fits in perfectly with the lighter meals that are served during these seasons.

Because of its high protein content, it may be substituted for meat. A half cup provides as much protein as an average serving of lean meat, poultry or fish.

And one and a half cups of cottage cheese contains the same amount of calcium as an eight-ounce glass of milk.

Here's a salad dressing that provides more than enough protein and calcium for a light warm weather lunch. It is a creamy, garlic flavored dressing that is especially appropriate served on a salad of garden tomatoes and cucumber slices.

Combine 2 cups of cottage cheese, 1 cup of mayonnaise, ¼ cup of lemon juice, 2 cloves of crushed garlic, 1½ teaspoons salt and ¼ teaspoon white pepper.

Crab Fondue Tarts Make Tasty Appetizer

Crab fondue tarts will be a favorite when you want hot appetizers with special gourmet appeal. These little miniature tartlets feature the double flavor of cheese. Cream cheese adds richness to the flaky pastry shells. Swiss cheese highlights the savory crab filling.

CRAB FONDUE TARTS

1 (7½ oz.) can Alaska King crab or (6 oz.) package frozen Alaska King crab
¼ cup butter
1½ tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
2 egg yolks
1½ tablespoons sherry wine
1 tablespoon lemon juice
⅔ cup grated Swiss cheese
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons finely chopped green onion
Cream cheese pastry

Drain canned crab and slice. Or defrost, drain and slice frozen crab. Melt butter in saucepan over low heat. Blend in flour. Add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick and smooth. Beat egg yolks. Add a small amount of hot mixture to egg yolks. Return to saucepan. Cook gently until thick. Blend in sherry, lemon juice, Swiss cheese, salt, green onion and crab. Heat gently until cheese melts and crab is hot. Spoon crab mixture in baked tart shells.

Cream Cheese Pastry:

½ cup butter
1 (3 oz.) package cream cheese
1 cup flour
Dash salt

Cream butter and cheese, beating until smooth. Blend flour and salt into creamed mixture and mix thoroughly. Wrap pastry in waxed paper and refrigerate half hour. Press small portions of pastry into small tart pans. Top with another tart pan the same shape and press firmly. Bake at 400 degrees 8 minutes.

BACK IN the garden of her Petaluma home, Cyndi Brinson wears the traditional Thai dress given to her by her Thai "family" after her three months in Chiengmai as an exchange student the past summer. Cyndi says that the family's life style is quite Westernized and the women only wear the silk costume on occasion. "Most Thai girls are short, and although I'm only 5 feet four inches tall, I felt like a fat giant," she says with a laugh.

SUMMER VISIT

Petaluma Student Plans Return Trip To Thailand

By DYANNE FORTNER

Visits to Thailand by American students are but a small part of a creeping Western influence in an area once noted for its mystique and cultural charm.

Cyndi Brinson, an American Field Service participant from the Petaluma Chapter at Petaluma High School, relates that Thailand is indeed succumbing to its associations with students and its proximity to Vietnam and the servicemen there.

Miss Brinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Brinson and now a senior at Petaluma High School, spent three months summer vacation living in a community called Chiengmai with a family of six.

"Its market place is straight out of the Arabian night," she exclaimed. Little stalls and shops are staffed by merchants expert in bartering. Cyndi explained that this area is known especially for its silver products.

HER "FATHER" was a very wealthy and important man, she said. His prime business was exporting tobacco but he owned a theater, a saw mill and a dairy. Dairies are rare, according to the young student; she observed only one supporting Chiengmai. His wife served as the business' head accountant in addition to possessing the title of head mother. It is a Thai custom for wealthy men to have more than one wife, a fact the woman hesitated telling Cyndi for fear of offending her standards.

The father was also a very superstitious man. Although the number 13 is an American superstition, he believed in its supernatural powers. It was his 13th year in business. Two close friends died, one factory burned to the ground and he narrowly escaped injuries from an automobile accident. He often reminded Cyndi that if he survived this year his good fortune and success would surely continue.

Cyndi was quick to interject that her "family" was not typical of the population because of their wealth and material possessions. There is no middle class, but only extremes of poverty or affluence, she said. All inhabitants are Buddhist.

WITH HER two "sisters" she attended a private Catholic school "Roll-down bobby socks and patent Mary Jane shoes were part of the uniform. Most Thai girls are short and slim and although I'm 5'4" tall I felt like a fat giant," she said laughing.

At the end of summer Cyndi and 21 other AFS students visiting nearby areas were presented to the minister of education in Bangkok and each received a certificate of completion.

Her classmates there were quite interested in her tape recorder and tapes of current rock tunes. Thailand's teenagers are also avid motorcyclists, and because the girls are taught to be very demure, they ride along on the cycles with hands folded in the lap rather than holding on to the driver as we are accustomed. Cyndi insisted she ride American-style for fear of falling.

Another example of their hesitancy to display any aggressive behavior came when Cyndi was instructing them in a game of volleyball. Most were surprised that they would have to exert such energy to enjoy the sport.

Heroin grows wild in the surrounding hills, but Cyndi met no teen-agers with a drug problem. "Either it is not considered dangerous or it is not publicized," she stated. "While playing golf one day a boy of six or seven ran to the course and offered me some marijuana," she related. No questions regarding the American drug situation were ever asked of her.

"BEING FROM California had its advantages. So many persons consider our state glamorous and I was always asked about Disneyland," she said.

Another question repeatedly asked was if she had seen the motionpicture "Love Story"; it had been banned in Thailand. Whenever she was introduced to her family's friends or relatives she was asked to do something American. "Thank goodness I play the piano. I played the theme from "Love Story" many, many times," she sighed.

Thailand, which means land of the free, possesses a government which heavily censors all its media, she said. Not until Cyndi returned home did she learn of the American moon landing in July. Of the radio newscasts she heard, the emphasis was on the Vietnam death tolls. She did notice, however, Chiengmai's newspaper carried photographs of the Russian Cosmonauts following their tragic space mission. Television is available, but only the wealthy own sets, she said. Much of its programming consists of Japanese cartoons and two American series, "Wild Wild West" and the "Partridge Family."

THE FAMILY'S diet of rice and spicy, hot condiments with fish, pork or fowl was often augmented by trips to the finest hotel in Chiengmai, the Rincom. Of the few military personnel she saw many used this hotel's facilities.

A batch of chocolate chip cookies she prepared for her Thai family proved to be a special eating adventure for them and something the family cook enjoyed too.

Although delighted with the luxury of servants, she was dismayed when she arrived home one day to discover her one pair of leather shoes kindly washed and hung on the clothesline to dry.

Cyndi is planning a return visit to Thailand hoping her own American family will be able to accompany her. Presently she's putting together a package to send to her "sisters" in Chiengmai. They have requested some lip gloss and bikini underwear from America.

THE WAR CRY

Consumer Rights Fight On All Levels Is Urged

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Fight for consumer interests was Sylvia Siegel's war cry at yesterday's luncheon of the Mill Valley Branch of the American Association of University Women at the Mill Valley Community Church.

The consultant to the Association of California Consumers, formerly executive director of the association for two years at its headquarters in Sausalito and now a law student, discussed consumer problems on the national, state and local levels.

On the national level, she said, efforts of the Consumer Federation of America, primarily active in representing consumer interests in Congress, are restricted by budget problems and that its future existence is "very shaky."

As for the bill approved Monday by the House Government Operations Committee creating an independent consumer protection agency, she declared that it has a long way to go and faces crippling amendments. She added that Ralph Nader objects that it deals with just the top of the consumer abuses iceberg — only 10 per cent of anything that matters.

"Virginia Knauer (the president's assistant on consumer affairs) pulls punches," Mrs. Siegel said, "because she knows she has to accede to political decision of this administration — and they ain't in the interest of consumers."

IT IS important to educate consumers, she pointed out, but said "I don't trust this administration on educating the consumer — you have to watchdog this. You may get somewhere by being sweet, but I believe in acupuncture!"

Mrs. Siegel strongly recommended subscribing to "The Co-op" newspaper. "It's a tremendous source of consumer information and education," she declared.

Of the situation on the state level, she said, "I think it's sick. We need a real consumer advocate independent of business interests. At present there is only a consumer advisory committee consisting of four business men and a Girl Scout!"

The speaker said the Department of Consumer Affairs is working on the auto repair bill — "now the most important bill before the legislature and the number one consumer complaint in California."

Another important bill, she believes is the class actions bill permitting individuals to file suit on behalf of groups of individuals. "This is a tremendous weapon for consumer groups," she stressed.

The consumer consultant also urged support of bill AB620 dealing with abuses allowing repossession of automobiles and also dunning the debtors for the remainder of the loan, and bill AB1505 — no fault insurance on cars.

"Trial lawyers and the insurance industry are fighting it," she charged, "but to hell with trial lawyers and the insurance industry. If you want to protect your economic interests, get into this battle."

MRS. SIEGEL quarrels with some of Ralph Nader's material on the California land and water use issue but believes most of what he puts out is substantial. She commends him for bringing issues like this and auto safety before the public and believes his work is having an effect on products, institutions and getting people involved.

The former executive director of the Association of California Consumers — a voluntary group —said that it had been successful in helping to get the office of consumer consultant for the State of California established and in getting credit legislation passed.

But, she said, it is too thinly financed, noting that in an Oct. 8-10 convention at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building with Ralph Nader as speaker, crucial issues will be decided, including whether it will continue or little grass roots groups will take over.

On the local level, Mrs. Siegel said, the consumer protection situation is "a sheer disaster," and urged study and action in connection with public utilities rates and in the field of health care, especially hospitals. "Health care is an industry, and we should have something to say about it, such as that there are enough training facilities and that more women are admitted to training.

"WE SHOULD have a consumer representative at every city council meeting, at every planning commission meeting and every board of supervisors meeting. A lot of consumer issues start right there.

"Join the Marin Consumer Association," she urged, "and scream, girls, scream. Don't sit back and take what you get."

Watch That Head Tilting At Next Party—Could Give Yourself Away

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Next time you're bored at a party, try the newest game anyone can play.

"Read" through gestures and or posture what the guests are thinking, wishing, how they reveal their personality silently and you'll lose the "What am I doing here?" attitude. You've probably been expressing boredom yourself in several ways, it turns out — one of the most familiar is the chin in the palm of the hand and the body pointed toward an exit.

A blink, a smile, crossed legs, the way you sit in a chair, even a buttoned or unbuttoned jacket contain revealing social, sexual and emotional meanings, says Gerard I. Nirenberg, a New York lawyer and longtime student and advisor on the art of negotiating. He's written two books on the subject.

NIRENBERG CONTENDS that any gesture, any pose of the body is a silent communication.

Consider the simple thing of tilting the head for instance.

Nirenberg says that from a very early age, women instinctively understand its significance. "It gives the impression of listening intently. They use it consciously when they converse with a male whom they want to impress—and they do."

Nirenberg, 48, married to a teacher-librarian, and father of three boys, spells out some meanings of body language in a new book written with Henry Calero, a business executive, consultant to the aerospace industry, and like Nirenberg a student of negotiation techniques.

Their work is called "How to Read a Person Like a Book" (Hawthorn) and grows from negotiating technique seminars held in the United States and abroad. They went through video tapes of the sessions with "thousands" of businessmen and (3 to 5 per cent) women.

THE TAPES originally were used as learning sessions with businessmen who'd watch, then read back as it were what they'd interpreated. The seminars are under the aegis of the Negotiation Institute, of which Nirenberg is founder and president.

In an interview, Nirenberg talked of some of the gestures that, consciously or unconsiously, communicate. Seeing eye to eye, for instance.

Confident persons have more frequent contact than those who are unsure or attempting to conceal, and the duration of contact is longer. Confidence also causes the eyes to blink less, hence the person seems a better listener.

Nirenberg interprets the unbuttoned coat this way: "The gesure seems not only to communicate that a person is opening up to you and your ideas but is concentrating on what you're saying."

One of the most telling gesture of either sex is the defensive one of arms crossed in front, as if on guard. You see it in baseball umpires. The very young will cross their arms when defying their parents' instructions. The elderly will use it when they are defending their right to be heard.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

'Female Vapors' Are Blamed Whenever A Woman Explodes

DEAR HELEN:

When a man gets rightfully mad and blows up, people listen, or at least pay him the compliment of fighting back on his level. Sometimes his mate even cringes a bit. And the air is cleared, because the male has asserted himself!

Not so with women. If, after taking it up to here as the sweet, understanding conciliator, she tears loose with the fury she's held back too long, does it "clean the air"? No! Someone whispers, "It must be that time of the month," or — if she's older — "She's starting the change, you know, poor thing." Whenever we're righteously indignant, our hormones get blamed. Instead of listening, people tippy-toe around, acting sorry for us.

Be it known far and wide (and especially by my husband and family) that my reproductive organs have nothing — but nothing — to do with my infrequent explosions. Isn't it time we had the right to a healthy "mad," without having it attributed to "female vapors?" — FOR WOMEN'S RIGHT TO TEMPER

DEAR FWRTT:

Attagirl! The hoary old "female vapors" syndrome makes many a woman steam, and rightfully.

I'm reminded of a male writer who blamed a prominent woman's "gabbiness" on the menopause. Right then and there, that woman gained me as a supporter, even though I seldom agree with all she says.

What do you bet women win job and wage equality sooner than they banish the classic put-down: "Poor thing, it must be the wrong time of month for her." — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You advised a woman that hugging friends was fine, if she felt like hugging, even though her husband was more restrained. I wonder.

I've been married 19 years to an Oriental man who has always refused to hug or kiss me in public. Reason: In Japan it is rude to show affection when others are presented because some lonely person, with no one to hug or kiss, might be watching and be made more lonely.

I'm used to this now — we don't need to touch in public. Just looking at each other expresses our love.

Couldn't "just looking" at friends convey affection too? As Mr. Spock of Star Trek says, "Restraint is civilized." It can also make the heart grow fonder. — AN ORIENTAL'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE:

Different strokes for different folks. Demonstrated affection is misery for more restrained people, but "the touchable" are miserable without it. While a husband and wife should respect either trait in the other, they shouldn't remold their own personalities to conform. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband is a wonderful provider, a good man, not a philanderer. His one bad habit is that he flatters every woman he meets. He bolsters their ego at the expense of mine, i.e.: "I'd give anything if my wife baked bread like this!" or "You're as young-looking as when you were in college with us."

If I retaliate by giving a man friend a compliment, my husband implies I'm stuck on him. He was always a big tease. Considering the terrible problems I read in your column, mine seems slight, but Helen, I can't stand the sly glances women give me when he's slathering on the praise (which he doesn't mean — you should hear what he says about them later at home!). — DOROTHY

DEAR DOROTHY:

It's a blarney to your husband — baloney to you — and later on you discover it's all a bunch of bull. So smile at his teasing. He could have worse habits! — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble, or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Nader's Auto Safety Center Offers Tips For Car Buyers

By ARTHUR E.ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Ralph Nader's Center for Auto Safety has drawn up a six-point advisory for persons considering the purchase of a new car. The tips come just as the new 1972 models are being promoted to prospective buyers from coast to coast.

The points add up to a kind of appendix to a book published earlier this year under the title, "What to Do With Your Bad Car: An Action Manual for Lemon Owners." Nader and his co-authors, Lowell Dodge and Ralf Hotchkiss, aimed the book primarily at people who are already auto owners.

After the book was published, they realized that it should have had more information to help prospective purchasers. Here are the six points:

1. LOOK FOR the vehicle identification label attached to or near the driver's door frame. It must contain the name of the manufacturer, month and year of manufacture, gross axle weight rating and gross vehicle weight rating, the vehicle identification number and type of vehicle classification, whether it is a passenger car, multipurpose vehicle, etc.

2. This information should tell you whether the car is indeed new or is a used "executive" or "demonstrator" vehicle. In order to make certain, ask the dealer to show you his original invoice for the car; the invoice should have the date of the dealer's purchase of the car, the vehicle identification number and the dealer's cost. If you have any question, ask the state Department of Motor Vehicle if the car was registered previously.

3. Ask the dealer for details about the car's braking capability, acceleration ability and "tire reserve load" for any car he sells. Federal law requires him to furnish this information on request to prospective buyers. "Tire reserve load" shows in percentage terms how much more weight can be carried safely on standard-equipment tires beyond maximum passenger capacity. The larger the figure, the larger the safety margin. The same data on braking, acceleration and tires are published annually by the Department of Transportation and printed by the U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402. The 1972 edition (Vol. III, No. 1) is expected to be available sometime in October.

4. Before buying a new car, determine what the dealer will do about possible defects. The Nader group suggests that prospective buyers examine service facilities, question previous buyers from that dealer and make other inquiries. You should be aware that contracts between dealers and manufacturers require that a warranty be honored at any authorized dealer of that company. Failure to do so is grounds for suit against a dealer who refuses.

5. TO HELP your own bargaining position, check listings of wholesale and retail prices of cars and accessories in books available on newsstands. One is "Edmond's 1971 Car Prices." Because of the freeze, 1971 prices should still apply.

6. Before taking delivery or signing the sales contract, check your car carefully, including a road check at various speeds and a trip to a car wash to find if there are any leaks.

Home Economist Feeds 6 On Only $100 A Month

Can you feed a family of six on $100 a month, despite rising costs?

Southern California home economist Martha Randall does, and she has for the past five years.

The home economist for a grocery chain explains how she does it and why in an article in the October issue of Woman's Day magazine.

"I was concerned about how people could feed themselves on low incomes or fixed pensions. It also bothered me to see many mothers spend a great deal for groceries that left their families fat yet undernourished."

With those thoughts in mind, Mrs. Randall decided to try a limited budget, $100 per month. "Five years later, I find I'm hooked. Making it work has become a fascinating hobby."

IN OFFERING tips on food budgeting, Mrs. Randall says "One thing I've found is that sticking to a limited budget involves more than simply buying the cheapest items on the grocery shelves. I've had to develop a completely different approach to shopping, cooking and eating."

Among the tips Mrs. Randall offers,

Don't shop in a series of last-minute dashes to the supermarket. Plan a week at a time.

Don't shop when you are hungry. "If you're dying for something to eat, you buy more than you need."

Check your refrigerator and freezer compartment and look through the kitchen cupboards to see what's on hand. Whatever is drooping in the vegetable bins is worked into coming meals so it won't spoil.

Study the food ads while preparing your shopping list.

Shop alone. "It takes concentration to compare values and prices and to figure out whether or not to take advantage of bargains, not on the list, to store or freeze for the future."

Large sizes are usually less expensive per unit, but only if they can be used up before they spoil.

Food that comes already prepared is practically always more expensive than the separate ingredients.

Produce offers a lot of challenge to the thrifty shopper. For example frozen peas are always cheaper than fresh peas. The same holds true for canned tomatoes over fresh. Carrots and eggplant, though, are usually cheaper fresh.

The food value of ground beef is equal to steak—and is much more versatile. Buy it in large quantities when it is on sale and freeze it.

Save about 15 cents a chicken by buying broiler-fryers and cutting them up yourself.

Variety meats are also low in cost and high in protein—beef and chicken livers, heart, kidneys also pot roast and bulk sausage or liverwurst.

Eggs make excellent meat substitutes and can be used as a main dish. "For less than a nickel each, where else can you find the makings for so much variety?"

Couple Sets Marriage In January

Lynn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Krugman of San Rafael and the sister of Susan Mary Krugman, also of San Rafael. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Helen Krugman of San Francisco.

Lynn was graduated from Terra Linda High School and is employed with Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. in San Francisco.

Roger is the son of Mrs. Florence Thurber of San Anselmo and the grandson of Mrs. Josephine Bambino of San Anselmo.

He was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and is employed with Mill Valley Refuse Service.

Wedding Is Held In Santa Rosa

Laura chose her sister, Penny Peterson, as maid of honor for the late afternoon ceremony. Matron of honor was Mrs. John Biggers of Santa Rosa. Janet Wagner, a sister of the bride; Marsha Fisher; Becky and Vicky Trujillo were bridesmaid.

Following a reception at the Saturday Afternoon Clubhouse in Santa Rosa the couple traveled along the West Coast for a wedding trip. Rohnert Park will be their first home.

The bride is a graduate of El Molino High School in Forestville. John Harvey Coburn of Sebastopol is her local grandfather.

Jack, son of Manuel Trujillo of Redwood City, is a graduate of Sequoia High School in Redwood City, College of San Mateo and is a junior at Sonoma State College.

Women and Smoking: Some Helpful Hints

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — Women may have a more difficult time than do men in breaking the smoking habit.

Of the 10.2 million persons who quit smoking between 1966 and 1970 only 3.8 million were women, according to a study published in the October issue of Glamour magazine.

Women have a 25 per cent higher return rate, and the number of women smokers is up from 22 per cent in 1955 to 31 per cent in 1970.

Psychologists believe women become hooked because cigarettes signify their desire to break with old social restriction, and smoking helps women handle role confusion. Other reasons given for women smoking are that in the business world, smoking creates a sense of equality with men.

Some suggestions from women who have given up cigarettes include carrying around substitutes like breath fresheners, sugarless gum, mouth spray, celery and carrots.

Women also could do strenuous physical exercise like tennis or swimming to work off irritation or anger that cigarette denial may cause.

When the urge to smoke hits, try an exercise of pressing the index finger against one nostril, breathe in through the other to the count of four. Hold breath to the count of eight and then exhale. Reverse nostrils and repeat.

Remember, the urge to smoke lasts only a couple of minutes — so try to wait it out.

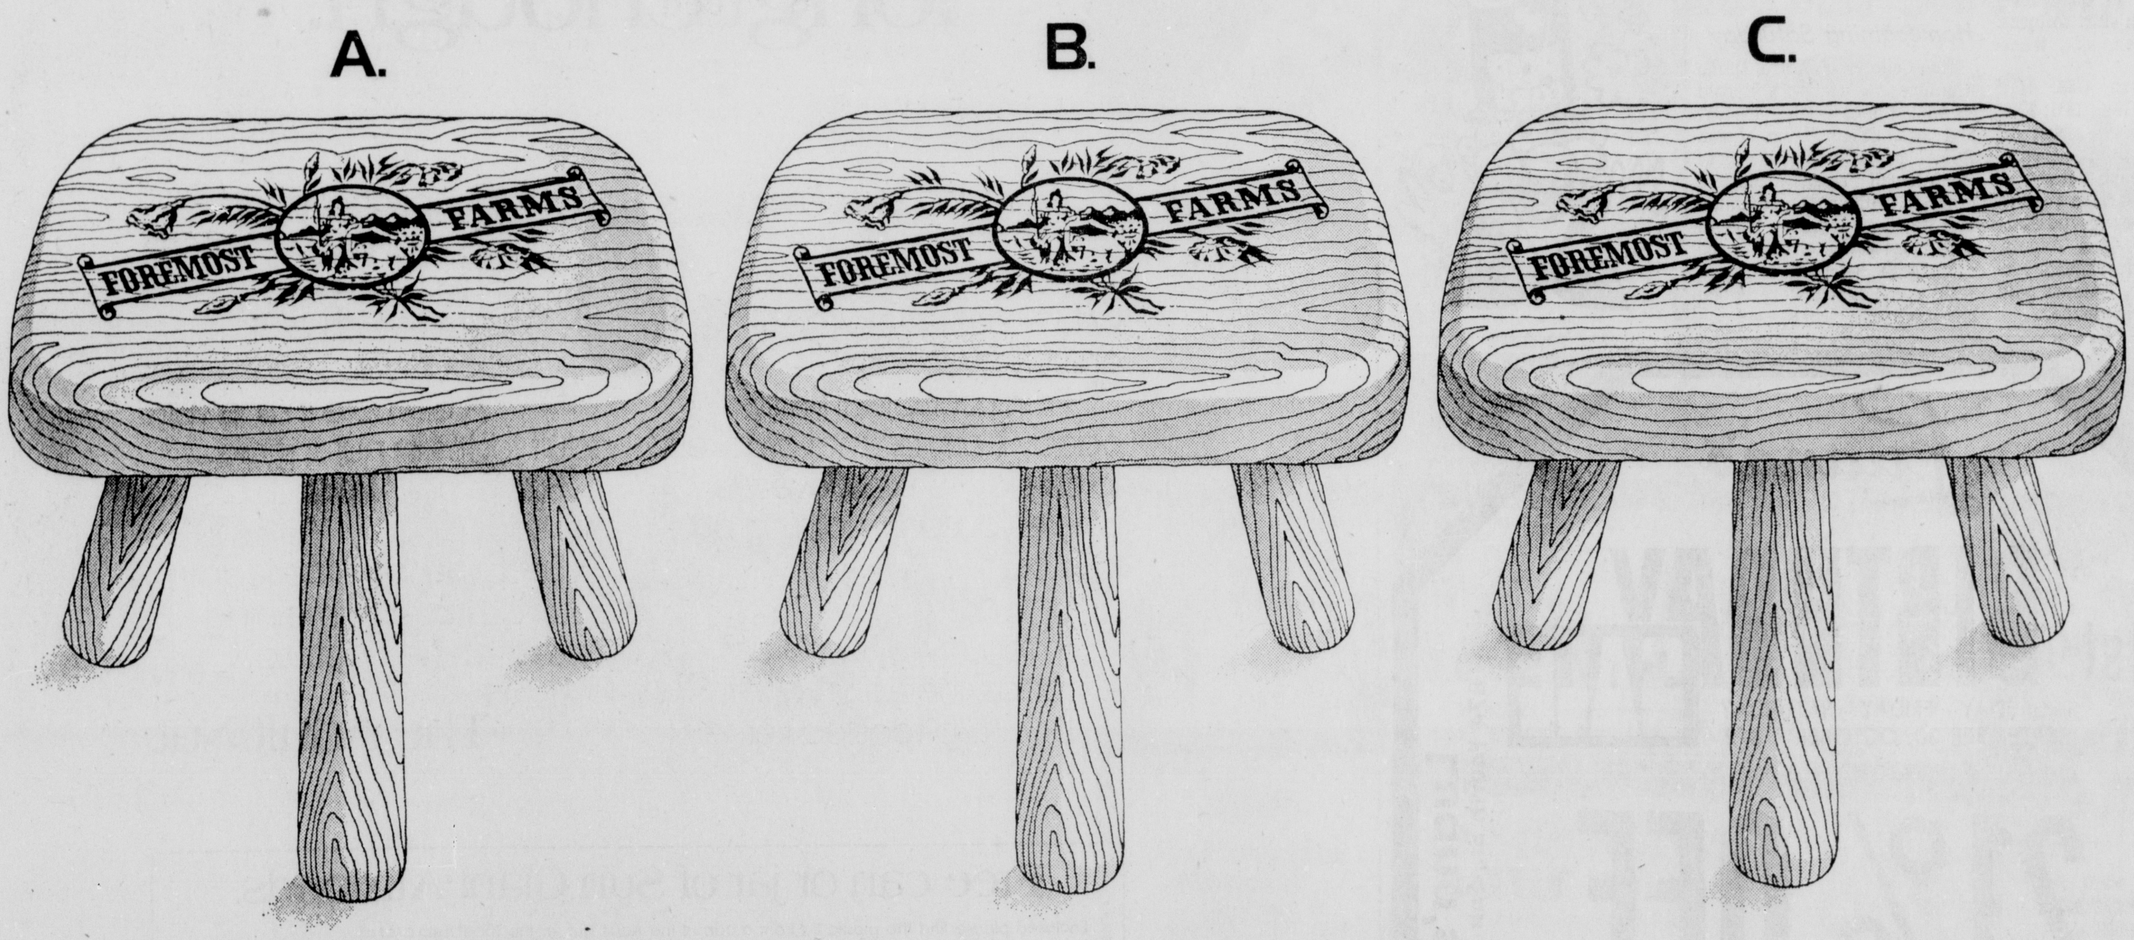
Cranberry sauce is good when spooned hot over pancakes or used as a glaze over baked ham.

WIN AN AUTHENTIC

(For-whatever-it's-worth)

FOREMOST MILKING STOOL.

It's as easy as A, or B, or C.



In an honest effort to win friends, influence people and unload a bunch of homely (but sturdy) milking stools, we bring you yet another push-over-of-a-contest from Foremost.

To enter here's all you do:

Each is a likeness of the 1000 full-size wooden stools we'll be giving away to 1000 lucky winners. Each has the same classic design. Each has our handsome Foremost brand on the seat.

But only two of the stools are exactly alike. One is just a little bit different. Discover which it is, A, B or C?

2. Next, we need a tie-breaker, just in case. Simply complete the following sentence any way you like: "Never, but never, take a milking stool to_____with you." Your answer will be judged on "originality."

3. Finally, pick up an official entry blank wherever Foremost Dairy Products are sold.

On it you'll find complete contest rules, a space for your A, B or C answer, a space for your tie-breaker sentence and the address to mail your entry before midnight, Nov. 1, 1971.

There's no purchase necessary. So send in as many entries as you like.

After all, the next milking stool contest that comes along may not be this easy.

Foremost. The Freshmost.

MARIN COUNTY FAIR OPENS FRIDAY, OCT. 8

A story in yesterday's Independent-Journal, describing the program for the forthcoming Marin County Fair, erroneously reported that the fair is to open this Friday. The fair actually begins its four-day run on Friday, Oct. 8.

The fair, which for many years has been presented at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, this year will take place on the new fairgrounds under development at Marin's Civic Center.

Concert Association Sets Member Drive

Officers have been elected and the dates of Oct. 18-23 announced for the membership campaign of the newly organized Marin Concert Association.

Officers are Ben A. Farlatti of Tiburon, president; Claudia Goldthwaite of Terra Linda, first vice president; W. Robert Lomax Jr. of San Anselmo, second vice president; Mrs. Bernard F. Mulaskey of Fairfax, secretary; and Wells Rasmussen of San Rafael, treasurer.

Mrs. Esther M. Dearth has been appointed culture chairman for the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce and will be working closely with the new association.

A kick-off invitational dinner for the campaign will be held on Oct. 14, with place and time to be announced later. Headquarters will be at Sherman Clay, San Rafael.

The association has been organized by a group of local citizens for the purpose of presenting a series of four or five fall and winter concerts in the 2,088-seat theater of the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

In this non profit operation membership fees are collected before artists are engaged, and only such commitments are made as there is money to cover. In this way there are no losses and no profits. Attendance is by membership card only with no tickets sold at the door. The number of memberships is limited by the capacity of the theater.

"Frula," a Yugoslavian dance production on Nov. 22 is the only program booked at present. It is hoped other attractions offered will include performances by artists and groups of such caliber as soprano Mary Costa, the Young Americans, the Robert Shaw Chorale, Norman Luboff Choir and the Romeros, classical guitarists.

Further information may be obtained by writing Post Office Box 398, Fairfax, or by calling Mrs. Bernard F. Mulaskey of 18 Sherman Court, Fairfax.

San Francisco Symphony Concerts In Marin Set

Tickets are on sale now for the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra's third annual Marin series of four concerts which will open on Jan. 22 at 8:15 p.m. in the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Joining Maestro Seiji Ozawa in this first concert will be young German pianist Christopher Eschenbach, making his Bay Area debut in Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 21, K 467.

Other numbers will be Roger Sessions's Symphony No. 8 commemorating his 75th year, Vaughan Williams's Concerto Grosso for String Orchestra and Scriabin's Poem of Ecstasy honoring the 100th birth anniversary of these composers.

The series' second concert on Feb. 26 will feature Hungarian conductor Istvan Kertesz with his countryman, Violinist Gyorgy Pauk, as soloist.

Both Dvorak specialists, they will present that composer's violin concerto. The other two numbers on the program will be Mozart's Serenata Notturna and Bartok's Concerto for Orchestra.

Maestro Dean Dixon will conduct the third concert on April 22 featuring the American premiere of "Vox Clamatis," a New work by young Czech composer Peter Eben. Brahms's Tragic Overture and Bruckner's Symphony No. 3 conclude the program.

On May 20 Ozawa will close the series with Garrick Ohlsson, 23-year-old pianist who is the first American to win a gold medal in the Warsaw Chopin competition, as soloist in Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 1. Dvorak's Hussite Overture opens this program, and the 50th anniversary of Saint-Saens's death is commemorated with his symphony No. 3 (organ).

Season tickets for the Marin series guarantee reserved seating for all four concerts, as well as a 10 per cent saving over the cost of single tickets, and priority seating for the current and future Marin series.

Further information and tickets may be obtained at the box office which is open at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays and from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays.

Winners In Film Fair Announced

San Francisco State College film makers took top prizes in the first Marin Film Fair competition held in connection with the Marin County Fair, according to Marcelle McCoy, fair manager.

"Natural Habitat," a view of man in his modern environment by Ralph Arlyck of San Francisco State, was awarded top prize in the independent producer category.

Arlyck's prize was $500 and Heath will receive $250.

A special award for the best entry using "Man and Nature" as the theme was given to Charles Peterson, San Francisco independent producer, for "Farallon Light," a film showing wild life in the Farallones.

Peterson also won second place in the independent class for the same entry. Each prize was $250.

Third place in the independent category went to Greg Smalley of San Anselmo, for "Stained Glass," a photographic essay on the art of making stained glass windows.

Other student category winners included Doug Wendt of the San Francisco Art Institute, second prize of $100 for "Time Offed," and Richard Harkness, San Francisco State, third prize at $50 for "The Visitor."

Judges selected two films for honorable mention in the independent class: "Home Grown" by Ben Van Meter of Bolinas and "Dispossessed" by George Ballis of Oakland.

Honorable mentions in the student category went to Carl Willat of Tamalpais High School for "Washington at Valley Forge" and Wendt for "Up and Atom."

The films will be showed at 11 a.m. and at 1, 3 and 5 p.m. in the Veterans Memorial Building, Mrs. McCoy said.

PG&E Contends Plant Is Safe

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Pacific Gas & Electric Co. has filed a report contending that its proposed $830 million nuclear electric power plant at Point Arena will cause no long term environmental damage.

The 80-page document was submitted Tuesday to the Atomic Energy Commission, which must then make its own report to the President's Council on Environmental Quality before it can grant PG&E a construction permit.

The proposed plant, which would generate 2.23 million kilowatts when completed in 1979, is opposed by conservation groups which are against any new nuclear power plants on the California coast

Hurricane Aims For East Coast Landfall

MIAMI (UPI) — Hurricane Ginger sloughed off an artificial ice seeding today and aimed its massive circle of 90 mile an hour winds and eight foot tides for a Thursday morning blow at North Carolina's Outer Banks.

The National Hurricane Center issued hurricane warnings at noon for the low-lying coastal area from Cape Lookout, N. C., northward to Virginia Beach and told residents in the area to take immediate precautions.

Already winds to 40 m.p.h. were slapping at the Outer Banks—an area that has been pounded for over a week by heavy ground swells and surf kicked up by Ginger, a massive storm that covers an area the size of Florida.

Dr. Robert Simpson, the chief of the National Hurricane Center, said Ginger was expected to make its landfall Thursday morning between Cape Lookout and Cape Hatteras.

The eye of Ginger, the longest-lived hurricane on record, was 80 miles wide and Simpson said the storm's gale winds were affecting an area more than 700 miles in diameter.

"Tides will rise steadily during the next 24 hours to a maximum of eight feet above normal near the hurricane center as it reaches the coast," Simpson warned.

"While Ginger has lost some strength during the last 24 hours, it remains an important storm because of the large area which continues to be affected by gale force winds."

In addition to issuing a hurricane warning for North Carolina and Virginia coasts, forecasters put the area from the Virginia coast northward to Delaware, including the lower Chesapeake Bay, on a hurricane watch. Gale warnings were issued in the same area.

The Hurricane Center said Ginger was advancing toward the mainland at a slow pace and warned that a small change in direction could result in a rapid change in the area of warnings.

Keys In Ignition —Auto Is Stolen

A 1970 Corvette, valued at between $6,000 and $7,000, was stolen yesterday after the owner left the keys in the ignition while it was awaiting service at Campbell-Bishop Chevrolet in Corte Madera.

Officers said today the auto, owned by the Toy Box of Woodland Hills, Los Angeles County, was taken at about noon.

No October Meeting For Medical Group

An item on the Independent-Journal business page yesterday stating that the California Medical Association would hold a meeting at Holiday Inn in San Rafael on Oct. 16 was in error.

The information was supplied by the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau. According to the association, no meeting is being held in October.

Lynch Pledges Peace Talk Try

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic has agreed to try to persuade leaders of the Roman Catholic minority in Northern Ireland to take part in peace talks, British government sources said today.

They said he pledged to make the attempt to British Prime Minister Edward Heath and Northern Ireland Premier Brian Faulkner during two days of talks at Chequers, the British leader's official country residence.

The talks ended Tuesday after noon with publication of a statement by all three prime ministers condemning violence in the north and saying the discussions created an atmosphere of greater understanding between them.

Hiring Minorities For Parking Lot Due Study

Employment of members of racial minorities as parking lot attendants at the new Veterans Memorial Building and as employees for the Golden Gate Bridge District's bus system will be among topics to be discussed tomorrow night by the Marin County Human Rights Commission.

The commission meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in Room 332 at the Marin County Civic Center.

Executive Director Gerald J. Hood will present a proposed resolution, asking the state Legislature for some changes in school financing in view of the state Supreme Court ruling that present property tax methods of support are unconstitutional.

Lanny Berry of Tamalpais High School District will ask the commission to sponsor a statewide roadshow of "project Breakthrough", a federally-funded program conducted at Tamalpais High School to help the disadvantated student.

Other agenda items include the monthly report by the executive director and committee reports.

Camper Looted

A $200 mattress and four cushions have been stolen from a camper pickup at Marin Trailer Sales, 2066 Redwood Highway, Larkspur, police said today. Officers said the theft occurred sometime Sunday or Monday.

Kaiser Hospital Addition Backed

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night approved plans to increase Kaiser Foundation hospital to four times its present capacity.

The commission approved a two-phase development ultimately adding a five-story hospital and medical clinic making the Kaiser facility into a full service hospital for members of the Kaiser health plan and emergency treatment for people in the area.

Charles J. Linthicum, senior planner, pointed out that the proposed additions would be screened off on three sides by the hill which will be at least 15 feet above the top of the new buildings.

No one in the audience objected to the plans.

Commissioner Alan M. Kay said he opposed a high-rise building in a residential area, but commissioner Jorgen V. Lunding said residents wouldn't see the new buildings and said there is a tremendous need for a hospital in the area. Chairman Joseph J. Garbarino agreed saying that if there were an emergency at 7 a.m. on a weekday, it might take 45 minutes to get to another hospital.

When complete, the hospital will have 202 beds, 216 employees and 50 doctors, according to Linthicum.

The commission approved plans for a park for 400 mobile homes at the end of Smith Ranch Road and settled the problem (not resolved at two previous meetings) of imposing an access road to the Smith Ranch Airport.

The commission conditioned its approval that a floating right of way be granted to the city on the east side of the railroad tracks and the mobile home site to join an extension of Smith Ranch Road with Smith Ranch Airport.

The San Rafael Planning Commission Also:

LOTS — Approved the resubdivision of two lots, 6,360 square feet and 10,865 square feet, at 98 West Crescent Drive owned by Oren Diamond.

RAFAEL TERRACE — Approved a nine-lot subdivision for Rafael Terrace Unit 11 at 100 block of Irwin Street owned by Henry Chilotti.

FLAG — Put over to Oct. 25 whether to approve a variance for a flag with the insignia of Sta Power Industries, Inc., at 70 Mitchell Boulevard owned by Johnny Ribeiro.

OFFICE — Approved a use permit to convert the Warren E. Nute residence, 907 Mission Avenue, into an office building.

WRECKING YARD — Approved a two-year use permit to use part of San Quentin Disposal, 1515 Francisco Boulevard as an auto wrecking yard, storage area and firewood sales. Linthicum pointed out that the cars would be smashed and would be screened from the roadways by a fence.

APARTMENT — Approved the architectural plans for a seven unit apartment building at 550 D Street owned by Allied Investments.

AWNING — Approved architectural plans for an awning proposed to be 20 feet wide, nine feet six inches high, and 20 feet long over a driveway of Holiday Magic, 616 Canal Street.

CITY COUNCIL — Heard a report from Kay that plans the commission approved for a Standard Station at Third Street and Grand Avenue were not what was built because the city council changed the right of way for Third Street making the service station canopy almost abut the street. Kay said when a change like that is made the city council, the planning commission and the city staff should look at what it does to the overall plans.

Stanford Opens Firing Hearing For Professor

STANFORD (UPI)—Stanford University opened a dismissal hearing against a Communist professor Tuesday during which the proceedings were telecast to students via closed-circuit television.

H. Bruce Franklin, 37, avowed Maoist-Marxist, and associate professor of English says his political views are on trial. The university charges that his conduct is in question.

Franklin was accused of inciting students to disrupt a speech by Henry Cabot Lodge last January on campus, and with inciting students to close down the college's computer center Feb. 10.

About 350 professors signed a statement upholding the university's suspension of Franklin, but 66 other faculty members objected, citing fears of infringement on academic freedom. Groups of radical students firmly support Franklin.

PATIENCE PATIENTLY HOLDS OUT

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Mrs. William Wilson, embarrassed by carrying her poodle in a blanket, begged Deputy Gordon Rhyne at a shopping center yesterday to "take me home, it's an emergency."

Rhyne obliged and got Mrs. Wilson home just in time to help deliver three healthy puppies.

The officer admitted he wasn't sure they would make it in time, but he gained confidence when Mrs. Wilson said the poodle's name was Patience.

Wallace Looks Back To Election

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Alabama Gov. George Wallace would have required Richard Nixon to go on television to restate his campaign pledges — particularly on busing —if Wallace had received enough votes in 1968 to deny Nixon outright election as President.

Wallace said Tuesday he could have tied up the last presidential election if he had received 150,000 more popular votes distributed in North Carolina, Tennessee and South Carolina.

But Wallace said he would not have gone to the House of Representatives. He said he believed Nixon would have gotten his electoral votes because Wallace was against Democratic candidate Hubert H. Humphrey.

Wallace, however, said Nixon first would have had to go "on national television and reiterated and restated some of the commitments he made in the campaign for the presidency."

"The speech he made in Charlotte, N.C., in which he said, "I am against busing of school children. I'm against the destruction of neighborhood schools' ... that's one thing he would have had to say," Wallace said.

Wallace was interviewed by Public Service Broadcasting Service.

Warning Unheeded, Train Kills Pair

MARTINEZ, Calif. (UPI)— When four young men walked into the train tunnel, an engineer stopped his train to warn them they were in dangerous territory. They continued toward the opposite end and were met by an oncoming train.

Two of the men leaped to the side and escaped, but two others, both 21, were killed instantly. The victims were identified as Russell L. Burg of Concord and Ronald E. Pierson of Clearlake Highlands.

Belotti, Wife On The 'Stable' List

They were injured Sunday in an automobile accident near Cloverdale.

A Guilty Verdict In Dog Shooting Trial

A Sausalito man who fatally shot a neighbor's dog last year was found guilty of cruelty to animals yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Thomas Henry Donoghue, 42, of 418 Johnson Street, admitted shooting the dog May 16, 1970, but testified he thought he was justified because he was bitten by the dog that day — the third time in as many weeks the dog had bitten someone.

A jury of eight women and four men, however, deliberated two and a half hours before finding that Donoghue had maliciously killed the dog, Babe, a pedigreed Weimaraner owned by Kathie Sommer.

Judge Peter Allen Smith, telling the jury he agreed with its verdict, ordered Donoghue to return to court Oct. 22 for sentencing.

A mailman, David Johnson, testified that Babe bit him in the leg three weeks before the shooting, and a telephone company employee, Lawrence Arrington, said he was bitten by the dog two days before the shooting.

On the day of the shooting, Donoghue said, he climbed over a small fence into Mrs. Sommer's yard to see the puppies recently littered by Babe and the dog bit him twice in the leg.

After treatment at Marin General Hospital, Donoghue said, he returned home, got a .22-caliber rifle, climbed back over the fence and shot the dog.

In asking for a guilty verdict, Deputy Dist. Atty. Milton M. Hyams told the jurors that Donoghue's action could no more be justified than if he had shot a neighbor who had punched him in the mouth.

Defense attorney Michael B. Dufficy, on the other hand, asked the jurors to consider the possibility that the fourth person the dog might have attacked could have been a small child.

Ex-Sen. Morse Seeks Old Seat

Morse said Monday he will seek the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate, where he served for 24 years. He said he would announce his plans more fully next month, most likely on his 71st birthday.

The seat Morse seeks presently is held by Republican Mark O. Hatfield, also a constant critic of U. S. Vietnam policy.

HILL TOP APARTMENTS — A model of the proposed Larwin Multi-Housing Corp. apartment development on Bon Air Hill depicts housing for more than 600 persons. The development would be adjacent to the Tamalpais rest home and would cover a 12-acre site and is to take two years to construct.

Crusade Eyes Federal Aid To Boost Social Services

By DAVID DIETZ

A plan under which social service programs supported by the United Bay Area Crusade would be bolstered with massive doses of federal aid was outlined today to representatives of UBAC member agencies in Marin.

David Neil, UBAC's director of administration and finance, emphasized the proposal was strictly conceptual at this stage, but that it presented a "tremendous opportunity" to implement or improve "just about any service you can imagine" on a community level.

As described at a meeting in the Bank of Marin in San Rafael to representatives of the Marin Association for Mental Health, St. Vincent's School for Boys and the Marin chapter of the American Red Coss, UBAC could increase to about $40 million the $10 million now being spent in target areas of the five-county Bay Area.

This would be done, Neil said, by applications for federal funds under 1967 amendments to the Social Security Act. Under the plan, UBAC, allocating to member agencies as usual, would borrow back portions of the grants, using the money to obtain federal grants on a 75 per cent federal-25 per cent local basis.

Neil said the funds could be used for such things as day care, consumer protection, foster care, homeowner services, senior citizen service centers, adoption services, birth control education and tutorial services for the disadvantaged.

The plan is an outgrowth of the crusade's New Directions program, designed to provide greater service to minority groups and poverty areas.

Intrinsic in the proposal, Neil told the group, is formation of a nonprofit Human Services Corporation made up of welfare directors from the five UBAC counties, five UBAC board members and five members from the minority communities. The corporation would be responsible for contracting with the five counties to fund the bolstered social services, and for subcontracting with "delivery vehicle agencies" on the community level to provide the services.

Of the approximately $40 million that could be obtained through federal funds in behalf of target areas, Neil said, $20 million would be returned directly for program funding, with the rest going toward the cost of services — staff, transportation, office space — needed by the "delivery vehicle agencies" and toward a "variable fund" in the event programs were expanded beyond funding levels.

The plan has yet to receive official approval from either member agencies or the UBAC board.

United Crusade Panel Talk Set

The United Bay Area Crusade's "new direction" will be discussed at 9 a.m. Thursday on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" program by Lawrence D. Bolling, UBAC vice president and general budget chairman, and Lawrence E. Hoyt, 1971 campaign chairman.

The crusade has launched a policy of giving money to agencies attempting to solve ghetto problems, thus with drawing support from some institutions formerly supported.

Big Bon Air Plan Unveiled

A fortress-like apartment development proposed for Bon Air Hill was unveiled last night before the Larkspur Planning Commission, but no action was taken pending review by the city's planning consultant.

The commission's delay went part way toward satisfying members of the Larkspur Town Meeting who argued that the project magnitude dictated it be delayed until the city's master plan is upgraded.

According to a firm representative, John Tapking, the development would be "family-oriented" and would house more than 600 persons.

Rents for the one to three-bedroom apartments would range from $185 to $260 per month, he said, to a chorus of unbelieving groans from the small audience.

Experience showed, he continued, that the development's one swimming pool and four tot lots would be sufficient to handle the number of residents expected. "Most apartment dwellers would rather sunbathe on their decks than use the pool," Tapking said. "We have found in our other projects that one recreation facility (pool) and scattered tot lots fulfill recreation requirements."

Under a proposed parking ordinance, soon to be up for adoption, chairman Robert H. Lee noted that the development would be required to provide about 460 parking spaces. As proposed, it offers space for 358 with little, if any, room for expansion.

Commissioners also requested reports from the city's fire and police departments on safety matters at the development which would ring the top of the hill with a "kind of meandering structure," as Lee put it.

The Town Meeting group, headed by A. Charles Brouse, called for a continuation so the impact of population and traffic on the city could be studied.

Brouse supported his groups position with a policy statement approved in July by the city council calling for a halt to all large development until the city master plan is updated.

The commission, in declining to act on the proposal, continued it to Oct. 12 when a timetable for review by the consultant will be set. The review is expected to take 60 days.

The Larkspur Planning Commission Also:

REZONING — Approved rezoning a small parcel of property at 265 Magnolia Avenue from single-family residential to administrative and professional office zoning. The site is opposite the new Lark Creek Inn and was once used as a used car lot.

BICYCLE INN — Approved a variance request from the proposed Banfield Bicycle Inn at 1111 Magnolia Avenue to reduce the number of required parking spaces from 18 to 11.

SPROUSE-REITZ — Continued to its Oct. 12 meeting a request for a variance on the number of parking spaces required at a proposed Sprouse-Reitz store adjacent to the Safeway store at 20 Bon Air Road. In later action, it also refused to approve the design of the proposed store building, instead referring it back to the architectural review committee.

BOAT DOCK — Approved a use permit requested by Dorothy Sexton for operation of a boat docking and storage facility on Corte Madera Creek at 2170 Redwood Highway. The approval was conditioned on the removal of the facility when the creek is again dredged.

WAREHOUSE — Approved the design of an industrial building at 46 Industrial Way as submitted by R.H. Greene of San Rafael.

APARTMENTS — Referred back to the architectural review committee a 10-unit apartment house proposal for 955 South Eliseo Drive. The building is being proposed by Betty Burgar and would be located adjacent to Corte Madera Creek.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to its next regular meeting on Oct. 12 at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Ruling On Firings Is Asked

The superintendent of the Sausalito School District has asked the county counsel's office for a ruling on the legality of dismissing two teachers' aides because they are on the board of the Marin City Learning Center.

The women, Title One aide Jackie Harris and educational aide Hazel Curry, were fired by the school district board Sept. 20. At that time the board said the aides were "in conflict of interest," because of their joint employment in the district and involvement with the learning center, a private school in Marin City.

At Monday's board meeting, Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg told trustees he had had several inquiries concerning whether the dismissals were legal.

Lindberg said he plans to call a special board meeting later this week, as soon as the county counsel has prepared an opinion in the matter.

The Sausalito School District board also:

TEACHERS — Postponed action on a recommendation from Lindberg to standardize the amount of time all teachers in the district spend at school each day until the Sausalito District Teachers Association could study the proposal. At present, according to the superintendent, teachers can leave school one-half hour after their last class. Consequently, he said, kindergarten teachers can leave at 1:30 p.m., while most other teachers must remain at school until 4 p.m.

PRINCIPALS — Approved a $350 annual stipend for the district's two principals, to cover mileage and expense incurred in their jobs.

ENROLLMENT — Learned that district enrollment has grown to 481, from 451 the first day of school.

ART CENTER — Voted to extend the date when the Sausalito Art Center must vacate the Old Bayside School from Sept. 30 to Oct. 15 to allow more time for a lease on the property to be prepared, a lease satisfactory to both the center and the district.

TRANSFER — Approved a transfer into the district for first grader Cary Laird from the Mill Valley School District.

MEETING DATE — Agreed to hold its second meeting next month on Oct. 11 rather than 25th, since that day is an official federal, state and district holiday (Veterans Day).

Reed Trustees To Pick Panel Members

The Reed School District board will meet in special session Oct. 12 to appoint members from the community to seven special committees.

According to Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello, committees will research specific topics and present the information to the board later this year.

Four committees, research and instructional assessment, finance, school facility and transportation and drug abuse, have been appointed each year for several years, Giovanniello said.

Three new committees will be added this year: Recreation programs, small school study and community service fund.

The number of citizens to serve on each committee has not been determined, Giovanniello said. In the past, five persons have served on each committee.

The board also approved hiring Gail Siegal to teach third grade at Bel Air School at $7,024 a year; and two classified employees, Loraine Anderson for four hours a day at Reed School and Elizabeth Slaughter for three hours a day at Del Mar School. Both were hired at $2.41 an hour.

Hospital Parking Lot Bids Sought

The Marin Hospital District board last night authorized calling for bids for approximately 10,000 cubic yards of fill for a buttress in the parking lot across the street from Marin General Hospital.

No estimate of the cost has been made, according to Ray K. Bolinger, hospital administrator.

The bids are to be opened at the board's Oct. 26 meeting.

The Marin Hospital District board also:

DOCTORS — Granted associate staff privileges to eight physicians. They are N. Edward Boyce Jr. of Mill Valley, Richard C. Brown of Greenbrae, James E. Damon of San Rafael, Woodrow M. Donovan of Community Mental Health Center, Donald B. Nevins of Kentfield, Diana D. Parnell of Greenbrae, Jay R. Salzman of Greenbrae and A. Alan Weber of Greenbrae.

DELEGATE — Named George E. Croke as the board's delegate to the annual Association of California Hospital Districts meeting in San Francisco Oct. 22. George H. Folsom was chosen as alternate.

ABSENT — Board members Marion C. Ibach and Thomas K. Procter were not present.

Tiburon Youth Nabbed In Probe Of Marijuana

A 20-year-old Tiburon youth was arrested last night on suspicion of possessing marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia and battery on a police officer.

Larkspur police said Joseph Wood Azevedo of 1877 Centro West Street was arrested at about 11:20 p.m. after a routine traffic stop developed into a fight.

Azevedo, the son of Marin County Planning Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo, was stopped on Magnolia Avenue for driving a vehicle without license plates, officers said.

They said that when he was cited, he became angry and began swinging at officers and during the course of the fight received a gash on his forehead.

He was treated at Marin General Hospital and as he was being led to a patrol car for booking at the county jail he again started swinging, officers said.

While being searched at the jail, officers said, a package of suspected marijuana was found in his jacket pocket along with a brass holder used for smoking the weed.

He remained in jail in lieu of $5,000 bail and was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Mobile Eye Clinic Sets Novato Hours

A mobile eye clinic will be operating at the Novato Downtown Center from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday under sponsorship of the Novato Lions Club.

Children will be screened for vision problems and adults for glaucoma, according to Robert Eddy, club president. There will be no charge.

The mobile optometry clinic from the school of optometry at the University of California at Berkeley will be operated by senior clinician students and faculty, he said.

The club also will be conducting White Cane Days sales in Novato Friday and Saturday and funds collected will be used for sight conservation projects, Eddy reported.

4-H Week Parade Is Scheduled

The Novato Jets 4-H Club will sponsor a parade through downtown Novato Oct. 9, marking National 4-H Week.

The parade, starting at 10 a.m., will feature floats, decorated bicycles, horses and family and individual entries, reported Nancy Gauer, parade chairman. The theme is "Our America—the Land and the People."

A trophy will be awarded for the best 4-H Club entry, as will ribbons for first, second and third places in all categories.

Persons or groups interested in entering the parade should notify Mrs. Gauer, 2358 Dominic Drive, Novato, no later than Monday.

The parade will start at Lee Brothers Market parking lot at Seventh Street and Grant Avenue, then go north on Seventh to Vallejo Avenue, east on Vallejo to First Street, south of First to Grant and west on Grant back to Lee Brothers.

Sausalito Youth Picked For Board

A 20-year-old Sausalito youth, one of two candidates for two vacant seats on the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District board, has been chosen by district directors to fill one of the posts, board president Cyril G. Hansen reported.

Hansen said the selection of Dale Carey, 501 Bridgeway, must now be ratified by Marin County Supervisors.

Carey, a student in businessmen administration at Golden Gate College in San Francisco, is the first person under 21 to serve on the sanitary board, he said.

On Monday, the board voted to elect Carey and incumbent George Elkington of Sausalito as new directors, since they were the only candidates who filed for the two vacant seats.

Subject to the supervisors' approval, Carey will replace John Hinman, whose term expires next month.

Bill Banning 'Torture' Toys Backed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation banning the sale and manufacture of "torture" toys and those resembling bombs and grenades was approved yesterday by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The bill by Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, was sent to the Senate floor on a split voice vote. It already has passed the Assembly.

The only dissenting vote was cast by Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, who objected to the "torture" language, contending it was too broad.

Burton said the bill was aimed at toys depicting "people hanging in racks with hot irons that they can be stuck with."

Banned outright were toy bombs and grenades. Models of aircraft, ships or spacecraft would be exempted under the measure, which would take effect July 1, 1972.

Burton has introduced similar bills for the past six years but they all died in Assembly committees.

"We've spent enough time on this that we could have negotiated a real arms agreement," Burton told the Senate committee.

Free Courses In Philosophy Now Under Way

Free discussion courses in fundamental economics and social philosophy sponsored by the Henry George School got under way this week at several locations in Marin. Each is a 10-week series meeting one evening a week.

All classes meet at 8 p.m.

The locations and days are Monday, planning commission chambers, Marin Civic Center and Room 508, Redwood High School Wednesday, Coral Room, Marin General Hospital and Room 211, Sir Francis Drake High School, and Thursday, Terra Linda High School, Room 506.

Registration may be made at the classes.

Four-Day Workweek To Begin

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Parks and Recreation Department Friday will become the first state agency to begin a four-day, 10-hour-a-day workweek on a large-scale basis.

A spokesman said two-thirds of the 300 employes in the department's Sacramento headquarters will work a four-day week during October in an experimental program. All headquarters employes were given a choice of working either on a four-day or a regular five-day week.

The spokesman said that in recent years sections of several state departments, including the Franchise Tax Board, went on the four-day week for specialized activities.

"The new workweek will not reduce services but will permit three-day weekends," said Information Officer Dick Thompson, noting the employes will work the new schedule on a staggered basis.

Those employes will work either Monday through Thursday or Tuesday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. with a half-hour lunch. Current working hours for most employes were 7:30 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. with a 45-minute lunch period.

Department officials will evaluate the experimental hours to determine whether such a schedule should be made permanent. The new schedule does not affect department employes in district offices.

Gov. Ronald Reagan last week signed a bill by Assemblyman Mike Cullen, D-Long Beach, which authorizes the governor to put a four-day week into effect for state employes if he desires.

PUC Chief Denies Panel Met Illegally

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The chairman of the California Public Utilities Commission yesterday compared his group with state and federal appellate courts and said there was nothing "secret, unlawful or improper" in its executive sessions.

Chairman J. P. Vukasin Jr. said the only recent procedual change has been a minor one in which the commissioners "physically and individually sign the numerous orders and resolutions" out of the presence of staff experts.

"All multi-member courts, both federal and state, including the Supreme Courts and the Courts of Appeal, conduct their deliberations in executive session," Vukasin said.

"Certainly no one would suggest that they sit with one party or the other when arriving at their decisions. The same reasoning applies to the Commission."

Vukasin pointed out that Commission decisions, as well as each commissioner's vote, were matters of public record.

The PUC has been criticized recently for changing procedure so that the five commissioners sign their decisions in executive session.

Bill Exempts Developers Of Films

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly yesterday approved 49-0 a bill by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, to exempt developers of pornographic movies from antismut laws.

Senate for concurrence in Assembly amendments. One major amendment declares that if a film developer is excused from obscenity restrictions he must not "know that such film constitutes obscene matter."

Opponents objected earlier because that provision had been stricken from the bill after it passed the Senate. They defeated the bill last week but agreed to vote for it if the provision was restored.

63 Strep Cases Reported Last Week

Srreptococcus infections were the most prevalent of the communicable diseases reported last week in Marin County, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, health officer. She said there were 63 cases, 40 of them in Novato.

Other diseases reported were gonorrhea, 39; mumps, 1; syphilis, 2; salmonella, 2; serum hepatitis, 1, and shigella, 2.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON GREB

Guess who was born today and became famous.

1. England honored this great Admiral by placing his statue atop a 145-foot Corinthium column, overlooking a London square named to celebrate his victory at Cape Trafalgar (near Gibraltar) in 1805. Before the battle in which he was killed, he told his men, "England expects that every man will do his duty": (A) Lord Nelson; (B) Admiral John Benbow; (C) Sir Francis Drake.

2. What Irish colleen represented London's brave women under German Luftwaffe attack in the World War II motion picture, "Mrs. Miniver"? This star, who is 63 today, also was in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" and "Random Harvest": (A) Maureen O'Hara; (B) Greer Garson; (C) Irene Dunne.

3. Know who ranks among Spain's greatest teachers and philosophers? He was a Salamanca University professor, who wrote books urging men to strive against fate and was deported for openly attacking the 1923 dictatorship of General Primo de Rivera: (A) Miguel de Unamuno; (B) Pablo Casals; (C) Jose Ortega y Gasset.

4. Do you suppose Jack Benny is the only one claiming to be 39? No, sir! That also was the number uppermost in the claim of a statuesque Swedish model before the 1951 "Miss Universe" contest. She got a Hollywood film contract after press photographers agreed she had the right figure: (A) Diana Dors; (B) Raquel Welch; (C) Anita Ekberg.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A Reminder: Be Kind To High Cards Or They May Desert You

The average bridge player thinks of himself as kind and considerate, but he takes his high cards for granted. He never thinks of the pain he causes to the aces and kings that he sometimes abuses shamefully. But if this goes on, one day those aces and kings will revolt. Don't say I didn't warn you.

SOUTH'S HAND

Isn't it a pleasure just to look at that South hand? South thought so when he picked up his cards. If only he had never learned how to finesse during his wild youth! Then perhaps he would have done justice to this 26-point hand.

The bidding was short and sweet enough, and West opened the jack of clubs. South counted his tricks and saw that he had eight tricks in aces and kings. He needed one other trick for his contract.

Without wasting much time on thought, South took the first trick with the king of clubs, cashed the ace of spades and led a heart to dummy in order to try the spade finesse. The finesse lost, and the dummy was dead. South wound up with his eight top tricks and nothing else. Down one.

BETTER CHANCE

The finesse in spades gave South an even chance for his contract but he neglected a much better chance. After taking the king of clubs South should have led out the ace and king of spades. Then if nobody showed out, he should have led the jack of spades.

This play would set up the jack of spades if either opponent had the singleton or doubleton queen of spades. Dummy's nine would set up if either opponent had the singleton or doubleton ten of spades, or if the six missing spades were divided 3-3.

2 TO 1 ODDS

The odds were about 2 to 1 that this method would develop an additional spade trick. A player who gives up 2 to 1 odds in order to take an even chance doesn't deserve to pick up 26-point hands.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid six no-trump.

Since you have eight points in high cards, you know the partnership count is 33 to 35 points. This should give your partner a comfortable play for a small slam, but a doubtful play for a grand slam.

Church Breakfasts Resume Tomorrow

Community breakfasts held at the First Baptist Church in Mill Valley will resume at 7:30 a.m. tomorrow after a summer break in the schedule.

The monthly breakfasts, held in Spangler Hall of the church on Miller Avenue, are open to all city residents. Reservations may be made at the church.

Society Makes Plans For Sale

The Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society will hold a storeroom sale from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at the museum, known as Old St. Hilary's Church in Tiburon.

Among items for sale will be an old tread sewing machine, patented in 1887, an oak architect's desk of 1900 vintage and other items.

Proceeds from the sale will help renovate the storeroom.

COUNTY A DISASTER AREA—TWO COUNTS

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Cotton County, Okla., can claim federal drought and flood aid at the same time.

The county, in the southwestern part of the state, was declared a drought disaster area last spring by the Department of Agriculture. That designation is still in effect.

President Nixon made the county eligible yesterday for disaster relief because of heavy rains in the area in August.

The press secretary of Gov. David Hall said Cotton County received 10.5 inches of rain in four hours Aug. 15. That's about half a year's rainfall.

Hub Will Fly Flag On Its Own 'U.N. Day'

San Anselmo Mayor Kenneth L. Anderson last night proclaimed Oct. 24 as United Nations Day in that city and ordered the flying of the U.N. flag.

The action came in an atmosphere of calm, devoid of opposition that had hitherto surrounded the city's mundialization efforts.

With the concurrence of the city council, Anderson also instructed the director of public works to locate a suitable site for the new flag pole, which will be raised in special ceremonies, to carry the U.N. flag.

If opponents of mudialization were present, they did not express themselves.

The controversy began last April when San Anselmo became the first California community to mundialize by declaring its residents citizens of the world as a well as the U.S. and by agreeing to fly the U.N. flag.

Opposition to flying that flag with the American flag arose immediately and led at one point to the removal of the U.N. flag from the city's flagpole outside city hall.

San Anselmo Institutes Juvenile Work Program

Borrowing from its neighbor, San Rafael, the San Anselmo City Council last night instituted a juvenile work program for youthful lawbreakers.

Under the new program, juveniles who are referred to the county probation department will be ordered by the juvenile court referee to work a certain number of hours on Saturdays and holidays. The program was instituted to provide an alternative to imprisoning youth or releasing them after only a stern reprimand.

The new juvenile work program will be a duplicate of one in operation in San Rafael since 1969. According to the Marin County probation department, San Rafael's program has been a success and has not been a burden to the city. The San Rafael program is supervised by an inspector in the juvenile bureau who is responsible for keeping tabs on the workers, checking time schedules and quality of work.

Youths will work in the city's public works, park maintenance, fire and police departments. Work will range from painting call boxes and hydrants to plant maintenance in police offices.

Councilman Warren R. Perry told the council that the work program "would provide a desirable alternative to incarceration or a fine which in effect is meaningless to the offender."

Councilman James F. Reed asked for a report in three months on the progress of the program. "It's a trial balloon and we should have a report back," he said.

The San Anselmo City Council Also:

USE PERMIT — Upheld an appeal by John H. Colteaux and overruled the planning commission in denying a use permit for a recycling depot at 275 Greenfield Avenue.

RECYCLING — Reviewed reports from spokesmen for San Anselmo Garbage Disposal on a plan for their part in the recycling program and garbage pickup in the city.

LOT SPLIT — Denied an appeal by Barry W. Rogers of Marin County Apartment and Home Rentals, Fairfax, upholding the planning commission's denial of his request that he be permitted to build two homes on a single lot at 447 Laurel Avenue.

PARK AND RECREATION — Granted the parks and recreation commission request that it review all applications for parks and recreation director position.

PROPERTY — Authorized appraisal and negotiations for the purchase of two pieces of property, one on the Northwestern Pacific right-of-way and the other on land owned by Marin County Development Company.

SAN QUENTIN — Instructed the city attorney to draft a letter to the governor and state legislators supporting the board of supervisors' attempts to make San Quentin a minimum security prison.

CLOSED SESSION — Adjourned to a closed session scheduled tomorrow to hire a temporary park and recreation director and to discuss with the city attorney an impending suit against the city, rising out of a traffic accident.

Flyer Cited For Bravery In SE Asia

Air Force Lt. Col. Spencer Hall Jr., son of Mrs. Kathryn C. Hall of Fairfax, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for bravery while on a mission in Southeast Asia.

Hall distinguished himself as an RF-101 Voodoo reconnaissance jet aircraft pilot, according to Air Force officials.

"Disregarding his own safety, he flew his unarmed aircraft over a heavily defended area and acquired photographic intelligence vital to the success of the Air Force mission," officers said.

The colonel is now assigned to Duluth International Airport in Minnesota as chief of the support division, 23rd Air Division.

Commissioned in 1944 through the aviation cadet program, Hall holds the aeronautical rating of command pilot.

He is a 1942 graduate of Tamalpais High School and attended College of Marin. He graduated in 1962 from the University of Nebraska.

Brooke Asks Easing Of Vote Requirements

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., wants to set a 30-day residency requirement for voters in elections for federal office.

Brooke introduced a bill to that effect Tuesday. He said that unless Congress acts there will be "injustice as millions of eligible voters seek to add their names to the voting rolls in time for the presidential primaries and general election next year."

Brooke said studies have shown that more than 5 million Americans were unable to vote in the 1968 presidential election because of restrictive residency requirements.

Mass Transit Gas Tax Backed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Rejecting opposition from the Reagan administration, an Assembly Committee has approved a bill which would impose a new sales tax on gasoline to raise $133 million for mass transit.

"We've built too damn many roads and we're dying from them," a committee member supporting the bill said.

The measure, by Sen. James Mills, D-San Diego, was sent to the Ways and Means Committee on a split voice vote of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Chemical Firm Cited In 7 Deaths

NIIGATA, Japan (UPI)— Niigata District Court today ruled that pollution from one of Japan's largest chemical plants caused the deaths of seven people from mercury poisoning.

The court ordered the Showa Denko Co. to pay damages of $820,000 to 77 persons in the pollution case. The plaintiffs had asked for nearly twice that amount.

SWEEPING VIEW

Of the Valley, Sausalito & San Francisco. We have an exciting typical Mill Valley home in a best weather area. Altho it has 3 plus bedrooms, 3 baths, a large formal dining room, it's just a bit different. One of the bedrooms and one bath are on the lower level, ideal for a maid, or an in-law or teen-ager. Let us show this $77,500 charmer.

LOVELY IMMACULATE HOME

We have one for sale with an asking price of $44,950. This would be a great rental at $375 per month or a total of $4,500 a year. Buy why rent? We can obtain an 80% loan & the owner will carry back a 10% second, if needed. So with 10% down plus closing costs, this home can be yours to buy instead of to rent. After the downpayment is made, & buyer takes title, the monthly payments on the loan & taxes will be approximately $383 a month, almost all of which is tax deductible. 3 bdrms., 2 baths, family room, all in excellent condition.

RICHARDSON BAY SANITARY DISTRICT
433 Town & Country Village
Mill Valley, Ca. 94941
NOTICE OF A SPECIAL MEETING
September 30, 1971

A special meeting of the sanitary board of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District has been called for by the president of the board. This meeting is to be held on Thursday, September 30, 1971, in conjunction with a meeting of the board of supervisors of the County of Marin to consider the possibility of consolidating all or a portion of the sewage collection and treatment functions in Marin County, with the two major water districts. The Richardson Bay Sanitary District may also at this time discuss and/or act upon the engineers recommendations with regard to the Little Reed Heights Home Owners Association's plan for odor control. The board also may reconsider actions taken on September 21 with regard to bids on the Bel-Aire intercepting sewer. This meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Thursday, September 30, 1971, in the board of supervisors chambers at the Civic Center.

By order of the President of the Sanitary Board
/s/ RUTH J. JACKSON

Nixon In Promise To Free POWs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Five hundred relatives of imprisoned and missing American servicemen stood and cheered in an emotional response Tuesday night when President Nixon promised the United States will "eventually succeed" in freeing their loved ones.

Nixon oade a surprise personal appearance before the second annual convention of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia. A few hours earlier, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., had told the relatives that American captives were "rotting" in prisons because the administration was too proud to negotiate with their Communist captors.

Nixon, however, strongly defended his policy.

"I can assure you that every negotiating channel —and now I say something here that I'm sure all of you will understand —including many private channels that have not yet been disclosed, have been pursued, are being pursued and will be pursued," the President said.

Nixon's appearance at a league banquet followed an afternoon business session at which the group pointedly warned the White House that its paitence was not endless. It strongly hinted that if progress is not made in freeing the POWs it would consider the possibility next spring of injecting the issue into the 1972 presidential election campaign.

Stokes-Backed Candidate Wins

CLEVELAND (UPI) — With the help of outgoing Mayor Carl B. Stokes, attorney James M. Carney upset the endorsed party candidate Tuesday to win the democratic mayorality primary.

Carney's victory almost assures that a Stokes-backed candidate will win the Nov. 2 general election.

Carney, on of the city's most prominent businessmen, polled an unofficial total of 74,031 votes to 60,141 for City Council President Anthony J. Garofoli, the endorsed candidate, and 6,149 for former Police Chief Patrick L. Gerity.

The Republicans nominated Cuyahoga County Auditor Ralph J. Perk who had 12,156 votes to state Rep. George V. Voinovich's 6,014. Perk lost to Stokes by only 3,500 votes in 1969.

Support For Fabricated Homes Plea

The Corte Madera Board of Design has expressed support but took no action on two applications proposing prefabricated homes in the community.

According to Elizabeth Long, board secretary, action on the two applications was continued so the applicants could gather additional data.

The first, she said, proposes three units of dwellings at Paradise and El Camino drives. It was referred back to the developer, Donald Presley of San Rafael, for additional information on landscaping and carports.

The second, and more controversial, was an application for a single-family dwelling on a hillside lot at 24 Summit Drive.

In August, residents of Christmas Tree Hill attempted unsuccessfully to block construction of the home with an appeal to the town council. None of the residents attended Monday night's meeting, Mrs. Long said.

The board, in reviewing proposed design of the home, referred the application back to owner William Filante of Kentfield for additional information on hillside elevations.

The board also approved a sidewalk addition at the entrance to the Corte Madera Post Office.

The action, requested by the post office, followed a resident's protest to the postmaster general that the building could only be entered by crossing a potentially dangerous driveway.

President Signs Draft Measure

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon, declaring it is still his goal to end the peacetime draft, signed a bill Tuesday extending military conscription to mid-1973 and giving servicemen a $2.4 billion pay raise — the largest in history.

But Nixon decreed the pay raise —intended to attract more volunteers to the services — could not take effect Friday as scheduled. He said it would have to be put off until his 90-day wage-price freeze ends in mid-November.

Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., indicated he would not fight the President's decision on the pay raise. He said it was a question "to be resolved by the lawyers downtown." Hebert earlier had insisted the raise go into effect on time and said he had a legal opinion which showed it would have to.

But Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, said the White House had a Justice Department opinion supporting Nixon's decision to hold up the pay boost until November.

Nixon said he hoped that "this is the last time the President must sign an extension of the draft induction authority."

"This administration is committed to achieving the reforms in military life as well as public support for our armed forces which will make possible an end to peacetime conscription," Nixon said.

The draft has been suspended since the old law expired June 30. Selective Service officials are expected to issue their first call under the new authority within a few days. Pentagon sources, however, have indicated calls will be light the remainder of the year and that no more than 19,500 men will be inducted during October, November and December.

The new draft authority provides for the phased elimination of student deferments and a switch from local and state quotas to a national call in the method of selecting men.

It provides that no student deferments will be issued to any registrant who had not been eligible for one during the past school year. If students receive induction notices, however, they will be permitted to finish the semester.

Reporter Takes Prison Interview Plea To Court

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A reporter for a weekly publication has filed a federal court suit demanding that she be allowed to interview San Quentin Prison inmates.

Alice D. Yarish, of San Anselmo, a reporter for the Pacific Sun Publishing Co. in Marin County, said prison authorities have repeatedly refused her permission to interview inmates in connection with the death of George Jackson Aug. 21 during an escape attempt.

U.S. District Court Judge Spencer Williams set a hearing for prison officials to explain why they do not want Miss Yarish to interview inmates, including Ruchell Magee, codefendant with Angela Davis in the Marin County Civic Center shootout.

Oil Swallowing Fatal To Eight

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Eight children died in the United States during the past three years from swallowing wintergreen oil.

Charles C. Edwards, Food and Drug Administration commissioner, gave the statistic Monday in proposing mandatory children-proof packaging for linaments and other liquids containing more than 5 per cent wintergreen oil.

Similar FDA children-proof packaging rules are pending for aspirin and furniture polishes containing 10 per cent or more petroleum distillates.

Cities, Counties Get State Tax Revenues

Amountsreceived by Marin County as well as cities in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties from the August apportionment of cigarette and highway users' tax funds have been announced by State Controller Houston I. Flournoy.

He also announced the second quarterly apportionment of revenues to cities from the highway carriers' uniform business license tax.

Sums received from the cigarette tax fund were: Marin County, $5,190; Belvedere, $507; Larkspur, $2,609; Ross, $504; Sausalito, $2,718; Corte Madera, $3,456; Mill Valley, $3,492; San Anselmo, $3,207; Tiburon, $1,769; Fairfax, $1,763; Novato, $7,874; San Rafael, $17,171; Petaluma, $7,860; Cotati, $514, and Rohnert Park, $1,522.

Highway use taxes amounts were: Marin County, $145,495; Belvedere, $2,313; Larkspur, $8,390; Ross, $2,419; Sausalito, $4,934; Corte Madera, $6,765; Mill Valley, $9,930; San Anselmo, $9,996; Tiburon, $4,972; Fairfax, $6,041; Novato, $23,964, and San Rafael, $29,102.

Cities received the following amounts from the uniform business license tax: Belvedere, $52, Corte Madera, $176; Fairfax, $148; Larkspur, $218; Mill Valley, $243; Novato, $652; Ross, $55; San Anselmo, $258; San Rafael, $750; Sausalito, $108; Tiburon, $105; Cotati, $30; Petaluma, $547, and Rohnert Park, $131.

She Really Wanted To Hear Teddy Speak

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Mrs. Shirlee George figured washing dishes for an expected 1,000 persons was worth hearing Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., speak at a $100-a-plate fund raising dinner.

So the 35-year-old housewife from suburban Oakmont wrote Allegheny County Democratic officials and offered to do the dishes because she couldn't afford a ticket.

Democratic officials said they were "intrigued" by her offer, but said she could pay for the ticket in monthly payments of $10.

Panel Nod To Lower Legal Age

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A key Senate committee yesterday overwhelmingly approved an Assembly-passed bill lowering the legal age of adulthood in California from 21 to 18 for virtually everything except drinking.

The measure by Assemblyman Paul Priolo, R-Pacific Palisades, cleared the Senate Judiciary Committee on a voice vote with Sen. Clark Bradley, R-San Jose, casting the only audible dissent.

He warned the legislation would go down in history as "one of the most miserable social experimentations this state has ever seen. The results will be horrendous."

He said 18-year-olds will leave school to marry, bear children, divorce and their offspring will join the welfare rolls and become involved in breaking the law.

Bradley said he had not received a single letter from an 18-year-old in support of the Priolo bill and asserted "I think we've shoving it down the throats of young people 18 to 21 on the premise that they want it."

The bill would reduce legal age of adulthood in California from a minimum 21 to 18. Eighteen-year-olds could serve on juries, become policemen, be tried in adult courts, and enjoy virtually every other privilege of adulthood—except that of drinking.

However, a separate measure to allow 18-year-olds to drink has passed the Assembly and is pending in the Senate.

Funeral Reform Bill Is Approved

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, proposing a measure of funeral "reform" was approved unanimously by the Assembly yesterday.

The bill would prohibit a crematory from requiring that human remains be cremated in a casket and would require funeral directors to provide a list of prices and fees before entering into an agreement or contract for funeral services.

Additionally, the bill would require a funeral director to "conspicuously" mark the price on each casket.

The measure was approved 51-0 and returned to the Senate for concurrence in Assembly changes.

Two Oil Spill Bills Are Dead

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Two Assembly-passed bills dealing with oil spills were killed Monday by the Senate Natural Resources and Wildlife Committee at the request of their author.

But the committee approved and sent to the Senate floor resolutions by Assemblyman W. Don MacGillivray, R-Santa Barbara, asking federal and state studies on preventing oil spills and development of contingency plans to handle spills.

Assemblywoman March Fong, D-Oakland, asked the committee to set aside two bills which she said were designed to "cut federal preemption in the field off at the pass."

San Rafael 4-H Seeks Members

The San Rafael Community 4-H Club will take applications for membership at a meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in Carpenters Hall, San Rafael.

Boys and girls 9 to 19 years old, interested in forestry, automotive projects, woodworking, electricity, photography, sewing, cooking, home furnishings and other types of projects are eligible to join the 4-H program.

Rita Beckner, president of the club, said anyone over 19 can apply to be a leader for the children.

She said all new members must have one parent or guardian with them when signing up.

Time Short For Bums; Top Astros

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Time is running out and the pressure is building for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Dodgers remained in the National League's Western Division race Tuesday night by beating the Houston Astros 2-1 on Maury Wills' eighth-inning single. But it didn't gain them any ground as San Francisco beat the San Diego Padres 7-1, keeping the Giants a game in front with two to go.

The Dodgers, who'll send 20-game winner Al Downing against young Ken Forsch (7-8) tonight, were completely stymied for five innings by Don Wilson, a surprise starter. Wilson retired the first 15 Dodgers he faced before Duke Sims led off the sixth with a homer to tie the score at 1-1. Bobby Valentine walked with one out in the eighth, took second on winning pitcher Bill Singer's sacrifice and scored the winning run on Wills' single off shortstop Roger Metzger's glove.

"I was pushing the ball," said Wills, "hoping it had enough on it to get through. I like being the guy in the payoff spot. I have confidence in my ability. We watched the message board during the game and we knew we had to win."

"I'm glad he's on our side," said Manager Walter Alston. "It seems as though the tighter the situation is, the better he is." Alston also praised Singer, who like Wilson pitched a three-hitter. "Singer has had an injury season but he's come through in two key games, one against the Giants and now against Houston."

Singer, counted on as the Dodgers' ace but belabored by arm injuries, was pleased with his clutch performance. "I'm glad I was able to come through when it counted," he said. "I had good control and my fast ball, slider and curve all worked well."

Should the race end in a tie, it will be decided by a one-game playoff on Friday. The winner faces the Pittsburgh Pirates for the National League pennant.

Elsewhere in the NL, Montreal edged Chicago 5-4, Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh 6-3, Atlanta shut out Cincinnati 4-0 and St. Louis downed New York 5-2.

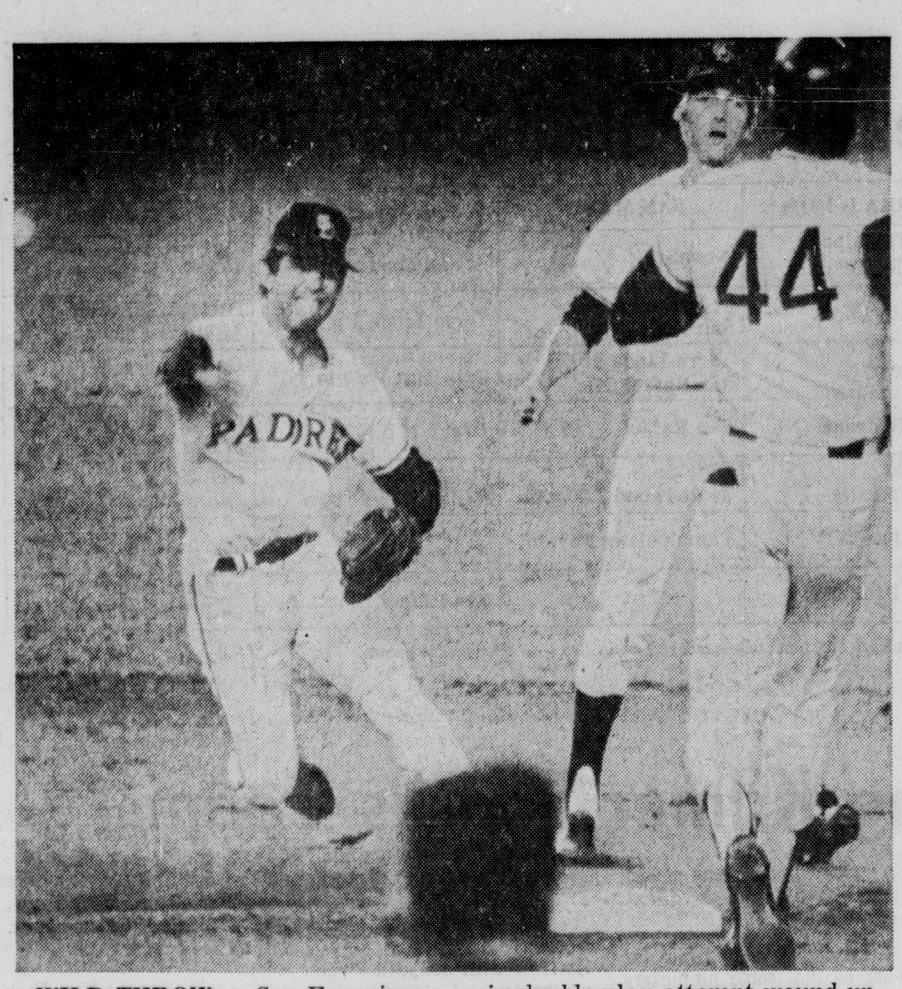
Baltimore swept Boston 10-2 and 5-4, California stopped Minnesota 6-2, Milwaukee edged Chicago 3-2, Washington defeated New York 4-2, Oakland shaded Kansas City 2-1 and Cleveland nipped Detroit 8-7 in the completion of a suspended game before dropping the regularly scheduled game 4-2 in the American League.

Rusty Staub's one-out single in the bottom of the ninth scored winning pitcher Ernie McAnally with the winning run that enabled the Expos to beat Chicago.

Deron Johnson and Greg Luzinski each hit two-run homers to lift the Phils over Pittsburgh. The homers foiled Dock Ellis' bid to become a 20-game winner and enabled Rick Wise to post his 17th victory.

Phil Niekro pitched a three-hitter and Ralph Garr ran his hitting streak to 22 games in the Braves' victory over Cincinnati. Garr had two hits, scored one run and drove in another and rookie Earl Williams had two runs batted in.

Steve Carlton, who lost 19 games last season, scattered seven hits to become a 20-game winner this year in the Cardinals' triumph over the Mets. Ted Simmons knocked in two runs during a three-run first inning.



WILD THROW — San Francisco Giants' Willie McCovey was out at second on this force play last night, but San Diego shortstop Enzo Hernandez' throw to first in double-play attempt wound up in the dugout and two runs scored to start the Giants off to a 7-1 victory. Watching is San Diego second baseman Don Mason.

S.F. Bops Pads; Still Game Up

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Young lefthander John Cumberland hopes to follow San Francisco rookie Chris Speier in the hero's role tonight as the Giants shoot for a possible National League Western Division pennant clincher against the San Diego Padres.

Speier's three-run homer and the seven-hit pitching of veteran Gaylord Perry gave the Giants a 7-1 win over the Padres Tuesday and kept them one game ahead of the Los Angeles Dodgers with only two to play.

"The Padres are only 10-18 against lefthanders," manager Charlie Fox pointed out hopefully in selecting the 24-year-old Cumberland (9-6) to pitch the key contest.

"He has all the pitches and good control," said catcher Dick Dietz.

His opponent, hard-throwing Clay Kirby (14-13), tossed a one hitter in downing the Giants 2-1 the last time he faced them.

Told that Padres' pilot Preston Gomez predicted Perry would be in the bullpen Thursday, Perry said:

"I'd rather be there tomorrow (Wednesday) night. I never pitch well on the second day afterwards."

The 14-year veteran survived a rocky start and then coasted to victory with only one more trouble inning to run his record to 16-12.

Enzo Hernandez led off the first with a single for San Diego, moved to second on a wild pitch, to third on a passed ball, and scored on a long fly to left by Nate Colbert.

"I couldn't get the ball down at first, but I worked hard and Dietz kept on me," Perry said.

The Padres loaded the bases in the fifth but failed to score when a hot grounder by pitcher Ed Acosta resulted in Garry Jestadt being cut down at the plate with only one out.

Acosta, 0-for-17 batting this season, was bombed for four runs including Speier's blast the next inning. He had a 3-hitter and was trailing only 2-1 until then.

Willie McCovey doubled to the off field with one out in the sixth and Dietz was purposely passed after Bobby Bonds grounded to short. Alan Gallagher fouled up the Padre strategy by singling a 3-2 fast-ball to right to score McCovey. Speier followed with his eighth homer and it was all over.

Speier revealed he had tried to call time before his clout but umpire Dick Stello failed to hear him.

"I had to hang in there," he said. "I hit a low fastball about as hard as I ever hit a ball."

The Giants first two runs off the rookie Acosta came in the initial inning when Tito Fuentes singled with one out, Willie Mays and McCovey walked, and the first two scored when Hernandez overthrew first on a potential doubleplay grounder hit by Bonds.

The Giants other run came in the seventh when Ken Henderson was hit by a pitch, stole second, went to third on a sacrifice, and scored on McCovey's grounder to deep second.

"We have a good chance to win Wednesday," Gomez said. "If Kirby pitches his ball game, we can beat this club."

WIN 100TH

Hunter Sharp In Final Tuneup Before 769

OAKLAND (UPI) —Vida Blue and Jim Hunter have showed they are ready for the American League playoffs and now it's Chuck Dobson's turn.

Blue turned in a seven inning three-hit shutout in his final tuneup Sunday and Hunter matched it exactly Tuesday as the Oakland A's beat the Kansas City Royals, 2-1, for their 100th victory of the season.

Dobson, who will follow Blue and Hunter in the playoffs against the Baltimore Orioles, has his final tuneup today when the A's conclude the regular season against the Royals.

Hunter gave up meaningless singles to Lou Piniella in the second and Paul Schaal in the fourth but Schaal reached him for a bases-empty homer in the sixth for the Royals' only run of Tuesday afternoon's game, played in only one hour and 35 minutes and before the smallest crowd of the year — 769 in-person fans.

Meanwhile Reggie Jackson, closing in on the A.L. homer title, and Mike Epstein, winding up a miserable second half of the season, hit bases-empty homers to provide Hunter and his relievers, Rollie Fingers and Darold Knowles, all the help they needed.

Jackson's homer was his 32nd and undoubtedly clinched the homer title. Epstein hit his 19th in the seventh to break a 1-1 tie. It was Mike's 10th game winning hit of the season, but it didn't make up for what he called "a lousy second half."

Hunter, as might be expected, was pleased with his performance, and well he might be. Jim threw only 71 pitches in the seven innings he worked and besides the three hits he struck out five and walked only one man in notching his 21st victory compared to 11 losses.

"When I have my stuff, as I did in this game," said Hunter, "it's usually a fast game."

Reminded that he will face Mike Cuellar in the second game of the playoffs, Hunter, a good hitting pitcher, said:

"I've had a few hits off him. I don't mind going against him."

Asked if there was any particular player in the Orioles lineup who bothered him, Hunter said "all of them," although he admitted he usually has good luck against Frank Robinson.

"I challenge Frank," said Hunter, "and he knows it, so it's always an interesting battle."

No question in Hunter's mind that pitching against Baltimore in the playoffs will be the biggest assignment of his seven-year big league career.

"It'll be the most important game I've ever pitched," he said, "I'm really looking forward to it."

Mike Hedlund, who went the distance and gave up only three hits, was Kansas City is loser. He's now 15-8. The only other hit off him besides the Jackson and Epstein homers was an eighth inning single by Bert Campaneris.

"He showed me he's ready," said Williams. "What impressed me was the effortless way in which he worked. I'm also happy to see his earned run average go under 3.00." Hunter went into the game with an era of 3.00 even in 312 innings and 39 games.

With the Orioles scheduled to start Dave McNally and Cuellar, both lefthanders, in the first two games, Williams said that Angel Mangual will play in center instead of Rick Monday and Tommy Davis will be at first in place of Epstein.

Epstein, naturally, is disappointed that he won't play in the first two games but said he understood perfectly.

"Heck, Davis is hitting .320," he said, "and that's a whole lot better than my average (.235), so I have no complaints. Williams gave me all the chances in the world but I simply didn't have a good second half. The important thing is to win the playoffs and series and maybe I can still help."

Tuesday's game was the fastest played (in time) this year and the attendance was the smallest since the A's moved west in 1968. However, the 100th victory gave them a total no A's team has been able to reach since 1931, when the club, then based in Philadelphia, won 107 games in a 15-4-game season.

Johnson Salary Freed

Johnson, 28, won his case against baseball Tuesday when a three-man panel in New York ruled he was improperly placed on the "restricted list" June 26 by the California Angels.

"He should have gone on the disabled list and not been suspended," was Arbitrator Lewis M. Gill's historic ruling. Back pay totaling $29,970 was ordered restored to Johnson, who won the American League batting crown with a .329 average in 1970.

The Angels fined Johnson and suspended him June 26 for "lack of hustle." The panel ruled the fines will stand but said it was its opinion, based on two psychiatrist's reports, that emotional factors were involved in the left-fielder's inability to perform.

"I didn't feel like playing baseball on a major league level," Johnson said after the decision was announced. "I didn't feel that this year existed. I didn't feel the spirit, and you're cheating the fans if you can't play your best.

"The season's over now," he said. "I'll have to wait and see what the California Angels will do with my contract.

San Rafael Wallops San Marin

San Rafael High School's soccer team got off to a fast start in the Marin County Athletic League race yesterday by blanking San Marin, 4-0 in Novato.

In other league openers yesterday, Tamalpais edged Novato, 3-2 in Mill Valley; Drake and Redwood tied 2-2 in San Anselmo, and Terra Linda tied Marin Catholic 1-1 in Kentfield.

Rick Larsen and Rolf Bell scored for Drake and Redwood's Dave Harvard hit the net twice. Bill Aaker scored for Terra Linda and Dave Stealy for Marin Catholic in that other tie game.

FIFTH YEAR

Braves Keep Harris; Vows Contender

ATLANTA (UPI) — Luman Harris was rehired today for a fifth season as manager of the Atlanta Braves, and club president Bill Bartholomay said "I have no doubt that next year's club should be a definite contender."

Harris' status has been in doubt since early in the season when Atlanta fans booed him frequently. The club was playing well below .500 last June but rallied behind a group of young players to finish in third place in the National League's Western division.

"Only 10 more victories would have made the Braves best in the West this season," said Bartholomay, who noted that Harris worked through the 1971 season in difficult situations.

"It is a fact that this year's Braves were in the pennant race until the last week of the season," Bartholomay said.

The club president pointed out that last year's major league batting champion, Rico Carty, was out all season with a leg injury, first baseman Orlando Cepeda missed half the season with a bad knee, and third baseman Clete Boyer quit early in the season.

"I feel great," said Harris, after Bartholomay announced he was being retained.

Harris, 56, an Alabama native who pitched for the old Philadelphia A's in the American League during the 1940s, directed the Braves to the Western Division title in 1969, his second year as Braves manager. The Braves finished fifth in 1970.

"We will have the best material next year since the Braves have been in Atlanta," Harris said. He indicated that the most work in the off-season would be with the pitching staff, which was inconsistent in 1971.

The pitching staff will be ordered to spring training probably three weeks earlier than the rest of the team, Harris said, "to see if we can't straighten it out."

Bartholomay said Harris' new contract is for one year. He said no changes would be announced in the coaching staff until he could discuss it with Harris and general manager Paul Richards.

COAST FOOTBALL

Stanford Wary Of Duke Defense

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Trouble from an unexpected source looms for Stanford against Duke Saturday, for coach John Ralston of the 3-0 Indians hardly anticipated an unbeaten foe when the game was scheduled a few years ago.

"We didn't think they'd be that tough when the schedule was drawn up," Ralston told Bay Area football writers at Tuesday's weekly luncheon.

"Now we're playing a team that's 3-0 and has allowed only 18 points," added the Stanford skipper. "But we'll be ready—we're not looking ahead to Washington —because we're getting a lot of our injured players back."

Recalling Saturday's 38-17 win over Oregon, Ralston said: "It was 17-7 at the half and they suffered a letdown when Dan Fouts (knee injury) didn't come back for the second half.

"But Fouts and Bobby Moore are everything everyone says," the coach concluded. "Oregon is a more physical team than in the past and it might have been different if Fouts hadn't been hurt."

California's Ray Willsey, whose team plays Ohio State at Columbus Saturday, expects the Buckeyes to be plenty tough following their 20-14 loss to Colorado.

"I'm sure Ohio State is anxious to bounce back after that," Willsey offered. "It was one great game —one of the best I've ever seen on film.

"Ohio State had a chance to win at the finish, but wasn't able to pull it out —either because of mistakes or the officiating," added Willsey, referring to Woody Hayes' blast at the officials.

Cal, 2-1 following Saturday's 34-10 romp over San Jose State, hopes "to pass better and mix up the offense to keep Ohio State off balance," said Willsey. "That has to happen because we can't run the option like Colorado."

Willsey praised the Bears defense, saying guard O. Z. White "is now hitting full stride," and adding that tackle Sherm White and cornerback Clarence Duren, a J. C. transfer, also excelled against the Spartans.

Stanford quarterback Don Bunce was named university offensive player of the week for the second time this season after completing 12 to 24 passes for 262 yards and three TDs and adding a scoring run against Oregon.

Linebackers Jeff Siemon of Stanford and Bill Brown of San Jose State shared defensive honors. College laurels went to St. Mary's linebacker Don Hensic and USF quarterback Ron Centerwall, who passed for a school-record 318 yards.

Wyoming Gridders Hearing Finished

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI)— U.S. District Court Judge Erwing Kerr closed out a two-day hearing Tuesday in the case of 14 black athletes who said their right of free speech was denied when they were dismissed from the Wyoming University football team in 1969.

Former Wyoming coach Lloyd Eaton dismissed the blacks when they announced their intention to wear black armbands at a game against Brigham Young University. They said they wanted to protest "racist" policies of the Mormon Church.

Kerr gave both sides in the case 10 days to file proposed findings of fact and law.

Eaton, now a pro football talent scout, testified the black players were aware at the time of the incident of a rule forbidding participation in demonstrations. He said they violated that rule Oct. 17, 1969, when they walked across campus wearing their black armbands.

Eaton said the rule was issued to prevent players from getting hurt in demonstrations and because he was afraid team morale would suffer if the athletes began splitting into factions.

When the black athletes walked into his office, Eaton said, he told them it was difficult to understand how they could demonstrate against a religion they knew nothing about.

"There was nothing to discuss," Eaton said. "The rule was clear. They came in as a group wearing armbands. As far as we were concerned, this was a group demonstration."

Giant Boosters Aid Team Spirit On Road

SAN DIEGO — When the Giants arrived in Houston for the start of their final 1971 road trip, a band of their most loyal supporters awaited them. Maybe some others may doubt the ability of the Giants to set things right but not their faithful road runners.

The road running fans of the Candlestick Kids are more formally known as the Northern California Giants Boosters Club. Sixty of them flew into Houston on a chartered plane a couple of hours in advance of the baseball team.

THEY WERE waiting in the lobby of the hotel where the Giants make their Houston headquarters, just a five-minute bus ride to the Astrodome. There were no ill-mannered efforts to buttonhole players for autographs. And there were no rah-rah shouts from the road runners.

It was kind of strange, not the fact that there were no autograph requests. The road runners are well mannered. They know there is an autograph signing time set aside for them during each trip they make. It's called a Coffee Klatch, usually held on the final day of each trip.

IT WAS DIFFICULT to pinpoint the reason for the silent meeting of the road runners and the Giants at the outset of this all-important nine-game trip of the team. There should have been at least one or two encouraging shouts of "Go get 'em," "You can do it." But there wasn't one.

Even Allan Murray of San Rafael, president of the road runners, sat on a sofa across the lobby as the team entered and it wasn't until almost all of the players had picked up their keys and headed toward their rooms that Murray joined his loyal band.

TO BE SURE, the Giants themselves were under the pressure of a stretch run for the division flag in the National League West with only a 1½-game lead after being comfortably in front 8½ on Sept. 4.

But surely the road runners were not responsible for the team's September slide. They weren't on that last road trip when the Giants went into a seven-game skid early in the month, their longest losing streak of the season.

So why the strangely silent meeting of the loyal band from northern California and the team? Somebody suggested it could be traced to a recent magazine piece about the road runners. It was written by Mill Valley author Charles Einstein.

IT WAS A fun piece about baseball's most traveled rooters, a sort of two-edged scalpel operation on them. They were pictured as a fun-loving group which they certainly are. But they also were pictured as a jinx to the team. The magazine piece recalled an early season series of losses in Montreal when the road runners were present. And there were other road losses indirectly attributed to the road runners.

A segment of front office brass in Candlestick Park really believes the negative nature of the magazine piece. Ridiculous. The Giants may need some loyal friends in 1972 if they don't bring in a winner on this final road trip of 1971.

REDSKIN SUB

Surprising Kilmer Sparks Team

NEW YORK (UPI)—Poor Billy Kilmer, He has trouble satisfying some people.

To begin with, when Sonny Jurgensen, Washington's regular quarterback, first busted up his shoulder George Allen, the Redskins' coach, put on this big long face and talked about how the ball club would have to settle for less.

"Six, seven or eight victories would be something without Sonny," Allen said, getting in his alibi early.

So far the Redskins haven't missed Jurgensen that much. Kilmer has been doing okay. Last Sunday he flipped a pair of touchdown passes against the Giants, hit on 23 of 32 tosses for 309 yards without being picked off and called an excellent game.

Instead of crediting him for what he did, some nit-pickers pointed out that the only reason he did so well was because the Giants' cornerbacks were playing off Charlie Taylor and Roy Jefferson.

"He's no Jurgensen and never will be," I heard one guy say to another Sunday after Kilmer steered the Redskins to their 30-3 runaway over the Giants.

Kilmer doesn't pretend to be another Jurgensen. All Kilmer is trying to do is be himself.

"I know Sonny is gonna come back but I can't worry about that," he says. "I gotta run the team. Sonny and I are friends; he has helped me a lot and I'm proud to be on the same team as he is. When he comes back, if the coach wants him to play, he'll play; if the coach wants me to play, I'll play. That's all there is to it."

Not quite.

There's this Sunday's game in Dallas. The Cowboys have won their first two games the same way as the Redskins and Sunday's winner takes over the NFC's Eastern Division lead.

I say the nit-pickers should get off Kilmer's back because he's doing the best he can and up to now it has been pretty good.

Sunday should be a little different though. The Cowboys have too much depth. They'll beat the Redskins.

In the other games, my choices are:

Detroit over Atlanta—Who ever beats the Lions at home? Besides, the way the Rams tied them last Sunday had to take something out of the Falcons.

Cincinnati over Green Bay — The Bengals didn't look good at all against the Steelers. They'll look better against the Packers. Paul Brown already has seen to that.

New England over Baltimore —The Patriots are an up-and-down ball club and this Sunday I think they're due up.

Pittsburgh over San Diego — Against the Raiders the Chargers performed more like the Rangoon Rinkydinks.

Kansas City over Denver — Hank Stram keeps drumming it into the Chiefs they have to win these early ones also.

New Orleans over Houston — Oilers offense looks as if it needs a grease job.

San Francisco over Philadelphia —The Forty-Niners have the better offense and defense. Also the better quarterback. Did I leave anything out?

St. Louis over the New York Giants —Not much to choose between these two but whatever there is, I choose the Cards.

Monday night

San Rafael Net Title Meet Set At Albert Park

The San Rafael Doubles Tennis Championships will be held Oct. 15-17 and Oct. 22-24 at Albert Park, featuring men's, women's and mixed competition.

All Marin County residents 19 years or over, as of Dec. 31, are eligible to sign up with the Parks Recreation Department in City Hall, 1400 - Fifth St. before the Oct. 8, 5 p.m. deadline.

Women's doubles will be played on the two Fridays, while the men's and mixed contests will be held both Saturdays and Sundays.

In addition, first round losers will vie in a consolation tournament.

SWARTZ PROGRAM

Senior Swim Program Set

Don Swartz, 25, introduced his "Senior Swimming" program for "people of at least college age" to be held Mondays through Thursdays in San Rafael High School pool beginning Oct. 11 at 7 p.m.

The $10 monthly fee will include 16, one-hour practice sessions and all equipment, sans trunks and towels.

"Let's face it," Swartz candidly pointed out, "we're here to produce competitive swimmers, but we also owe something to the people here."

By providing this year-round physical fitness program, Swartz hoped to fulfill both aims.

"There is a real need in this county for such a program, because Marin has no public swimming pool. You can jog or lift weights the year round, but, up to now, there was no opportunity to swim all the time."

He added that "senior swimming" should nullify that deficiency — and one more.

"Jogging and weight lifting are done pretty much by individuals alone, but this program will lend a social aspect. You will be exercising and swimming laps with other people. This should make the undertaking fun, not boring. By getting together in a group, it gives people something to look forward to," Swartz explained.

Swartz termed the project "a fun way" to keep fit, while strengthening the all-important cardio-vascular system or heart area. "We want to enhance the heart's ability to maintain normal functions. To do so, we offer swimming laps to reduce bodily weight and fat, which puts undesired strain on the heart, particularly when people get older," he continued.

In discussing age, Swartz stressed that competitive zeal is not necessarily tempered by mounting years. "We don't want people 25-34 swimming against some others much older," he commented, "we let them swim against those in their own age bracket."

Though a recognized innovator in his own right, Swartz admitted he did not originate this competitive and social program for fitness.

"When I was with my team at the National AAU Swimming championships at Houston, Tex. on Aug. 25, I was told about it by Jim Counsilman," Indiana University swimming coach.

"He and those like him," like actor-swimmer Buster Crabbe and University of Southern California aqua team leader Pete Daland, "wanted to find a way for ex-competitive champions to keep in shape. And this is what they came up with."

The Connecticut product came west with his parents after his college days and obtained a post with the Ladera Oaks Recreation Department in Menlo Park, thence the Ladera Oaks Aquatic Club.

Prior to his 1969 Marin County arrival, Swartz headed the Davis Aquadarts, his first-ever headman job.

His debut in coaching came by accident. After competing rigorously in swimming, skiing, football and lacrosse, he underwent a spinal fusion operation, which relegated him to braces for eight months; it also ended his athletic career at age 20 . . almost.

"I still wanted to stay close to sports," Swartz recalled, "so I decided on being a coach."

Marin Soccer Team Loses By 2-0 Count

Former San Rafael High All-Leaguer Bill Mejia scored both Don goals.

Senate Attacks Exemption Clause

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sens. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., and Williams B. Spong, D-Va., introduced legislation Tuesday that would remove Baseball's exemption from the antitrust laws.

In a Senate speech, Magnuson said the decision of the America League to shift the Washington franchise to Texas and the Seattle franchise to Milwaukee "requires Congress to review the reasons for baseball's favored sport status."

Magnuson said the bill was introduced "to compel baseball to operate subject to the antitrust laws, and to remove the judicially imposed advantage that baseball has over similar team sports—football, basketball, and hockey—which are not now exempt from the antitrust laws.

"It is apparent that the nature of baseball has changed dramatically since organized baseball received antitrust exemption," Magnuson added.

"It is our feeling that all aspects of baseball—including radio and TV contracts, concessions, player-management relations, and all other relevant factors — should be reviewed in order to determine the wisdom of continuing to exempt baseball from antitrust laws."

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Small Boat Owner Gets Representation

Is the small boat operator truly represented by any organization in the United States?

Are there any groups which will keep the average man informed of trends and influences in boating, and will report to him on the creeping bureaucracy which is tending to engulf the American boater in new rules, regulations and restrictions on his sport?

There are a couple of groups which fall into this category. One of them is Boat Owners Association of the U.S. (Boat/U.S.), based in Washington, which also provides insurance and financing programs for pleasure craft operators. The other is called the Boat Owners Council of America (BOCA) and is based in Chicago.

BOCA is a non-profit organization designed for the man who doesn't belong to any other group. It's for the unorganized or the anti-organization boat owner.

The Council gets financial support from the Boating Industry Association, which naturally has a small axe to grind. This group, which represents manufacturers of boats, outboards and other boating equipment, wants to keep boating the free, growing sport it is and to keep its devotees buying their products. This is not bad.

It costs $5 a year to belong to BOCA, and members get a kit containing legislative handbooks, safety materials and identifying pennants. They are kept abreast of developments by newsletters and a color magazine called "WaterSport" which contains no advertising.

BOCA keeps a man permanently in Washington to watch for developments affecting the nation's boaters. It also keeps an eye on state legislatures because every state always has some kind of restrictive boating legislation under consideration.

Membership is 30,000 now and is steadily increasing. Every boater should join.

There is considerable confusion in the minds of many boaters about boating organizations and groups and their functions as demonstrated by some of the letters I've received this year:

Q. My state doesn't have much water, where can I get free boating lessons?

A. Write to United States Power Squadrons, Box 345, Montvale, N.J., 07645, for the location of the Power Squadron closest to you. You'll find one even in the desert.

Does the Coast Guard set the rules for speedboat racing?

A. No. If you have aspirations of becoming a racing boat driver write to the American Power Boat Association, 415 Burns Drive, Detroit, Michigan, 48214.

Q. Who enforces the boating laws in Pennsylvania?

A. On Lake Erie, the Coast Guard. On the state's other waters, officers of the Fish and Game Commission. For full information write to the commission at Box 1673, Harrisburg Pa., 17120.

Q. Is the Power Squadron movement international. Would it be helpful in an overseas cruise?

A. Only Canada has a Power Squadrons organization like the USPS. In fact you can hardly tell them apart. Yacht club affiliations are more useful for cruises to the Bahamas, Mexico, Britain or Europe.

Q. Where can I get help in forming a boating club with emphasis on water skiing?

A. Write to the Outboard Boating Club of America, 333 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Illinois, 60601. This is an organization affiliated with the Boat Owners Council we mentioned earlier. It is very helpful.

Q. How can I get connected with the Coast Guard Auxiliary on the West Coast?

A. Write to the Commanding Officer of the Thirteenth Coast Guard District, 618 2nd Ave., Seattle, Wash., 98104, and ask for the closest "flotilla." That's what they call a unit of the auxiliary. It is not a police organization in any respect. The Auxiliary is a volunteer group of private boaters, or yachtsmen, banded together to augment this important branch of public service.

Q. I have had a ship to shore radio for some time, now I discover I have to get a license . . . Where?

A. You need TWO licenses . . . one for the station and one for the operator. Get forms FCC 501 and FCC 753 from the closest field office building in your state capital, or you can apply directly to the FCC ships licenses division, Washington, D.C. Fill in the forms and return them to the Washington address.

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depts are always additive to the chart depts unless preceded by a (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Skillful Alou Brothers Come To Play

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Alou brothers have never run into the kind of trouble Alex Johnson did.

They come to play.

Anytime or anyplace. It doesn't matter where —San Francisco, St. Louis, Houston, Pittsburgh, Atlanta, Oakland, New York or the Domican Republic which is where Felipe, Matty and Jesus come from and where they are regarded the same way the DiMaggio brothers are here.

You ask Felipe Alou which of the three Alous he considers the best ballplayer and he gives the question considerable thought.

"To be honest," he says, "I think I have the most ability. Matty is the best hitter. He has more guts and confidence than Jesus and I put together, but Jesus is the most professional of all three."

No one in baseball today really is more professional than Felipe Alou. At 36 he's the oldest of the three Alous, he is more or less the spokesman for them and he plays for the New York Yankees. In this day and age when so many ballplayers have one kind of beef or another, meet Felipe Alou, the exception. Speaking for his brothers as well as himself, he says, "we have a lot to be grateful for. This country opened a big door for us."

Felipe Alou is finishing his 14th season in the majors during which he put in six years with the Giants, six with the Braves, and one with the A's last season before they dealt him to the Yanks.

He thought he did a good job last year with the A's, hitting .271 for them in 154 games, and it shook him up when they suddenly traded him to New York. It shook him up so much he nearly quit.

"I was very sensitive about being traded until I was traded by Oakland. From then on I think I became very insensitive. So if I'm traded again this time ..."

Felipe Alou shrugs. That shouldn't be taken to mean he doesn't care. He does.

"To me the most rewarding thing out of all my time in baseball has not come from anything on the field," he says. "To me the most rewarding thing has been that we —the Alou family —became somebody in the United States as well as in the Dominican Republic. That is what means the most to me. We want to go through baseball without any trouble. We wish the Alou brothers not only to be good ballplayers, but to be good citizens and to set an example for the Dominican people."

The Alous can relax. They already have set a fine example.

There is a fourth brother, Juan, who is the youngest. He's 24 and a civil engineer working for the government in Puerto Rico.

"He can always give me a job if I need it," says Felipe, who has done an excellent job for the Yankees all year long and is hitting .286 for them now.

The 32-year-old Matty, traded to St. Louis by Pittsburgh last winter, is doing the best of all. He's hitting .315, while the 29year-old Jesus is at .278 with Houston.

"I think Matty is the favorite with my mother because he's the smallest," says Felipe. "My mother never worries about our averages. All she ever wants to know is whether we're healthy. My father is different. He wants to know the averages."

When the three Alous finish here they generally head back for the Dominican Republic where they play in the same outfield for the Escogidas club in the Winter League. They always hit 1-2-3 in the batting order. Matty has led the Dominican League in hitting three times, Felipe twice and Jesus once.

Originally all three were with the San Francisco Giants and they got to play together in one game for them.

Felipe Alou is the type who doesn't generally say much but he did speak up back in 1963 when Alvin Dark, managing the Giants then, sent Matty back to the minors while he was nursing a bad knee.

"He's a good ballplayer," Felipe argued with Dark. "Why are you sending him to Tacoma? You should send him to a hospital instead."

It didn't do any good. Felipe Alou remembers Alvin Dark's answer.

"He told me to look after myself. He said for me not to worry about another ballplayer even if that other ballplayer was my brother."

Alvin Dark doesn't understand about brothers.

Not the Alou brothers, anyway.

Each bid shall be in accordance with the plans and specifications, and other contract documents now on file in the San Rafael City Hall, Room 204, 1400 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, California, where they may be examined and where copies may be obtained upon deposit of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) per set, twenty-five dollars ($25.00) of which deposit will be refunded upon the return of such sets in good condition within ten (10) days after the bids are opened.

Bidders are hereby notified that pursuant to Sections 1770 to 1781 of the Labor Code of the State of California, the District Board of the San Rafael Sanitation District, Marin County, California, has ascertained the general prevailing rate of hourly wages and rates for legal holidays, and overtime work in the locality where this work is to be performed, for each craft or type of workmen or mechanic needed to execute the contract which will be awarded the successful bidder. The prevailing rates so determined by the District are as follows: Wage Scale Classifications are all on file in the District Administrator's Office, 1400 Fifth Avenue, (Room 301), San Rafael, California.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded and upon any subcontractor under him, to pay not less than the said specified rates to all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by them in the execution of the contract.

Notice is also hereby given that all bidders may be required to furnish a sworn statement of their financial responsibility, technical ability and experience before award is made to any particular bidder.

Each bid shall set forth the name, location of place of business, and portion of the work that will be done by each sub-contractor in the amount exceeding 1/2% of the total bid.

Each bid shall be made out on a form contained in the specifications and shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or bid bond for not less than ten percent (10%) of the amount of the bid, made payable to the order of the San Rafael Sanitation District; shall be sealed and filed with the District Engineer, Room 301, San Rafael City Hall, 1400 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, California, on or before the 4th day of October, 1971, at 4:00 o'clock P.M. where they will be opened and publicly read aloud.

The above mentioned check or bond shall be given as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into the contract if awarded to him, and will be declared forfeited if the successful bidder refuses to enter into said contract after being notified so to do by the San Rafael Sanitation District, Marin County, California.

The District reserves the right to reject any or all bids or waive an informality in a bid.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty (30) days after the date set for the opening thereof.

By order of the District Board of the San Rafael Sanitation District made the 8th day of September, 1971.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current regular price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wear-Out Allowance
Primero 35,000 miles WTO/Radial 40,000 miles	Prorated on Miles Driven

Andretti Out Of Grand Prix

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. — Defending champion Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil drove a Lotus Tuesday to the fastest time in unofficial practice for the $267,000 United States Grand Prix.

However, the U.S. Grand Prix lost one of its brightest attractions when Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., announced he was forced to drive in the USAC's Marlboro 300 instead of participating at Watkins Glen. Mark Donohue had previously said he would pass up the Grand Prix for the Marlboro 300, which was postponed last Sunday because of rain. Fittipaldi averaged 125.69 MPH.

Track

BERKELEY — Former NCAA sprint champion Eddie Hart has been hired as a graduate assistant at California to aide head track coach Dave Maggard. Hart, by taking the graduate assistant position, is clear to continue training for next year's olympics. He replaces full-time assistant coach Charlie Craig, who resigned to take an administrative position at Cal-State Bakersfield.

Drag Racing

FREMONT — Don Garlits, best and oldest of the top drag racers, will be in action in the $100,000 American Hot Rod Association world final drag meet Friday through Sunday at Fremont Raceway.

The 39-year-old Garlits has won seven national titles in 20 years and recently became the first racer in history to cover the standing quarter mile in less than 6.30 seconds. He did it three times and hit 6.21 in the process.

Tennis

PHOENIX, ARIZ. —Billie Jean King, seeking to become the first woman athlete to earn more than $100,000 in a year, easily won her first round match Tuesday night in the $18,000 Virginia Slims Thunderbird Tennis tournament.

Mrs. King, top-seeded, downed Betty Ann Hansen 6-2, 6-2. Mrs. King needs only about $2,000 to go over the $100,000 mark.

In other action Tuesday, fourth-seeded Kerry Melville defeated Pat Cody, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1; No. 5 July Dalton beat Stephanie Tolleson 6-4, 6-1 and eighth-seeded Helen Gourlay stopped Becky West, 6-3, 7-6.

Baseball

SAN FRANCISCO — Mayoral candidate Harold Dobbs, who helped bring major league baseball to San Francisco, has put up an incentive to help the San Francisco Giants in their all-important series with the San Diego Padres. With the consent of Giant management, Dobbs Tuesday posted a $500 reward for the winning pitcher and the man driving in the winning run for every Giant victory in the three-game series with the Padres.

Softball Champs

MacArthur's Pub defeated the W.E. Joost team, 7-2 last night to win the C-I League championship of the San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball program. Lorry Galassi hit a three-run homer to highlight the game, played at Albert Park.

Hunter Safety Course To Start

A new, hunter safety course will be presented starting Monday at 7 p.m. on the San Rafael Police Department pistol range.

Steve White, a state-certified hunting safety instructor, will teach the course to those 12 years old and over who pay the $5 fee for the 10-week program.

"Completion of this course is required to get a state hunting license," White said.

TACKLING FUROR

Tom Denies Hitting Staubach With Cheapee

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Mel Tom, Philadelphia Eagles' defensive end, today denied he hit Dallas' Roger Staubach with a "cheap shot" after the Cowboys' quarterback had thrown an interception in last Sunday's game here.

Several Cowboy players complained after seeing films of the game, which Dallas won 42-7, that Tom slugged Staubach seven seconds after he had thrown the interception in the opening minutes of the game.

Staubach was knocked groggy and had to be replaced by Craig Morton. He came back after the Cowboys regained possession but had to leave again when he couldn't remember signals and did not return.

Tom said he didn't deny hitting Staubach but it was "just as a block."

"I've never done anything dirty in my playing career and this wasn't dirty," Tom said.

Tom said that when the Eagles'

Bill Bradley intercepted the pass, "e became the offensive team and I was blocking" Staubach.

"When there is an interception, the defensive team becomes the offensive team," Tom said.

"If he wasn't aware of myself coming, it's his fault," he added. "When you don't know it's coming, it really hurts," Tom said.

The Cowboys' offensive guard Ralph Neely said in Dallas he wasn't going to say anything about the incident "but I'm not going to forget it either," referring to the club's next meeting with the Eagles Nov. 14.

Softballers Win A League Title

Suburban Auto of San Rafael won the San Francisco "A" League softball championship last night by downing the Aristocats, 4-2 in San Francisco.

The Marin team scored twice in the fifth and twice in the sixth and stopped an Aristocat two-run rally in the bottom of the seventh for the victory. Suburban's 41st win in 60 games this year.

The first two Suburban runs were unearned. In the sixth Phil Gambucci tripled home one run and then scored on Bill Baxter's single.

Strikeout Ace Bunning Retires

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—In his prime, nobody could touch the lanky righthander who racked up 2,855 strikeouts, second only to the immortal Water "Big Train" Johnson of the Washington Senators.

But the years caught up with the Phillies' Jim Bunning—he relegated himself to occasional bullpen duty earlier this season —and finished with a dismal 512 record.

Tuesday the 39-year-old Bunning kept his promise "that when I couldn't get people out I'd quit" and announced his retirement after a 16-year major league career that included 100 wins in both the American and National leagues.

His lifetime record was 224 wins and 184 losses. Two of those victories were no-hitters one of them a perfect game.

"I enjoyed 22 years of baseball, and this is just one of those things that eventually happens," Bunning told a news conference where he was flanked by General Manager John Quinn and Manager Frank Lucchesi.

Bunning said his decision to retire had been "fairly firm in my mind since Aug. 1, but in the end, the hitters made it up for me."

Bunning said he would take some time to consider his future and indicated that retirement did not especially mear he would return to his stock brokerage job in his hometown of Frankfort, Ky.

Quinn said, "The Phillies want Jim Bunning to stay in the organization somewhere," and Bunning did not rule out a coaching or managerial position.

However, Bunning doesn't have much of a crack at a managing job with the Phillies because he says he won't take anything less than triple A ball. The only job like that with the Phillies would be Eugene, Ore., of the Pacific Coast League where former catcher Andy Seminick is manager.

Bunning's well-traveled career began in the majors with Detroit in 1955 after six years in the minors. His best season ever was with the Tigers in 1957 when he had a 20-8 record. In 1962 he won 19 games for the Tigers and the same number each year from 1964 to 1966 when he later was with the Phils.

In 1963, the father of nine came to the Phillies in a trade and he pitched his second no-hitter, a perfect game, on June 21, 1964 against the New York Mets.

Marin Catholic Wins 18th

DOLPHIN DUO

Csonka, Kiick Head Miami Running Unit

They can also boast of being equally fine and dangerous runners for the young Miami Dolphins of the American Football Conference.

Csonka gained 103 yards Sunday despite a broken nose and Kiick contributed 108 more yards as the Dolphins downed Buffalo, 29-14, for their first win of the year.

The pair's performance marked the first time in five years that two running backs on the same team each registered 100 yards in the same afternoon.

Last year, Csonka and Kiick led Miami to a 10-4 record, second place in the AFC East and a spot in the divisional playoffs. Csonka gained 874 yards, second in the conference only to the 901 yards of Denver's Floyd Little, and the best mark ever achieved by a Miami runner. Kiick was seventh in the conference with 658 yards.

Csonka and Kiick, who are off-the-field buddies and roommates on the road, were both drafted in 1968. Csonka was the No. 1 draft of the Dolphins out of Syracuse University, an institution with a rich tradition as a breeding ground of great runners. Kiick was the No. 5 pick out of Wyoming.

Coach Don Shula is proud of his hard-nosed young runners.

"They compliment each other very well," said Shula. "One runs, the other blocks. Then they change roles."

Arthur Ashe Struggles In S.F. Net

He had to go three sets to win the 2-6, 6-4, 6-4 win over Vladimir Zednik in the Golden Gateway match Tuesday in the tourney, which is being played both in San Francisco and at Berkeley.

Besides Ashe, Spain's Andres Gimeno, U.S. Open finalist Jan Kodes, Mark Cox, Roy Barth, with Tom Okker and Marty Riessen were some who advanced as expected.

Zednik, facing Ashe for the first time, surprised him with a sizzling serve and deep volleys that broke his opponent's serve twice.

Ashe recovered quickly in the second set for a 3-0 surge and then withstood a rally by the Czech to even the score. In the third set, both men held service until Ashe put away two of Zednik's serves at deuce in the seventh game for a 4-3 edge which he carried on to victory.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

UAL Employee Has A Question

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am an employee with United Air Lines (NYSE) and have been in their stock purchase plan for about 4 years, investing $75 each month from my paycheck. Do you think I would be better off putting this money elsewhere, such as in a credit union, mutual fund or other savings plan? — J.S.

A. No. Since you have a favorable investment plan, you should continue to take full advantage of its benefits. Moreover, the outlook for domestic air carriers has brightened. The President's new economic program is expected to provide an important boost to businessmen and consumers, thereby giving air travel a strong lift from its present grounded state. Thus, UAL shares now appear more attractive than they have in some time, a fact which is evident in the stock's smart recovery from 1970 lows.

A nose-diving economy, increased competition on many routes and an overcapacity problem caused heavy losses throughout most of last year and in the first quarter of 1971. However, things started taking a turn for the better when, on May 7, the CAB granted a fare increase. This, plus other 1971 fare hikes, should raise UAL revenues roughly $109 million on an annual basis.

The trunk carrier itself has gone a long way toward controlling costs by reducing the number of employees and cutting back on flights, the favorable effects of which should be greatly improved profit margins, especially when air traffic picks up. Another potential plus for UAL would be, of course, a winding down of the inflation spiral which Mr. Nixon desires. Since labor is by far the single largest expense for the airline industry, a get-tough policy with unreasonable union demands would tend to further alleviate the rising cost trend.

While 1971 earnings will, in all probability, be negligible, 1972 could witness a definite turnaround in the company's operations. Continued purchase is advised, with diversification into another investment area a wise consideration.

Yom Kippur Keys Action On Market

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index recorded a small pickup at 97.94. Volume of around 8.2 million shares just about topped the 8.1 million shares traded Aug. 9, the slowest session of the year, and was well under the 11.2 million shares which changed hands Tuesday.

The Jewish observance of Yom Kippur was largely responsible for the market's action with many traders and investors remaining at home.

The session offered few features. Woolworth added to its Tuesday losses apparently stemming from a federal warning that certain female nightwear formerly sold by the chain store group may be dangerously flammable.

Active issues included Control Data, Motorola, Lenox Inc., Howard Johnson and Sony Corp. Control Data and Motorla were losers for most of the session.

Steels turned fractionally lower. Motors also eased, led by Ford and General Motors.

Chemicals were mixed. Jersey Standard was one of the few plus issues in the generally lower oils.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mixed in quiet trading.

California Held Nation's No-Fault Bellwether

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — How California acts on pending auto insurance reform legislation could be a decisive factor in whether enactment of such legislation is left to the states or taken over by the federal government, says a leading advocate of no-fault auto insurance.

"People all over the country, and particularly in Washington D.C.," said T. Lawrence Jones, American Insurance Association president, "are watching to see what California does on auto insurance reform."

Speaking out in support of Assembly Bill 1505 — which guarantees Californians compensation for economic losses resulting from auto accidents without regard to fault — Jones said that its rejection could have a serious impact on the form auto insurance reform will take throughout the country.

Red China Oil Fields Doing Job

TOKYO (UPI) —Premier Chou En-lai has claimed in recent years that mainland China's oil is able to take care of its industrial and transportation needs as well as the lamps of China. Until recently, many Westerners thought Chou was whistling past the graveyard. Oil is vital to any country wanting to expand and industrialize.

Recently, however, information leaked out about China's big Taching oil field in Manchuria has convinced the Free World that Chou may be telling the truth. They were even more convinced after hearing Mao Tse-tung, the Communist party chairman, say: "Industry, learn from Taching."

A tight veil of secrecy has hung over Taching ever since oil was discovered there 13 years ago. In recent days, however, an eyewitness account of a visit to Taching was published by a Japanese newsman sympathetic to China.

It described Taching as a self-contained community of 300,000 which produces about half of China's expanding supply of oil as well as much of its own food. The Japanese writer, Ippei Sugiyama, said Taching was built in a crash program launched in May, 1960.

"At that time," said Sugiyama, "the Soviet Union cut off aid to China. This and the American economic blockade pinched China's oil supply. To work its way out of the Soviet-American pressure, about 100,000 laborers, technicians and Peoples Liberation Army (PLA) personnel were collected at Taching from all over the country."

Sugiyama said most of Taching's population consists of these workers and their families.

Telling It Like It Is Exposes The Agitators

"While courts are still available to us as a means of defense, we should use them to the fullest extent, using the opportunity each time we appear in court to make clear the political nature of the police, courts, and attacks on individuals."

The line has been followed without deviation in the courtrooms of our own country. It has been followed also outside the courtroom — by defendants, their attorneys, and their devotees.

THEY CALL IT "telling it like it is." But it is not like it is; it is like they want to make it appear.

Attorney William Kunstler (he of Isla Vista and Chicago Seven fame) has referred to the convicts killed in suppressing the Attica, N.Y., prison seizure as heroes, and described them as "the finest men I have ever known . . . ready to die for what they believed in."

George Jackson has been made a hero in similar fashion by other rhetoricians of the new left, because he lost his life in an insane bid to seize control of the adjustment center at San Quentin Prison. Anyone who directs violence against any form of established order (except the repressive order of the new left itself) is awarded a hero's diadem by those who stand outside, apart from the violence, to mouth the old, familiar urging of the agitator: "Let's you and him fight."

AFTER THE AUGUST violence at San Quentin, one who is in position to know really told it like it is. And his remarks drew immediate cries of outrage from that same new left.

He went on that "many of us here feel we have to share the blame for what happened (because) we've leaned over backward . . . we've run scared of shyster attorneys."

These were not the kind of statements one expected from Jim Park. But he was moved by the shock of inmates killing guards and fellow inmates to really tell it like it is.

THE REVOLUTIONARIES and their lawyers will continue to use the courts they condemn to further their own purposes. They will continue to pretend that crime is revolution, that killers are heroes, that all those exercising legitimate authority are "pigs."

But there ought to be some kind of special Diogenes Award for those who really tell it like it is. And if one were established, the first recipient should be Jim Park.

Solid Opposition Fails To Stop School Voucher Idea

By MARY K. SHELL

SACRAMENTO (Capitol) — The entire education establishment — from the CTA to the PTA — has formed a solid wall of opposition, but it looks like education vouchers may still get a trial run in California.

AB 150, introduced by Assemblyman Leo Ryan, D-South San Francisco, would permit state participation in the experimental plan proposed by the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity. The meausre already has cleared several formidable hurdles.

Schools, both public and private, would be competing for students under the voucher system. The choice of school would lie with the parents.

ENACTMENT OF RYAN'S measure would simply clear the way for local school districts in the state to make application with OEO for a demonstration program. No more than four such programs would be allowed in California. These would be entirely on an experimental basis for a period of from five to seven years. Periodic progress reports would be submitted to the legislature and a final evaluation would be conducted by a neutral agency, Ryan says.

Here's how it would work: A demonstration board, representing all schools in the district, would contract with OEO for funds to establish a demonstration program. This board, composed of local residents, would control and administer the program.

A voucher equal to the amount now being expended per child, per year, by local and state government, would be issued to each child. The parents or guardian would then present the voucher at the school selected. Public schools in the district would all participate. However, private and church-supported schools would have a choice on participation. To qualify, the schools would have to meet certain regualtions set by the demonstration board and OEO guidelines.

PRIVATE SCHOOLS could not charge any student more than the voucher amount. This provision, alone, would eliminate some of the high-tuition institutions. And the restrictions on religious education would surely make church-supported schools look twice before agreeing to participate. The measure specifically prohibits public funds from being expended on religious-oriented education.

A participating school would be required to accept all applicants that space would permit. If applicants exceeded space, at least 40 per cent of the spaces would be filled by lottery "to insure a balanced student body," Ryan explained.

The local property tax rate for schools in participating districts would remain the same and the districts would receive the existing amount of state aid. Extra costs, such as those for administration and transportation, and for students who have previously attended private schools would be borne by OEO.

In his view, "The proposal does not abolish the existing public schools. Rather it releases them from the labyrinth of rules and regulations which have inhibited their ability to innovate. By providing private sector competition in the marketplace, public schools will have more opportunities to innovate."

The father of the market approach to education is University of Chicago economist Milton Friedman.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

The best kind of wageworker, the best kind of laboring man, must stand shoulder to shoulder with the bestkind of professional man, with the best kind of businessman, in putting a stop to the undermining of civic decency, and this without any regard to whether it is a labor union or a corporation which is undermining it, without any regard to whether the offender is a rich man or a poor man. — Theodore Roosevelt.

More Questions About School Positions

In reply to Rose Mary Gicker's letter to the I-J, Sept. 24, regarding two teacher assistant positions and a clerk position in the San Anselmo School District, several points need to be clarified:

1. Mrs. DeVore (one teacher assistant) will be paid $497 per month. At 173.33 hours per month, her hourly pay would be $2.867.

2. Mr. Fleming (the other teacher assistant) will be paid $472 per month ($2.723 per hour).

We are questioning:

a. These positions have not been formally created by the board. There are no specifications as to what the job will consist of, nor how it differs from teacher's aide. We feel that the creation of new positions (at this time of a wage freeze) without showing a need for new and different duties appears to be therefore a subterfuge allowing a larger increase than would normally be a step increase in pay for a teacher's aide.

b. There are no qualifications required for these positions. For instance, qualifications for "secretary" in the S.A. district call for a high school diploma and "two years of successful full-time paid experience" as well as standards of performance in office skills and machines. One of the four duties listed for this job calls for "identifying educationally handicapped youngsters." Upon questioning the school district office we learned Mr. Fleming has a college degree, Mrs. DeVore does not.

c. There are no specifications nor qualifications for Sophia Spencer's job either. Since there will be no principal at Red Hill School, it seems pertinent that the board should discuss the role of this clerk position and formally adopt specifications so that inadvertently job specifications for principal will not be filled by the clerk!. . .

Would Name School For A. P. Giannini

Recently I read an article in your esteemed publication that Mill Valley has an unfinished school building which has not yet been named. Iwould like to suggest that it be named "A. P. Giannini." Mr. Giannini, the outstanding banker who started a small bank in 1904 in San Francisco, spread more than 900 branches throughout the State of California. It is now the world's largest. He was a great philanthropist giving generously scholarships to graduates of many learning institutions. He was a man of sterling character. He furnished the first million dollars to start construction of the Golden Gate Bridge, with the statement that "we need that bridge." He presented the agricultural college at Davis to the people of California. He created the Scatena Fund, whereby destitute teachers were given monthly checks to assist them. He was loved by his employees and did a great deal for their welfare. I am aware of these things as I was employed in his great institution for nearly 40 years and am now retired. To me he was one of the greatest native Californians in history. I am hoping that this message will be read by those in whose hands the naming of the school is placed.

Revive Reber Plan To Save The Bay

As most Bay area residents, I am deeply concerned over the recent "oil spills." I believe it is about time to reconsider the "Reber Plan." Though this plan was several decades ahead of our time, it does provide for the "containment" of oil behind a sea wall, wherein an unloading "tanker" behind a gate (lock) would prevent oil from spreading into the Bay. This same "wall" earlier was intended to make a fresh water lake of San Pablo Bay, and this in itself would prevent "salinization" of the bay, which is of considerable concern to those concerned with the ecology of the delta, which is threatened by the peripheral canal which would be essential to the diversion of Northern California waters to Southern California.

This project of especial benefit to Southern California should be financed by Southern California, as "insurance" and assurance of the cooperation of North-California whose residents have no desire to see Northern California become another "Owens Valley." Beyond my thoughts on this subject, I feel Peter Behr, our senator, should have more information on this subject than I, and feel it would be interesting to hear from him.

'Ripping Off' Shows Hypocrisy Of Revolutionaries' 'Morality'

(Reprinted from Milwaukee Journal)

When blacks in the South were beaten and lynched by white mobs, it was called "coon huntin' " — not murder.

When black zealots today urge the death of policemen, the phrase is "off the pigs" — not murder.

The process is simple, and ancient. Dehumanize the object of scorn, clothe the evil action in a fresh (preferably righteous) description, and almost anything seems justified. Thus the GI in Vietnam may end up "knocking off gooks," when he's really killing little children.

THE NEWEST EXAMPLE of this perverse word game involves thievery by some of our radical young. They call it "ripping off," and it runs the predatory range from burglary and shoplifting to posing as a clergyman to solicit free food for a hippie commune.

Rip-offs are directed chiefly at the establishment — corporations, universities and government agencies —and are remorselessly justified as a form of political protest.

The establishment supposedly cheats the public, so the philosophizing marauders contend there is nothing wrong in plundering to even things up a bit. It would take a lot of shoplifting to equal one large price-fixing conspiracy, they argue.

PERHAPS. But how can one geniunely propose larceny as a remedy for larceny? Where is elementary morality?

It is obscured by revolutionary lingo, as is the fact that the public ultimately pays for all manner of thefts through higher prices and higher taxes.

One wonders if the young see the irony. They frown on rapaciousness and fakery as unworthy of the new generation, yet rip-offs are a foul blend of both.

Analysis Shows Great Bias In Television News Reporting

WASHINGTON — There is new, documented, perhaps conclusive evidence that the principal network TV news shows have been practicing massive bias.

The evidence shows that in the 1968 campaign when the American people were making up their minds about whom they wanted for President, Richard Nixon was buried in an avalanche of one-sided TV reporting.

These findings are based on a two-year study by TV Guide's Edith Efron. She examined every word broadcast every night on the regular evening ABC, CBS and NBC news reports during the seven weeks preceding the presidential election.

These findings are set out lucidly and precisely in Miss Efron's bombshell book, "The News Twisters" (Nash Publishing Co., Los Angeles), soon to be available at the bookstores for all to read and judge.

The networks will have to have better answers to Miss Efron's facts than they had for Vice President Agnew's opinions — or the public's demand for reform will be powerful.

2 — "The networks actively favored the Democratic candidate, Hubert Humphrey."

The one-sidedness of this TV reporting was found to be so pervasive, so consistent and so similar among ABC, CBS and NBC as to leave no doubt that it was deliberate — not a conspiracy, but certainly not accidental.

The network executives, the producers, the reporters and the broadcasters apparently knew what they wanted — and got it.

HOW DID Miss Efron measure broadcast bias? That is the crucial test of the validity of her research and her findings.

She tape-recorded the prime-time shows of each network and had them transcribed. Then, from the body of about 100,000 words per network, she isolated all stories dealing with the crucial political issues and excerpted all "for" and all "against" opinions on these 10 issues: U.S. policy on Vietnam, U.S. policy on the bombing halt, the Viet Cong, black militants, the white middle class, liberals, conservatives, the left, demonstrators and violent radicals.

Then Miss Efron and her research collaborator, Clytia M. Chambers, isolated the opinion content — direct quotes, paraphrase, narrative reports and the broadcasters' editorial opinions — from the newscasts and totaled the words spoken on both sides of each issue on each network.

IN HER BOOK, Miss Efron presents the findings which emerge from her analysis in graphs as well as in statements. They boggle the eye — and the mind. For example:

During the seven-week period of the presidential campaign, ABC spoke 869 words for Nixon and 7,483 words against him, CBS 320 for Nixon, 5,300 words against him, NBC 431 words for Nixon and 4,234 against him.

While ABC was giving 869 words firmly to Nixon, it was devoting 4,218 words friendly to Humphrey; CBS and NBC gave about the same ratio.

ABC and CBS gave approximately twice as much favorable coverage to militant blacks as unfavorable, and the word count of NBC news was 3,666 words for militant blacks and 1,383 against.

If there are any meaningful flaws in Miss Efron's methods of measuring bias in broadcast news, I did not detect them. I hope the networks will speak out thoughtfully and responsibly.

Meanwhile, I recommend that any person who ever listens to network news read "The News Twisters" — and judge for himself.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Congress Given Chance To Abolish Strip Mining

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — If the gentleman from West Virginia were a less stubborn sort, he might have been discouraged by the chairman's compliment.

Ken Hechler, who represents 10 counties in that part of the world where the strip miner is king, had just finished testifying on behalf of his bill to abolish that hopelessly destructive kind of mining.

He made the point that up to 1965, an area of the United States equal to the entire state of Delaware had been ravaged by stripping for coal. Since then, enough additional square miles to cover all of Rhode Island have been stripped. And by the time all the strippable coal under the surface of our country is torn out to feed our much-trumpeted "energy crisis," the devastated area will equal Pennsylvania and West Virginia put together.

THE CONGRESSMAN went on for 26 legal-size pages explaining why his bill is urgently needed and the one proposed by the administration for control of stripping would be laughably ineffective, if anyone had the nerve to laugh about it.

When he was through, the chairman of the mining subcommittee of the Interior Committee, Rep. Ed Edmondson of Oklahoma, thanked him and praised him for his "sincerity and dedication to his cause."

Not "our cause," although many acres of Oklahoma, too, have been destroyed by stripping. Not even "the cause." But "his cause." You don't have to speak congressionalese to get the nuance in that.

But Hechler has started out in the minority and persisted and ended up in the majority before. For example, on the mine safety bill that finally passed, with teeth in it, in late 1969.

THIS TIME, his bill (H.R. 4556) has 80 cosponsors in the House, and the beginnings of some influential support at the other end of the capitol. But there is none at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue. The White House, in line with the strip-mine operator, favors a measure designed to appease growing public concern about stripping without imposing any serious handicap on the operators — or providing any serious protection for the land.

Among its many other shortcomings, the administration bill would put enforcement under the Interior Department, which is committed formally to encouraging development of mineral output, rather than under the Environmental Protection Agency, whose function is just what its title says.

Even the operators are reluctantly willing to live with this weak version. They are pushing a campaign to change their image, blaming all the destruction wrought by stripping on earlier "irresponsible" operators, and contending that they themselves are much more public-spirited and careful-although in fact their giant machines, which can tear out as much as 220 cubic yards of earth at a bite, cause far greater disruption of the earth than the picks, shovels and old-fashioned bulldozers of the past.

They make a great pitch about "reclamation," which in practice means backfilling the stripped land and planting fast-growing ground cover, which sometimes grows and sometimes does not. But reclamation is a misnomer; a Corps of Engineers forester and a West Virginia University specialist both estimate it would take 400 years or longer to restore the ravaged land and trees.

Nevertheless, the operators are spending many thousands to sell the public on the idea that reclamation works. The main thrust of the administration's stripping bill is to require reclamation. But it is a mere threat of a mere slap on the wrist.

AMONG THE PROPOSED measures between the administration's token and Hechler's abolition is one from Rep. Wayne Hays, which would be forceful in controlling stripping while still permitting it to continue. Hays' home county in Ohio has 341,000 total acres. Of them, 200,000 are already leased, bought or optioned for strip mining. His motivation is clear.

But stripping is no longer an ugly reality only to the Americans who live in the abused hills of Appalachia and along the Ohio Valley. To cash in on the "energy crisis," the draglines are marching into wider and wider virgin territory. Substantial amounts of coal are now being stripped out of not only West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Virginia, Alabama and Tennessee, but also from Iowa, Montana, Oklahoma, Wyoming and Arizona — with still other fields being surveyed.

Grass Roots Uprising Sets Back Unification

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

For the first time since the school district unification act was written into law in 1945, two unified districts have been dissolved by vote of their electorates.

In both Newman-Gustine Unified School District in Merced and Stanislaus counties and Modoc-Tulelake Unified School District in Modoc County, the vote to dissolve was overwhelming: 1,355 to 606 in Newman-Gustine and 1,119 to 274 in Modoc-Tulelake. Several smaller school districts will result from the breakups.

THAT THESE WERE the first unified school districts dissolved does not mean that there has been no sentiment for dissolution in any other. There might have been three dissolution elections this month instead of two, were it not for the State Board of Education. An election on dissolving a school district cannot be held without the state board's approval. Petitions for dissolving Yuba City Unified School District in Sutter County were presented to the board in May, along with those from Newman-Gustine and Modoc-Tulelake. But the board, while letting the latter two go ahead, turned down the Yuba City petition.

In doing so, the board failed to spell out just what was wrong with the plan. But it won't do that any more.

As a result of the Yuba City turndown, Assemblyman Ray E. Johnson, R-Chico, introduced a bill (AB 3090) requiring the state board to give its reasons in writing for rejecting a petition for a dissolution election, and leaving the way open for revising the plan without starting all over with new petitions. Johnson's bill passed both houses and has been signed into law.

WHAT CALIFORNIA calls a unified school district is simply a district that includes both elementary and high schools. Such an organizational setup has obvious advantages.

However, the penchant of California educators and legislators for making everything difficult has resulted in school district unification having a rough time in the Golden State.

'Way back in 1920, the Herbert C. Jones Committee, appointed by the legislature, recommended unified districts, with county boards of supervisors to draw up school district lines. It proposed that a district might include a whole county, or that there might be one in each city and independent districts in the unincorporated areas.

This simple plan, however, ran onto the political rocks, as did several subsequent attempts at simplifying school district organization. Then in 1945, the bill setting up local committees on school district organization became law, with the expressed purpose of putting all schools in the state into unified districts.

THE 1945 BILL and its subsequent amendments, however, set up a lot of arbitrary rules as to what could constitute a unified district, and the State Department of Education added some more of its own. The effect of these was to make it impossible for small-population areas to unify around their local high schools. The law forced big unifications to get what some educators considered the necessary number of students — and resulted in such monstrosities as the now-dissolved Modoc-Tulelake district, with two high schools more than 70 miles apart.

Unification proceeded slowly. So in 1959 it was made mandatory that each county committee prepare a master plan for reorganization of school districts, and that elections be held on such plans. Later amendments required elections at every presidential primary until a unification plan was passed.

This year's legislature killed the requirement for unification elections at every presidential primary by passing SB 878 by Senators Fred W. Marler Jr., R-Redding, and Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ventura.

Several other bills in the current legislature aim at permitting more latitude in organizing unified school districts, and at abolishing the compulsory features. The trend seems to be established against forced centralization of school administration in big and often unwieldy districts.

And it's a pretty safe bet that Newman-Gustine and Modoc-Tulelake won't be the last dissolution elections.

Bill Passes To Fight Farm Worker Pesticides

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A major bill designed to protect farm workers from pesticides by setting up specific safety requirements for their handling has won narrow approval in the Senate.

The measure, described by Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, as a "giant step forward" in the protection of field hands, was passed Tuesday on a 21-10 vote, the bare minimum needed.

Local public health officers would be given sweeping powers under provisions of the bill to carry out the safety requirements for handling of pesticides. The measure was sent to the Assembly.

The bill mandates handwashing facilities for workers and posting of fields treated with potentially harmful pesticides. And it permits county health officers to inspect fields and limit access or even close down areas completely.

An opponent, Sen. Howard Way, R-Exeter, objected that the measure "erodes the responsibility of local agriculture commissioners."

The report should have read that the ceremonies will begin at 2 p.m. The I-J also incorrectly reported that Venezia lives in San Rafael and is a student at Tamalpais High School.

Senate Approves Bill To Help Protect Credit Card Holders

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Sen. Alfred Song's personal tangle with a credit card company is over. The score: 25-0.

It was on that vote the Senate gave final legislative approval Tuesday to major consumer legislation which will protect credit card holders against billing errors, deception and sex discrimination.

The bill by the Democratic lawmaker from Monterey Park now goes to Gov. Ronald Reagan who, a spokesman for Song says, is expected to sign it.

The measure grew out of a dispute between Song and a major credit card company over what the lawmaker said was a billing error. Heated letters and telephone calls were exchanged, and Song finally turned in his card and introduced his bill.

Under the measure, credit card companies would be required to correct billing errors within 60 days or forfeit the amount in dispute. The companies would be barred from gving out false or unfavorable credit information about the holder during the dispute.

For the first time credit card holders would have the right to refuse to pay for defective items which cost more than $50 if they could not get satisfaction from the merchant.

The bill would also help out unmarried, separated or divorced women, groups which supporters say have had difficulty in securing credit cards.

Song's bill was a compromise measure which had backing from both credit card companies and consumer groups, some of which would have preferred a stronger bill.

Archaic Inmate Law Repealed

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan signed legislation Tuesday repealing a 1913 law which gave the state authority to castrate inmates considered morally degenerate or habitual criminals.

His action removed from the statutes an act that was never used, according to the bill's author, Sen. George R. Moscone, a San Francisco Democrat.

Under the old law, a prison doctor could have ordered a convict "asexualized" if he had been committed at least twice for rape, intent to commit rape or seduction. Also, the prisoner could have been castrated if he had been convicted three times for any other crime.

A repeat offender would have had to have been found "immoral, a sexual degenerate or a pervert."

THE FLAGMAN IS A GIRL

Rude motorists, broiling sun, rocks kicked up by passing trucks and long hours of breathing road fumes were the lot of Laura Coats, 14, who worked full-time during the summer as a flagman on a construction job in Bend, Ore. On the other side of the coin, Miss Coats earned $5.85 per hour, which made her suffering bearable. She will continue as a part-time worker on the road project on Highway 26 through the winter months. (UPI Telephoto)

JUDGE IGNORES PLEAS

Construction Ban To Remain

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A superior court judge, brushing aside a claim that the ban on consturction in much of Southern and Central Marin will bankrupt developers, refused yesterday to lift the ban pending a court appeal.

Judge Ira A. Brown Jr. declared a temporary stay against the ban by the Regional Water Quality Control Board "would be against the public interest." He said he had "serious concern" that lifting the ban even temporarily would permit a flood of new construction.

Seaside attorney Saul M. Weingarten, representing real estate interests fighting the ban, attempted to assure the judge that there would not be a spurt of construction if the ban were lifted. But the judge asked, "Can't the court assume they're ready to build? Otherwide, what's the pressing need for a stay?"

The judge ruled after arguments against a stay by Deputy Atty. Gen. Roderick E. Walston, who said "this would be a most inopportune time to issue a stay order" since the rainy season is about to begin. Wet weather overwhelms sewage treatment plants in the three jurisdictions under the ban: the City of Mill Valley, Richardson Bay Sanitary District, and Ross Valley Sanitary District.

Judge Brown set trial for 1:30 p.m. on Oct. 15 in his courtroom in city hall. He warned Weingarten that no more than that half-day will be allowed for the trial. "If it goes longer, I will take it off calendar, declare a mistrial, and you can start all over in another department," Brown said.

And if the appeal goes to another judge, Brown added, it will be at least "several months" before trial.

Weingarten, arguing against the construction ban, said it was "illegal, enacted without due process and without due notice to parties affected." He said the State Water Resources Control Board had denied his appeal "out of hand" without hearing his evidence.

He also objected that the attorney general's office had delayed his appeal by having it moved out of Marin Superior Court. Such continued delay, he predicted, meant "some are going to become bankrupt."

Walston noted that neither Southern Marin discharger was party to the legal challenge to the ban, and that the regional board had found "gross violation" of its standards in Richardson Bay sewage. The wet weather flow through the Richardson Bay Sanitary District's treatment plant was nearly 50 per cent over its capacity, he said, and in Mill Valley the flow was nearly 300 percent over capacity.

He said that 90 per cent of test fish in a sample of effluent are supposed to survive under regional board standards, but that "no fish have survived whatsoever" in samples from the Richardson Bay district.

In other arguments, Weingarten objected that the regional board's timetable for improvements by mid-1973 was too short. He said the dischargers would need four to five years because they had to wait for the Army Corps of Engineers to dredge channels for the effluent.

Judge Brown, however, said "we are not bound by the corps' schedule."

Weingarten claimed that new construction would not increase pollution from the already overloaded sewage systems, a point Walston branded as "axiomatically incorrect."

The regional board's construction ban was imposed on the two Southern Marin dischargers in June, and on the Ross Valley district in July.

Disaster Plans To Be Viewed

Marin County officials and city officials will meet tomorrow to see whether they can agree on an "integrated" disaster and civil defense plan, which is almost ready to submit to state and federal disaster officials for approval.

The session will begin at 4 p.m. in the board of supervisors' chambers of the Marin County Civic Center.

Frank E. Kirby, acting coordinator of emergency services, sent each of Marin's 11 cities a copy of his bulky, draft emergency plan two weeks ago for study and criticism at tomorrow's meeting.

The proposed plan is designed to replace an obsolete one that was created 11 years ago — and which state and county officials admitted left Marin and its citizens almost totally unprepared to cope with any disaster.

Kirby has prepared the skeleton of a specific disaster plan for the City of Novato, to serve as a model for each of the cities to adopt. In addition, he has outlined plans for Marin County government to establish an emergency operational area which would take over leadership and supply manpower when a city found its own resources overtaxed and asked the chairman of the board of supervisors to declare a local emergency.

The Novato plan calls for the mayor or a councilman to serve as city director of emergency services, the city manager or other official appointed by the council to serve as coordinator, and staff members to head up six control and guidance sections, plus eight emergency service sections.

The mayor and city manager would lead the operations control section, and the manager also would be responsible for the intelligence (data gathering) and public information sections. The fire chief would head the radiological defense section, and the police chief the communications and warning sections.

County personnel would handle several of the emergency services the city would need, through coordination from the area (county) emergency office. These would include welfare and shelter, and health and medical services.

Law enforcement, traffic control, fire protection, engineering, supply and manpower services would be coordinated by local department heads unless the disaster was too large for the city forces to handle. In that case the city's available manpower would become part of the respective control or service staffs at the county level, for direction by the county for the duration of the emergency.

Kirby's outline sets up procedures and proposed enabling ordinance, for commandeering public and private manpower and property for use in the

FAIRFAX POLICE CHIEF HELD UNDER FIRE

Reports Say Resignation Has Been Asked: Mayor Denies It

The hold of Fairfax Police Chief James R. Orr on his job appeared shaken today amid reports that he has been asked to resign or be dismissed.

Mayor Cornelis Van Vliet today would say only that Orr's continuance at his post was a matter "that is not yet resolved."

Councilman Robert R. Souza, however, confirmed reports that City Administrator Robert E. Crowe had been instructed by a majority of the council to "negotiate" with Orr, as a result of three closed sessions of the council in recent weeks.

The sessions, at the time they were called, were said by the city administrator to involve a high official of the city and "a very serious matter." The administrator after the last closed meeting would say only that he had been instructed to discuss the problem with the city attorney and the official involved.

A three-man majority consisting of Van Vliet, Souza and Councilman Lee Nelder reportedly is disenchanted with Orr for "failing to get tough with hippies" in the town, neglecting to report juveniles' alcohol purchase at a Fairfax store to state Alcoholic Beverage Control authorities, and going on vacation without telling Crowe where to reach him.

Also, "some of the charges go way back" to Orr's conviction for disturbing the peace outside a San Rafael teen-age dance hall four years ago, one councilman said. Orr had received a vote of confidence from the council after a municipal court jury found him guilty of profanity when trying to enter the hall in search of his own teen-age daughter.

During the closed-door hearings, the council also reportedly discussed a charge that Orr pulled a gun on a police department employee two years ago.

The 43-year-old Orr has been chief in Fairfax for nine years, having served on the San Anselmo police force 10 years.

Souza denied that the council was "digging way back" to justify action against Orr. "There is information which involves current activities . . . sho w an overall pattern," he told a reporter.

Souza said that the council had talked with Orr at only one of the three closed sessions.

Under the Ralph M. Brown governmental antisecrecy act, although the council can discuss the charges against Orr in closed session, he could demand a public hearing, if he wished to fight the charges. Also, any decision reached by

METHADONE PROGRAM

Ex-Addicts Given Hope For Future

By JEFF GREER
(Second of two articles)

The answers aren't simple, admits Vic Chiarolla. He is the young doctor of pharmacology who oversees the program for medical doctors from the Marin Community Mental Health Center and the county health department.

All of the opiates — heroin, morphine, opium and the like — create somewhat the same reactions in the body, Ciarolla explained.

"If we build up the dosage of methadone sufficiently, we can 'blockade' the effects of heroin or the others," Ciarolla said.

Methadone does not leave its user irrational or euphoric, like the other narcotics, Ciarolla said. Hence, a heroin addict switched over to the equally addicting but inexpensive methadone is given a steady, 24-hour-long level of ability. He can work and live a social life without having to "hustle on the street" to support a craving for heroin, costing $50 to $100 a day.

The Open House program is only beginning, but its founders make it clear that some day its customers will face the travail of weaning themselves from methadone addiction. The "kicking" may be even more painful and slower than heroin withdrawal Ciarolla noted.

But while using methadone, the addict will be "relatively a normal individual. Meth doesn't insulate the user from his or her own feelings. Therefore, the individual will have a lot of anxieties they've been avoiding by shooting heroin previously.

The Open House methadone maintenance program has enjoyed cooperation from law enforcement agencies throughout Marin and from the county's probation department.

The program's enrollees are carefully screened. They must be at least 21 years old, in contrast to other Open House antidrug programs aimed at teen-agers. To be eligible, the heroin addict must have "had the habit" for at least two years, and have made at least two unsuccessful attempts to break the habit by means other than methadone.

Chiarolla stressed that methadone should be a last resort. "Straight detoxification, groups, or residential drug cure programs are better" for a

No-Fault Insurance Is Beaten

The only surviving proposal, one its backers claimed would have saved California motorists $50 million annually in automobile insurance premiums, was resoundly killed last night by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

"School was out before the hearing began. It was an exercise in futility," complained the bitter author, Assemblyman Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello, after the two and one half hour committee hearing.

Fenton's bill was a modified version of a plan now being tried for the first time in Mas-

Atom-Blast Test Beneath Desert

YUCCA FLATS, Nev. (UPI) —United States scientists triggered an underground nuclear test today which had a force of less than 20,000 tons of TNT.

The detonation, code named Pedernal, was triggered 1,240 feet below the desert floor in the Yucca Basin of the Nevada Test Site.

The Atomic Energy Commission said all radiation was contained underground.

Little Marin Support To Integration 'Consortium'

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

A California Department of Education proposal for a "tri-county regional consortium" to spread school integration across San Francisco-Marin-San Mateo county lines has drawn no enthusiasm in either Marin or San Mateo.

The idea was broached last spring, and pressed during the summer, but a meeting scheduled in San Francisco for Aug. 20 was canceled, and Marin school superintendents have heard no more of the matter since.

However, Ples A. Griffin, chief of the bureau of intergroup relations in the state Department of Education, said today that the proposal is not dead.

A bill which would provide federal funding for such purposes is moving slowly in Congress, so there is "no immediacy," he said.

Griffin wrote county and district superintendents in Marin and San Mateo inviting them to meetings on the consortium in San Francisco in June and again Aug. 20. The June meeting was exploratory.

The letter regarding the August meeting had specific recommendations. It urged that school boards review attendance practices, "especially interdistrict attendance policies and procedures, which . . . inhibit the extension of integrated attendance centers," and that they adopt resolutions" sup-

Supervisors Abandon Proposal For Glass Shield In Courtroom

Cost-conscious Marin County supervisors — faced with sizeable courtroom expenses — declined yesterday to order a bullet-proof glass shield for one courtroom, criticized defense attorneys' plans to import a pathologist from Vienna, and appointed a committee to audit all trial expenses connected with last year's shoot-out at the Hall of Justice. (Other supervisors stories on page 7.)

Meanwhile, Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson was approving part of the expenses requested by defense attorneys for Ruchell Magee, to bring in experts from as far away as Vienna in connection with the exhumation of the body of Judge Harold J. Haley, slain in the shoot-out.

The bullet-proof shield had been urged last week by Superior Court Judge Henry J. Broderick to make at least one courtroom suitable for handling "sensitive" trials.

The Viennese pathologist, Dr. Leopold Breitenecker, had been requested by Ernest L. Graves, defense attorney for Ruchell Magee, to perform a new autopsy on the exhumed body of Judge Haley. Graves called the Viennese "one of the foremost forensic pathologists in the world."

"If we can't find a qualified pathologist any closer than Vienna, there's something really wrong," declared Supervisor John F. McInnis. Chairman Louis H. Baar agreed, and also called for a county audit of the $20,758 in legal fees billed by Graves from May through August.

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell explained that the attorney's fees are $350 per trial day and $50 per hour for work outside the courtroom.

The board formed an audit committee consisting of County Administrator John F. Barrows, Mitchell, County Counsel

SOMETHING'S SPROUTING

A Pompous Funeral For A Simple Man

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court, official Washington and the family and friends of Justice Hugo L. Black have bid him a last goodby.

More pomp and circumstance surrounded the leavetaking Tuesday than the Clay County, Ala., storekeeper's son, a man of simple taste, might have wished.

But his family had to choose Washington Cathedral to accommodate his Supreme Court associates, law clerks who served during his 34 years on the bench, many other figures in the legal community and just plain people who admired and loved him. He was buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

The rites brought together all living present and past members of the high court except retired Justice John M. Harlan, 72, who is in the hospital suffering from cancer.

If the sparkling stain glass, multi-colored flags and soaring gothic arches seemed not quite right for the one-time Baptist Sunday school teacher, the mind and heart of Black came through in the music and words spoken over his undraped pine coffin.

Since the U.S. Constitution had been the great love of Black's life for most of his 85 years, he would have smiled when his friend, the Rev. Duncan Howlett, refused to label him a "strict constructionist."

Howlett, former minister of All Souls Unitarian Church, read passages underlined by Black in the books in his library —works by Aeschylus, Diogenes, Virgil, Cicero, Jefferson, Thomas Carlyle and Edith Hamilton.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

A Castro Warning

MIAMI (UPI) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro warned the United States Tuesday night to stop publicizing Cuban refugees who flee his land illegally or he might start sanctioning the skyjacking of U.S. planes.

Speaking at the 11th anniversary celebration of the founding of the revolutionary defense committees — local cells which encourage spying on one's neighbors — and monitored in Miami, Castro told the crowd:

"Let them (the U.S. government) reminder that their planes fly here, let the imperialists remember we haven't yet awarded a medal to a skyjacker.

"But if they promote illegality here, we will promote illegality there."

Kidnap Demands

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The kidnapers of millionaire industrialist Julio Hirschfeld Almada again contacted his family today to reiterate their demands for $240,000 ransom in exchange for his life.

Hirschfeld, 54, who holds the cabinet-level post of director of airports, was abducted from his car Monday by three men and a woman armed with machine guns. They said they were "revolutionaries."

Mexican "sugar king" Aaron Saenz said the Hirschfeld family is very confident that the exchange will be accomplished.

Mrs. Gandhi 'Queen'

MOSCOW (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi today completed a visit that moved the Kremlin to censure Pakistan and treat its Indian guest like a queen.

Mrs. Gandhi was scheduled to return to New Delhi today.

Mrs. Gandhi arrived Monday for talks with all three members of the Soviet leadership. Diplomatic sources said the talks were aimed principally at strengthening the new Indo-Soviet alliance against common rivalries with China and India's conflict with Pakistan.

China Readies Fete

HONG KONG (UPI) — Peking's Tienanmen Square, traditionally the center of China's National Day activities, has been decorated "magnificently" in preparation for the Oct. 1 celebrations, Peking Radio said today.

Huge color portraits of Mao Tse-tung, the 77-year-old chairman of the Chinese Communist Party, have been erected in Tienanmen, "the Gate of Heavenly Peace".

The broadcast made no mention of the traditional mass rally and parade which officials said had been canceled.

Chinese officials said it was decided to hold smaller, scattered gatherings instead of the mass rally this year.

'Brewer Equipment' Is Offered For Sale

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—Among surplus state property advertized recently by the State of Oregon was "brewer equipment, including crocks and beer kegs."

An official hastened to explain that the equipment was seized by the Oregon Liquor Control Commission in a raid on an illegal operation.

Hirohito In Belgium

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Emperor Hirohito of Japan paid his second visit to Belgium in 50 years today and was greeted at the airport by the royal family led by King Baudouin.

Hirohito was met by Baudouin, Queen Fabiola, Prince Albert, Princess Paola and thousands of cheering and waving Belgians.

Hirohito, who will visit Belgium for three days, first came to the country in 1921 when he was the crown prince.

Friendship Visit

PARIS (UPI) — The highest level Chinese Communist delegation to visit Western Europe since Mao Tse-tung proclaimed the People's Republic of China on Oct. 1, 1949, arrived today in Paris and announced it had come to weave new ties of friendship with France.

The delegation was led by Chinese External Trade Minister Pai Hsiang-kuo and included eight high ranking trade and foreign ministry officials. Krench officials gave them a red carpet welcome at Orly Field and noted with pride the high rank of the delegation members.

The last Chinese cabinet minister to visit Western Europe was Chou, who went to Geneva in 1954 and 1962 for the conferences on Indochina. However, these visits were not "official visits" as diplomats term that of this mission.

Luna 19 Won't Land

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union's unmanned Luna 19 raced toward the moon today in the tracks of its ill-fated predecessor but the Soviets indicated it would not attempt a landing.

The spacecraft blasted off Tuesday, just 17 days after Luna 18 vanished during an unsuccessful attempt to land in the moon's Appolonius Mountain range. Soviet reports Sept. 11 said Luna 18's touchdown had been "unlucky."

Liner Damaged In Collision

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — American President Lines reported its 19,000-ton liner the SS President Wilson was stuck and damaged in a collision with a Chinese freighter at Keelung, Taiwan.

A spokesman said Tuesday the Wilson, which left San Francisco Sept. 10 on a 43-day tour of the Orient, was inbound toward the port of Keelung when the outgoing freighter struck it above the waterline and ripped a 100-foot section out of the starboard bow.

There were no injuries to passenger or crew, according to reports radioed by Capt. J. D. Cox, and the liner put into Keelung for temporary repairs.

Viet Police Ordered To Get Tough

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu today ordered police to shoot "on the spot" any demonstrators caught in firebombings or causing serious damage to property.

"Henceforth, if somebody is caught redhanded firebombing property, he can be shot on the spot, if necessary, or put in jail," Thieu told the police officials.

A government spokesmen said demonstrators for and against Thieu's regime would be tolerated but they "must be orderly."

"Those who burned cars have brought losses to public funds and properties of the population and thus created confusion in the daily life of the population," Thieu told 400 police commanders from throughout the nation.

Thieu's new tough policy has been made necessary, he said, "to maintain order because without a strict policy, the country will fall into disorder."

As Thieu delivered his pronouncement, Ge. Doung Van "Big" Minh charged that Thieu "has refused to wake up to the grave crisis and instability" caused by his decision to run without opposition.

Minh dropped out of the presidential race and charged that Thieu had rigged the election. He issued a statement today from his Saigon villa.

Long Weekends

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The nation's leisure time spending is expected to toal more than $250 billion a year by 1975 as a result of the four new Monday holiday weekends, says the American Automobile Association.

Major Counteroffensive Against Reds In Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI) — Tens of thousands of American and South Vietnamese troops poured into the Cambodian border area 80 miles northwest of Saigon today in a major counteroffensive against three North Vietnamese divisions menacing Tay Ninh Province.

Massive U.S. air support including seven strikes by B52 bombers and jet fighterbombers was brought to bear in the action which military men said could be one of the few major pitched battles of the Vietnam War. But squalls from dying typhoon Stella grounded most helicopter gunships.

The Communists opened their offensive Sunday near the Cambodian rubber plantation town of Krek across the border from Tay Ninh City in an effort to drive the South Vietnamese from their last toehold inside Cambodia.

Military sources said the Communists, using North Vietnamese regulars, hoped to score a major victory and embarrass President Nguyen Van Thieu before the Sunday presidential election in which he is the only candidate.

UPI correspondent Kenneth J. Braddick reported from Tay Ninh City that South Vietnamese Gen. Nguyen Xuan Tinh told him about 50,000 South Vietnamese troops, plus a regiment of U.S. armored cavalry and elements of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division, were sent into the fight against the three NVN divisions of about 36,000 men.

Braddick said Tay Ninh City, 50 miles northwest of Saigon, was jammed with troops, vehicles and huge piles of supplies. He said "long, long columns of trucks have been moving through the city in the rain all day long."

The South Vietnamese and U.S. reinforcements pouring into the area included two brigades of airborne troops, armor, Ranger groups, the American 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment and an undisclosed number of troops and helicopters of the 1st Air Cavalry, which has its headquarters 50 miles east of Saigon in Xuan Loc.

'Prison Probe' Bill Reaches Full Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A proposal ordering a major legislative investigation of embattled California prisons this year and next cleared the Senate Rules Committee today and went to the floor.

The measure by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, a former district attorney, calls for a committee of five senators and five assemblymen to conduct an "in depth" investigation into the "administration and operation of all state penal institutions."

Nejedly told the Rules Committee he was confident the committee could submit its first report by next February with at least preliminary recommendations for remedial legislation.

He said he had been told by both prison personnel and inmate representatives that a "review of the situation can't be adequately made by the Department of Corrections."

Nejedly said members of the legislature have the "objectivity and capacity to review the circumstances and report them to the public."

A representative of the Department of Corrections told the committee, "We certainly have no opposition to the resolution."

The committee fixed the life of the investigative committee at two years, but Nejedly expressed confidence the work could be accomplished in less time.

"If we don't do it in two years, we shouldn't even get into it," he said.

In a related matter, the Rules Committee held for further study a measure by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, directing a legislative study to determine whether San Quentin Prison should be retained, abolished or replaced.

Bagley said the Joint Legislative Budget Committee should make such a determination before additional funds are committed to refurbish the aging 100-year-old prison.

"Let's face it, San Quentin is a volatile situation," he said. "Personally, I would like somebody to take a look at the institution other than the Department of Corrections."

DEFENSE

emergency, with a corps of legal advisors to protect all parties' interests and a system for fair payment for supplies needed.

Both on the city and on the county level "all forseeable tasks are assigned," according to the plan, with a set of priorities for each section.

Only when no city or county agency exists that could handle some emergency problem, is any new organization called for.

The skeleton plan requires each control and operating section to prepare "annexes" describing specific assignments and policies for integration into the city and county plans.

The plan calls for considerable work by emergency councils to be created in each city and on the county level to establish overall policy and to advise on standard operating procedure. In each governmental jurisdiction, the present top officials also would be required to designate a list of successors to step in if the official were incapacitated.

Leadership of the county disaster organization would rest with the board of supervisors, and its chairman would be director of emergency services. His assistant would be the county administrator; the supervisors would appoint a coordinator of emergency services — Kirby — charged with the day-to-day preparedness organization and disaster planning.

The county-level emergency plan also calls for recruiting private industries' officials to guide some of the service sections not mentioned on the city level, such as utilities.

Kirby's plans spell out how alerts would be sounded for the county after notification from state and federal sources. The board chairman also could declare an emergency — subject to ratification within a week by the board of supervisors.

An emergency operations center in the Marin County Civic Center would be backed up by an alternate center at the Marion School in Novato, plus other alternate sites yet to be chosen.

The county plan, in addition to control and service sections envisioned for the cities, calls for special sections to control manpower, food supplies, petroleum supplies, and three post-disaster divisions to help recovery operations — industrial production, construction and housing, and economic stabilization.

Arrest On Possessing Dope Charge

Officers said Robert Henry Waldman, no known address, was arrested at about 5:30 a.m. after officers found him sleeping in his auto on Hawthorne Avenue.

Inside the vehicle, officers said, they found two metal containers and a plastic bag of suspected marijuana and a wooden pipe used for smoking the weed.

Waldman was booked into Marin County Jail where he remained in lieu of $1,050 bail and was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Guilty Plea To Burglary Try

Hall previously had pleaded innocent to burglary, but the charge was changed yesterday by agreement of Hall's attorney and the district attorney's office.

He is to be sentenced Nov. 9.

Hall was arrested July 31 by a security guard who found him outside a broken door to the office of Dr. Zane R. Gard at 77 Marsh Drive, San Rafael.

Citations To Be Given To Cyclists

The Petaluma Police Department will step up its bicycle safety campaign Friday when it starts issuing citations for infractions of safety rules.

Police Chief Larry D. Higgins said the number of violations and bicycle accidents has been on the increase despite past efforts of school safety talks and bike-a-rama programs.

In the past, when officers observed a youngster riding a bicycle unsafely, only a warning was issued. Beginning Friday, officers will write citations which will be sent to the parents along with a list of 13 safety rules to be reviewed with the youngster.

If additional citations are issued within a short period of time, they will be sent to the Sonoma County Juvenile Probation Department and the child and parents will be required to meet with a probation officer.

Higgins said repeat violators over the age of 18 will receive misdemeanor citations and be required to appear in traffic court.

"This program may not be popular with everyone, but we have a very serious problem here and something must be done," Higgins said. A similar program has been used by the Rohnert Park police department for more than a year.

Higgins said he also would be working with the city traffic committee to make streets safer for bicyclists. He recommended that congested areas on East Washington Street and Petaluma Boulevard be avoided by bicyclists because of heavy traffic and construction hazards.

Woman Hurt In Kentfield Crash

The woman, Tracy Sue Schieman of 14 Willow Avenue, suffered a broken left foot and injury to her right hip in the accident, hospital officials said. She was a passenger in a car driven by Christine Montoya, 22, of 112 West Street, Sausalito, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Miss Montoya was driving north on College Avenue at 3:35 p.m. when her attention was diverted to the right and she inadvertently steered the car that direction, off the road and into a large tree, about 375 feet north of Woodland Avenue, highway patrol officers said.

Miss Montoya was not injured.

STATE PLANNER — E. Jack Schoop of San Rafael, chief planner for the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, will become planning director for the State of Wisconsin on Nov. 1. A former newspaperman and planning director for Anchorage, Alaska, he joined BCDC in 1966. Schoop, his wife, Marilyn, and their three children live at 216 Mount Shasta Drive.

NO-FAULT

sachusetts. Under no-fault insurance, a person collects benefits from his own company regardless of who causes an accident.

Fenton's modified bill generally would have entitled motorists to recover up to $10,000 for medical expenses, wage losses, disfigurement, dismemberment and funeral expenses. Property damage would not have been covered.

If an injured person's medical expenses were higher than $1,000, he could have sued for more than the $10,000 basic payment.

"The present system stinks," Fenton told the committee.

Fenton said his bill would have resulted in prompter insurance payments, which now often are delayed for up to 16 months.

The author also said the measure would have resulted in lower insurance premiums.

Firemen's Fund, which backed the measure, predicted Californians would wind up paying $50 million less in premiums under the bill.

But opponents on the committee noted this would still have amounted to only $5 for the average premium.

State Real Estate Commissioner Richard Barger also backed the measure.

He and other insurance representative predicted if California doesn't enact a similar law within the next two years the federal government will.

Douglas J. Maloney and Tax Collector-Treasurer Stanley J. Fontez.

What effect the auditing committee could have is problematical; in most cases the bills are paid under court orders, and Mitchell has warned he might face jail if the board prevents him from paying them.

Meanwhile, yesterday, Judge Wilson authorized less than half the money requested by defense attorneys for Magee for expenses in connection with the exhumation of Judge Haley's body.

Novato Attorney Robert D. Carrow had requested a total of $5,000 for air travel expenses and services ot three doctors and a medical photographer.

Wilson refused to authorize county funds for air travel and approved only $400 for the services of one doctor for whom Carrow had requested $900.

The judge authorized $1,500 for the services of Dr. Breitenecker of the University of Vienna Medical School in Austria; $400 for the services of his son, Dr. Rudiger Breitenecker of the Greater Baltimore Medical Center in Maryland; $250 for Dr. Robert Hirshfeld, of the department of radiology at the Baltimore Center, and $200 for Andrew Gero, medical photographer at the Los Angeles City Medical Center.

Carrow said today the judge's cuts in his requests would not stop plans for the exhumation.

"We'll pay the travel expenses ourselves if we have to," he said.

The bullet-proof shield failed to win the four board votes necessary to spend the money, and was tabled. Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos and Lt. Ronald Retana reported yesterday that the glass partition between courtroom audience and the judge, jury and courtroom attaches would be an added protection, but could not reduce the need for security manpower.

Supervisors Arnold M. Baptiste and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. had opposed the shield last week; Supervisor Michael Wornum had voted for the shield only if it would reduce manpower requirements.

SCHOOLS

It also urged that they "affirm your support and participation in a proposed tri-county (Marin, San Mateo, San Francisco) regional consortium" to explore establishing "one or more integrated education programs" through interdistrict transfers "providing integreated attendance centers in one or more districts," also "short-term integrated education programs among two (or) more districts," and "regional planning to seek funding to establish a tri-county consortium on a permanent basis."

Result of this letter was that several school boards in Marin reaffirmed standing policies on interdistrict pupil transfers. None adopted resolutions supporting the San Francisco integration program. None pledged participation in the tri-county consortium.

Most superintendents who received the letter said they merely sent copies to board members and it has never been put on the agenda for action.

One who got action was Clifford W. Campbell, superintendent of Dixie district. He said he felt the state was "putting on pressure" and that board response was needed. The Dixie board refused to take a stand on San Francisco integration, reaffirmed its attendance policies, and instructed Campbell to attend any future meetings regarding the consortium to find out what might be planned. It did not endorse the consortium.

Supt. Milton S. Cohen of Larkspur district attended the June meeting. He said several "high officials" of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare were on hand. He said it appeared the plan was to "use the suburbs to do a better job of busing" San Francisco pupils for integration purposes. His board's response was to adopt a resolution affirming support for neighborhood schools.

Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry of San Anselmo district was directed by his board to write the state Department of Education asking clarification of the second letter. He said he has received no reply.

No action was taken by other Marin districts.

Virgil S. Hollis, Marin County superintendent of schools, said districts had asked that he have representatives at all meetings on the matter to keep informed as to what was going on, but none had pledged participation.

Armin D. Weems, assistant superintendent of San Mateo County schools, called the response of school districts in that county "very, very poor."

Brooks Will Leave Top Demo Post

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Northern California chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, John Brooks, has resigned, effective tomorrow.

Brooks, a San Leandro real estate developer elected to the position in January, said "the demands on my time are simply too great for me to provide the leadership which the party needs in Northern California."

Brooks, according to the committee's office, has appointed John Merlo of Chico, northern treasurer of the committee, as acting northern chairman. He will serve until December, when a successor will be selected at the committee's executive committee meeting.

Brooks said that the position "requires a full-time chairman north, which, unfortunately, I cannot be at this time."

Bound Over On Felony Charge

Reuban D. Gaynor, 40, of Richmond, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on two felony charges of drunken driving. He is to appear in superior court Oct. 18.

Gaynor is charged in connection with an accident Aug. 31 in Novato on Highway 101 in which 12 persons were injured.

OBITUARIES

James V. Tacherra, 14, Dies

James V. Tacherra, 14, a student at Petaluma Junior High School, died yesterday at a local hospital following a long illness.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Tacherra, 4850 Bodega Avenue, and was a ninth-grade student.

He is also survived by two sisters, Cynthia and Katharine Tacherra of Petaluma; his maternal grandparents and paternal grandmother.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Vincent de Paul Church, Petaluma, followed by burial at Calvary Cemetery. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. today at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma.

W. J. PETERSEN

William J. Petersen, 85, retired Petaluma poultry rancher, died yesterday at a local hospital following a short illness.

He was born on the island of Fohr, Germany, and came to the U.S. in 1901, settling in Petaluma. Petersen was a ranch employee until 1922 when he purchased his own ranch. He retired in 1953. His wife, Keike, died in 1913.

He is survived by three daughters, Lillian Nommsen, Petaluma city clerk; Clara Mogel and Minnie Combs, all of Petaluma; nine grandchildren and three great-children.

Funeral will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma, followed by burial at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

WILL RAMPE

Masonic services for Will E. Rampe, 85, of San Anselmo, a lumber salesman, were to be held today in Novato.

Rampe, of 160 Butterfield Road, died Saturday at Franklin Hospital in San Francisco after three weeks' hospitalization for a heart ailment.

He was a salesman with Service Lumber Co. of Black Point for the past 15 years, and formerly was a lumber broker in San Francisco for many years.

Rampe was a member and past master of Mount Moriah Lodge No. 44, Free and Accepted Masons in San Francisco, the Knights Templar and Shriners. He had formerly lived in San Francisco and was a Marin resident for the past eight years.

Inurnment will be private.

MAJ. COOPER

Maj. William F. Cooper of Greenbrae, a veteran of the Spanish-American War, died in a local hospital Monday following a short illness. He was 91.

Cooper was born in Nashville, Tenn. He lived in Hawaii, Atherton and San Francisco before moving in 1969 to the Tamalpais retirement residence at 501 Via Casitas.

During the Spanish-American war, he served in the Philippine theater with the first Tennessee Volunteer Infantry. He also served in France during World War I. He was awarded the Purple Heart when he was temporarily blinded.

He worked for the Bank of Hawaii and was a salesman for Hobb's Battery Inc. in San Francisco.

Cooper is survived by his wife, Anita Lorenze Reed Cooper, and a sister, Mrs. Lucius Burch of Nashville.

Private funeral is pending.

Effie B. Newman, mother of Elizabeth Benedict of San Anselmo, died yesterday in a local hospital following a long illness. She was 86.

Mrs. Newman was born in Kansas, and came to California in 1953. For the past two years she had made her home with her daughter at 114 Sycamore Avenue. She also is survived by a brother, Bert Smith of Grandview, Wash.; a sister, Pansy Meisner of Portland, Ore.; a granddaughter and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be held at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow in Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael, followed by private burial.

R. B. JOHNSON

A Mass of Resurrection for Ronald (Ron) B. Johnson of San Rafael will be offered at 10 a.m. Friday in Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church in Mill Valley. Johnson, 24, died Monday in his San Rafael apartment.

A native of Mill Valley, he was a lifelong resident of Marin County, residing at 509 Canal Street. He attended Tamalpais High School and College of Marin, where he majored in police science. Johnson was a reserve policeman and a police cadet with the San Rafael Police Department. He also was a Marine corps veteran of the Vietnam war.

Johnson is survived by his parents, Harry and Eleanor Johnson of Mill Valley; a brother, Bradley Johnson, and a sister, Lynn Johnson, also of Mill Valley.

Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel, Mill Valley. The funeral will begin from the chapel at 9:30 a.m. Friday, then proceed to the church.

Entombment will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

MRS. ZIEGLER

Private funeral for Sophie Ziegler of Tiburon was held today in San Rafael. Mrs. Ziegler, 86, died Saturday in a local hospital following a long illness.

A native of Germany, she had lived in California and Marin County six years, residing at 142 Stewart Drive.

Mrs. Ziegler is survived by a daughter, Lilo Wilde of Tiburon.

Private inurnment will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

J. FREYMILLER

Funeral for Jack Earl Freymiller of Petaluma, a San Francisco carpenter, will be tomorrow at 1 p.m. at Anderson's Funeral Parlor in San Francisco.

Freymiller died yesterday following a long illness in a local hospital.

He was born in Spokane, Wash. He has lived in San Francisco and he moved to Petaluma in February.

He was a member of Carpenters Union Local No. 2164 and the Masons, George Washington Lodge No. 525, both of San Francisco.

He is survived by his wife, Polly Freymiller; a daughter, Leotta Cunningham of San Mateo; a son, Terry Freymiller of Redding, Shasta County; five sisters, Hulda Johnson, Ruth Anderson, and Ann Wong, all of Illinois, Betty Paolini of Roseville, Placer County, and Kelly Weaks, of Spokane; a brother, George Freymiller of Novato; and two grandchildren.

An Associate Member Named

Sydney Buisson, 22, of 232 San Carlos Way, Novato, was appointed last night by the Marin County Republican Central Committee as an associate member.

Miss Buisson, a nursing student in San Francisco, has been active in precinct work and on the committee's publication, Trumpetings, reported chairman Rodgers C. Broomhead of Ross.

The committee also donated $25 to the California College Republicans to support the statewide group's campus registration campaign.

The committee postponed again endorsement of the proposed Golden Gate National Recreation Area because a resolution had not been prepared.

Youth Booked— Burglary Charge

A 19-year-old San Pablo youth was arrested yesterday in connection with a San Rafael burglary and possession of alcohol by a minor.

David Wayne Renfro was booked into Marin County Jail at 10 p.m. and held to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said they found Renfro lying in his car at 9:15 p.m. two houses away from a burglary at Kenneth D. Guinther residence, 19 Maple Hill Drive. Witnesses said they saw Renfro around the Guinther residence shortly before the burglary was discovered, according to the police report.

Police said they found two cans of beer in Renfro's car.

Hearings On County Plan Scheduled

The first of a series of public hearings on the preliminary Marin County master plan will be held tomorrow night in San Rafael.

The meeting is set for 8 p.m. in the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. auditorium at Third and Brooks streets, San Rafael, with Larkspur Councilman Benton A. Sifford as chairman.

The hearings, sponsored by Marin's City-County Planning Council, will be held in five different localities during the next 30 days.

Public controversy over the countywide plan has focused on three major issues:

The goal of greater economic self-sufficiency (including visitor enterprise development), the proposed limitation on population growth and the proposed national parkway from the Golden Gate Bridge to Point Reyes National Seashore.

The plan calls for future urban growth to be concentrated in existing city areas in the eastern one-third of the county, with the rest of Marin remaining predominantly open and rural.

Tomorrow — PG&E Auditorium, San Rafael, 8 p.m.

Oct. 6 — Tamalpais High School, rooms 123 and 124, 8 p.m., Margaret B. Azevedo, county planning commissioner, chairman.

Oct. 13 — Novato Community House, 8 p.m., William B. Lynch, county planning commissioner, chairman.

Oct. 14 — West Marin School, Point Reyes Station, 8 p.m., John F. West, planning commission, chairman.

Oct. 21 — Sir Francis Drake High School Little Theater, San Anselmo, 8 p.m., Woodrow Capurro, San Anselmo city councilman, chairman.

Comments made at the hearings will be presented at a countywide symposium on Oct. 30 from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at College of Marin's Olney Hall.

Creek Protest Figures Fined

Two persons have been fined $50 in Marin Municipal Court in connection with their arrests at a 1969 demonstration against the Tamalpais Creek flood control project.

Judge Robert A. Smallman fined Michael Robert Welch and Charles Ernest Wollard after they pleaded no contest to a misdemeanor charge of trespassing.

Following their pleas, an additional charge of failing to disperse was dismissed.

They were among 38 persons arrested in the demonstration. Warrants have been issued for three of the defendants whose cases have not yet been settled.

Mill Valley District Hires Two Teachers

Trustees of the Mill Valley School District have approved hiring two new reading specialists for district schools.

They are Carolyn Janson, Park School, at $8,496 a year, and Jacqueline Berreman, Strawberry Point and Marin Terrace schools, at $9,390 annually. The hirings were approved Monday night.

"TO YOU THE EARTH YIELDS HER FRUIT"

— Kahil Gibran

More than ever before people are aware of the value of nutrition. There are probably many reasons for this and one of the most important is that never before in the history of man have there been so many food substances in the market place that have little or no food value. Fortunately, consumer groups and Government agencies are encouraging shoppers to read labels.

When an individual first becomes aware of the value of nutrition and diet he may become confused by many often contradictory ideas. Having been in the health food business for over thirty-five years and having watched many fads and faddish movements come and go, I came to a conclusion: Keep a balance in all you do. Use the time tested ideas of old, but always keep an eye on the latest findings of our food scientists.

Food should be pleasing and enjoyable. Life is meant to be enjoyed fully. If we let instinct and intelligence guide us into sensible eating habits, we will probably find a new meaning in this rapidly changing time of instant and incomplete nutrition. A deeper understanding of the laws of nature will lead us to a simpler life — one with an easier style of living and better health. To help you on this path, we have made available to you many books which we feel will help you decide which is the best path for you. You will find these listed on the left side of this page.

With best wishes for better nutrition and thus a happier life, we're wishing you Here's Health!

Ex-Addicts Given Hope For Future

majority of addicts, he declared.

The buildup of the methadone program is proceeding cautiously. Screening processes will admit only five newcomers a week until the caseload reaches 50 persons. Eventually the program will reach 100 addicts, under Open House contracts with the mental health center and county and state health programs.

No one knows how many heroin addicts Marin harbors, but experts and users "on the street" estimate 2,000 teenagers and adults use some form of narcotics.

The average heroin addict often must steal — and sell at 10 cents on the dollar — $500 to $1,000 worth of someone else's belonging daily to assure his or her ability to buy the dreadful necessity. The addicts' burglaries are a significant percentage of Marin's crime bill, authorities agree.

Hospitals have treated heroin addicts' withdrawal travails with methadone, but the Open House plan is Marin's first methadone maintenance program. Dr. John S. Guerrant, chief of the community mental health center, said the plan has worked well in other areas, for as long as five years in New York City.

"It's much too early to tell about the Marin program," he admitted.

Perhaps, but its addict-particvations about what's happening to them.

"I've had my habit for 17 years off and on. I was always rational. I've worked since 1968 at the same job. We're out of work right now because of the (longshore) strike.

"I've hung it up (quit taking heroin) 15 or 16 times . . . and always used again. Just enough to give me life enough." He admitted that "sometimes I had to hustle" in addition to his regular job to earn $60 to $80 a day for heroin.

Another Jim, who said at 46 he was the oldest man in the methadone program, enthused that in the two weeks he's been taking the synthetic narcotic "I've stopped thinking about heroin. I have no desire to score."

"It's a great mental thing," methadone user Jack Gallagher interjected. "I don't even think about it, man. I can even see other people fix" without desiring heroin.

Tom, who had never held a job in his life until he joined the methadone program three weeks ago, said he is enjoying work as a maintenance man. Now 25 years old, he dropped out of school at 14, and first was sent to the California Rehabilitation Center for addiction treatment three years later.

"I've been running ever since. This is the first time I've felt halfway human again . . . it sure beats the streets. Even though I feel I've been putting less into it than I get out of it, I've got a job, I'm making friends. The people that mean anything at all to me" think his methadone regime is "the greatest thing that ever happened," Tom declared.

Gallagher, a thoroughgoing extrovert, has been named the methadone addicts' public relations chief. He and the other methadone recipients decided on their own to call in a reporter to tell their story — without consulting Chiarolla or other Open House staff members.

"We were concerned about it being premature," Chiarolla admitted.

"But then we told them it's their program; they had to protect it," he added.

Gallagher said methadone recipients use much of their newfound freedom from "hunting for a fix" in seeking jobs. Friends of friends help some find work. Open House itself sponsors a garden work hiring service, hauling service, and wholesale manufacture of candles, pillows and other craft objects for sale to merchants.

Gallagher also busies himself with a new special camera that makes identification cards for the methadone recipients, and serving on the program's screening committee.

"Man, it's the greatest," he says in a booming voice. "It gives me 14 hours a day I used to have to spend trying to score. I have time for my family again, instead of being out of my head or worrying. I even have a sex life again . . ."

Petaluma Pushes Probe On 12-Month School Year

An intensive study of a 12-month school year for possible use next fall was approved last night by the Petaluma Board of Education.

Schools Supt. Lesly H. Meyer said Dr. Dan Montgomery would leave his post as principal of Petaluma Senior High School to coordinate the study that also will involve the old Adobe School District on Petaluma's eastside and the Cotati School District.

Merey said the study should be completed by next February and that a board decision must be made then if the plan is to be put into effect next September. Vice principal Gerald J. Dadey was named acting principal of the school during Montgomery's absence.

Meyer said the board had many questions about the effect of the 12-month plan on students, teachers, parents and the general community, but said it held enough promise for educational improvements to warrant a full-scale study.

The board heard Marvin Woodstrup report on the year-round school plan being considered by the Fairfield-Suisun district in which students would be in class for nine weeks followed by three weeks of vacation. Meyer said the Petaluma study would be based on research already done in Fairfield.

Initial study, he said, has shown that districts that have switched to the 12-month plan have made better use of school buildings and materials such as textbooks and equipment. In some districts the 12-month plan has done away with the need for double sessions at crowded schools and even delayed the need for additional school buildings.

Under the plan, each school would be divided into four groups with three student groups on campus at any one time.

Meyer stressed that students from the same family — even if they attend schools in different districts — would be placed on the same schedule to reduce inconvenience.

"We have many challenging questions to answer," Meyer said, including the effect on student activities such as football, in-service training for teachers and providing recreational activities for students during the short vacations.

Meyer told the board he believed that most problems could be solved and the plan put into effect successfully.

He said that in addition to educators, the Montgomery study committee will also include students, parents and citizens-at-large.

In other action, the board approved the hiring of Charles Garzoli Jr. as a high school teacher at a salary of $7,543.

Alcohol Blamed For Many Highway Deaths

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fifty per cent of highway fatalities are alcohol-related incidents, reports the Consumers Insurance Information Bureau.

Nurse Arrested On Bad Checks

According to Corte Madera police, Carol Ann Daenzer of 731 Robbin Road was returned to Marin County from the San Mateo County Jail where she was being held on similar charges.

Officers said she is suspected of writing 12 bad checks totaling $969 in Corte Madera during July.

She was booked into Marin County Jail where she remained in lieu of $3,000 bail and was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Following her court action here she will be returned to San Mateo County and the Orange County for similar court appearances.

County Will Eye A Clearing House

Marin county supervisors agreed last night that it well might be that Marin could use a central clearing house for information on mental health services and coordination of efforts to combat drug and alcohol abuse.

The Marin Mental Health Advisory board told the supervisors that there was need for such a clearing house and the supervisors asked Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella to find out how to establish one, recommend who should operate it and determine the cost.

At the suggestion of Supervisor John F. McInnis, the supervisors asked the advisory board to see what can be done for drifters who suffer ill effects of drugs or narcotics and turn to the county for help. Such drifters, he noted, are apt to have neither friends nor relatives to turn to and come to public notice only when they seek general relief.

Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

JUDICIAL MERGER — Approved an ordinance consolidating the Western Marin Judicial District in Point Reyes Station with the Central Judicial District, which means that Judge David R. Baty of the Western Marin District will become a Marin Municipal Court judge as soon as SB 1051 becomes law to create a fourth municipal court. The ordinance also provides that the judges can set up special municipal court sessions in West Marin if public convenience so requires.

WELFARE — Passed a resolution asking the state Legislature to give counties a five-month moratorium on the strict enforcement of new regulations under the 1971 Welfare Reform program Campanella said the new state regulations are coming in via phone and telegram, and enforcement errors are bound to occur. Without the moratorium, the county could be held liable for the errors, said Campanella.

AVIATION — On a motion by Arnold M. Baptiste, appointed Richard P. Nave to the Marin Aviation Commission to succeed Ray W. Foreaker Jr., who resigned because he will take over as county public works director. Nave had been squeezed off the seven-man commission when William A. Gnoss was named in his place last July.

STRAWBERRY — Appointed Thomas Benbow Miller of 105 East Strawberry Drive, Strawberry, to the Strawberry Recreation District. He succeeds Conrad von Blankenburg, who resigned.

HUMAN RELATIONS — Hired F. David Carr of Fairfax as human relations coordinator of the Human Rights Department for $899 per month.

CLINICAL PHYSICIAN — Turned down a request for a clinical physician to work three-fifths time at the health clinic at 920 Grand Avenue in San Rafael at a cost of $11,058 this fiscal year. Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., Michael Wornum and Arnold M. Baptiste voted in favor, but they were defeated by John F. McInnis and Louis H. Baar. A four-fifths vote was necessary for the fund appropriation.

PHONE RATE — Asked the state Public Utilities Commission not to grant Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. a rate hike this fiscal year because a previous rate increase granted two years ago will also take effect this fiscal year.

CONFERENCE — Authorized Human Rights Director Gerald J. Hood to attend the National Association of Human Rights Workers conference in Seattle from Oct. 3 through 7 at a cost of $250.

DRAKE — Approved a resolution to make Marin a sister county of Devon, England, where Sir Francis Drake was born. Drake landed in Marin County on June 17, 1579.

DOUGHBOY — Heard Lawrence T. O'Brien — who made an unsuccessful bid on behalf of the United Veterans Council of Marin for placement of the county's Doughboy statue nearer the Veterans Memorial Building — say that the veterans "can live with" the placement of the statue near Civic Center Drive north of the building's parking lot.

GALA — Commended Leon G. Kalimos, executive director of the Veterans Memorial Building, and Campanella on the smooth opening of the building Saturday night.

GRANT SEEKER — Heard from Peter Palmer, chairman of the Marin Mental Health Advisory Board, that the county should hire a specialist in seeking private and public grants available in health, education and welfare. Such a person would raise "five to 10 times his salary," Palmer said. The supervisors expressed interest and asked Palmer and Campanella to prepare a report on the matter.

Suspended Sentenced In Greek Plot

I-J Special Report

ATHENS — A student who is on leave of absence from San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo yesterday received only a suspended sentence for his part in a plot to free a man who tried to assassinate the Greek premier.

John Skelton, 26, whose home is in Yardsley, Pa., was sentenced along with Lady Amalia Fleming, 62-year-old widow of the discoverer of penicillin, and three other persons.

Lady Fleming was given a 16-month prison sentence but it is expected that the government will take away her Greek citizenship and deport her to Britain rather than imprison her.

She told newsmen, however, that she would rather go to jail than lose her Greek nationality. Lady Fleming, daughter of an Athens doctor, holds dual citizenship because of her marriage to the late Sir Alexander Fleming.

All five defendants were arrested Aug. 31 on charges of plotting to free Alexandros Panaghoulis, 33, sentenced to die three years ago after an abortive attempt to blow up a car in which Premier George Papadopoulos was riding.

The escape attempt failed.

A five-man military tribunal found Lady Fleming, Skelton and three others guilty after 90 minutes of deliberation.

It was not clear yesterday whether Skelton would be expelled from the country or permitted to continue his studies at Athens University's theological school, where he is on a World Council of Churches scholarship.

Skelton was a student at the seminary in San Anselmo before going to Greece two years ago. Convicted along with him were an American woman and two Greek citizens. Skelton was the only one not sent to prison.

Creation Of Jobs Approved

A $280,000 federal program to create 29 jobs in Marin County won a unanimous go-ahead from the Marin County Board of Supervisors last night at the Marin Civic Center. (Another board of supervisors story, page 1)

The program, established by the Federal Emergency Employment Act of 1971, is funded by $252,000 in federal money, with $28,000 local matching funds.

John C. Obenhuber, program coordinator, reported that the 29 jobs will be created, most of them in lower paying categories.

Supervisors Michael Wornum and Arnold M. Baptiste wanted to know why no police and firemen's jobs are being created.

Obenhuber explained that the rate of unemployment in fire and police work is low, and the comparatively high salaries for police and firemen mean that fewer new jobs could be created for the same amount of money.

These are the jobs to be created:

Marin County, three typists, three park groundsmen, one investigator trainee for the public defender, two library clerks, one sanitarian aide, one buyer for the purchasing department, one zoning assistant in planning, and one building maintenance man. Total 13.

Novato, two maintenance men; Larkspur, one building and planning technician; Fairfax, one park maintenance man; County schools office, one counseler aide and one professional educator; Marin General Hospital, two eligibility workers, one billing clerk, and one insurance clerk; Marin Head Start, one teacher and one teacher's aide.

Other cities and public agencies did not apply for the program or were too late in aplying, said Obenhuber.

Filling of these jobs will be by regular county recruiting through the county personnel office.

Bicycle Trails Due Discussion

Proposals for a uniform countywide bicycle licensing ordinance and support for the county's master plan for bicycle trails will be discussed at today's meeting of the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen, beginning at 6:30 p.m. in Tiburon Tommie's restaurant, Tiburon.

The group also will consider Novato's proposal that the Golden Gate Bridge District take delivery of its new fleet of 132 commute buses at various cities throughout Marin to spread the sales tax revenue.

Consideration of a uniform countywide noise abatement ordinance, brought up before the council's August hiatus, will be resumed.

No Audience Hike At Night Session

Last night's meeting of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, the first regular evening meeting in about six years, drew an audience of about 35, no more than usual for a daytime meeting.

It may not have been a real test of the drawing power of evening meetings because only two items were listed on the evening agenda, whereas a normal Tuesday agenda carries between 40 and 60 items.

An ordinance to consolidate the Western Judicial District with the Central Judicial District was expected to be controversial, but not a single person arose to speak for or against it.

"Where's everybody from West Marin?" asked chairman Louis H. Baar. Protests were expected from West Marin because of opposition to the removal of the Western Judicial District Court from Point Reyes Station. West Marin residents and the Point Reyes Light had asked for night meetings on grounds that the public found it difficult to attend day meetings.

The only other agenda item last night was a report on the Emergency Employment Act of 1971, which would create 29 jobs in the county.

The longest discussion occurred on an unscheduled item — the veterans' request for a change in location for the Doughboy statue. The veterans delegations of about 10 was the largest contingent.

County Administrator John F. Barrows said, "there was no more and no less attendance than for an afternoon meeting, which would indicate that there is no more turnout at night than during the day."

Supervisors will try these night meetings at least two more times, on the last Tuesdays in October and November.

British Official Supports Admitting China To U.N.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)— British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home said today that when Communist China is allowed to play its full part in the United Nations "a mighty voice will be added to our counsels."

Douglas-Home, in a policy speech to the General Assembly, also warned that new fighting will break out in the Middle East if a new mechanism is not found for Arab-Israeli tlaks. And he ruled out U.N. interference in violence-torn Northern Ireland.

He spoke immediately after Canadian External Affairs Secretary Mitchell Sharp said the seating of Red China would mark a turning point in U.N. history and give the world organization opportunity for a "new beginning."

Douglas-Home spoke in the light of Britain's 20-year history of recognition of Communist China.

"In the Far East," he said, "we have seen that China has for too long isolated herself from the world community.

"When she plays her full part here in New York, a mighty voice will be added to our counsels and a major step will have been taken towards the true representation here of the balance of world powers and world opinion, from which consensus can be hammered out, however painful at times the process may be."

SMOG — DEATH TO TREES

Although yellowing, dying trees were discovered in the San Bernardino National Forest in Southern California as early as 1940, it was several years before researchers discovered they were being killed by smog from the Los Angeles basin. Ten years ago the Ponderosa pine at left was green and healthy. Today, after exposure to severe photochemical air pollution, the same tree (right) is almost defoliated. Researchers say the deterioration has been at an "alarming rate," with 8 per cent of the Ponderosa pines in certain areas dying between 1969 and 1971. (UPI Telephoto)

Fireman Funding Will Be Pressed

Marinwood Community Service District directors last night agreed to press their fight for federal funds to hire a new fireman, and discussed other fire protection problems including the proposed Renaissance Pleasure Faire site in Upper Lucas Valley.

Genevieve T. Bolding, district business manager and secretary, reported the board recieved a letter from the county personnel office, ruling that the district was inelibible to hire a fireman under President Richard M. Nixon's emergency employment program. Directors voted to refer the issue to the county counsel's office, Mrs. Bolding said, to seek an affirmative opinion.

Fire chief Gaylord E. Bonfield reported that plans for the fair on the Graves Ranch, Upper Lucas Valley Homeowners Association proposals to acquire 300 acres of land on the ridge for open space, and the expected subdivision of the Lewis Ranch might require another fire station somewhere in County Service Area 13, which contracts with Marinwood for fire protection.

Technically, the county fire department is responsible for part of the western Lucas Valley area. However, it has no equipment closer than Woodacre since closing out the station at the Marin County Juvenile Hall pending turning the facility's protection over to Marinwood.

The district directors endorsed Bonfield's requests for changes in county plans for water main and hydrant installations at the Juvenile Hall . The board took no action on the other fire problems, including Bonfield's submission of a 10-year plan for his department including addition of a truck to combat brush and grass fires.

Marinwood Community Services Board Also:

TENNIS COURTS — Reiterated its policy that the tennis courts must be kept open for unrestricted play during nighttime hours, restricting tennis lessons to daylight hours.

INSURANCE — After receiving notice that U.S. Fidelity Co. had refused to renew the district's general coverage policy because the firm is dropping coverage of public buildings, approved a policy with Hartford Insurance at an annual premium of $1,800 — up $700 from last year — with a $1,000 deductible clause.

TEEN PROGRAM — Voted to continue the summertime teenage drop-in program at the community center through December on Friday nights, at a maximum cost of $100 for supervision.

SPANS — Approved spending $350 for two used bridge spans which the Army Corps of Engineers will place across Miller Creek without charge, as part of a training program.

MAINTENANCE — Voted to bill the Upper Lucas Valley Homeowners Association an extra $340 for repairs to vandalized sprinkler in the planting area maintained under contract with the homeowners.

CLAIMS — Ordered small claims court action against two persons who have refused to pay $25 and $12 signup fees for district recreation classes. Warned another family that it faces court action unless a $150 park vandalism claim is paid within 10 days.

KAISER-AETNA — Approved revised fire protection plans for the Sequeira Ranch condominium project, but voted to oppose rezoning of the property at Oct. 11 hearings before the county planning commission on grounds it would create a "a community within a community."

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to Oct. 26. District directors Donald A. Duerr and Frank Solomon Jr. were absent.

Meat Firm Is Slapped With $535,181 Fine

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A record $538,181 in civil penalties has been assessed by Sacramento Superior Court Judge B. Abbott Goldberg against a defunct Northern California meat company and its two officers.

Goldberg handed down the judgment Tuesday against Bennett's Quality Meats, Inc., which had outlets in six California cities, and David Ray Bennett and Wilbert O. Paul.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Gordon Bowley said the fine against the now defunct bulk meat and food freezer sales organization and its officers is probably the largest ever assessed in a California consumer fraud case.

Goldberg ruled the defendants advertised meats at low prices to "bait" the customers to the store with no intention of selling the meat at the advertised prices, Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger said in a statement.

Fleischman Waiting For Cove Offer

Belvedere developer Leonard B. Fleischman today told the Independent-Journal he had heard nothing about the Tiburon City Council's offer Monday night of $125,000 for his property on Strawberry Cove.

Fleischman, telephoned by the I-J for his reaction to the offer, said he was "unaware of it. I don't know how to react until I get an offer," he said.

He declined to react to the I-J's report of the offer, saying he preferred to await receipt of the offer in writing to read the conditions.

Fleischman's 6.7-acre parcel has been snarled in controversy since 1968, when he first proposed its development with 112 apartment units. He and Peacock Gap developer Paul J. Broman have trimmed the proposed project to 72 units, and are scheduled to take it before the Bay Conservation and Development Commission Oct. 7.

The I-J incorrectly reported yesterday that the 72-unit project still must go before the board of supervisors. It has been approved already by the supervisors and the county planning commission and now needs only BCDC approval.

$400,000 For Mobile Home Sewer Service

The Novato Sanitary District has learned it would cost a developer about $400,000 to provide sewer service at a proposed 400-unit mobile home park on the south side of San Antonio Creek, west of Highway 101.

The study by staff members indicated the developer, C. D. Veronda would have to construct a treatment plant and mains, reported Bill L. Bayless, assistant district eingineer. The study was made at Veronda's expense, Bayless said.

Directors, meeting Monday night, also passed a resolution on intention to enter district employees in the state public employees retirement system, taking them out of social security.

They also approved an agreement with Pacific Gas and Electric Co. for relocation of a truck sewer line at the utility's substation in Ignacio.

Jury Reported Going Over Quentin Unrest

The Marin County Grand Jury met in a special session today at the Hall of Justice reportedly to consider requests of Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales in connection with the violence at San Quentin Prison Aug. 21.

The session was expected to last all day and it was not known if indictments would be returned today or the hearing continued to another day.

San Quentin guards were expected to testify concerning events at the prison last month when inmate George Jackson allegedly pulled out a smuggled gun, launching an escape attempt in which Jackson, two other inmates and three San Quentin guards were killed.

According to one source, inmates themselves believe that among those against whom Bales will seek indictments are John Clutchette and Fleeta Drumgo, so-called Soledad Brothers who, along with Jackson, are accused of killing a guard at Soledad State Prison last year.

Other inmates mentioned include Louis N. Talamantes, who already has a trial pending in Marin Superior Court stemming from an assault on another prisoner in March 1970, and inmates Hugo A. Pinell and John Larry Spain.

Attorneys for Pinell and Spain earlier this month sought, but were denied, a Marin Superior Court order forbidding Bales to indict them.

It was unknown if Bales today would seek to indict East Bay attorney Stephen M. Bingham, already charged by Bales in Marin Municipal Court with five counts of murder in connection with the Aug. 21 events at the prison. Bingham, who has been missing since Aug. 21, is accused of smuggling the gun to Jackson.

It was also unknown if Bales would seek indictments in connection with the fatal stabbing of San Quentin guard Leo Davis, who was killed July 21 at the prison hospital while guarding an inmate who had been stabbed several days before.

Guilty Plea In Joy-Ride Charge

Frederick Neville Henderson, 39, of Novato, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of joy-riding.

He is to be sentenced Oct. 15.

Henderson, who previously was charged with car theft, was arrested after he abandoned a 1971 auto in front of 2060 Redwood Highway, Larkspur, on Sept. 16. The car had been taken several days before from Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael.

Wine With Lunch Is Ruled Out

There will be no wine and beer-drinking in the Civic Center cafeteria because it is too close to courts and the county jail, the state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control has declared.

Michael A. Chrystal, senior administrative analyst in the county administrator's office, said the operators of the Civic Center cafeteria, Donald A. Giovanoni and Camille Bamatter, have been so notified by the state.

The department of alcoholic beverage control also contended that Giavanoni and Bamatter are not the sole owners of the cafeteria because the county gets a percentage of the profits.

The sale of beer and wine within a public building and so close to courts and the jail would cause a law enforcement problem, said ABC.

Chrystal said the cafeteria owners will ask the Marin County Board of Supervisors next Tuesday whether or not the county wants to appeal the decision.

Last June 15, the Marin County Board of Supervisors supported the cafeteria's application for a beer and wine license by a 4-to-1 vote, with chairman Louis H. Baar dissenting.

Behr's Bicycle Path Bill Clears Hurdle

By I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to establish a statewide network of bicycle and pedestrian paths, stalled since July in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, today sailed out of the committee to the lower house floor with a unanimous vote.

The bill, SB 265 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, will need Senate concurrence in Assembly committee amendments once it passes the lower house.

The ways and means committee amended the measure to limit its requirement for paths in new developments to those with 200 or more units.

The committee also endorsed Behr's bill to create a fourth Marin Municipal Court judge. The bill, SB 1051, which also raises the salaries of court aides, went to the Assembly floor.

It also will require Senate concurrence in Assembly amendments. At the request of Marin County officials, it was amended to provide that a court office could continue to be maintained in West Marin after the West Marin Judicial District is eliminated by the fourth judgeship.

Water's The Topic

Marin Alternative will discuss its campaign against Marin Municipal Water District's referendum on the Nov. 2 ballot at the organization's monthly meeting at 8 p.m. today in the College of Marin Student Center. The referendum would permit the district to join the Sonoma County Water Agency in building a new aqueduct from the Russian River.

County Seeking Applicants For Grievance Job

Applicants, particularly from among minority groups, are sought for the job of grievance counselor in the Marin County Human Rights Department, Executive Director Gerald J. Hood announced.

Salary range for the job is $666 to $859 per month. The grievance counselor handles complaints on discrimination in housing, employment, youth and education. Qualifications include a degree in the field of counseling or equivalent experience.

Tomorrow was the original deadline set for applications, but Hood said he would extend it another week. Applicants must submit resumes and professional recommendations to the Marin County Personnel Office, room 342, Civic Center, San Rafael, Calif. 94903.

Plans Denied To Replace Store; Firm To File An Appeal

Plans to replace Mill Valley's Safeway market with a new store and small shopping center have been denied by the city planning commission because the project would create "undue impact" on the community.

The proposal to demolish the Safeway and adjacent medical building and service station to build a new Safeway, a discount drug store and another service station was denied 4-0 Monday night, although two commission members, Richard Jessup and Louis E. Bartolini, expressed a desire to approve the planned unit development, secretary Evelyn Mc Creary reported.

If Jessup and Bartolini had voted against denial, a 2-2 deadlock would have resulted, eliminating the developer's chance to appeal the decision to the city council, Mrs. Mc Creary explained.

Safeway representatives now will appeal the planners decision, she said.

Opposing the plans were chairman Robert E. Burton and commission member Paul E. Rosenthal. Burton said he felt that since approval already had been given to another chain discount drug store (Thrifty) in East Mill Valley, a second would be an "unnecessary proliferation" of this type of land use, Mrs. Mc Creary said.

He voted to deny the application because of its "undue impact on the community," she said.

Safeway representatives had received informal approval of plans in May from the city's architectural advisory committee.

Building Moratorium To Be Asked

The North Marin Federarion, representing homeowner and improvement associations, will push for a moratorium on townhouse and apartment construction at a special meeting of the Novato Planning Commission at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the community center.

The federation has proposed a moratorium until the city's general plan is revised.

A revised general plan is mandatory for "regulating the future potential of the greater Novato area," the association said in a statement released yesterday.

"The primary concern during the present trend toward high density saturation is the great danger of urban sprawl and ecological imbalance in local areas which will destroy any hope for an orderly growth pattern on a well-planned basis," the federation said.

The federation also proposed that the city form an ad hoc committee of citizens to assist in revision of the general plan.

Fall Recreation Program Slated

A variety of recreation programs has been scheduled for the fall months by the City of San Anselmo, the city recreation department has announced.

While some programs are already under way, the bulk will begin next week. Registration may be made by phoning the recreation office at Memorial Park.

Bid Opening Set On Tiburon Project

Bids will be opened Oct. 27 in Sacramento for a widening project on Tiburon Boulevard, according to officials of the state Division of Highways.

The project, estimated to cost $79,000, will include widening the boulevard and constructing traffic channels at the intersections of Avenida Miraflores, Rock, Hill Drive, San Rafael Avenue and Lyford Drive.

Senate Passes Bill To Limit Teacher Power

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation limiting the power of schoolteachers to suspend unruly students has been approved by the Senate and returned to the Assembly for concurrence in amendments.

The measure by Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, would allow a teacher to suspend a student from his class, but not from the entire school. Now the student can be removed from the school for more than a day.

It cleared the Senate Tuesday on a 21-8 vote.

The Senate floor sponsor, Sen. George R. Moscone, D-San Francisco, said a pupil should not be suspended from all classes just because he has a "personality conflict" with a teacher.

Students still, however, could be expelled from school by the principal.

Florida Study Shows Mumps To Be Very Common Disease

Many of us have no idea how common mumps really is. Physicians must report each case to the health department but the viral disease is so easily recognized by laymen that the doctor is not always consulted. This is understandable because, in children, complete recovery is the rule. Furthermore, we have no specific remedy.

HEALTH OFFICIALS took a sample survey of residents in Hillsborough County, Fla. These investigators found that, in a two-year period, 126 individuals contracted mumps. Thirty-four of these people were seen by their physician; 24 were diagnosed via phone consultation. Sixty-eight of them (60 per cent) were recognized by the parents or school teacher.

We assume that these youngsters were kept at home until they recovered.

Although mumps is a reportable condition, the health department was notified in only 6 per cent of the 126 total.

IT WAS ESTIMATED that there are 20 cases of mumps per 1,000 population per year. This is 10 times more than figures based on reported cases alone. Blood tests were conducted on 233 family contacts who were exposed to the 126 victims in this study.

Surprisingly, many were immune even though they did not recall having mumps. The authors concluded that 25 per cent of the cases of active mumps go undetected because the sufferer does not have the usual manifestations.

AS FOR the new mumps vaccine that was recently licensed, is it needed or is the disease mild enough to ignore? Based on the Florida study, it is obvious that mumps is more common than we realized. More important, complications do occur and the most feared of these is sex gland involvement in adolescent and adult males. The latter side effect is painful and may lead to sterility when both sides are involved.

MUMPS VIRUSES may also spread to the brain, heart, eyes, ears, pancreas and other organs. The vaccine usually protects against the disease, but revaccination may be needed at a later date to booster the immunity.

SOFT BONES

R.S. writes: My mother used to be tall and straight as an arrow but now, in her seventies, she is short and pitifully bowlegged. I'm in my fifties and built much like my mother. Is there anything I can do to prevent getting into the same shape?

REPLY

Concentrate on good posture and maintain muscle tone through regular exercise. Bowlegs and stooped shoulders in the elderly usually come from softening of the bones or Paget's disease. The symptoms often can be avoided or kept under control with more calcium in the diet, small doses of estrogens and vitamin D.

EAR SURGERY

L. S. writes: I'm 35 and hard of hearing. The doctor wants to loosen a stiff bone in my ear. Do you think this will do any good?

REPLY

Yes, if you refer to otosclerosis, or hardening of the ear bones.

CAUSES OF HEARTBURN

I.L.K. writes: Is heartburn always due to excess acid?

REPLY

No; it may stem from spasm or irritation of the lower part of the esophagus (gullet).

FEVER BLISTERS

T. R. writes: Are cold sores on the lips contagious?

REPLY

Yes — on contact. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on these lesions.

Decline In Business Index Laid To Unemployment Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal officials said today an 0.9 per cent drop in the government's composite index of leading business indicators last month was due chiefly to increased claims for unemployment insurance.

The drop in August of the index that is considered a key barometer of future economic trends reversed a generally upward movement of the index for the past 10 months.

But administration spokesmen tried to put the best face on the statistic.

"Month-to-month movements in the composite index are especially difficult to interpret at this juncture because it cannot be determined how soon the leading indicators will fully reflect the changes resulting from the new economic program," said Harold C. Passer, assistant Commerce secretary for economic affairs.

The Commerce Department report said unemployment insurance claims increased $53 million in August to $327 million. It said five other indicators showed unfavorable declines.

The administration took new steps Tuesday to enforce its 90-day wage-price freeze, ordered into effect by President Nixon Aug. 15 as a key part of the new economic policy:

—The President announced a $2.4 billion pay raise for military personnel would be postponed until after the freeze. Nixon signed a bill extending the draft two years. It contained a provision to put the raises into effect Oct. 1, but an aide said Nixon had a Justice Department opinion showing the raise could be delayed.

—The Justice Department charged a Corvallis, Ore., property owner with violating the freeze by increasing rents $15 a month. It was the fourth court suit filed to enforce the freeze. Earlier legal actions were aimed at a teacher pay increase, an apartment house rent hike, and an increase in ticket prices by professional football's Atlanta Falcons.

Dividend Declared

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Unionamerica Inc. (NYSE, PCSE) has declared a regular quarterly cash dividend of 20 cents per share for the quarter ended Sept. 30, payable Oct. 1 to shareholders of record Sept. 1. Unionamerica is the parent company of Union Bank, Western Mortgage Corp., the Swett & Crawford Insurance Group and other financial service interests.

Tough School Bus Safety Rules Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Studies of traffic accidents involving school buses show a "consistent" pattern in which children are killed or injured when they are thrown out of the vehicles.

Douglas W. Toms of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration gave this reason to a House Commerce subcommittee Tuesday for a new set of tougher safety regulations.

Toms said the rules would force bus operators to eliminate "lethal surfaces," strengthen seats, increase padding, and tighten standards for tires and window strengths.

West Marin Woman Is Found Dead

Avril Weber, an artist who lived on Terrace Avenue, was discovered hanging from the gate at the John Doss residence, 9 Brighton Street about 10 p.m. Monday. She was found by Dr. Doss's young son, Thomas said.

According to the coroner, Dr. Doss reported the woman had tried, unsuccessfully, to hang herself two days earlier and had attempted to drown herself earlier yesterday.

Survivors include her mother, Marian Weber of San Francisco.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Sinai Memorial Chapel in San Francisco.

Judge Blocks Reduction In State Aid Payments

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A federal court order has halted the state's planned reduction of aid to the Families with Dependent Children Program that was to go into effect Friday.

U.S. District Judge Albert C. Wollenberg issued a temporary restraining order Tuesday and said the state had until Oct. 15 to show cause why it should not be made permanent.

The reductions to the program that provides welfare payments to 444,481 families was slated to save California up to $200 million yearly.

Judge Wollenberg said the state violated the decision of a three-judge panel by not giving each welfare recipient a specific reason for reducing payments and not allowing that recipient time to appeal the reduction.

The temporary restraining order said that if reduced payments have already been mailed, the state must send each recipient another check for the amount of the reduction.

A reduction notice and appeal procedure was submitted to the court Sept. 9 and state Social Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson sent each county welfare department the general notice for distribution of funds.

Couple Stumbles Upon Dynamite

OAKLAND (UPI)—A strolling couple stumbled on what sheriff's deputies say was enough dynamite to level six city blocks Tuesday in bushes in Joaquin Miller Park.

Alameda County deputies, responding to a call from the couple, also found four U.S. Army automatic rifles wrapped in plastic bags, but no ammunition.

An investigation is under way.

Wage-Price Freeze Through Elections?

CHICAGO (UPI)—The White House is secretly drafting plans for the creation of a "superpanel" of federal judges who would make the final decisions on wage-price issues, the Chicago Sun-Times said today.

In a dispatch from its Washington bureau, the paper said the White House staff is drawing up plans for the second phase of the wage-price freeze "with an unhappy awareness that they will probably have to live with (its) machinery through the 1972 elections.

"Finding no cause for optimism that conditions will be ripe to lift the restraints before November, 1972, the President's specialists are struggling to design an apparatus which will be so manifestly equitable that no group, particularly labor, can reject it with impunity from public opinion," said the story by Charles Bartlett.

The story noted that judges seem best fitted for the role of superpanelists because, "although they are rarely economists. they... have been confirmed by the senate as impartial arbiters, because they command special prestige, and because they will be faced primarily with issues of equity."

The commission of judges would apparently rest at the top of a hierarchy of industry oriented subcommissions, all comprised of one representative each from industry, labor and the public sector, the story said.

The White House appears prepared to set guidelines to restrain the rise of stock dividends, but is likely to reject pressures for a ceiling on interest rates, the Sun-Times said.

Waterbed Show Slated At Center

The latest in waterbeds, including mattresses, frames, sheets and heaters, will be on display at the Sausalito Art Center's waterbed show, scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 16 and 17.

All exhibitors will be members of the Waterbed Institute, according to center director Shelagh Considine, and will be on hand to answer questions about quality, price, comfort and general safety.

The show will begin each day at 10 a.m. and last until 6 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

PINEAPPLE FLAVORS both the cooking liquid and the sauce of this elegant chicken entree. Chicken, still an economical buy, makmakes this a dish that fits into tight budgets with sophisticated tastes.

EMPRESS CHICKEN ALMOND

Elegant Dish With Little Fuss

Browned chicken breasts are simmered in a pineapple and curry flavored syrup, then topped with a sour cream sauce with pineapple chunks and green onion.

This is a quick dish to do and requires little fuss, just a watchful eye to see that the sour cream sauce does not boil and become curdled.

If the fancy food section of your supermarket doesn't carry toasted almonds, toast your own. Spread shelled almonds in a shallow pan, bake at 350 degrees for 10 to 20 minutes, then chop. With the fresh nut crop coming on the market, it would be economical to stock up now and freeze the shelled nuts in moisture-proof containers for later use.

EMPRESS CHICKEN ALMOND

- 1 can (1 lb., 4-oz.) pineapple chunks
- 6 large chicken breasts
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 teaspoons curry powder
- 2 teaspoons garlic salt
- ¼ cup water
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 2 tablespoons chopped green onion
- ¼ cup toasted almonds

Drain pineapple reserving all syrup. Saute chicken breasts in butter until golden. Stir in curry powder. Sprinkle with garlic salt. Pour syrup over chicken, add water, cover and simmer 35 minutes until tender. Remove chicken to heated serving platter. Stir sour cream into pan juices but do not boil. Add pineapple chunks and green onions. Spoon over chicken.

Makes six servings.

Versatile Meals Don't Just Happen

Fixing new and different meals every day can be hectic. Versatile meals don't just happen — especially on days when time is short and appetites are long, as is often the case with today's busy family.

Make-ahead cooking lets you prepare foods during the less busy day, then freeze or refrigerate them until they're needed. If two hours before mealtime isn't when you get your greatest cooking inspiration, don't fight it. Instead, prepare the dishes anytime that's convenient.

Ham-Vegetable Strata is a recipe that lends itself to make-ahead techniques. It combines ham, peas, bread, sauce, and cheese into a meal that's baked and served together.

MAKE IT ahead and bake it later for about an hour — this ham and vegetable casserole will be ready when you have a busy day or get home late from the office or college.

ADVANCE PREPARATION: Combine one 10 ½-ounce can condensed cream of mushroom soup and 2 beaten eggs; stir in 1½ cups milk. Cut 4 slices bread into 1-inch cubes. Put half of the cubes in 9x9x2-inch baking dish. Top with 1½ cups finely diced fully cooked ham and 1 cup cooked peas; sprinkle with remaining bread cubes. Pour soup mixture over. Cover; chill 6 to 24 hours. Spread 2 slices bread with 1 tablespoon butter; cut into ½-inch cubes. Wrap; chill.

BEFORE SERVING: Sprinkle buttered bread cubes on casserole. Bake at 325 degrees till set, 50 to 60 minutes; during last few minutes, top with 2 ounces sharp process American cheese, shredded (½ cup). Let stand 10 minutes before serving. Makes 6 servings.

A PERSIAN-style dinner that lends itself to American tastes is this beef mixture which can be formed into meatballs or a meatloaf. Here is the meatball version with raisins, brown sugar, pineapple, nuts and soy sauce for a sweet-and-sour taste.

Exotic Persian Beef An Eastern Delight

The aura of the Near East is no further away than your kitchen. Persian Beef Exotica served with rice will set your table aglow with tantalizing aroma, bright color and intrigue like the Arabic lands themselves.

Its basic beef mixture claims versatility — half the portion can be used to make meatballs, the other half to make a deliciously different meat loaf. Either can be prepared partially ahead and then frozen to await that occasion for dining. This dish highlights the Persian preference for the sweet and sour and much texture. To the meatball creation, raisins, brown sugar, pineapple, nuts, vinegar and soy sauce are added, and to the meat loaf mixture, stuffed olives and bleu cheese.

PERSIAN BEEF EXOTICA

- 3 pounds lean ground beef
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1½ cups soft bread crumbs
- 1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce with mushrooms
- ½ cup water
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 cup finely chopped onion

Place beef in large bowl, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Top with bread crumbs. Pour tomato sauce with mushrooms and water over crumbs. Add eggs and onion. Mix lightly but thoroughly. Divide into two equal portions.

MEATBALLS

To one portion of meat mixture, blend in ¼ cup seedless raisins, ¼ cup chopped nuts and ½ teaspoon allspice. Form into 1-½-inch balls (about 24); dust lightly with flour. Arrange on shallow baking sheet, brown at 375 degrees 15 minutes. Meanwhile in 10-inch skillet, combine 1 (8-ounce) can of tomato sauce with mushrooms with 1 (8-½-ounce) can undrained crushed pineapple, 1 tablespoon soy sauce, 1 tablespoon vinegar and 1 tablespoon brown sugar. Add meatballs to skillet, cover, simmer 10 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

MEAT LOAF

To other portion of meat mixture, blend in ¼ cup chopped stuffed olives and 2 tablespoons crumbled bleu cheese. Form into loaf. Bake in shallow pan at 350 degrees 1 hour. Drain excess fat. Pour 1 (8-ounce) can of tomato sauce with mushrooms over and around loaf. Continue baking 15 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Wrap and freeze meatballs after browning step, if desired. Reheat in sauce allowing extra simmering time. Wrap and freeze meat loaf before baking. Allow extra baking time if not completely thawed when ready to bake.

Confections Welcome At Tea Time

There are high teas and low teas, the difference being the elaborateness of the fare served. Instead of the usual cookies and crumpets, why not serve some confections?

Appropriate for tea time or after dinner coffee are creams, fondants and various fudges. Crunchy brittle is suitable after an informal repast.

Cooked fondant is the basis of many centers for dipped chocolates, bonbons and mints, all good tea time sweets. Many beginners prefer making uncooked fondant as a starter. It's attractive, foolproof and quick.

Creams are cousins of the fondant family but more closely related to the fudges. Cream and butter are added giving the candy a richer flavor than fondant.

Sugar cubes lend a different texture to the candy plate. They can be colorfully decorated according to the occasion.

RIBBON FONDANT

Basic Mixture

- ½ cup soft butter
- 3 tablespoons light corn syrup
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1½ teaspoons vanilla
- 1 box (1 lb.) powdered sugar

Cream butter with corn syrup, salt and vanilla. Gradually beat in powdered sugar. Knead with fingers until smooth. Divide into 3 equal portions. Reserve one portion for white layer.

Green Mixture

- ⅓ cup finely chopped nuts
- Green food coloring

On platter or waxed paper, flatten out one portion of basic fondant mixture. Sprinkle with nuts and a few drops green coloring. Fold and knead mixture until nuts and coloring are evenly distributed. Add additional coloring if necessary to make a medium green color.

Red Mixture

- 2 tablespoons finely chopped, well drained maraschino cherries
- Red food coloring
- ¼ cup powdered sugar

On platter or waxed paper, flatten out one portion of basic fondant mixture. Sprinkle with chopped cherries, a few drops red coloring and powdered sugar. Fold and knead mixture until smooth and well mixed. If too soft, knead in a little additional powdered sugar.

To assemble, line a 10 x 4-inch loaf pan with aluminum foil. Press green fondant mixture into an even layer in bottom of pan. Top with white mixture in an even layer, then red mixture. Cover and chill until firm

DECORATED SUGAR CUBES

- 1¼ cups sifted powdered sugar
- ⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1 egg white
- ¼ teaspoon vanilla
- Food coloring
- Sugar cubes

Sift together powdered sugar and cream of tartar. Add egg white and vanilla. Beat with electric mixer or rotary beater until very stiff; if necessary, add a little additional powdered sugar. Divide into 3 portions in small bowls or cups. With food coloring, tint one portion pink, one green and one yellow.

Using a cake decorator and one color frosting at a time, make flowers, leaves, borders and other decorations on sugar cubes. Let stand until decorations harden.

Banish The Morning Blues With Sausage-Topped Pizzas

Apathetic morning appetites awaken when imaginative and diverse foods are served. So stop being conventional; start being creative!

Bring to the breakfast table entrees such as sausage-topped easy-do pizzas, beefburgers on buns and bacon-Hawaiian toast.

A breakfast providing one-fourth to one-third of the day's nutritional needs promotes efficiency in mental and physical work, provides energy and helps eliminate a craving for high-calorie mid-morning snacks.

EASY-DO PIZZAS

1 pound pork sausage links
2 tablespoons water
4 slices bread, toasted
4 slices mozzarella cheese
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
½ teaspoon oregano

Place sausage links and water in cold frying-pan. Cover tightly and cook slowly five minutes. Remove cover and brown links. Place a cheese slice on each slice of toast and arrange 3 sausage links on each. Combine tomato sauce and oregano. Spoon sauce over each sandwich. Bake on a cooky sheet in a very hot over (450 degrees) six to eight minutes. Four servings.

BEEFBURGERS ON BUNS

2 pounds ground beef
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
6 to 8 hamburger buns

Combine ground beef and seasoning and shape into six to eight patties one half to three quarters inch thick. Broil or panbroil.

To broil: Set oven regulator for broiling. Place beefburgers on rack under broiler so surface of patties is three to four inches from heat. Broil for seven to eight minutes on one side. Turn and continue cooking 6 to 12 minutes longer, depending upon degree of doneness desired. Serve on hamburger buns. Six to eight servings.

BACON-HAWAIIAN TOAST

12 slices bacon
4 eggs
1 cup pineapple juice
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
8 slices bread
4 slices pineapple, if desired

Beat eggs until light and fluffy. Add pineapple juice, sugar, salt and cinnamon and beat thoroughly. Pour over bread and let stand five to 10 minutes, turning if necessary. Place bacon in a cold frying-pan. Cook slowly, turning frequently. Pour off and reserve drippings as they accumulate. Remove bacon to absorbant paper. Fry bread in bacon drippings on both sides until golden brown. Remove to warm platter. Fry well-drained pineapple slices in drippings. Serve French toast with bacon and pineapple slices. Four servings.

A Brightener For Those Lunch Boxes

To brighten lunch box blues, perk up a coffee break or top off a tasty meal, have caramel brownies on hand. You'll also find them handy when just sneaking a snack.

Lard insures the fine texture and good flavor each time this chewy caramel treat is prepared.

CARAMEL BROWNIES

1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup lard
2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
1 cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Melt lard and add brown sugar, eggs, vanilla, nuts and sifted dry ingredients and mix thoroughly. Spread in a greased and floured jelly roll pan (15½ x 10½ inches). Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 minutes. Cool and cut. Yield: 6 dozen 1½-inch square brownies.

Try Cottage Cheese With Light Meal

Cottage cheese is one of the most versatile of foods. Throughout the year — but particularly during the summer months when appetites often are at low ebb — its refreshing flavor and easy digestibility undoubtedly contribute to its appeal.

Fortunately, cottage cheese is a nourishing food. Thus it fits in perfectly with the lighter meals that are served during these seasons.

Because of its high protein content, it may be substituted for meat. A half cup provides as much protein as an average serving of lean meat, poultry or fish.

And one and a half cups of cottage cheese contains the same amount of calcium as an eight-ounce glass of milk.

Here's a salad dressing that provides more than enough protein and calcium for a light warm weather lunch. It is a creamy, garlic flavored dressing that is especially appropriate served on a salad of garden tomatoes and cucumber slices.

Combine 2 cups of cottage cheese, 1 cup of mayonnaise, ¼ cup of lemon juice, 2 cloves of crushed garlic, 1½ teaspoons salt and ¼ teaspoon white pepper.

Crab Fondue Tarts Make Tasty Appetizer

Crab fondue tarts will be a favorite when you want hot appetizers with special gourmet appeal. These little miniature tartlets feature the double flavor of cheese. Cream cheese adds richness to the flaky pastry shells. Swiss cheese highlights the savory crab filling.

CRAB FONDUE TARTS

1 (7½ oz.) can Alaska King crab or (6 oz.) package frozen Alaska King crab
¼ cup butter
1½ tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
2 egg yolks
1½ tablespoons sherry wine
1 tablespoon lemon juice
⅔ cup grated Swiss cheese
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons finely chopped green onion
Cream cheese pastry

Drain canned crab and slice. Or defrost, drain and slice frozen crab. Melt butter in saucepan over low heat. Blend in flour. Add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick and smooth. Beat egg yolks. Add a small amount of hot mixture to egg yolks. Return to saucepan. Cook gently until thick. Blend in sherry, lemon juice, Swiss cheese, salt, green onion and crab. Heat gently until cheese melts and crab is hot. Spoon crab mixture in baked tart shells.

Cream Cheese Pastry:

½ cup butter
1 (3 oz.) package cream cheese
1 cup flour
Dash salt

Cream butter and cheese, beating until smooth. Blend flour and salt into creamed mixture and mix thoroughly. Wrap pastry in waxed paper and refrigerate half hour. Press small portions of pastry into small tart pans. Top with another tart pan the same shape and press firmly. Bake at 400 degrees 8 minutes.

BACK IN the garden of her Petaluma home, Cyndi Brinson wears the traditional Thai dress given to her by her Thai "family" after her three months in Chiengmai as an exchange student the past summer. Cyndi says that the family's life style is quite Westernized and the women only wear the silk costume on occasion. "Most Thai girls are short, and although I'm only 5 feet four inches tall, I felt like a fat giant," she says with a laugh.

SUMMER VISIT

Petaluma Student Plans Return Trip To Thailand

By DYANNE FORTNER

Visits to Thailand by American students are but a small part of a creeping Western influence in an area once noted for its mystique and cultural charm.

Cyndi Brinson, an American Field Service participant from the Petaluma Chapter at Petaluma High School, relates that Thailand is indeed succumbing to its associations with students and its proximity to Vietnam and the servicemen there.

Miss Brinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Brinson and now a senior at Petaluma High School, spent three months summer vacation living in a community called Chiengmai with a family of six.

"Its market place is straight out of the Arabian night," she exclaimed. Little stalls and shops are staffed by merchants expert in bartering. Cyndi explained that this area is known especially for its silver products.

HER "FATHER" was a very wealthy and important man, she said. His prime business was exporting tobacco but he owned a theater, a saw mill and a dairy. Dairies are rare, according to the young student; she observed only one supporting Chiengmai. His wife served as the business' head accountant in addition to possessing the title of head mother. It is a Thai custom for wealthy men to have more than one wife, a fact the woman hesitated telling Cyndi for fear of offending her standards.

The father was also a very superstitious man. Although the number 13 is an American superstition, he believed in its supernatural powers. It was his 13th year in business. Two close friends died, one factory burned to the ground and he narrowly escaped injuries from an automobile accident. He often reminded Cyndi that if he survived this year his good fortune and success would surely continue.

Cyndi was quick to interject that her "family" was not typical of the population because of their wealth and material possessions. There is no middle class, but only extremes of poverty or affluence, she said. All inhabitants are Buddhist.

WITH HER two "sisters" she attended a private Catholic school "Roll-down bobby socks and patent Mary Jane shoes were part of the uniform. Most Thai girls are short and slim and although I'm 5'4" tall I felt like a fat giant," she said laughing.

At the end of summer Cyndi and 21 other AFS students visiting nearby areas were presented to the minister of education in Bangkok and each received a certificate of completion.

Her classmates there were quite interested in her tape recorder and tapes of current rock tunes. Thailand's teenagers are also avid motorcyclists, and because the girls are taught to be very demure, they ride along on the cycles with hands folded in the lap rather than holding on to the driver as we are accustomed. Cyndi insisted she ride American-style for fear of falling.

Another example of their hesitancy to display any aggressive behavior came when Cyndi was instructing them in a game of volleyball. Most were surprised that they would have to exert such energy to enjoy the sport.

Heroin grows wild in the surrounding hills, but Cyndi met no teen-agers with a drug problem. "Either it is not considered dangerous or it is not publicized," she stated. "While playing golf one day a boy of six or seven ran to the course and offered me some marijuana," she related. No questions regarding the American drug situation were ever asked of her.

"BEING FROM California had its advantages. So many persons consider our state glamorous and I was always asked about Disneyland," she said.

Another question repeatedly asked was if she had seen the motionpicture "Love Story"; it had been banned in Thailand. Whenever she was introduced to her family's friends or relatives she was asked to do something American. "Thank goodness I play the piano. I played the theme from "Love Story" many, many times," she sighed.

Thailand, which means land of the free, possesses a government which heavily censors all its media, she said. Not until Cyndi returned home did she learn of the American moon landing in July. Of the radio newscasts she heard, the emphasis was on the Vietnam death tolls. She did notice, however, Chiengmai's newspaper carried photographs of the Russian Cosmonauts following their tragic space mission. Television is available, but only the wealthy own sets, she said. Much of its programming consists of Japanese cartoons and two American series, "Wild Wild West" and the "Partridge Family."

THE FAMILY'S diet of rice and spicy, hot condiments with fish, pork or fowl was often augmented by trips to the finest hotel in Chiengmai, the Rincom. Of the few military personnel she saw many used this hotel's facilities.

A batch of chocolate chip cookies she prepared for her Thai family proved to be a special eating adventure for them and something the family cook enjoyed too.

Although delighted with the luxury of servants, she was dismayed when she arrived home one day to discover her one pair of leather shoes kindly washed and hung on the clothesline to dry.

Cyndi is planning a return visit to Thailand hoping her own American family will be able to accompany her. Presently she's putting together a package to send to her "sisters" in Chiengmai. They have requested some lip gloss and bikini underwear from America.

THE WAR CRY

Consumer Rights Fight On All Levels Is Urged

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Fight for consumer interests was Sylvia Siegel's war cry at yesterday's luncheon of the Mill Valley Branch of the American Association of University Women at the Mill Valley Community Church.

The consultant to the Association of California Consumers, formerly executive director of the association for two years at its headquarters in Sausalito and now a law student, discussed consumer problems on the national, state and local levels.

On the national level, she said, efforts of the Consumer Federation of America, primarily active in representing consumer interests in Congress, are restricted by budget problems and that its future existence is "very shaky."

As for the bill approved Monday by the House Government Operations Committee creating an independent consumer protection agency, she declared that it has a long way to go and faces crippling amendments. She added that Ralph Nader objects that it deals with just the top of the consumer abuses iceberg — only 10 per cent of anything that matters.

"Virginia Knauer (the president's assistant on consumer affairs) pulls punches," Mrs. Siegel said, "because she knows she has to accede to political decision of this administration — and they ain't in the interest of consumers."

IT IS important to educate consumers, she pointed out, but said "I don't trust this administration on educating the consumer — you have to watchdog this. You may get somewhere by being sweet, but I believe in acupuncture!"

Mrs. Siegel strongly recommended subscribing to "The Co-op" newspaper. "It's a tremendous source of consumer information and education," she declared.

Of the situation on the state level, she said, "I think it's sick. We need a real consumer advocate independent of business interests. At present there is only a consumer advisory committee consisting of four business men and a Girl Scout!"

The speaker said the Department of Consumer Affairs is working on the auto repair bill — "now the most important bill before the legislature and the number one consumer complaint in California."

Another important bill, she believes is the class actions bill permitting individuals to file suit on behalf of groups of individuals. "This is a tremendous weapon for consumer groups," she stressed.

The consumer consultant also urged support of bill AB620 dealing with abuses allowing repossession of automobiles and also dunning the debtors for the remainder of the loan, and bill AB1505 — no fault insurance on cars.

"Trial lawyers and the insurance industry are fighting it," she charged, "but to hell with trial lawyers and the insurance industry. If you want to protect your economic interests, get into this battle."

MRS. SIEGEL quarrels with some of Ralph Nader's material on the California land and water use issue but believes most of what he puts out is substantial. She commends him for bringing issues like this and auto safety before the public and believes his work is having an effect on products, institutions and getting people involved.

The former executive director of the Association of California Consumers — a voluntary group —said that it had been successful in helping to get the office of consumer consultant for the State of California established and in getting credit legislation passed.

But, she said, it is too thinly financed, noting that in an Oct. 8-10 convention at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building with Ralph Nader as speaker, crucial issues will be decided, including whether it will continue or little grass roots groups will take over.

On the local level, Mrs. Siegel said, the consumer protection situation is "a sheer disaster," and urged study and action in connection with public utilities rates and in the field of health care, especially hospitals. "Health care is an industry, and we should have something to say about it, such as that there are enough training facilities and that more women are admitted to training.

"WE SHOULD have a consumer representative at every city council meeting, at every planning commission meeting and every board of supervisors meeting. A lot of consumer issues start right there.

"Join the Marin Consumer Association," she urged, "and scream, girls, scream. Don't sit back and take what you get."

Watch That Head Tilting At Next Party—Could Give Yourself Away

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Next time you're bored at a party, try the newest game anyone can play.

"Read" through gestures and or posture what the guests are thinking, wishing, how they reveal their personality silently and you'll lose the "What am I doing here?" attitude. You've probably been expressing boredom yourself in several ways, it turns out — one of the most familiar is the chin in the palm of the hand and the body pointed toward an exit.

A blink, a smile, crossed legs, the way you sit in a chair, even a buttoned or unbuttoned jacket contain revealing social, sexual and emotional meanings, says Gerard I. Nirenberg, a New York lawyer and longtime student and advisor on the art of negotiating. He's written two books on the subject.

NIRENBERG CONTENDS that any gesture, any pose of the body is a silent communication.

Nirenberg says that from a very early age, women instinctively understand its significance. "It gives the impression of listening intently. They use it consciously when they converse with a male whom they want to impress—and they do."

Nirenberg, 48, married to a teacher-librarian, and father of three boys, spells out some meanings of body language in a new book written with Henry Calero, a business executive, consultant to the aerospace industry, and like Nirenberg a student of negotiation techniques.

Their work is called "How to Read a Person Like a Book" (Hawthorn) and grows from negotiating technique seminars held in the United States and abroad. They went through video tapes of the sessions with "thousands" of businessmen and (3 to 5 per cent) women.

THE TAPES originally were used as learning sessions with businessmen who'd watch, then read back as it were what they'd interpreated. The seminars are under the aegis of the Negotiation Institute, of which Nirenberg is founder and president.

In an interview, Nirenberg talked of some of the gestures that, consciously or unconsiously, communicate. Seeing eye to eye, for instance.

Confident persons have more frequent contact than those who are unsure or attempting to conceal, and the duration of contact is longer. Confidence also causes the eyes to blink less, hence the person seems a better listener.

Nirenberg interprets the unbuttoned coat this way: "The gesure seems not only to communicate that a person is opening up to you and your ideas but is concentrating on what you're saying."

One of the most telling gesture of either sex is the defensive one of arms crossed in front, as if on guard. You see it in baseball umpires. The very young will cross their arms when defying their parents' instructions. The elderly will use it when they are defending their right to be heard.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

'Female Vapors' Are Blamed Whenever A Woman Explodes

DEAR HELEN:

When a man gets rightfully mad and blows up, people listen, or at least pay him the compliment of fighting back on his level. Sometimes his mate even cringes a bit. And the air is cleared, because the male has asserted himself!

Not so with women. If, after taking it up to here as the sweet, understanding conciliator, she tears loose with the fury she's held back too long, does it "clean the air"? No! Someone whispers, "It must be that time of the month," or — if she's older — "She's starting the change, you know, poor thing." Whenever we're righteously indignant, our hormones get blamed. Instead of listening, people tippy-toe around, acting sorry for us.

Be it known far and wide (and especially by my husband and family) that my reproductive organs have nothing — but nothing — to do with my infrequent explosions. Isn't it time we had the right to a healthy "mad," without having it attributed to "female vapors?" — FOR WOMEN'S RIGHT TO TEMPER

DEAR FWRTT:

Attagirl! The hoary old "female vapors" syndrome makes many a woman steam, and rightfully.

I'm reminded of a male writer who blamed a prominent woman's "gabbiness" on the menopause. Right then and there, that woman gained me as a supporter, even though I seldom agree with all she says.

What do you bet women win job and wage equality sooner than they banish the classic put-down: "Poor thing, it must be the wrong time of month for her." — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You advised a woman that hugging friends was fine, if she felt like hugging, even though her husband was more restrained. I wonder.

I've been married 19 years to an Oriental man who has always refused to hug or kiss me in public. Reason: In Japan it is rude to show affection when others are presented because some lonely person, with no one to hug or kiss, might be watching and be made more lonely.

I'm used to this now — we don't need to touch in public. Just looking at each other expresses our love.

Couldn't "just looking" at friends convey affection too? As Mr. Spock of Star Trek says, "Restraint is civilized." It can also make the heart grow fonder. — AN ORIENTAL'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE:

Different strokes for different folks. Demonstrated affection is misery for more restrained people, but "the touchable" are miserable without it. While a husband and wife should respect either trait in the other, they shouldn't remold their own personalities to conform. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband is a wonderful provider, a good man, not a philanderer. His one bad habit is that he flatters every woman he meets. He bolsters their ego at the expense of mine, i.e.: "I'd give anything if my wife baked bread like this!" or "You're as young-looking as when you were in college with us."

If I retaliate by giving a man friend a compliment, my husband implies I'm stuck on him. He was always a big tease. Considering the terrible problems I read in your column, mine seems slight, but Helen, I can't stand the sly glances women give me when he's slathering on the praise (which he doesn't mean — you should hear what he says about them later at home!). — DOROTHY

DEAR DOROTHY:

It's a blarney to your husband — baloney to you — and later on you discover it's all a bunch of bull. So smile at his teasing. He could have worse habits! — H.

Nader's Auto Safety Center Offers Tips For Car Buyers

By ARTHUR E.ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Ralph Nader's Center for Auto Safety has drawn up a six-point advisory for persons considering the purchase of a new car. The tips come just as the new 1972 models are being promoted to prospective buyers from coast to coast.

The points add up to a kind of appendix to a book published earlier this year under the title, "What to Do With Your Bad Car: An Action Manual for Lemon Owners." Nader and his co-authors, Lowell Dodge and Ralf Hotchkiss, aimed the book primarily at people who are already auto owners.

After the book was published, they realized that it should have had more information to help prospective purchasers. Here are the six points:

1. LOOK FOR the vehicle identification label attached to or near the driver's door frame. It must contain the name of the manufacturer, month and year of manufacture, gross axle weight rating and gross vehicle weight rating, the vehicle identification number and type of vehicle classification, whether it is a passenger car, multipurpose vehicle, etc.

2. This information should tell you whether the car is indeed new or is a used "executive" or "demonstrator" vehicle. In order to make certain, ask the dealer to show you his original invoice for the car; the invoice should have the date of the dealer's purchase of the car, the vehicle identification number and the dealer's cost. If you have any question, ask the state Department of Motor Vehicle if the car was registered previously.

3. Ask the dealer for details about the car's braking capability, acceleration ability and "tire reserve load" for any car he sells. Federal law requires him to furnish this information on request to prospective buyers. "Tire reserve load" shows in percentage terms how much more weight can be carried safely on standard-equipment tires beyond maximum passenger capacity. The larger the figure, the larger the safety margin. The same data on braking, acceleration and tires are published annually by the Department of Transportation and printed by the U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402. The 1972 edition (Vol. III, No. 1) is expected to be available sometime in October.

4. Before buying a new car, determine what the dealer will do about possible defects. The Nader group suggests that prospective buyers examine service facilities, question previous buyers from that dealer and make other inquiries. You should be aware that contracts between dealers and manufacturers require that a warranty be honored at any authorized dealer of that company. Failure to do so is grounds for suit against a dealer who refuses.

5. TO HELP your own bargaining position, check listings of wholesale and retail prices of cars and accessories in books available on newsstands. One is "Edmond's 1971 Car Prices." Because of the freeze, 1971 prices should still apply.

6. Before taking delivery or signing the sales contract, check your car carefully, including a road check at various speeds and a trip to a car wash to find if there are any leaks.

Home Economist Feeds 6 On Only $100 A Month

Can you feed a family of six on $100 a month, despite rising costs?

Southern California home economist Martha Randall does, and she has for the past five years.

The home economist for a grocery chain explains how she does it and why in an article in the October issue of Woman's Day magazine.

"I was concerned about how people could feed themselves on low incomes or fixed pensions. It also bothered me to see many mothers spend a great deal for groceries that left their families fat yet undernourished."

With those thoughts in mind, Mrs. Randall decided to try a limited budget, $100 per month. "Five years later, I find I'm hooked. Making it work has become a fascinating hobby."

IN OFFERING tips on food budgeting, Mrs. Randall says "One thing I've found is that sticking to a limited budget involves more than simply buying the cheapest items on the grocery shelves. I've had to develop a completely different approach to shopping, cooking and eating."

Among the tips Mrs. Randall offers,

Don't shop in a series of last-minute dashes to the supermarket. Plan a week at a time.

Don't shop when you are hungry. "If you're dying for something to eat, you buy more than you need."

Check your refrigerator and freezer compartment and look through the kitchen cupboards to see what's on hand. Whatever is drooping in the vegetable bins is worked into coming meals so it won't spoil.

Study the food ads while preparing your shopping list.

Shop alone. "It takes concentration to compare values and prices and to figure out whether or not to take advantage of bargains, not on the list, to store or freeze for the future."

Large sizes are usually less expensive per unit, but only if they can be used up before they spoil.

Food that comes already prepared is practically always more expensive than the separate ingredients.

Produce offers a lot of challenge to the thrifty shopper. For example frozen peas are always cheaper than fresh peas. The same holds true for canned tomatoes over fresh. Carrots and eggplant, though, are usually cheaper fresh.

Store brands are almost always cheaper than other brands.

The food value of ground beef is equal to steak—and is much more versatile. Buy it in large quantities when it is on sale and freeze it.

Save about 15 cents a chicken by buying broiler-fryers and cutting them up yourself.

Variety meats are also low in cost and high in protein—beef and chicken livers, heart, kidneys also pot roast and bulk sausage or liverwurst.

Eggs make excellent meat substitutes and can be used as a main dish. "For less than a nickel each, where else can you find the makings for so much variety?"

Couple Sets Marriage In January

Lynn was graduated from Terra Linda High School and is employed with Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. in San Francisco.

Roger is the son of Mrs. Florence Thurber of San Anselmo and the grandson of Mrs. Josephine Bambino of San Anselmo.

He was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and is employed with Mill Valley Refuse Service.

Wedding Is Held In Santa Rosa

Laura chose her sister, Penny Peterson, as maid of honor for the late afternoon ceremony. Matron of honor was Mrs. John Biggers of Santa Rosa. Janet Wagner, a sister of the bride; Marsha Fisher; Becky and Vicky Trujillo were bridesmaid.

Following a reception at the Saturday Afternoon Clubhouse in Santa Rosa the couple traveled along the West Coast for a wedding trip. Rohnert Park will be their first home.

The bride is a graduate of El Molino High School in Forestville. John Harvey Coburn of Sebastopol is her local grandfather.

Jack, son of Manuel Trujillo of Redwood City, is a graduate of Sequoia High School in Redwood City, College of San Mateo and is a junior at Sonoma State College.

Women and Smoking: Some Helpful Hints

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — Women may have a more difficult time than do men in breaking the smoking habit.

Of the 10.2 million persons who quit smoking between 1966 and 1970 only 3.8 million were women, according to a study published in the October issue of Glamour magazine.

Women have a 25 per cent higher return rate, and the number of women smokers is up from 22 per cent in 1955 to 31 per cent in 1970.

Psychologists believe women become hooked because cigarettes signify their desire to break with old social restriction, and smoking helps women handle role confusion. Other reasons given for women smoking are that in the business world, smoking creates a sense of equality with men.

Some suggestions from women who have given up cigarettes include carrying around substitutes like breath fresheners, sugarless gum, mouth spray, celery and carrots.

Women also could do strenuous physical exercise like tennis or swimming to work off irritation or anger that cigarette denial may cause.

When the urge to smoke hits, try an exercise of pressing the index finger against one nostril, breathe in through the other to the count of four. Hold breath to the count of eight and then exhale. Reverse nostrils and repeat.

Remember, the urge to smoke lasts only a couple of minutes — so try to wait it out.

Cranberry sauce is good when spooned hot over pancakes or used as a glaze over baked ham.

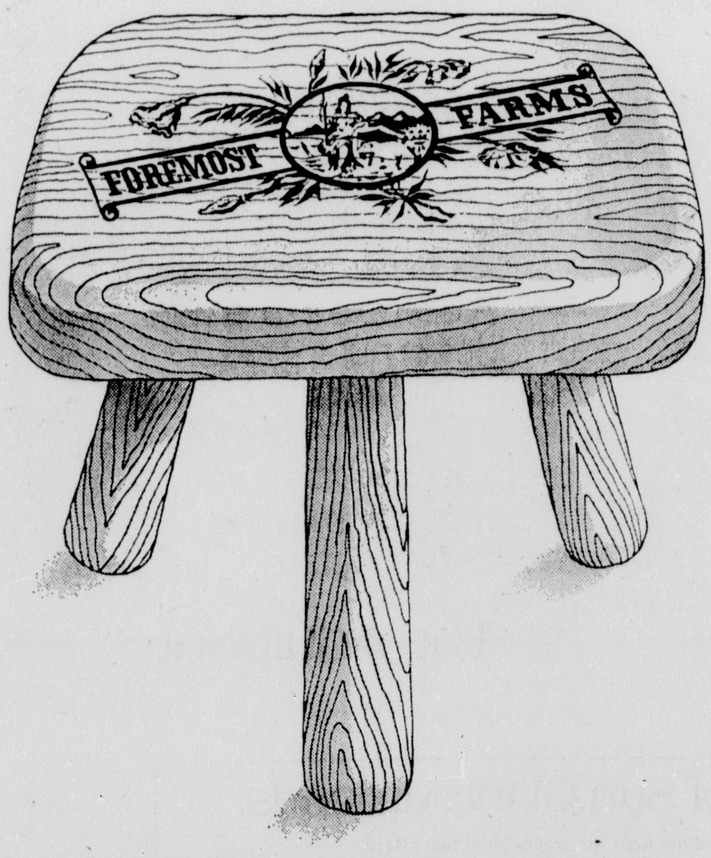
WIN AN AUTHENTIC

(For-whatever-it's-worth)

FOREMOST MILKING STOOL.

It's as easy as A, or B, or C.

A.



B.

C.

In an honest effort to win friends, influence people and unload a bunch of homely (but sturdy) milking stools, we bring you yet another push-over-of-a-contest from Foremost.

To enter here's all you do:

1. Take a very close look at the three milking stools above.

Each is a likeness of the 1000 full-size wooden stools we'll be giving away to 1000 lucky winners. Each has the same classic design. Each has our handsome Foremost brand on the seat.

But only two of the stools are exactly alike. One is just a little bit different. Discover which it is, A, B or C?

2. Next, we need a tie-breaker, just in case. Simply complete the following sentence any way you like: "Never, but never, take a milking stool to_____with you." Your answer will be judged on "originality."

3. Finally, pick up an official entry blank wherever Foremost Dairy Products are sold.

On it you'll find complete contest rules, a space for your A, B or C answer, a space for your tie-breaker sentence and the address to mail your entry before midnight, Nov. 1, 1971.

There's no purchase necessary. So send in as many entries as you like.

After all, the next milking stool contest that comes along may not be this easy.

Foremost. The Freshmost.

MARIN COUNTY FAIR OPENS FRIDAY, OCT. 8

A story in yesterday's Independent-Journal, describing the program for the forthcoming Marin County Fair, erroneously reported that the fair is to open this Friday. The fair actually begins its four-day run on Friday, Oct. 8.

The fair, which for many years has been presented at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, this year will take place on the new fairgrounds under development at Marin's Civic Center.

Concert Association Sets Member Drive

Officers have been elected and the dates of Oct. 18-23 announced for the membership campaign of the newly organized Marin Concert Association.

Officers are Ben A. Farlatti of Tiburon, president; Claudia Goldthwaite of Terra Linda, first vice president; W. Robert Lomax Jr. of San Anselmo, second vice president; Mrs. Bernard F. Mulaskey of Fairfax, secretary; and Wells Rasmussen of San Rafael, treasurer.

Mrs. Esther M. Dearth has been appointed culture chairman for the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce and will be working closely with the new association.

A kick-off invitational dinner for the campaign will be held on Oct. 14, with place and time to be announced later. Headquarters will be at Sherman Clay, San Rafael.

The association has been organized by a group of local citizens for the purpose of presenting a series of four or five fall and winter concerts in the 2,088-seat theater of the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

In this non profit operation membership fees are collected before artists are engaged, and only such commitments are made as there is money to cover. In this way there are no losses and no profits. Attendance is by membership card only with no tickets sold at the door. The number of memberships is limited by the capacity of the theater.

"Frula," a Yugoslavian dance production on Nov. 22 is the only program booked at present. It is hoped other attractions offered will include performances by artists and groups of such caliber as soprano Mary Costa, the Young Americans, the Robert Shaw Chorale, Norman Luboff Choir and the Romeros, classical guitarists.

Further information may be obtained by writing Post Office Box 398, Fairfax, or by calling Mrs. Bernard F. Mulaskey of 18 Sherman Court, Fairfax.

San Francisco Symphony Concerts In Marin Set

Tickets are on sale now for the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra's third annual Marin series of four concerts which will open on Jan. 22 at 8:15 p.m. in the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Joining Maestro Seiji Ozawa in this first concert will be young German pianist Christopher Eschenbach, making his Bay Area debut in Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 21, K 467.

Other numbers will be Roger Sessions's Symphony No. 8 commemorating his 75th year, Vaughan Williams's Concerto Grosso for String Orchestra and Scriabin's Poem of Ecstasy honoring the 100th birth anniversary of these composers.

The series' second concert on Feb. 26 will feature Hungarian conductor Istvan Kertesz with his countryman, Violinist Gyorgy Pauk, as soloist.

Both Dvorak specialists, they will present that composer's violin concerto. The other two numbers on the program will be Mozart's Serenata Notturna and Bartok's Concerto for Orchestra.

Maestro Dean Dixon will conduct the third concert on April 22 featuring the American premiere of "Vox Clamatis," a New work by young Czech composer Peter Eben. Brahms's Tragic Overture and Bruckner's Symphony No. 3 conclude the program.

On May 20 Ozawa will close the series with Garrick Ohlsson, 23-year-old pianist who is the first American to win a gold medal in the Warsaw Chopin competition, as soloist in Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 1. Dvorak's Hussite Overture opens this program, and the 50th anniversary of Saint-Saens's death is commemorated with his symphony No. 3 (organ).

Season tickets for the Marin series guarantee reserved seating for all four concerts, as well as a 10 per cent saving over the cost of single tickets, and priority seating for the current and future Marin series.

Further information and tickets may be obtained at the box office which is open at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays and from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays.

Winners In Film Fair Announced

San Francisco State College film makers took top prizes in the first Marin Film Fair competition held in connection with the Marin County Fair, according to Marcelle McCoy, fair manager.

The prize-winning films will be shown four times daily during the fair, scheduled for Oct. 8 through Oct. 11 at the Civic Center.

"Natural Habitat," a view of man in his modern environment by Ralph Arlyck of San Francisco State, was awarded top prize in the independent producer category.

Arlyck's prize was $500 and Heath will receive $250.

A special award for the best entry using "Man and Nature" as the theme was given to Charles Peterson, San Francisco independent producer, for "Farallon Light," a film showing wild life in the Farallones.

Peterson also won second place in the independent class for the same entry. Each prize was $250.

Third place in the independent category went to Greg Smalley of San Anselmo, for "Stained Glass," a photographic essay on the art of making stained glass windows.

Other student category winners included Doug Wendt of the San Francisco Art Institute, second prize of $100 for "Time Offed," and Richard Harkness, San Francisco State, third prize at $50 for "The Visitor."

Judges selected two films for honorable mention in the independent class: "Home Grown" by Ben Van Meter of Bolinas and "Dispossessed" by George Ballis of Oakland.

Honorable mentions in the student category went to Carl Willat of Tamalpais High School for "Washington at Valley Forge" and Wendt for "Up and Atom."

The films will be showed at 11 a.m. and at 1, 3 and 5 p.m. in the Veterans Memorial Building, Mrs. McCoy said.

PG&E Contends Plant Is Safe

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Pacific Gas & Electric Co. has filed a report contending that its proposed $830 million nuclear electric power plant at Point Arena will cause no long term environmental damage.

The 80-page document was submitted Tuesday to the Atomic Energy Commission, which must then make its own report to the President's Council on Environmental Quality before it can grant PG&E a construction permit.

The proposed plant, which would generate 2.23 million kilowatts when completed in 1979, is opposed by conservation groups which are against any new nuclear power plants on the California coast

Hurricane Aims For East Coast Landfall

MIAMI (UPI) — Hurricane Ginger sloughed off an artificial ice seeding today and aimed its massive circle of 90 mile an hour winds and eight foot tides for a Thursday morning blow at North Carolina's Outer Banks.

The National Hurricane Center issued hurricane warnings at noon for the low-lying coastal area from Cape Lookout, N. C., northward to Virginia Beach and told residents in the area to take immediate precautions.

Already winds to 40 m.p.h. were slapping at the Outer Banks—an area that has been pounded for over a week by heavy ground swells and surf kicked up by Ginger, a massive storm that covers an area the size of Florida.

Dr. Robert Simpson, the chief of the National Hurricane Center, said Ginger was expected to make its landfall Thursday morning between Cape Lookout and Cape Hatteras.

The eye of Ginger, the longest-lived hurricane on record, was 80 miles wide and Simpson said the storm's gale winds were affecting an area more than 700 miles in diameter.

"Tides will rise steadily during the next 24 hours to a maximum of eight feet above normal near the hurricane center as it reaches the coast," Simpson warned.

"While Ginger has lost some strength during the last 24 hours, it remains an important storm because of the large area which continues to be affected by gale force winds."

In addition to issuing a hurricane warning for North Carolina and Virginia coasts, forecasters put the area from the Virginia coast northward to Delaware, including the lower Chesapeake Bay, on a hurricane watch. Gale warnings were issued in the same area.

The Hurricane Center said Ginger was advancing toward the mainland at a slow pace and warned that a small change in direction could result in a rapid change in the area of warnings.

Keys In Ignition —Auto Is Stolen

A 1970 Corvette, valued at between $6,000 and $7,000, was stolen yesterday after the owner left the keys in the ignition while it was awaiting service at Campbell-Bishop Chevrolet in Corte Madera.

Officers said today the auto, owned by the Toy Box of Woodland Hills, Los Angeles County, was taken at about noon.

No October Meeting For Medical Group

An item on the Independent-Journal business page yesterday stating that the California Medical Association would hold a meeting at Holiday Inn in San Rafael on Oct. 16 was in error.

The information was supplied by the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau. According to the association, no meeting is being held in October.

Lynch Pledges Peace Talk Try

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic has agreed to try to persuade leaders of the Roman Catholic minority in Northern Ireland to take part in peace talks, British government sources said today.

They said he pledged to make the attempt to British Prime Minister Edward Heath and Northern Ireland Premier Brian Faulkner during two days of talks at Chequers, the British leader's official country residence.

The talks ended Tuesday after noon with publication of a statement by all three prime ministers condemning violence in the north and saying the discussions created an atmosphere of greater understanding between them.

Hiring Minorities For Parking Lot Due Study

Employment of members of racial minorities as parking lot attendants at the new Veterans Memorial Building and as employees for the Golden Gate Bridge District's bus system will be among topics to be discussed tomorrow night by the Marin County Human Rights Commission.

The commission meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in Room 332 at the Marin County Civic Center.

Executive Director Gerald J. Hood will present a proposed resolution, asking the state Legislature for some changes in school financing in view of the state Supreme Court ruling that present property tax methods of support are unconstitutional.

Lanny Berry of Tamalpais High School District will ask the commission to sponsor a statewide roadshow of "project Breakthrough", a federally-funded program conducted at Tamalpais High School to help the disadvantated student.

Other agenda items include the monthly report by the executive director and committee reports.

Camper Looted

A $200 mattress and four cushions have been stolen from a camper pickup at Marin Trailer Sales, 2066 Redwood Highway, Larkspur, police said today. Officers said the theft occurred sometime Sunday or Monday.

Kaiser Hospital Addition Backed

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night approved plans to increase Kaiser Foundation hospital to four times its present capacity.

The commission approved a two-phase development ultimately adding a five-story hospital and medical clinic making the Kaiser facility into a full service hospital for members of the Kaiser health plan and emergency treatment for people in the area.

Charles J. Linthicum, senior planner, pointed out that the proposed additions would be screened off on three sides by the hill which will be at least 15 feet above the top of the new buildings.

No one in the audience objected to the plans.

Commissioner Alan M. Kay said he opposed a high-rise building in a residential area, but commissioner Jorgen V. Lunding said residents wouldn't see the new buildings and said there is a tremendous need for a hospital in the area. Chairman Joseph J. Garbarino agreed saying that if there were an emergency at 7 a.m. on a weekday, it might take 45 minutes to get to another hospital.

When complete, the hospital will have 202 beds, 216 employees and 50 doctors, according to Linthicum.

The commission approved plans for a park for 400 mobile homes at the end of Smith Ranch Road and settled the problem (not resolved at two previous meetings) of imposing an access road to the Smith Ranch Airport.

The commission conditioned its approval that a floating right of way be granted to the city on the east side of the railroad tracks and the mobile home site to join an extension of Smith Ranch Road with Smith Ranch Airport.

The San Rafael Planning Commission Also:

Stanford Opens Firing Hearing For Professor

STANFORD (UPI)—Stanford University opened a dismissal hearing against a Communist professor Tuesday during which the proceedings were telecast to students via closed-circuit television.

H. Bruce Franklin, 37, avowed Maoist-Marxist, and associate professor of English says his political views are on trial. The university charges that his conduct is in question.

Franklin was accused of inciting students to disrupt a speech by Henry Cabot Lodge last January on campus, and with inciting students to close down the college's computer center Feb. 10.

About 350 professors signed a statement upholding the university's suspension of Franklin, but 66 other faculty members objected, citing fears of infringement on academic freedom. Groups of radical students firmly support Franklin.

Belotti, Wife On The 'Stable' List

They were injured Sunday in an automobile accident near Cloverdale.

PATIENCE PATIENTLY HOLDS OUT

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Mrs. William Wilson, embarrassed by carrying her poodle in a blanket, begged Deputy Gordon Rhyne at a shopping center yesterday to "take me home, it's an emergency."

Rhyne obliged and got Mrs. Wilson home just in time to help deliver three healthy puppies.

The officer admitted he wasn't sure they would make it in time, but he gained confidence when Mrs. Wilson said the poodle's name was Patience.

Wallace Looks Back To Election

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Alabama Gov. George Wallace would have required Richard Nixon to go on television to restate his campaign pledges — particularly on busing —if Wallace had received enough votes in 1968 to deny Nixon outright election as President.

Wallace said Tuesday he could have tied up the last presidential election if he had received 150,000 more popular votes distributed in North Carolina, Tennessee and South Carolina.

But Wallace said he would not have gone to the House of Representatives. He said he believed Nixon would have gotten his electoral votes because Wallace was against Democratic candidate Hubert H. Humphrey.

Wallace, however, said Nixon first would have had to go "on national television and reiterated and restated some of the commitments he made in the campaign for the presidency."

"The speech he made in Charlotte, N.C., in which he said, "I am against busing of school children. I'm against the destruction of neighborhood schools' ... that's one thing he would have had to say," Wallace said.

Wallace was interviewed by Public Service Broadcasting Service.

Warning Unheeded, Train Kills Pair

MARTINEZ, Calif. (UPI)— When four young men walked into the train tunnel, an engineer stopped his train to warn them they were in dangerous territory. They continued toward the opposite end and were met by an oncoming train.

Two of the men leaped to the side and escaped, but two others, both 21, were killed instantly. The victims were identified as Russell L. Burg of Concord and Ronald E. Pierson of Clearlake Highlands.

A Guilty Verdict In Dog Shooting Trial

A Sausalito man who fatally shot a neighbor's dog last year was found guilty of cruelty to animals yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Thomas Henry Donoghue, 42, of 418 Johnson Street, admitted shooting the dog May 16, 1970, but testified he thought he was justified because he was bitten by the dog that day — the third time in as many weeks the dog had bitten someone.

A jury of eight women and four men, however, deliberated two and a half hours before finding that Donoghue had maliciously killed the dog, Babe, a pedigreed Weimaraner owned by Kathie Sommer.

Judge Peter Allen Smith, telling the jury he agreed with its verdict, ordered Donoghue to return to court Oct. 22 for sentencing.

A mailman, David Johnson, testified that Babe bit him in the leg three weeks before the shooting, and a telephone company employee, Lawrence Arrington, said he was bitten by the dog two days before the shooting.

On the day of the shooting, Donoghue said, he climbed over a small fence into Mrs. Sommer's yard to see the puppies recently littered by Babe and the dog bit him twice in the leg.

After treatment at Marin General Hospital, Donoghue said, he returned home, got a .22-caliber rifle, climbed back over the fence and shot the dog.

In asking for a guilty verdict, Deputy Dist. Atty. Milton M. Hyams told the jurors that Donoghue's action could no more be justified than if he had shot a neighbor who had punched him in the mouth.

Defense attorney Michael B. Dufficy, on the other hand, asked the jurors to consider the possibility that the fourth person the dog might have attacked could have been a small child.

Ex-Sen. Morse Seeks Old Seat

Morse said Monday he will seek the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate, where he served for 24 years. He said he would announce his plans more fully next month, most likely on his 71st birthday.

The seat Morse seeks presently is held by Republican Mark O. Hatfield, also a constant critic of U. S. Vietnam policy.

Crusade Eyes Federal Aid To Boost Social Services

By DAVID DIETZ

A plan under which social service programs supported by the United Bay Area Crusade would be bolstered with massive doses of federal aid was outlined today to representatives of UBAC member agencies in Marin.

David Neil, UBAC's director of administration and finance, emphasized the proposal was strictly conceptual at this stage, but that it presented a "tremendous opportunity" to implement or improve "just about any service you can imagine" on a community level.

As described at a meeting in the Bank of Marin in San Rafael to representatives of the Marin Association for Mental Health, St. Vincent's School for Boys and the Marin chapter of the American Red Coss, UBAC could increase to about $40 million the $10 million now being spent in target areas of the five-county Bay Area.

This would be done, Neil said, by applications for federal funds under 1967 amendments to the Social Security Act. Under the plan, UBAC, allocating to member agencies as usual, would borrow back portions of the grants, using the money to obtain federal grants on a 75 per cent federal-25 per cent local basis.

Neil said the funds could be used for such things as day care, consumer protection, foster care, homeowner services, senior citizen service centers, adoption services, birth control education and tutorial services for the disadvantaged.

The plan is an outgrowth of the crusade's New Directions program, designed to provide greater service to minority groups and poverty areas.

Intrinsic in the proposal, Neil told the group, is formation of a nonprofit Human Services Corporation made up of welfare directors from the five UBAC counties, five UBAC board members and five members from the minority communities. The corporation would be responsible for contracting with the five counties to fund the bolstered social services, and for subcontracting with "delivery vehicle agencies" on the community level to provide the services.

Of the approximately $40 million that could be obtained through federal funds in behalf of target areas, Neil said, $20 million would be returned directly for program funding, with the rest going toward the cost of services — staff, transportation, office space — needed by the "delivery vehicle agencies" and toward a "variable fund" in the event programs were expanded beyond funding levels.

The plan has yet to receive official approval from either member agencies or the UBAC board.

United Crusade Panel Talk Set

The United Bay Area Crusade's "new direction" will be discussed at 9 a.m. Thursday on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" program by Lawrence D. Bolling, UBAC vice president and general budget chairman, and Lawrence E. Hoyt, 1971 campaign chairman.

The crusade has launched a policy of giving money to agencies attempting to solve ghetto problems, thus with drawing support from some institutions formerly supported.

Ruling On Firings Is Asked

The superintendent of the Sausalito School District has asked the county counsel's office for a ruling on the legality of dismissing two teachers' aides because they are on the board of the Marin City Learning Center.

The women, Title One aide Jackie Harris and educational aide Hazel Curry, were fired by the school district board Sept. 20. At that time the board said the aides were "in conflict of interest," because of their joint employment in the district and involvement with the learning center, a private school in Marin City.

At Monday's board meeting, Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg told trustees he had had several inquiries concerning whether the dismissals were legal.

Lindberg said he plans to call a special board meeting later this week, as soon as the county counsel has prepared an opinion in the matter.

The Sausalito School District board also:

TEACHERS — Postponed action on a recommendation from Lindberg to standardize the amount of time all teachers in the district spend at school each day until the Sausalito District Teachers Association could study the proposal. At present, according to the superintendent, teachers can leave school one-half hour after their last class. Consequently, he said, kindergarten teachers can leave at 1:30 p.m., while most other teachers must remain at school until 4 p.m.

PRINCIPALS — Approved a $350 annual stipend for the district's two principals, to cover mileage and expense incurred in their jobs.

ENROLLMENT — Learned that district enrollment has grown to 481, from 451 the first day of school.

ART CENTER — Voted to extend the date when the Sausalito Art Center must vacate the Old Bayside School from Sept. 30 to Oct. 15 to allow more time for a lease on the property to be prepared, a lease satisfactory to both the center and the district.

TRANSFER — Approved a transfer into the district for first grader Cary Laird from the Mill Valley School District.

MEETING DATE — Agreed to hold its second meeting next month on Oct. 11 rather than 25th, since that day is an official federal, state and district holiday (Veterans Day).

Big Bon Air Plan Unveiled

A fortress-like apartment development proposed for Bon Air Hill was unveiled last night before the Larkspur Planning Commission, but no action was taken pending review by the city's planning consultant.

The commission's delay went part way toward satisfying members of the Larkspur Town Meeting who argued that the project magnitude dictated it be delayed until the city's master plan is upgraded.

According to a firm representative, John Tapking, the development would be "family-oriented" and would house more than 600 persons.

Rents for the one to three-bedroom apartments would range from $185 to $260 per month, he said, to a chorus of unbelieving groans from the small audience.

Experience showed, he continued, that the development's one swimming pool and four tot lots would be sufficient to handle the number of residents expected. "Most apartment dwellers would rather sunbathe on their decks than use the pool," Tapking said. "We have found in our other projects that one recreation facility (pool) and scattered tot lots fulfill recreation requirements."

Under a proposed parking ordinance, soon to be up for adoption, chairman Robert H. Lee noted that the development would be required to provide about 460 parking spaces. As proposed, it offers space for 358 with little, if any, room for expansion.

Commissioners also requested reports from the city's fire and police departments on safety matters at the development which would ring the top of the hill with a "kind of meandering structure," as Lee put it.

The Town Meeting group, headed by A. Charles Brouse, called for a continuation so the impact of population and traffic on the city could be studied.

Brouse supported his groups position with a policy statement approved in July by the city council calling for a halt to all large development until the city master plan is updated.

The commission, in declining to act on the proposal, continued it to Oct. 12 when a timetable for review by the consultant will be set. The review is expected to take 60 days.

The Larkspur Planning Commission Also:

REZONING — Approved rezoning a small parcel of property at 265 Magnolia Avenue from single-family residential to administrative and professional office zoning. The site is opposite the new Lark Creek Inn and was once used as a used car lot.

BICYCLE INN — Approved a variance request from the proposed Banfield Bicycle Inn at 1111 Magnolia Avenue to reduce the number of required parking spaces from 18 to 11.

SPROUSE-REITZ — Continued to its Oct. 12 meeting a request for a variance on the number of parking spaces required at a proposed Sprouse-Reitz store adjacent to the Safeway store at 20 Bon Air Road. In later action, it also refused to approve the design of the proposed store building, instead referring it back to the architectural review committee.

BOAT DOCK — Approved a use permit requested by Dorothy Sexton for operation of a boat docking and storage facility on Corte Madera Creek at 2170 Redwood Highway. The approval was conditioned on the removal of the facility when the creek is again dredged.

WAREHOUSE — Approved the design of an industrial building at 46 Industrial Way as submitted by R.H. Greene of San Rafael.

APARTMENTS — Referred back to the architectural review committee a 10-unit apartment house proposal for 955 South Eliseo Drive. The building is being proposed by Betty Burgar and would be located adjacent to Corte Madera Creek.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to its next regular meeting on Oct. 12 at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Reed Trustees To Pick Panel Members

The Reed School District board will meet in special session Oct. 12 to appoint members from the community to seven special committees.

According to Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello, committees will research specific topics and present the information to the board later this year.

Four committees, research and instructional assessment, finance, school facility and transportation and drug abuse, have been appointed each year for several years, Giovanniello said.

Three new committees will be added this year: Recreation programs, small school study and community service fund.

The number of citizens to serve on each committee has not been determined, Giovanniello said. In the past, five persons have served on each committee.

The board also approved hiring Gail Siegal to teach third grade at Bel Air School at $7,024 a year; and two classified employees, Loraine Anderson for four hours a day at Reed School and Elizabeth Slaughter for three hours a day at Del Mar School. Both were hired at $2.41 an hour.

Hospital Parking Lot Bids Sought

The Marin Hospital District board last night authorized calling for bids for approximately 10,000 cubic yards of fill for a buttress in the parking lot across the street from Marin General Hospital.

No estimate of the cost has been made, according to Ray K. Bolinger, hospital administrator.

The bids are to be opened at the board's Oct. 26 meeting.

The Marin Hospital District board also:

DOCTORS — Granted associate staff privileges to eight physicians. They are N. Edward Boyce Jr. of Mill Valley, Richard C. Brown of Greenbrae, James E. Damon of San Rafael, Woodrow M. Donovan of Community Mental Health Center, Donald B. Nevins of Kentfield, Diana D. Parnell of Greenbrae, Jay R. Salzman of Greenbrae and A. Alan Weber of Greenbrae.

DELEGATE — Named George E. Croke as the board's delegate to the annual Association of California Hospital Districts meeting in San Francisco Oct. 22. George H. Folsom was chosen as alternate.

ABSENT — Board members Marion C. Ibach and Thomas K. Procter were not present.

Tiburon Youth Nabbed In Probe Of Marijuana

A 20-year-old Tiburon youth was arrested last night on suspicion of possessing marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia and battery on a police officer.

Larkspur police said Joseph Wood Azevedo of 1877 Centro West Street was arrested at about 11:20 p.m. after a routine traffic stop developed into a fight.

Azevedo, the son of Marin County Planning Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo, was stopped on Magnolia Avenue for driving a vehicle without license plates, officers said.

They said that when he was cited, he became angry and began swinging at officers and during the course of the fight received a gash on his forehead.

He was treated at Marin General Hospital and as he was being led to a patrol car for booking at the county jail he again started swinging, officers said.

While being searched at the jail, officers said, a package of suspected marijuana was found in his jacket pocket along with a brass holder used for smoking the weed.

He remained in jail in lieu of $5,000 bail and was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Mobile Eye Clinic Sets Novato Hours

A mobile eye clinic will be operating at the Novato Downtown Center from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday under sponsorship of the Novato Lions Club.

Children will be screened for vision problems and adults for glaucoma, according to Robert Eddy, club president. There will be no charge.

The mobile optometry clinic from the school of optometry at the University of California at Berkeley will be operated by senior clinician students and faculty, he said.

The club also will be conducting White Cane Days sales in Novato Friday and Saturday and funds collected will be used for sight conservation projects, Eddy reported.

4-H Week Parade Is Scheduled

The Novato Jets 4-H Club will sponsor a parade through downtown Novato Oct. 9, marking National 4-H Week.

The parade, starting at 10 a.m., will feature floats, decorated bicycles, horses and family and individual entries, reported Nancy Gauer, parade chairman. The theme is "Our America—the Land and the People."

A trophy will be awarded for the best 4-H Club entry, as will ribbons for first, second and third places in all categories.

Persons or groups interested in entering the parade should notify Mrs. Gauer, 2358 Dominic Drive, Novato, no later than Monday.

The parade will start at Lee Brothers Market parking lot at Seventh Street and Grant Avenue, then go north on Seventh to Vallejo Avenue, east on Vallejo to First Street, south of First to Grant and west on Grant back to Lee Brothers.

Sausalito Youth Picked For Board

A 20-year-old Sausalito youth, one of two candidates for two vacant seats on the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District board, has been chosen by district directors to fill one of the posts, board president Cyril G. Hansen reported.

Hansen said the selection of Dale Carey, 501 Bridgeway, must now be ratified by Marin County Supervisors.

Carey, a student in business-men administration at Golden Gate College in San Francisco, is the first person under 21 to serve on the sanitary board, he said.

On Monday, the board voted to elect Carey and incumbent George Elkington of Sausalito as new directors, since they were the only candidates who filed for the two vacant seats.

Subject to the supervisors' approval, Carey will replace John Hinman, whose term expires next month.

Bill Banning 'Torture' Toys Backed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation banning the sale and manufacture of "torture" toys and those resembling bombs and grenades was approved yesterday by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The bill by Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, was sent to the Senate floor on a split voice vote. It already has passed the Assembly.

The only dissenting vote was cast by Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, who objected to the "torture" language, contending it was too broad.

Burton said the bill was aimed at toys depicting "people hanging in racks with hot irons that they can be stuck with."

Banned outright were toy bombs and grenades. Models of aircraft, ships or spacecraft would be exempted under the measure, which would take effect July 1, 1972.

Burton has introduced similar bills for the past six years but they all died in Assembly committees.

"We've spent enough time on this that we could have negotiated a real arms agreement," Burton told the Senate committee.

Free Courses In Philosophy Now Under Way

Four-Day Workweek To Begin

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Parks and Recreation Department Friday will become the first state agency to begin a four-day, 10-hour-a-day workweek on a large-scale basis.

A spokesman said two-thirds of the 300 employes in the department's Sacramento headquarters will work a four-day week during October in an experimental program. All headquarters employes were given a choice of working either on a four-day or a regular five-day week.

The spokesman said that in recent years sections of several state departments, including the Franchise Tax Board, went on the four-day week for specialized activities.

"The new workweek will not reduce services but will permit three-day weekends," said Information Officer Dick Thompson, noting the employes will work the new schedule on a staggered basis.

Those employes will work either Monday through Thursday or Tuesday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. with a half-hour lunch. Current working hours for most employes were 7:30 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. with a 45-minute lunch period.

Department officials will evaluate the experimental hours to determine whether such a schedule should be made permanent. The new schedule does not affect department employes in district offices.

Gov. Ronald Reagan last week signed a bill by Assemblyman Mike Cullen, D-Long Beach, which authorizes the governor to put a four-day week into effect for state employes if he desires.

PUC Chief Denies Panel Met Illegally

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The chairman of the California Public Utilities Commission yesterday compared his group with state and federal appellate courts and said there was nothing "secret, unlawful or improper" in its executive sessions.

Chairman J. P. Vukasin Jr. said the only recent procedual change has been a minor one in which the commissioners "physically and individually sign the numerous orders and resolutions" out of the presence of staff experts.

"All multi-member courts, both federal and state, including the Supreme Courts and the Courts of Appeal, conduct their deliberations in executive session," Vukasin said.

"Certainly no one would suggest that they sit with one party or the other when arriving at their decisions. The same reasoning applies to the Commission."

Vukasin pointed out that Commission decisions, as well as each commissioner's vote, were matters of public record.

The PUC has been criticized recently for changing procedure so that the five commissioners sign their decisions in executive session.

Bill Exempts Developers Of Films

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly yesterday approved 49-0 a bill by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, to exempt developers of pornographic movies from antismut laws.

Senate for concurrence in Assembly amendments. One major amendment declares that if a film developer is excused from obscenity restrictions he must not "know that such film constitutes obscene matter."

Opponents objected earlier because that provision had been stricken from the bill after it passed the Senate. They defeated the bill last week but agreed to vote for it if the provision was restored.

63 Strep Cases Reported Last Week

Srreptococcus infections were the most prevalent of the communicable diseases reported last week in Marin County, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, health officer. She said there were 63 cases, 40 of them in Novato.

Other diseases reported were gonorrhea, 39; mumps, 1; syphilis, 2; salmonella, 2; serum hepatitis, 1, and shigella, 2.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON GREB

Guess who was born today and became famous.

1. England honored this great Admiral by placing his statue atop a 145-foot Corinthium column, overlooking a London square named to celebrate his victory at Cape Trafalgar (near Gibraltar) in 1805. Before the battle in which he was killed, he told his men, "England expects that every man will do his duty": (A) Lord Nelson; (B) Admiral John Benbow; (C) Sir Francis Drake.

2. What Irish colleen represented London's brave women under German Luftwaffe attack in the World War II motion picture, "Mrs. Miniver"? This star, who is 63 today, also was in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" and "Random Harvest": (A) Maureen O'Hara; (B) Greer Garson; (C) Irene Dunne.

3. Know who ranks among Spain's greatest teachers and philosophers? He was a Salamanca University professor, who wrote books urging men to strive against fate and was deported for openly attacking the 1923 dictatorship of General Primo de Rivera: (A) Miguel de Unamuno; (B) Pablo Casals; (C) Jose Ortega y Gasset.

4. Do you suppose Jack Benny is the only one claiming to be 39? No, sir! That also was the number uppermost in the claim of a statuesque Swedish model before the 1951 "Miss Universe" contest. She got a Hollywood film contract after press photographers agreed she had the right figure: (A) Diana Dors; (B) Raquel Welch; (C) Anita Ekberg.

A Reminder: Be Kind To High Cards Or They May Desert You

The average bridge player thinks of himself as kind and considerate, but he takes his high cards for granted. He never thinks of the pain he causes to the aces and kings that he sometimes abuses shamefully. But if this goes on, one day those aces and kings will revolt. Don't say I didn't warn you.

SOUTH'S HAND

Isn't it a pleasure just to look at that South hand? South thought so when he picked up his cards. If only he had never learned how to finesse during his wild youth! Then perhaps he would have done justice to this 26-point hand.

The bidding was short and sweet enough, and West opened the jack of clubs. South counted his tricks and saw that he had eight tricks in aces and kings. He needed one other trick for his contract.

Without wasting much time on thought, South took the first trick with the king of clubs, cashed the ace of spades and led a heart to dummy in order to try the spade finesse. The finesse lost, and the dummy was dead. South wound up with his eight top tricks and nothing else. Down one.

BETTER CHANCE

The finesse in spades gave South an even chance for his contract but he neglected a much better chance. After taking the king of clubs South should have led out the ace and king of spades. Then if nobody showed out, he should have led the jack of spades.

This play would set up the jack of spades if either opponent had the singleton or doubleton queen of spades. Dummy's nine would set up if either opponent had the singleton or doubleton ten of spades, or if the six missing spades were divided 3-3.

2 TO 1 ODDS

The odds were about 2 to 1 that this method would develop an additional spade trick. A player who gives up 2 to 1 odds in order to take an even chance doesn't deserve to pick up 26-point hands.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with three no-trump (25 to 27 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - 10 4
♥ - Q J 9 3
♦ - Q J 10 8 4
♣ - Q 7.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid six no-trump.

Since you have eight points in high cards, you know the partnership count is 33 to 35 points. This should give your partner a comfortable play for a small slam, but a doubtful play for a grand slam.

Church Breakfasts Resume Tomorrow

Community breakfasts held at the First Baptist Church in Mill Valley will resume at 7:30 a.m. tomorrow after a summer break in the schedule.

The monthly breakfasts, held in Spangler Hall of the church on Miller Avenue, are open to all city residents. Reservations may be made at the church.

Society Makes Plans For Sale

The Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society will hold a storeroom sale from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at the museum, known as Old St. Hilary's Church in Tiburon.

Among items for sale will be an old tread sewing machine, patented in 1887, an oak architect's desk of 1900 vintage and other items.

Proceeds from the sale will help renovate the storeroom.

COUNTY A DISASTER AREA—TWO COUNTS

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Cotton County, Okla., can claim federal drought and flood aid at the same time.

The county, in the southwestern part of the state, was declared a drought disaster area last spring by the Department of Agriculture. That designation is still in effect.

President Nixon made the county eligible yesterday for disaster relief because of heavy rains in the area in August.

The press secretary of Gov. David Hall said Cotton County received 10.5 inches of rain in four hours Aug. 15. That's about half a year's rainfall.

Hub Will Fly Flag On Its Own 'U.N. Day'

San Anselmo Mayor Kenneth L. Anderson last night proclaimed Oct. 24 as United Nations Day in that city and ordered the flying of the U.N. flag.

The action came in an atmosphere of calm, devoid of opposition that had hitherto surrounded the city's mundialization efforts.

With the concurrence of the city council, Anderson also instructed the director of public works to locate a suitable site for the new flag pole, which will be raised in special ceremonies, to carry the U.N. flag.

If opponents of mudialization were present, they did not express themselves.

The controversy began last April when San Anselmo became the first California community to mundialize by declaring its residents citizens of the world as a well as the U.S. and by agreeing to fly the U.N. flag.

Opposition to flying that flag with the American flag arose immediately and led at one point to the removal of the U.N. flag from the city's flagpole outside city hall.

San Anselmo Institutes Juvenile Work Program

Borrowing from its neighbor, San Rafael, the San Anselmo City Council last night instituted a juvenile work program for youthful lawbreakers.

Under the new program, juveniles who are referred to the county probation department will be ordered by the juvenile court referee to work a certain number of hours on Saturdays and holidays. The program was instituted to provide an alternative to imprisoning youth or releasing them after only a stern reprimand.

The new juvenile work program will be a duplicate of one in operation in San Rafael since 1969. According to the Marin County probation department, San Rafael's program has been a success and has not been a burden to the city. The San Rafael program is supervised by an inspector in the juvenile bureau who is responsible for keeping tabs on the workers, checking time schedules and quality of work.

Youths will work in the city's public works, park maintenance, fire and police departments. Work will range from painting call boxes and hydrants to plant maintenance in police offices.

Councilman Warren R. Perry told the council that the work program "would provide a desirable alternative to incarceration or a fine which in effect is meaningless to the offender."

Councilman James F. Reed asked for a report in three months on the progress of the program. "It's a trial balloon and we should have a report back," he said.

The San Anselmo City Council Also:

USE PERMIT — Upheld an appeal by John H. Colteaux and overruled the planning commission in denying a use permit for a recycling depot at 275 Greenfield Avenue.

RECYCLING — Reviewed reports from spokesmen for San Anselmo Garbage Disposal on a plan for their part in the recycling program and garbage pickup in the city.

LOT SPLIT — Denied an appeal by Barry W. Rogers of Marin County Apartment and Home Rentals, Fairfax, upholding the planning commission's denial of his request that he be permitted to build two homes on a single lot at 447 Laurel Avenue.

PARK AND RECREATION — Granted the parks and recreation commission request that it review all applications for parks and recreation director position.

PROPERTY — Authorized appraisal and negotiations for the purchase of two pieces of property, one on the Northwestern Pacific right-of-way and the other on land owned by Marin County Development Company.

SAN QUENTIN — Instructed the city attorney to draft a letter to the governor and state legislators supporting the board of supervisors' attempts to make San Quentin a minimum security prison.

CLOSED SESSION — Adjourned to a closed session scheduled tomorrow to hire a temporary park and recreation director and to discuss with the city attorney an impending suit against the city, rising out of a traffic accident.

Flyer Cited For Bravery In SE Asia

Air Force Lt. Col. Spencer Hall Jr., son of Mrs. Kathryn C. Hall of Fairfax, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for bravery while on a mission in Southeast Asia.

Hall distinguished himself as an RF-101 Voodoo reconnaissance jet aircraft pilot, according to Air Force officials.

"Disregarding his own safety, he flew his unarmed aircraft over a heavily defended area and acquired photographic intelligence vital to the success of the Air Force mission," officers said.

The colonel is now assigned to Duluth International Airport in Minnesota as chief of the support division, 23rd Air Division.

Commissioned in 1944 through the aviation cadet program, Hall holds the aeronautical rating of command pilot.

He is a 1942 graduate of Tamalpais High School and attended College of Marin. He graduated in 1962 from the University of Nebraska.

Brooke Asks Easing Of Vote Requirements

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., wants to set a 30-day residency requirement for voters in elections for federal office.

Brooke introduced a bill to that effect Tuesday. He said that unless Congress acts there will be "injustice as millions of eligible voters seek to add their names to the voting rolls in time for the presidential primaries and general election next year."

Brooke said studies have shown that more than 5 million Americans were unable to vote in the 1968 presidential election because of restrictive residency requirements.

Mass Transit Gas Tax Backed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Rejecting opposition from the Reagan administration, an Assembly Committee has approved a bill which would impose a new sales tax on gasoline to raise $133 million for mass transit.

"We've built too damn many roads and we're dying from them," a committee member supporting the bill said.

The measure, by Sen. James Mills, D-San Diego, was sent to the Ways and Means Committee on a split voice vote of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Chemical Firm Cited In 7 Deaths

NIIGATA, Japan (UPI)— Niigata District Court today ruled that pollution from one of Japan's largest chemical plants caused the deaths of seven people from mercury poisoning.

The court ordered the Showa Denko Co. to pay damages of $820,000 to 77 persons in the pollution case. The plaintiffs had asked for nearly twice that amount.

SWEEPING VIEW

Of the Valley, Sausalito & San Francisco. We have an exciting typical Mill Valley home in a best weather area. Altho it has 3 plus bedrooms, 3 baths, a large formal dining room, it's just a bit different. One of the bedrooms and one bath are on the lower level, ideal for a maid, or an in-law or teen-ager. Let us show this $77,500 charmer.

LOVELY IMMACULATE HOME

We have one for sale with an asking price of $44,950. This would be a great rental at $375 per month or a total of $4,500 a year. Buy why rent? We can obtain an 80% loan & the owner will carry back a 10% second, if needed. So with 10% down plus closing costs, this home can be yours to buy instead of to rent. After the downpayment is made, & buyer takes title, the monthly payments on the loan & taxes will be approximately $383 a month, almost all of which is tax deductible. 3 bdrms., 2 baths, family room, all in excellent condition.

RICHARDSON BAY SANITARY DISTRICT
433 Town & Country Village
Mill Valley, Ca. 94941
NOTICE OF A SPECIAL MEETING
September 30, 1971

A special meeting of the sanitary board of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District has been called for by the president of the board. This meeting is to be held on Thursday, September 30, 1971, in conjunction with a meeting of the board of supervisors of the County of Marin to consider the possibility of consolidating all or a portion of the sewage collection and treatment functions in Marin County, with the two major water districts. The Richardson Bay Sanitary District may also at this time discuss and/or act upon the engineers recommendations with regard to the Little Reed Heights Home Owners Association's plan for odor control. The board also may reconsider actions taken on September 21 with regard to bids on the Bel-Aire intercepting sewer. This meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Thursday, September 30, 1971, in the board of supervisors chambers at the Civic Center.

By order of the President of the Sanitary Board

Nixon In Promise To Free POWs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Five hundred relatives of imprisoned and missing American servicemen stood and cheered in an emotional response Tuesday night when President Nixon promised the United States will "eventually succeed" in freeing their loved ones.

Nixon oade a surprise personal appearance before the second annual convention of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia. A few hours earlier, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., had told the relatives that American captives were "rotting" in prisons because the administration was too proud to negotiate with their Communist captors.

Nixon, however, strongly defended his policy.

"I can assure you that every negotiating channel —and now I say something here that I'm sure all of you will understand —including many private channels that have not yet been disclosed, have been pursued, are being pursued and will be pursued," the President said.

Nixon's appearance at a league banquet followed an afternoon business session at which the group pointedly warned the White House that its paitence was not endless. It strongly hinted that if progress is not made in freeing the POWs it would consider the possibility next spring of injecting the issue into the 1972 presidential election campaign.

Stokes-Backed Candidate Wins

CLEVELAND (UPI) — With the help of outgoing Mayor Carl B. Stokes, attorney James M. Carney upset the endorsed party candidate Tuesday to win the democratic mayorality primary.

Carney's victory almost assures that a Stokes-backed candidate will win the Nov. 2 general election.

Carney, on of the city's most prominent businessmen, polled an unofficial total of 74,031 votes to 60,141 for City Council President Anthony J. Garofoli, the endorsed candidate, and 6,149 for former Police Chief Patrick L. Gerity.

The Republicans nominated Cuyahoga County Auditor Ralph J. Perk who had 12,156 votes to state Rep. George V. Voinovich's 6,014. Perk lost to Stokes by only 3,500 votes in 1969.

Support For Fabricated Homes Plea

The Corte Madera Board of Design has expressed support but took no action on two applications proposing prefabricated homes in the community.

According to Elizabeth Long, board secretary, action on the two applications was continued so the applicants could gather additional data.

The first, she said, proposes three units of dwellings at Paradise and El Camino drives. It was referred back to the developer, Donald Presley of San Rafael, for additional information on landscaping and carports.

The second, and more controversial, was an application for a single-family dwelling on a hillside lot at 24 Summit Drive.

In August, residents of Christmas Tree Hill attempted unsuccessfully to block construction of the home with an appeal to the town council. None of the residents attended Monday night's meeting, Mrs. Long said.

The board, in reviewing proposed design of the home, referred the application back to owner William Filante of Kentfield for additional information on hillside elevations.

The board also approved a sidewalk addition at the entrance to the Corte Madera Post Office.

The action, requested by the post office, followed a resident's protest to the postmaster general that the building could only be entered by crossing a potentially dangerous driveway.

President Signs Draft Measure

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon, declaring it is still his goal to end the peacetime draft, signed a bill Tuesday extending military conscription to mid-1973 and giving servicemen a $2.4 billion pay raise — the largest in history.

But Nixon decreed the pay raise —intended to attract more volunteers to the services — could not take effect Friday as scheduled. He said it would have to be put off until his 90-day wage-price freeze ends in mid-November.

Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., indicated he would not fight the President's decision on the pay raise. He said it was a question "to be resolved by the lawyers downtown." Hebert earlier had insisted the raise go into effect on time and said he had a legal opinion which showed it would have to.

But Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, said the White House had a Justice Department opinion supporting Nixon's decision to hold up the pay boost until November.

Nixon said he hoped that "this is the last time the President must sign an extension of the draft induction authority."

"This administration is committed to achieving the reforms in military life as well as public support for our armed forces which will make possible an end to peacetime conscription," Nixon said.

The draft has been suspended since the old law expired June 30. Selective Service officials are expected to issue their first call under the new authority within a few days. Pentagon sources, however, have indicated calls will be light the remainder of the year and that no more than 19,500 men will be inducted during October, November and December.

The new draft authority provides for the phased elimination of student deferments and a switch from local and state quotas to a national call in the method of selecting men.

It provides that no student deferments will be issued to any registrant who had not been eligible for one during the past school year. If students receive induction notices, however, they will be permitted to finish the semester.

Reporter Takes Prison Interview Plea To Court

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A reporter for a weekly publication has filed a federal court suit demanding that she be allowed to interview San Quentin Prison inmates.

Alice D. Yarish, of San Anselmo, a reporter for the Pacific Sun Publishing Co. in Marin County, said prison authorities have repeatedly refused her permission to interview inmates in connection with the death of George Jackson Aug. 21 during an escape attempt.

U.S. District Court Judge Spencer Williams set a hearing for prison officials to explain why they do not want Miss Yarish to interview inmates, including Ruchell Magee, codefendant with Angela Davis in the Marin County Civic Center shootout.

Oil Swallowing Fatal To Eight

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Eight children died in the United States during the past three years from swallowing wintergreen oil.

Charles C. Edwards, Food and Drug Administration commissioner, gave the statistic Monday in proposing mandatory children-proof packaging for linaments and other liquids containing more than 5 per cent wintergreen oil.

Similar FDA children-proof packaging rules are pending for aspirin and furniture polishes containing 10 per cent or more petroleum distillates.

Cities, Counties Get State Tax Revenues

Amounts received by Marin County as well as cities in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties from the August apportionment of cigarette and highway users' tax funds have been announced by State Controller Houston I. Flournoy.

He also announced the second quarterly apportionment of revenues to cities from the highway carriers' uniform business license tax.

Sums received from the cigarette tax fund were: Marin County, $5,190; Belvedere, $507; Larkspur, $2,609; Ross, $504; Sausalito, $2,718; Corte Madera, $3,456; Mill Valley, $3,492; San Anselmo, $3,207; Tiburon, $1,769; Fairfax, $1,763; Novato, $7,874; San Rafael, $17,171; Petaluma, $7,860; Cotati, $514, and Rohnert Park, $1,522.

Highway use taxes amounts were: Marin County, $145,495; Belvedere, $2,313; Larkspur, $8,390; Ross, $2,419; Sausalito, $4,934; Corte Madera, $6,765; Mill Valley, $9,930; San Anselmo, $9,996; Tiburon, $4,972; Fairfax, $6,041; Novato, $23,964, and San Rafael, $29,102.

Cities received the following amounts from the uniform business license tax: Belvedere, $52, Corte Madera, $176; Fairfax, $148; Larkspur, $218; Mill Valley, $243; Novato, $652; Ross, $55; San Anselmo, $258; San Rafael, $750; Sausalito, $108; Tiburon, $105; Cotati, $30; Petaluma, $547, and Rohnert Park, $131.

She Really Wanted To Hear Teddy Speak

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Mrs. Shirlee George figured washing dishes for an expected 1,000 persons was worth hearing Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., speak at a $100-a-plate fund raising dinner.

So the 35-year-old housewife from suburban Oakmont wrote Allegheny County Democratic officials and offered to do the dishes because she couldn't afford a ticket.

Democratic officials said they were "intrigued" by her offer, but said she could pay for the ticket in monthly payments of $10.

Panel Nod To Lower Legal Age

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A key Senate committee yesterday overwhelmingly approved an Assembly-passed bill lowering the legal age of adulthood in California from 21 to 18 for virtually everything except drinking.

The measure by Assemblyman Paul Priolo, R-Pacific Palisades, cleared the Senate Judiciary Committee on a voice vote with Sen. Clark Bradley, R-San Jose, casting the only audible dissent.

He warned the legislation would go down in history as "one of the most miserable social experimentations this state has ever seen. The results will be horrendous."

He said 18-year-olds will leave school to marry, bear children, divorce and their offspring will join the welfare rolls and become involved in breaking the law.

Bradley said he had not received a single letter from an 18-year-old in support of the Priolo bill and asserted "I think we've shoving it down the throats of young people 18 to 21 on the premise that they want it."

The bill would reduce legal age of adulthood in California from a minimum 21 to 18. Eighteen-year-olds could serve on juries, become policemen, be tried in adult courts, and enjoy virtually every other privilege of adulthood—except that of drinking.

However, a separate measure to allow 18-year-olds to drink has passed the Assembly and is pending in the Senate.

Funeral Reform Bill Is Approved

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, proposing a measure of funeral "reform" was approved unanimously by the Assembly yesterday.

The bill would prohibit a crematory from requiring that human remains be cremated in a casket and would require funeral directors to provide a list of prices and fees before entering into an agreement or contract for funeral services.

Additionally, the bill would require a funeral director to "conspicuously" mark the price on each casket.

The measure was approved 51-0 and returned to the Senate for concurrence in Assembly changes.

Two Oil Spill Bills Are Dead

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Two Assembly-passed bills dealing with oil spills were killed Monday by the Senate Natural Resources and Wildlife Committee at the request of their author.

But the committee approved and sent to the Senate floor resolutions by Assemblyman W. Don MacGillivray, R-Santa Barbara, asking federal and state studies on preventing oil spills and development of contingency plans to handle spills.

Assemblywoman March Fong, D-Oakland, asked the committee to set aside two bills which she said were designed to "cut federal preemption in the field off at the pass."

San Rafael 4-H Seeks Members

The San Rafael Community 4-H Club will take applications for membership at a meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in Carpenters Hall, San Rafael.

Boys and girls 9 to 19 years old, interested in forestry, automotive projects, woodworking, electricity, photography, sewing, cooking, home furnishings and other types of projects are eligible to join the 4-H program.

Rita Beckner, president of the club, said anyone over 19 can apply to be a leader for the children.

She said all new members must have one parent or guardian with them when signing up.

Time Short For Bums; Top Astros

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Time is running out and the pressure is building for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Dodgers remained in the National League's Western Division race Tuesday night by beating the Houston Astros 2-1 on Maury Wills' eighth-inning single. But it didn't gain them any ground as San Francisco beat the San Diego Padres 7-1, keeping the Giants a game in front with two to go.

The Dodgers, who'll send 20-game winner Al Downing against young Ken Forsch (7-8) tonight, were completely stymied for five innings by Don Wilson, a surprise starter. Wilson retired the first 15 Dodgers he faced before Duke Sims led off the sixth with a homer to tie the score at 1-1. Bobby Valentine walked with one out in the eighth, took second on winning pitcher Bill Singer's sacrifice and scored the winning run on Wills' single off shortstop Roger Metzger's glove.

"I was pushing the ball," said Wills, "hoping it had enough on it to get through. I like being the guy in the payoff spot. I have confidence in my ability. We watched the message board during the game and we knew we had to win."

"I'm glad he's on our side," said Manager Walter Alston. "It seems as though the tighter the situation is, the better he is." Alston also praised Singer, who like Wilson pitched a three-hitter. "Singer has had an injury season but he's come through in two key games, one against the Giants and now against Houston."

Singer, counted on as the Dodgers' ace but belabored by arm injuries, was pleased with his clutch performance. "I'm glad I was able to come through when it counted," he said. "I had good control and my fast ball, slider and curve all worked well."

Should the race end in a tie, it will be decided by a one-game playoff on Friday. The winner faces the Pittsburgh Pirates for the National League pennant.

Elsewhere in the NL, Montreal edged Chicago 5-4, Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh 6-3, Atlanta shut out Cincinnati 4-0 and St. Louis downed New York 5-2.

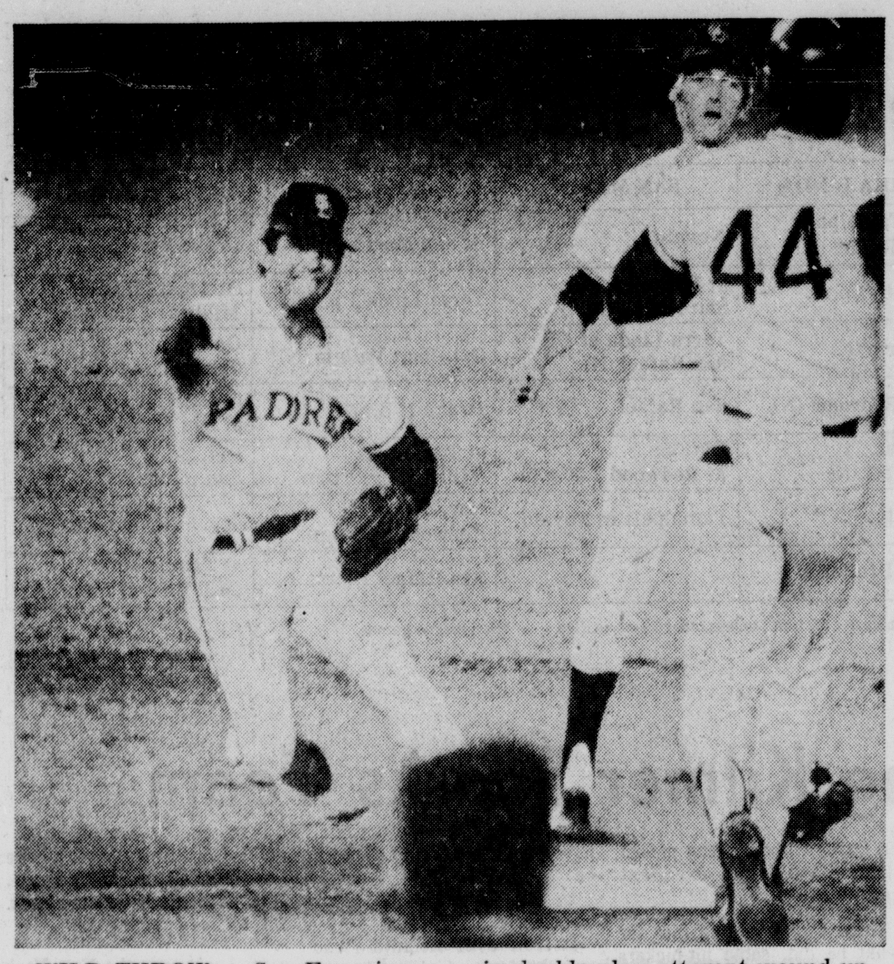
Baltimore swept Boston 10-2 and 5-4, California stopped Minnesota 6-2, Milwaukee edged Chicago 3-2, Washington defeated New York 4-2, Oakland shaded Kansas City 2-1 and Cleveland nipped Detroit 8-7 in the completion of a suspended game before dropping the regularly scheduled game 4-2 in the American League.

Rusty Staub's one-out single in the bottom of the ninth scored winning pitcher Ernie McAnally with the winning run that enabled the Expos to beat Chicago.

Deron Johnson and Greg Luzinski each hit two-run homers to lift the Phils over Pittsburgh. The homers foiled Dock Ellis' bid to become a 20-game winner and enabled Rick Wise to post his 17th victory.

Phil Niekro pitched a three-hitter and Ralph Garr ran his hitting streak to 22 games in the Braves' victory over Cincinnati. Garr had two hits, scored one run and drove in another and rookie Earl Williams had two runs batted in.

Steve Carlton, who lost 19 games last season, scattered seven hits to become a 20-game winner this year in the Cardinals' triumph over the Mets. Ted Simmons knocked in two runs during a three-run first inning.



WILD THROW — San Francisco Giants' Willie McCovey was out at second on this force play last night, but San Diego shortstop Enzo Hernandez' throw to first in double-play attempt wound up in the dugout and two runs scored to start the Giants off to a 7-1 victory. Watching is San Diego second baseman Don Mason.

S.F. Bops Pads; Still Game Up

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Young lefthander John Cumberland hopes to follow San Francisco rookie Chris Speier in the hero's role tonight as the Giants shoot for a possible National League Western Division pennant clincher against the San Diego Padres.

Speier's three-run homer and the seven-hit pitching of veteran Gaylord Perry gave the Giants a 7-1 win over the Padres Tuesday and kept them one game ahead of the Los Angeles Dodgers with only two to play.

"The Padres are only 10-18 against lefthanders," manager Charlie Fox pointed out hopefully in selecting the 24-year-old Cumberland (9-6) to pitch the key contest.

"He has all the pitches and good control," said catcher Dick Dietz.

His opponent, hard-throwing Clay Kirby (14-13), tossed a one hitter in downing the Giants 2-1 the last time he faced them.

Told that Padres' pilot Preston Gomez predicted Perry would be in the bullpen Thursday, Perry said:

"I'd rather be there tomorrow (Wednesday) night. I never pitch well on the second day afterwards."

The 14-year veteran survived a rocky start and then coasted to victory with only one more trouble inning to run his record to 16-12.

Enzo Hernandez led off the first with a single for San Diego, moved to second on a wild pitch, to third on a passed ball, and scored on a long fly to left by Nate Colbert.

"I couldn't get the ball down at first, but I worked hard and Dietz kept on me," Perry said.

The Padres loaded the bases in the fifth but failed to score when a hot grounder by pitcher Ed Acosta resulted in Garry Jestadt being cut down at the plate with only one out.

Acosta, 0-for-17 batting this season, was bombed for four runs including Speier's blast the next inning. He had a 3-hitter and was trailing only 2-1 until then.

Willie McCovey doubled to the off field with one out in the sixth and Dietz was purposely passed after Bobby Bonds grounded to short. Alan Gallagher fouled up the Padre strategy by singling a 3-2 fast-ball to right to score McCovey. Speier followed with his eighth homer and it was all over.

Speier revealed he had tried to call time before his clout but umpire Dick Stello failed to hear him.

"I had to hang in there," he said. "I hit a low fastball about as hard as I ever hit a ball."

The Giants first two runs off the rookie Acosta came in the initial inning when Tito Fuentes singled with one out, Willie Mays and McCovey walked, and the first two scored when Hernandez overthrew first on a potential doubleplay grounder hit by Bonds.

The Giants other run came in the seventh when Ken Henderson was hit by a pitch, stole second, went to third on a sacrifice, and scored on McCovey's grounder to deep second.

"We have a good chance to win Wednesday," Gomez said. "If Kirby pitches his ball game, we can beat this club."

WIN 100TH

Hunter Sharp In Final Tuneup Before 769

OAKLAND (UPI) —Vida Blue and Jim Hunter have showed they are ready for the American League playoffs and now it's Chuck Dobson's turn.

Blue turned in a seven inning three-hit shutout in his final tuneup Sunday and Hunter matched it exactly Tuesday as the Oakland A's beat the Kansas City Royals, 2-1, for their 100th victory of the season.

Dobson, who will follow Blue and Hunter in the playoffs against the Baltimore Orioles, has his final tuneup today when the A's conclude the regular season against the Royals.

Hunter gave up meaningless singles to Lou Piniella in the second and Paul Schaal in the fourth but Schaal reached him for a bases-empty homer in the sixth for the Royals' only run of Tuesday afternoon's game, played in only one hour and 35 minutes and before the smallest crowd of the year — 769 in-person fans.

Meanwhile Reggie Jackson, closing in on the A.L. homer title, and Mike Epstein, winding up a miserable second half of the season, hit bases-empty homers to provide Hunter and his relievers, Rollie Fingers and Darold Knowles, all the help they needed.

Jackson's homer was his 32nd and undoubtedly clinched the homer title. Epstein hit his 19th in the seventh to break a 1-1 tie. It was Mike's 10th game winning hit of the season, but it didn't make up for what he called "a lousy second half."

Hunter, as might be expected, was pleased with his performance, and well he might be. Jim threw only 71 pitches in the seven innings he worked and besides the three hits he struck out five and walked only one man in notching his 21st victory compared to 11 losses.

"When I have my stuff, as I did in this game," said Hunter, "it's usually a fast game."

Reminded that he will face Mike Cuellar in the second game of the playoffs, Hunter, a good hitting pitcher, said:

"I've had a few hits off him. I don't mind going against him."

Asked if there was any particular player in the Orioles lineup who bothered him, Hunter said "all of them," although he admitted he usually has good luck against Frank Robinson.

"I challenge Frank," said Hunter, "and he knows it, so it's always an interesting battle."

No question in Hunter's mind that pitching against Baltimore in the playoffs will be the biggest assignment of his seven-year big league career.

"It'll be the most important game I've ever pitched," he said, "I'm really looking forward to it."

Mike Hedlund, who went the distance and gave up only three hits, was Kansas City is loser. He's now 15-8. The only other hit off him besides the Jackson and Epstein homers was an eighth inning single by Bert Campaneris.

"He showed me he's ready," said Williams. "What impressed me was the effortless way in which he worked. I'm also happy to see his earned run average go under 3.00." Hunter went into the game with an era of 3.00 even in 312 innings and 39 games.

With the Orioles scheduled to start Dave McNally and Cuellar, both lefthanders, in the first two games, Williams said that Angel Mangual will play in center instead of Rick Monday and Tommy Davis will be at first in place of Epstein.

Epstein, naturally, is disappointed that he won't play in the first two games but said he understood perfectly.

"Heck, Davis is hitting .320," he said, "and that's a whole lot better than my average (.235), so I have no complaints. Williams gave me all the chances in the world but I simply didn't have a good second half. The important thing is to win the playoffs and series and maybe I can still help."

Tuesday's game was the fastest played (in time) this year and the attendance was the smallest since the A's moved west in 1968. However, the 100th victory gave them a total no A's team has been able to reach since 1931, when the club, then based in Philadelphia, won 107 games in a 15-4-game season.

Johnson Salary Freed

Johnson, 28, won his case against baseball Tuesday when a three-man panel in New York ruled he was improperly placed on the "restricted list" June 26 by the California Angels.

"He should have gone on the disabled list and not been suspended," was Arbitrator Lewis M. Gill's historic ruling. Back pay totaling $29,970 was ordered restored to Johnson, who won the American League batting crown with a .329 average in 1970.

The Angels fined Johnson and suspended him June 26 for "lack of hustle." The panel ruled the fines will stand but said it was its opinion, based on two psychiatrist's reports, that emotional factors were involved in the left-fielder's inability to perform.

"I didn't feel like playing baseball on a major league level," Johnson said after the decision was announced. "I didn't feel that this year existed. I didn't feel the spirit, and you're cheating the fans if you can't play your best.

"The season's over now," he said. "I'll have to wait and see what the California Angels will do with my contract.

San Rafael Wallops San Marin

San Rafael High School's soccer team got off to a fast start in the Marin County Athletic League race yesterday by blanking San Marin, 4-0 in Novato.

In other league openers yesterday, Tamalpais edged Novato, 3-2 in Mill Valley; Drake and Redwood tied 2-2 in San Anselmo, and Terra Linda tied Marin Catholic 1-1 in Kentfield.

Rick Larsen and Rolf Bell scored for Drake and Redwood's Dave Harvard hit the net twice. Bill Aaker scored for Terra Linda and Dave Stealy for Marin Catholic in that other tie game.

FIFTH YEAR

Braves Keep Harris; Vows Contender

ATLANTA (UPI) — Luman Harris was rehired today for a fifth season as manager of the Atlanta Braves, and club president Bill Bartholomay said "I have no doubt that next year's club should be a definite contender."

Harris' status has been in doubt since early in the season when Atlanta fans booed him frequently. The club was playing well below .500 last June but rallied behind a group of young players to finish in third place in the National League's Western division.

"Only 10 more victories would have made the Braves best in the West this season," said Bartholomay, who noted that Harris worked through the 1971 season in difficult situations.

"It is a fact that this year's Braves were in the pennant race until the last week of the season," Bartholomay said.

The club president pointed out that last year's major league batting champion, Rico Carty, was out all season with a leg injury, first baseman Orlando Cepeda missed half the season with a bad knee, and third baseman Clete Boyer quit early in the season.

"I feel great," said Harris, after Bartholomay announced he was being retained.

Harris, 56, an Alabama native who pitched for the old Philadelphia A's in the American League during the 1940s, directed the Braves to the Western Division title in 1969, his second year as Braves manager. The Braves finished fifth in 1970.

"We will have the best material next year since the Braves have been in Atlanta," Harris said. He indicated that the most work in the off-season would be with the pitching staff, which was inconsistent in 1971.

The pitching staff will be ordered to spring training probably three weeks earlier than the rest of the team, Harris said, "to see if we can't straighten it out."

Bartholomay said Harris' new contract is for one year. He said no changes would be announced in the coaching staff until he could discuss it with Harris and general manager Paul Richards.

COAST FOOTBALL

Stanford Wary Of Duke Defense

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Trouble from an unexpected source looms for Stanford against Duke Saturday, for coach John Ralston of the 3-0 Indians hardly anticipated an unbeaten foe when the game was scheduled a few years ago.

"We didn't think they'd be that tough when the schedule was drawn up," Ralston told Bay Area football writers at Tuesday's weekly luncheon.

"Now we're playing a team that's 3-0 and has allowed only 18 points," added the Stanford skipper. "But we'll be ready—we're not looking ahead to Washington —because we're getting a lot of our injured players back."

Recalling Saturday's 38-17 win over Oregon, Ralston said: "It was 17-7 at the half and they suffered a letdown when Dan Fouts (knee injury) didn't come back for the second half.

"But Fouts and Bobby Moore are everything everyone says," the coach concluded. "Oregon is a more physical team than in the past and it might have been different if Fouts hadn't been hurt."

California's Ray Willsey, whose team plays Ohio State at Columbus Saturday, expects the Buckeyes to be plenty tough following their 20-14 loss to Colorado.

"I'm sure Ohio State is anxious to bounce back after that," Willsey offered. "It was one great game —one of the best I've ever seen on film.

"Ohio State had a chance to win at the finish, but wasn't able to pull it out —either because of mistakes or the officiating," added Willsey, referring to Woody Hayes' blast at the officials.

Cal, 2-1 following Saturday's 34-10 romp over San Jose State, hopes "to pass better and mix up the offense to keep Ohio State off balance," said Willsey. "That has to happen because we can't run the option like Colorado."

Willsey praised the Bears defense, saying guard O. Z. White "is now hitting full stride," and adding that tackle Sherm White and cornerback Clarence Duren, a J. C. transfer, also excelled against the Spartans.

Stanford quarterback Don Bunce was named university offensive player of the week for the second time this season after completing 12 to 24 passes for 262 yards and three TDs and adding a scoring run against Oregon.

Linebackers Jeff Siemon of Stanford and Bill Brown of San Jose State shared defensive honors. College laurels went to St. Mary's linebacker Don Hensic and USF quarterback Ron Centerwall, who passed for a school-record 318 yards.

Wyoming Gridders Hearing Finished

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI)— U.S. District Court Judge Erwing Kerr closed out a two-day hearing Tuesday in the case of 14 black athletes who said their right of free speech was denied when they were dismissed from the Wyoming University football team in 1969.

Former Wyoming coach Lloyd Eaton dismissed the blacks when they announced their intention to wear black armbands at a game against Brigham Young University. They said they wanted to protest "racist" policies of the Mormon Church.

Kerr gave both sides in the case 10 days to file proposed findings of fact and law.

Eaton, now a pro football talent scout, testified the black players were aware at the time of the incident of a rule forbidding participation in demonstrations. He said they violated that rule Oct. 17, 1969, when they walked across campus wearing their black armbands.

Eaton said the rule was issued to prevent players from getting hurt in demonstrations and because he was afraid team morale would suffer if the athletes began splitting into factions.

When the black athletes walked into his office, Eaton said, he told them it was difficult to understand how they could demonstrate against a religion they knew nothing about.

"There was nothing to discuss," Eaton said. "The rule was clear. They came in as a group wearing armbands. As far as we were concerned, this was a group demonstration."

Giant Boosters Aid Team Spirit On Road

SAN DIEGO — When the Giants arrived in Houston for the start of their final 1971 road trip, a band of their most loyal supporters awaited them. Maybe some others may doubt the ability of the Giants to set things right but not their faithful road runners.

The road running fans of the Candlestick Kids are more formally known as the Northern California Giants Boosters Club. Sixty of them flew into Houston on a chartered plane a couple of hours in advance of the baseball team.

THEY WERE waiting in the lobby of the hotel where the Giants make their Houston headquarters, just a five-minute bus ride to the Astrodome. There were no ill-mannered efforts to buttonhole players for autographs. And there were no rah-rah shouts from the road runners.

It was kind of strange, not the fact that there were no autograph requests. The road runners are well mannered. They know there is an autograph signing time set aside for them during each trip they make. It's called a Coffee Klatch, usually held on the final day of each trip.

IT WAS DIFFICULT to pinpoint the reason for the silent meeting of the road runners and the Giants at the outset of this all-important nine-game trip of the team. There should have been at least one or two encouraging shouts of "Go get 'em," "You can do it." But there wasn't one.

Even Allan Murray of San Rafael, president of the road runners, sat on a sofa across the lobby as the team entered and it wasn't until almost all of the players had picked up their keys and headed toward their rooms that Murray joined his loyal band.

TO BE SURE, the Giants themselves were under the pressure of a stretch run for the division flag in the National League West with only a 1½-game lead after being comfortably in front 8½ on Sept. 4.

But surely the road runners were not responsible for the team's September slide. They weren't on that last road trip when the Giants went into a seven-game skid early in the month, their longest losing streak of the season.

So why the strangely silent meeting of the loyal band from northern California and the team? Somebody suggested it could be traced to a recent magazine piece about the road runners. It was written by Mill Valley author Charles Einstein.

IT WAS A fun piece about baseball's most traveled rooters, a sort of two-edged scalpel operation on them. They were pictured as a fun-loving group which they certainly are. But they also were pictured as a jinx to the team. The magazine piece recalled an early season series of losses in Montreal when the road runners were present. And there were other road losses indirectly attributed to the road runners.

A segment of front office brass in Candlestick Park really believes the negative nature of the magazine piece. Ridiculous. The Giants may need some loyal friends in 1972 if they don't bring in a winner on this final road trip of 1971.

REDSKIN SUB

Surprising Kilmer Sparks Team

NEW YORK (UPI)—Poor Billy Kilmer, He has trouble satisfying some people.

To begin with, when Sonny Jurgensen, Washington's regular quarterback, first busted up his shoulder George Allen, the Redskins' coach, put on this big long face and talked about how the ball club would have to settle for less.

"Six, seven or eight victories would be something without Sonny," Allen said, getting in his alibi early.

So far the Redskins haven't missed Jurgensen that much. Kilmer has been doing okay. Last Sunday he flipped a pair of touchdown passes against the Giants, hit on 23 of 32 tosses for 309 yards without being picked off and called an excellent game.

Instead of crediting him for what he did, some nit-pickers pointed out that the only reason he did so well was because the Giants' cornerbacks were playing off Charlie Taylor and Roy Jefferson.

"He's no Jurgensen and never will be," I heard one guy say to another Sunday after Kilmer steered the Redskins to their 30-3 runaway over the Giants.

Kilmer doesn't pretend to be another Jurgensen. All Kilmer is trying to do is be himself.

"I know Sonny is gonna come back but I can't worry about that," he says. "I gotta run the team. Sonny and I are friends; he has helped me a lot and I'm proud to be on the same team as he is. When he comes back, if the coach wants him to play, he'll play; if the coach wants me to play, I'll play. That's all there is to it."

Not quite.

There's this Sunday's game in Dallas. The Cowboys have won their first two games the same way as the Redskins and Sunday's winner takes over the NFC's Eastern Division lead.

I say the nit-pickers should get off Kilmer's back because he's doing the best he can and up to now it has been pretty good.

Sunday should be a little different though. The Cowboys have too much depth. They'll beat the Redskins.

In the other games, my choices are:

Detroit over Atlanta—Who ever beats the Lions at home? Besides, the way the Rams tied them last Sunday had to take something out of the Falcons.

Cincinnati over Green Bay — The Bengals didn't look good at all against the Steelers. They'll look better against the Packers. Paul Brown already has seen to that.

New England over Baltimore —The Patriots are an up-and-down ball club and this Sunday I think they're due up.

Pittsburgh over San Diego — Against the Raiders the Chargers performed more like the Rangoon Rinkydinks.

Kansas City over Denver — Hank Stram keeps drumming it into the Chiefs they have to win these early ones also.

New Orleans over Houston — Oilers offense looks as if it needs a grease job.

San Francisco over Philadelphia —The Forty-Niners have the better offense and defense. Also the better quarterback. Did I leave anything out?

St. Louis over the New York Giants —Not much to choose between these two but whatever there is, I choose the Cards.

Monday night

San Rafael Net Title Meet Set At Albert Park

The San Rafael Doubles Tennis Championships will be held Oct. 15-17 and Oct. 22-24 at Albert Park, featuring men's, women's and mixed competition.

All Marin County residents 19 years or over, as of Dec. 31, are eligible to sign up with the Parks Recreation Department in City Hall, 1400 - Fifth St. before the Oct. 8, 5 p.m. deadline.

Women's doubles will be played on the two Fridays, while the men's and mixed contests will be held both Saturdays and Sundays.

In addition, first round losers will vie in a consolation tournament.

SWARTZ PROGRAM

Senior Swim Program Set

Don Swartz, 25, introduced his "Senior Swimming" program for "people of at least college age" to be held Mondays through Thursdays in San Rafael High School pool beginning Oct. 11 at 7 p.m.

The $10 monthly fee will include 16, one-hour practice sessions and all equipment, sans trunks and towels.

"Let's face it," Swartz candidly pointed out, "we're here to produce competitive swimmers, but we also owe something to the people here."

By providing this year-round physical fitness program, Swartz hoped to fulfill both aims.

"There is a real need in this county for such a program, because Marin has no public swimming pool. You can jog or lift weights the year round, but, up to now, there was no opportunity to swim all the time."

He added that "senior swimming" should nullify that deficiency — and one more.

"Jogging and weight lifting are done pretty much by individuals alone, but this program will lend a social aspect. You will be exercising and swimming laps with other people. This should make the undertaking fun, not boring. By getting together in a group, it gives people something to look forward to," Swartz explained.

Swartz termed the project "a fun way" to keep fit, while strengthening the all-important cardio-vascular system or heart area. "We want to enhance the heart's ability to maintain normal functions. To do so, we offer swimming laps to reduce bodily weight and fat, which puts undesired strain on the heart, particularly when people get older," he continued.

In discussing age, Swartz stressed that competitive zeal is not necessarily tempered by mounting years. "We don't want people 25-34 swimming against some others much older," he commented, "we let them swim against those in their own age bracket."

Though a recognized innovator in his own right, Swartz admitted he did not originate this competitive and social program for fitness.

"When I was with my team at the National AAU Swimming championships at Houston, Tex. on Aug. 25, I was told about it by Jim Counsilman," Indiana University swimming coach.

"He and those like him," like actor-swimmer Buster Crabbe and University of Southern California aqua team leader Pete Daland, "wanted to find a way for ex-competitive champions to keep in shape. And this is what they came up with."

The Connecticut product came west with his parents after his college days and obtained a post with the Ladera Oaks Recreation Department in Menlo Park, thence the Ladera Oaks Aquatic Club.

Prior to his 1969 Marin County arrival, Swartz headed the Davis Aquadarts, his first-ever headman job.

His debut in coaching came by accident. After competing rigorously in swimming, skiing, football and lacrosse, he underwent a spinal fusion operation, which relegated him to braces for eight months; it also ended his athletic career at age 20 . . almost.

"I still wanted to stay close to sports," Swartz recalled, "so I decided on being a coach."

Marin Soccer Team Loses By 2-0 Count

Former San Rafael High All-Leaguer Bill Mejia scored both Don goals.

Senate Attacks Exemption Clause

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sens. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., and Williams B. Spong, D-Va., introduced legislation Tuesday that would remove Baseball's exemption from the antitrust laws.

In a Senate speech, Magnuson said the decision of the America League to shift the Washington franchise to Texas and the Seattle franchise to Milwaukee "requires Congress to review the reasons for baseball's favored sport status."

Magnuson said the bill was introduced "to compel baseball to operate subject to the antitrust laws, and to remove the judicially imposed advantage that baseball has over similar team sports—football, basketball, and hockey—which are not now exempt from the antitrust laws.

"It is apparent that the nature of baseball has changed dramatically since organized baseball received antitrust exemption," Magnuson added.

"It is our feeling that all aspects of baseball—including radio and TV contracts, concessions, player-management relations, and all other relevant factors — should be reviewed in order to determine the wisdom of continuing to exempt baseball from antitrust laws."

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Small Boat Owner Gets Representation

Is the small boat operator truly represented by any organization in the United States?

Are there any groups which will keep the average man informed of trends and influences in boating, and will report to him on the creeping bureaucracy which is tending to engulf the American boater in new rules, regulations and restrictions on his sport?

There are a couple of groups which fall into this category. One of them is Boat Owners Association of the U.S. (Boat/U.S.), based in Washington, which also provides insurance and financing programs for pleasure craft operators. The other is called the Boat Owners Council of America (BOCA) and is based in Chicago.

BOCA is a non-profit organization designed for the man who doesn't belong to any other group. It's for the unorganized or the anti-organization boat owner.

The Council gets financial support from the Boating Industry Association, which naturally has a small axe to grind. This group, which represents manufacturers of boats, outboards and other boating equipment, wants to keep boating the free, growing sport it is and to keep its devotees buying their products. This is not bad.

It costs $5 a year to belong to BOCA, and members get a kit containing legislative handbooks, safety materials and identifying pennants. They are kept abreast of developments by newsletters and a color magazine called "WaterSport" which contains no advertising.

BOCA keeps a man permanently in Washington to watch for developments affecting the nation's boaters. It also keeps an eye on state legislatures because every state always has some kind of restrictive boating legislation under consideration.

Membership is 30,000 now and is steadily increasing. Every boater should join.

There is considerable confusion in the minds of many boaters about boating organizations and groups and their functions as demonstrated by some of the letters I've received this year:

Q. My state doesn't have much water, where can I get free boating lessons?

A. Write to United States Power Squadrons, Box 345, Montvale, N.J., 07645, for the location of the Power Squadron closest to you. You'll find one even in the desert.

Does the Coast Guard set the rules for speedboat racing?

A. No. If you have aspirations of becoming a racing boat driver write to the American Power Boat Association, 415 Burns Drive, Detroit, Michigan, 48214.

Q. Who enforces the boating laws in Pennsylvania?

A. On Lake Erie, the Coast Guard. On the state's other waters, officers of the Fish and Game Commission. For full information write to the commission at Box 1673, Harrisburg Pa., 17120.

Q. Is the Power Squadron movement international. Would it be helpful in an overseas cruise?

A. Only Canada has a Power Squadrons organization like the USPS. In fact you can hardly tell them apart. Yacht club affiliations are more useful for cruises to the Bahamas, Mexico, Britain or Europe.

Q. Where can I get help in forming a boating club with emphasis on water skiing?

A. Write to the Outboard Boating Club of America, 333 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Illinois, 60601. This is an organization affiliated with the Boat Owners Council we mentioned earlier. It is very helpful.

Q. How can I get connected with the Coast Guard Auxiliary on the West Coast?

A. Write to the Commanding Officer of the Thirteenth Coast Guard District, 618 2nd Ave., Seattle, Wash., 98104, and ask for the closest "flotilla." That's what they call a unit of the auxiliary. It is not a police organization in any respect. The Auxiliary is a volunteer group of private boaters, or yachtsmen, banded together to augment this important branch of public service.

Q. I have had a ship to shore radio for some time, now I discover I have to get a license . . . Where?

A. You need TWO licenses . . . one for the station and one for the operator. Get forms FCC 501 and FCC 753 from the closest field office building in your state capital, or you can apply directly to the FCC ships licenses division, Washington, D.C. Fill in the forms and return them to the Washington address.

TIME AND TIDE

Skillful Alou Brothers Come To Play

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Alou brothers have never run into the kind of trouble Alex Johnson did.

They come to play.

Anytime or anyplace. It doesn't matter where —San Francisco, St. Louis, Houston, Pittsburgh, Atlanta, Oakland, New York or the Domican Republic which is where Felipe, Matty and Jesus come from and where they are regarded the same way the DiMaggio brothers are here.

You ask Felipe Alou which of the three Alous he considers the best ballplayer and he gives the question considerable thought.

"To be honest," he says, "I think I have the most ability. Matty is the best hitter. He has more guts and confidence than Jesus and I put together, but Jesus is the most professional of all three."

No one in baseball today really is more professional than Felipe Alou. At 36 he's the oldest of the three Alous, he is more or less the spokesman for them and he plays for the New York Yankees. In this day and age when so many ballplayers have one kind of beef or another, meet Felipe Alou, the exception. Speaking for his brothers as well as himself, he says, "we have a lot to be grateful for. This country opened a big door for us."

Felipe Alou is finishing his 14th season in the majors during which he put in six years with the Giants, six with the Braves, and one with the A's last season before they dealt him to the Yanks.

He thought he did a good job last year with the A's, hitting .271 for them in 154 games, and it shook him up when they suddenly traded him to New York. It shook him up so much he nearly quit.

"I was very sensitive about being traded until I was traded by Oakland. From then on I think I became very insensitive. So if I'm traded again this time ..."

Felipe Alou shrugs. That shouldn't be taken to mean he doesn't care. He does.

"To me the most rewarding thing out of all my time in baseball has not come from anything on the field," he says. "To me the most rewarding thing has been that we —the Alou family —became somebody in the United States as well as in the Dominican Republic. That is what means the most to me. We want to go through baseball without any trouble. We wish the Alou brothers not only to be good ballplayers, but to be good citizens and to set an example for the Dominican people."

The Alous can relax. They already have set a fine example.

There is a fourth brother, Juan, who is the youngest. He's 24 and a civil engineer working for the government in Puerto Rico.

"He can always give me a job if I need it," says Felipe, who has done an excellent job for the Yankees all year long and is hitting .286 for them now.

The 32-year-old Matty, traded to St. Louis by Pittsburgh last winter, is doing the best of all. He's hitting .315, while the 29year-old Jesus is at .278 with Houston.

"I think Matty is the favorite with my mother because he's the smallest," says Felipe. "My mother never worries about our averages. All she ever wants to know is whether we're healthy. My father is different. He wants to know the averages."

When the three Alous finish here they generally head back for the Dominican Republic where they play in the same outfield for the Escogidas club in the Winter League. They always hit 1-2-3 in the batting order. Matty has led the Dominican League in hitting three times, Felipe twice and Jesus once.

Originally all three were with the San Francisco Giants and they got to play together in one game for them.

Felipe Alou is the type who doesn't generally say much but he did speak up back in 1963 when Alvin Dark, managing the Giants then, sent Matty back to the minors while he was nursing a bad knee.

"He's a good ballplayer," Felipe argued with Dark. "Why are you sending him to Tacoma? You should send him to a hospital instead."

It didn't do any good. Felipe Alou remembers Alvin Dark's answer.

"He told me to look after myself. He said for me not to worry about another ballplayer even if that other ballplayer was my brother."

Alvin Dark doesn't understand about brothers.

Not the Alou brothers, anyway.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the San Rafael Sanitation District, Marin County, California, will receive bids for furnishing all materials, labor and service for the construction of FRANCISCO BOULEVARD FORCE MAIN AND GRAVITY SEWER.

Each bid shall be in accordance with the plans and specifications, and other contract documents now on file in the San Rafael City Hall, Room 204, 1400 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, California, where they may be examined and where copies may be obtained upon deposit of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) per set, twenty-five dollars ($25.00) of which deposit will be refunded upon the return of such sets in good condition within ten (10) days after the bids are opened.

Bidders are hereby notified that pursuant to Sections 1770 to 1781 of the Labor Code of the State of California, the District Board of the San Rafael Sanitation District, Marin County, California, has ascertained the general prevailing rate of hourly wages and rates for legal holidays, and overtime work in the locality where this work is to be performed, for each craft or type of workmen or mechanic needed to execute the contract which will be awarded the successful bidder. The prevailing rates so determined by the District are as follows: Wage Scale Classifications are all on file in the District Administrator's Office, 1400 Fifth Avenue, (Room 301), San Rafael, California.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded and upon any subcontractor under him, to pay not less than the said specified rates to all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by them in the execution of the contract.

Notice is also hereby given that all bidders may be required to furnish a sworn statement of their financial responsibility, technical ability and experience before award is made to any particular bidder.

Each bid shall set forth the name, location of place of business, and portion of the work that will be done by each sub-contractor in the amount exceeding 1/2% of the total bid.

Each bid shall be made out on a form contained in the specifications and shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or bid bond for not less than ten percent (10%) of the amount of the bid, made payable to the order of the San Rafael Sanitation District; shall be sealed and filed with the District Engineer, Room 301, San Rafael City Hall, 1400 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, California, on or before the 4th day of October, 1971, at 4:00 o'clock P.M. where they will be opened and publicly read aloud.

The above mentioned check or bond shall be given as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into the contract if awarded to him, and will be declared forfeited if the successful bidder refuses to enter into said contract after being notified so to do by the San Rafael Sanitation District, Marin County, California.

The District reserves the right to reject any or all bids or waive an informality in a bid.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty (30) days after the date set for the opening thereof.

By order of the District Board of the San Rafael Sanitation District made the 8th day of September, 1971.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current regular price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wear-Out Allowance
Primero 35,000 miles	Prorated on Miles Driven
WTO Radial 40,000 miles

Andretti Out Of Grand Prix

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. — Defending champion Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil drove a Lotus Tuesday to the fastest time in unofficial practice for the $267,000 United States Grand Prix.

However, the U.S. Grand Prix lost one of its brightest attractions when Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., announced he was forced to drive in the USAC's Marlboro 300 instead of participating at Watkins Glen. Mark Donohue had previously said he would pass up the Grand Prix for the Marlboro 300, which was postponed last Sunday because of rain. Fittipaldi averaged 125.69 MPH.

Track

BERKELEY — Former NCAA sprint champion Eddie Hart has been hired as a graduate assistant at California to aide head track coach Dave Maggard. Hart, by taking the graduate assistant position, is clear to continue training for next year's olympics. He replaces full-time assistant coach Charlie Craig, who resigned to take an administrative position at Cal-State Bakersfield.

Drag Racing

FREMONT — Don Garlits, best and oldest of the top drag racers, will be in action in the $100,000 American Hot Rod Association world final drag meet Friday through Sunday at Fremont Raceway.

The 39-year-old Garlits has won seven national titles in 20 years and recently became the first racer in history to cover the standing quarter mile in less than 6.30 seconds. He did it three times and hit 6.21 in the process.

Tennis

PHOENIX, ARIZ. —Billie Jean King, seeking to become the first woman athlete to earn more than $100,000 in a year, easily won her first round match Tuesday night in the $18,000 Virginia Slims Thunderbird Tennis tournament.

Mrs. King, top-seeded, downed Betty Ann Hansen 6-2, 6-2. Mrs. King needs only about $2,000 to go over the $100,000 mark.

In other action Tuesday, fourth-seeded Kerry Melville defeated Pat Cody, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1; No. 5 July Dalton beat Stephanie Tolleson 6-4, 6-1 and eighth-seeded Helen Gourlay stopped Becky West, 6-3, 7-6.

Baseball

SAN FRANCISCO — Mayoral candidate Harold Dobbs, who helped bring major league baseball to San Francisco, has put up an incentive to help the San Francisco Giants in their all-important series with the San Diego Padres. With the consent of Giant management, Dobbs Tuesday posted a $500 reward for the winning pitcher and the man driving in the winning run for every Giant victory in the three-game series with the Padres.

Softball Champs

MacArthur's Pub defeated the W.E. Joost team, 7-2 last night to win the C-I League championship of the San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball program. Lorry Galassi hit a three-run homer to highlight the game, played at Albert Park.

Hunter Safety Course To Start

A new, hunter safety course will be presented starting Monday at 7 p.m. on the San Rafael Police Department pistol range.

Steve White, a state-certified hunting safety instructor, will teach the course to those 12 years old and over who pay the $5 fee for the 10-week program.

"Completion of this course is required to get a state hunting license," White said.

Tom Denies Hitting Staubach With Cheapee

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Mel Tom, Philadelphia Eagles' defensive end, today denied he hit Dallas' Roger Staubach with a "cheap shot" after the Cowboys' quarterback had thrown an interception in last Sunday's game here.

Several Cowboy players complained after seeing films of the game, which Dallas won 42-7, that Tom slugged Staubach seven seconds after he had thrown the interception in the opening minutes of the game.

Staubach was knocked groggy and had to be replaced by Craig Morton. He came back after the Cowboys regained possession but had to leave again when he couldn't remember signals and did not return.

Tom said he didn't deny hitting Staubach but it was "just as a block."

"I've never done anything dirty in my playing career and this wasn't dirty," Tom said.

Tom said that when the Eagles'

Bill Bradley intercepted the pass, "e became the offensive team and I was blocking" Staubach.

"When there is an interception, the defensive team becomes the offensive team," Tom said.

"If he wasn't aware of myself coming, it's his fault," he added. "When you don't know it's coming, it really hurts," Tom said.

The Cowboys' offensive guard Ralph Neely said in Dallas he wasn't going to say anything about the incident "but I'm not going to forget it either," referring to the club's next meeting with the Eagles Nov. 14.

Softballers Win A League Title

Suburban Auto of San Rafael won the San Francisco "A" League softball championship last night by downing the Aristocats, 4-2 in San Francisco.

The Marin team scored twice in the fifth and twice in the sixth and stopped an Aristocat two-run rally in the bottom of the seventh for the victory, Suburban's 41st win in 60 games this year.

The first two Suburban runs were unearned. In the sixth Phil Gambucci tripled home one run and then scored on Bill Baxter's single.

Strikeout Ace Bunning Retires

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—In his prime, nobody could touch the lanky righthander who racked up 2,855 strikeouts, second only to the immortal Water "Big Train" Johnson of the Washington Senators.

But the years caught up with the Phillies' Jim Bunning—he relegated himself to occasional bullpen duty earlier this season —and finished with a dismal 512 record.

Tuesday the 39-year-old Bunning kept his promise "that when I couldn't get people out I'd quit" and announced his retirement after a 16-year major league career that included 100 wins in both the American and National leagues.

His lifetime record was 224 wins and 184 losses. Two of those victories were no-hitters one of them a perfect game.

"I enjoyed 22 years of baseball, and this is just one of those things that eventually happens," Bunning told a news conference where he was flanked by General Manager John Quinn and Manager Frank Lucchesi.

Bunning said his decision to retire had been "fairly firm in my mind since Aug. 1, but in the end, the hitters made it up for me."

Bunning said he would take some time to consider his future and indicated that retirement did not especially mear he would return to his stock brokerage job in his hometown of Frankfort, Ky.

Quinn said, "The Phillies want Jim Bunning to stay in the organization somewhere," and Bunning did not rule out a coaching or managerial position.

However, Bunning doesn't have much of a crack at a managing job with the Phillies because he says he won't take anything less than triple A ball. The only job like that with the Phillies would be Eugene, Ore., of the Pacific Coast League where former catcher Andy Seminick is manager.

Bunning's well-traveled career began in the majors with Detroit in 1955 after six years in the minors. His best season ever was with the Tigers in 1957 when he had a 20-8 record. In 1962 he won 19 games for the Tigers and the same number each year from 1964 to 1966 when he later was with the Phils.

In 1963, the father of nine came to the Phillies in a trade and he pitched his second no-hitter, a perfect game, on June 21, 1964 against the New York Mets.

DOLPHIN DUO

Csonka, Kiick Head Miami Running Unit

They can also boast of being equally fine and dangerous runners for the young Miami Dolphins of the American Football Conference.

Csonka gained 103 yards Sunday despite a broken nose and Kiick contributed 108 more yards as the Dolphins downed Buffalo, 29-14, for their first win of the year.

The pair's performance marked the first time in five years that two running backs on the same team each registered 100 yards in the same afternoon.

Last year, Csonka and Kiick led Miami to a 10-4 record, second place in the AFC East and a spot in the divisional playoffs. Csonka gained 874 yards, second in the conference only to the 901 yards of Denver's Floyd Little, and the best mark ever achieved by a Miami runner. Kiick was seventh in the conference with 658 yards.

Csonka and Kiick, who are off-the-field buddies and roommates on the road, were both drafted in 1968. Csonka was the No. 1 draft of the Dolphins out of Syracuse University, an institution with a rich tradition as a breeding ground of great runners. Kiick was the No. 5 pick out of Wyoming.

Coach Don Shula is proud of his hard-nosed young runners.

"They compliment each other very well," said Shula. "One runs, the other blocks. Then they change roles."

Arthur Ashe Struggles In S.F. Net

He had to go three sets to win the 2-6, 6-4, 6-4 win over Vladimir Zednik in the Golden Gateway match Tuesday in the tourney, which is being played both in San Francisco and at Berkeley.

Besides Ashe, Spain's Andres Gimeno, U.S. Open finalist Jan Kodes, Mark Cox, Roy Barth, with Tom Okker and Marty Riessen were some who advanced as expected.

Zednik, facing Ashe for the first time, surprised him with a sizzling serve and deep volleys that broke his opponent's serve twice.

Ashe recovered quickly in the second set for a 3-0 surge and then withstood a rally by the Czech to even the score. In the third set, both men held service until Ashe put away two of Zednik's serves at deuce in the seventh game for a 4-3 edge which he carried on to victory.

Marin Catholic Wins 18th

Marin Catholic High School's Class C basketball team ran its consecutive win streak to 18 yesterday with a 48-22 triumph over Drake High's team at Marin Catholic's gym.

Steve Webb scored 21 points and Mike Nivens 13 for most of Marin's total.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

UAL Employee Has A Question

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am an employee with United Air Lines (NYSE) and have been in their stock purchase plan for about 4 years, investing $75 each month from my paycheck. Do you think I would be better off putting this money elsewhere, such as in a credit union, mutual fund or other savings plan? — J.S.

A. No. Since you have a favorable investment plan, you should continue to take full advantage of its benefits. Moreover, the outlook for domestic air carriers has brightened. The President's new economic program is expected to provide an important boost to businessmen and consumers, thereby giving air travel a strong lift from its present grounded state. Thus, UAL shares now appear more attractive than they have in some time, a fact which is evident in the stock's smart recovery from 1970 lows.

A nose-diving economy, increased competition on many routes and an overcapacity problem caused heavy losses throughout most of last year and in the first quarter of 1971. However, things started taking a turn for the better when, on May 7, the CAB granted a fare increase. This, plus other 1971 fare hikes, should raise UAL revenues roughly $109 million on an annual basis.

The trunk carrier itself has gone a long way toward controlling costs by reducing the number of employees and cutting back on flights, the favorable effects of which should be greatly improved profit margins, especially when air traffic picks up. Another potential plus for UAL would be, of course, a winding down of the inflation spiral which Mr. Nixon desires. Since labor is by far the single largest expense for the airline industry, a get-tough policy with unreasonable union demands would tend to further alleviate the rising cost trend.

While 1971 earnings will, in all probability, be negligible, 1972 could witness a definite turnaround in the company's operations. Continued purchase is advised, with diversification into another investment area a wise consideration.

Yom Kippur Keys Action On Market

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index recorded a small pickup at 97.94. Volume of around 8.2 million shares just about topped the 8.1 million shares traded Aug. 9, the slowest session of the year, and was well under the 11.2 million shares which changed hands Tuesday.

The Jewish observance of Yom Kippur was largely responsible for the market's action with many traders and investors remaining at home.

The session offered few features. Woolworth added to its Tuesday losses apparently stemming from a federal warning that certain female nightwear formerly sold by the chain store group may be dangerously flammable.

Active issues included Control Data, Motorola, Lenox Inc., Howard Johnson and Sony Corp. Control Data and Motorla were losers for most of the session.

Steels turned fractionally lower. Motors also eased, led by Ford and General Motors.

Chemicals were mixed. Jersey Standard was one of the few plus issues in the generally lower oils.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mixed in quiet trading.

California Held Nation's No-Fault Bellwether

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — How California acts on pending auto insurance reform legislation could be a decisive factor in whether enactment of such legislation is left to the states or taken over by the federal government, says a leading advocate of no-fault auto insurance.

"People all over the country, and particularly in Washington D.C.," said T. Lawrence Jones, American Insurance Association president, "are watching to see what California does on auto insurance reform."

Speaking out in support of Assembly Bill 1505 — which guarantees Californians compensation for economic losses resulting from auto accidents without regard to fault — Jones said that its rejection could have a serious impact on the form auto insurance reform will take throughout the country.

Red China Oil Fields Doing Job

TOKYO (UPI) —Premier Chou En-lai has claimed in recent years that mainland China's oil is able to take care of its industrial and transportation needs as well as the lamps of China. Until recently, many Westerners thought Chou was whistling past the graveyard. Oil is vital to any country wanting to expand and industrialize.

Recently, however, information leaked out about China's big Taching oil field in Manchuria has convinced the Free World that Chou may be telling the truth. They were even more convinced after hearing Mao Tse-tung, the Communist party chairman, say: "Industry, learn from Taching."

A tight veil of secrecy has hung over Taching ever since oil was discovered there 13 years ago. In recent days, however, an eyewitness account of a visit to Taching was published by a Japanese newsman sympathetic to China.

It described Taching as a self-contained community of 300,000 which produces about half of China's expanding supply of oil as well as much of its own food. The Japanese writer, Ippei Sugiyama, said Taching was built in a crash program launched in May, 1960.

"At that time," said Sugiyama, "the Soviet Union cut off aid to China. This and the American economic blockade pinched China's oil supply. To work its way out of the Soviet-American pressure, about 100,000 laborers, technicians and Peoples Liberation Army (PLA) personnel were collected at Taching from all over the country."

Sugiyama said most of Taching's population consists of these workers and their families.

Telling It Like It Is Exposes The Agitators

"While courts are still available to us as a means of defense, we should use them to the fullest extent, using the opportunity each time we appear in court to make clear the political nature of the police, courts, and attacks on individuals."

The line has been followed without deviation in the courtrooms of our own country. It has been followed also outside the courtroom — by defendants, their attorneys, and their devotees.

THEY CALL IT "telling it like it is." But it is not like it is; it is like they want to make it appear.

Attorney William Kunstler (he of Isla Vista and Chicago Seven fame) has referred to the convicts killed in suppressing the Attica, N.Y., prison seizure as heroes, and described them as "the finest men I have ever known . . . ready to die for what they believed in."

George Jackson has been made a hero in similar fashion by other rhetoricians of the new left, because he lost his life in an insane bid to seize control of the adjustment center at San Quentin Prison. Anyone who directs violence against any form of established order (except the repressive order of the new left itself) is awarded a hero's diadem by those who stand outside, apart from the violence, to mouth the old, familiar urging of the agitator: "Let's you and him fight."

AFTER THE AUGUST violence at San Quentin, one who is in position to know really told it like it is. And his remarks drew immediate cries of outrage from that same new left.

He went on that "many of us here feel we have to share the blame for what happened (because) we've leaned over backward . . . we've run scared of shyster attorneys."

These were not the kind of statements one expected from Jim Park. But he was moved by the shock of inmates killing guards and fellow inmates to really tell it like it is.

THE REVOLUTIONARIES and their lawyers will continue to use the courts they condemn to further their own purposes. They will continue to pretend that crime is revolution, that killers are heroes, that all those exercising legitimate authority are "pigs."

But there ought to be some kind of special Diogenes Award for those who really tell it like it is. And if one were established, the first recipient should be Jim Park.

Solid Opposition Fails To Stop School Voucher Idea

By MARY K. SHELL

SACRAMENTO (Capitol) — The entire education establishment — from the CTA to the PTA — has formed a solid wall of opposition, but it looks like education vouchers may still get a trial run in California.

AB 150, introduced by Assemblyman Leo Ryan, D-South San Francisco, would permit state participation in the experimental plan proposed by the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity. The meausre already has cleared several formidable hurdles.

Schools, both public and private, would be competing for students under the voucher system. The choice of school would lie with the parents.

ENACTMENT OF RYAN'S measure would simply clear the way for local school districts in the state to make application with OEO for a demonstration program. No more than four such programs would be allowed in California. These would be entirely on an experimental basis for a period of from five to seven years. Periodic progress reports would be submitted to the legislature and a final evaluation would be conducted by a neutral agency, Ryan says.

Here's how it would work: A demonstration board, representing all schools in the district, would contract with OEO for funds to establish a demonstration program. This board, composed of local residents, would control and administer the program.

A voucher equal to the amount now being expended per child, per year, by local and state government, would be issued to each child. The parents or guardian would then present the voucher at the school selected. Public schools in the district would all participate. However, private and church-supported schools would have a choice on participation. To qualify, the schools would have to meet certain regualtions set by the demonstration board and OEO guidelines.

PRIVATE SCHOOLS could not charge any student more than the voucher amount. This provision, alone, would eliminate some of the high-tuition institutions. And the restrictions on religious education would surely make church-supported schools look twice before agreeing to participate. The measure specifically prohibits public funds from being expended on religious-oriented education.

A participating school would be required to accept all applicants that space would permit. If applicants exceeded space, at least 40 per cent of the spaces would be filled by lottery "to insure a balanced student body," Ryan explained.

The local property tax rate for schools in participating districts would remain the same and the districts would receive the existing amount of state aid. Extra costs, such as those for administration and transportation, and for students who have previously attended private schools would be borne by OEO.

RYAN EXPECTS to see better quality education when competition among schools enters the picture with the voucher system.

In his view, "The proposal does not abolish the existing public schools. Rather it releases them from the labyrinth of rules and regulations which have inhibited their ability to innovate. By providing private sector competition in the marketplace, public schools will have more opportunities to innovate."

The father of the market approach to education is University of Chicago economist Milton Friedman.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

The best kind of wageworker, the best kind of laboring man, must stand shoulder to shoulder with the bestkind of professional man, with the best kind of businessman, in putting a stop to the undermining of civic decency, and this without any regard to whether it is a labor union or a corporation which is undermining it, without any regard to whether the offender is a rich man or a poor man. — Theodore Roosevelt.

More Questions About School Positions

In reply to Rose Mary Gicker's letter to the I-J, Sept. 24, regarding two teacher assistant positions and a clerk position in the San Anselmo School District, several points need to be clarified:

1. Mrs. DeVore (one teacher assistant) will be paid $497 per month. At 173.33 hours per month, her hourly pay would be $2.867.

2. Mr. Fleming (the other teacher assistant) will be paid $472 per month ($2.723 per hour).

We are questioning:

a. These positions have not been formally created by the board. There are no specifications as to what the job will consist of, nor how it differs from teacher's aide. We feel that the creation of new positions (at this time of a wage freeze) without showing a need for new and different duties appears to be therefore a subterfuge allowing a larger increase than would normally be a step increase in pay for a teacher's aide.

b. There are no qualifications required for these positions. For instance, qualifications for "secretary" in the S.A. district call for a high school diploma and "two years of successful full-time paid experience" as well as standards of performance in office skills and machines. One of the four duties listed for this job calls for "identifying educationally handicapped youngsters." Upon questioning the school district office we learned Mr. Fleming has a college degree, Mrs. DeVore does not.

c. There are no specifications nor qualifications for Sophia Spencer's job either. Since there will be no principal at Red Hill School, it seems pertinent that the board should discuss the role of this clerk position and formally adopt specifications so that inadvertently job specifications for principal will not be filled by the clerk!. . .

Would Name School For A. P. Giannini

Recently I read an article in your esteemed publication that Mill Valley has an unfinished school building which has not yet been named. Iwould like to suggest that it be named "A. P. Giannini." Mr. Giannini, the outstanding banker who started a small bank in 1904 in San Francisco, spread more than 900 branches throughout the State of California. It is now the world's largest. He was a great philanthropist giving generously scholarships to graduates of many learning institutions. He was a man of sterling character. He furnished the first million dollars to start construction of the Golden Gate Bridge, with the statement that "we need that bridge." He presented the agricultural college at Davis to the people of California. He created the Scatena Fund, whereby destitute teachers were given monthly checks to assist them. He was loved by his employees and did a great deal for their welfare. I am aware of these things as I was employed in his great institution for nearly 40 years and am now retired. To me he was one of the greatest native Californians in history. I am hoping that this message will be read by those in whose hands the naming of the school is placed.

Revive Reber Plan To Save The Bay

As most Bay area residents, I am deeply concerned over the recent "oil spills." I believe it is about time to reconsider the "Reber Plan." Though this plan was several decades ahead of our time, it does provide for the "containment" of oil behind a sea wall, wherein an unloading "tanker" behind a gate (lock) would prevent oil from spreading into the Bay. This same "wall" earlier was intended to make a fresh water lake of San Pablo Bay, and this in itself would prevent "salinization" of the bay, which is of considerable concern to those concerned with the ecology of the delta, which is threatened by the peripheral canal which would be essential to the diversion of Northern California waters to Southern California.

This project of especial benefit to Southern California should be financed by Southern California, as "insurance" and assurance of the cooperation of North-California whose residents have no desire to see Northern California become another "Owens Valley." Beyond my thoughts on this subject, I feel Peter Behr, our senator, should have more information on this subject than I, and feel it would be interesting to hear from him.

'Ripping Off' Shows Hypocrisy Of Revolutionaries' 'Morality'

(Reprinted from Milwaukee Journal

When blacks in the South were beaten and lynched by white mobs, it was called "coon huntin' " — not murder.

When black zealots today urge the death of policemen, the phrase is "off the pigs" — not murder.

The process is simple, and ancient. Dehumanize the object of scorn, clothe the evil action in a fresh (preferably righteous) description, and almost anything seems justified. Thus the GI in Vietnam may end up "knocking off gooks," when he's really killing little children.

THE NEWEST EXAMPLE of this perverse word game involves thievery by some of our radical young. They call it "ripping off," and it runs the predatory range from burglary and shoplifting to posing as a clergyman to solicit free food for a hippie commune.

Rip-offs are directed chiefly at the establishment — corporations, universities and government agencies —and are remorselessly justified as a form of political protest.

The establishment supposedly cheats the public, so the philosophizing marauders contend there is nothing wrong in plundering to even things up a bit. It would take a lot of shoplifting to equal one large price-fixing conspiracy, they argue.

PERHAPS. But how can one geniunely propose larceny as a remedy for larceny? Where is elementary morality?

It is obscured by revolutionary lingo, as is the fact that the public ultimately pays for all manner of thefts through higher prices and higher taxes.

One wonders if the young see the irony. They frown on rapaciousness and fakery as unworthy of the new generation, yet rip-offs are a foul blend of both.

Analysis Shows Great Bias In Television News Reporting

WASHINGTON — There is new, documented, perhaps conclusive evidence that the principal network TV news shows have been practicing massive bias.

The evidence shows that in the 1968 campaign when the American people were making up their minds about whom they wanted for President, Richard Nixon was buried in an avalanche of one-sided TV reporting.

These findings are based on a two-year study by TV Guide's Edith Efron. She examined every word broadcast every night on the regular evening ABC, CBS and NBC news reports during the seven weeks preceding the presidential election.

These findings are set out lucidly and precisely in Miss Efron's bombshell book, "The News Twisters" (Nash Publishing Co., Los Angeles), soon to be available at the bookstores for all to read and judge.

The networks will have to have better answers to Miss Efron's facts than they had for Vice President Agnew's opinions — or the public's demand for reform will be powerful.

2 — "The networks actively favored the Democratic candidate, Hubert Humphrey."

The one-sidedness of this TV reporting was found to be so pervasive, so consistent and so similar among ABC, CBS and NBC as to leave no doubt that it was deliberate — not a conspiracy, but certainly not accidental.

The network executives, the producers, the reporters and the broadcasters apparently knew what they wanted — and got it.

HOW DID Miss Efron measure broadcast bias? That is the crucial test of the validity of her research and her findings.

She tape-recorded the prime-time shows of each network and had them transcribed. Then, from the body of about 100,000 words per network, she isolated all stories dealing with the crucial political issues and excerpted all "for" and all "against" opinions on these 10 issues: U.S. policy on Vietnam, U.S. policy on the bombing halt, the Viet Cong, black militants, the white middle class, liberals, conservatives, the left, demonstrators and violent radicals.

Then Miss Efron and her research collaborator, Clytia M. Chambers, isolated the opinion content — direct quotes, paraphrase, narrative reports and the broadcasters' editorial opinions — from the newscasts and totaled the words spoken on both sides of each issue on each network.

IN HER BOOK, Miss Efron presents the findings which emerge from her analysis in graphs as well as in statements. They boggle the eye — and the mind. For example:

During the seven-week period of the presidential campaign, ABC spoke 869 words for Nixon and 7,483 words against him, CBS 320 for Nixon, 5,300 words against him, NBC 431 words for Nixon and 4,234 against him.

While ABC was giving 869 words firmly to Nixon, it was devoting 4,218 words friendly to Humphrey; CBS and NBC gave about the same ratio.

ABC and CBS gave approximately twice as much favorable coverage to militant blacks as unfavorable, and the word count of NBC news was 3,666 words for militant blacks and 1,383 against.

If there are any meaningful flaws in Miss Efron's methods of measuring bias in broadcast news, I did not detect them. I hope the networks will speak out thoughtfully and responsibly.

Meanwhile, I recommend that any person who ever listens to network news read "The News Twisters" — and judge for himself.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Congress Given Chance To Abolish Strip Mining

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — If the gentleman from West Virginia were a less stubborn sort, he might have been discouraged by the chairman's compliment.

Ken Hechler, who represents 10 counties in that part of the world where the strip miner is king, had just finished testifying on behalf of his bill to abolish that hopelessly destructive kind of mining.

He made the point that up to 1965, an area of the United States equal to the entire state of Delaware had been ravaged by stripping for coal. Since then, enough additional square miles to cover all of Rhode Island have been stripped. And by the time all the strippable coal under the surface of our country is torn out to feed our much-trumpeted "energy crisis," the devastated area will equal Pennsylvania and West Virginia put together.

THE CONGRESSMAN went on for 26 legal-size pages explaining why his bill is urgently needed and the one proposed by the administration for control of stripping would be laughably ineffective, if anyone had the nerve to laugh about it.

When he was through, the chairman of the mining subcommittee of the Interior Committee, Rep. Ed Edmondson of Oklahoma, thanked him and praised him for his "sincerity and dedication to his cause."

Not "our cause," although many acres of Oklahoma, too, have been destroyed by stripping. Not even "the cause." But "his cause." You don't have to speak congressionalese to get the nuance in that.

But Hechler has started out in the minority and persisted and ended up in the majority before. For example, on the mine safety bill that finally passed, with teeth in it, in late 1969.

THIS TIME, his bill (H.R. 4556) has 80 cosponsors in the House, and the beginnings of some influential support at the other end of the capitol. But there is none at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue. The White House, in line with the strip-mine operator, favors a measure designed to appease growing public concern about stripping without imposing any serious handicap on the operators — or providing any serious protection for the land.

Among its many other shortcomings, the administration bill would put enforcement under the Interior Department, which is committed formally to encouraging development of mineral output, rather than under the Environmental Protection Agency, whose function is just what its title says.

Even the operators are reluctantly willing to live with this weak version. They are pushing a campaign to change their image, blaming all the destruction wrought by stripping on earlier "irresponsible" operators, and contending that they themselves are much more public-spirited and careful-although in fact their giant machines, which can tear out as much as 220 cubic yards of earth at a bite, cause far greater disruption of the earth than the picks, shovels and old-fashioned bulldozers of the past.

They make a great pitch about "reclamation," which in practice means backfilling the stripped land and planting fast-growing ground cover, which sometimes grows and sometimes does not. But reclamation is a misnomer; a Corps of Engineers forester and a West Virginia University specialist both estimate it would take 400 years or longer to restore the ravaged land and trees.

Nevertheless, the operators are spending many thousands to sell the public on the idea that reclamation works. The main thrust of the administration's stripping bill is to require reclamation. But it is a mere threat of a mere slap on the wrist.

AMONG THE PROPOSED measures between the administration's token and Hechler's abolition is one from Rep. Wayne Hays, which would be forceful in controlling stripping while still permitting it to continue. Hays' home county in Ohio has 341,000 total acres. Of them, 200,000 are already leased, bought or optioned for strip mining. His motivation is clear.

But stripping is no longer an ugly reality only to the Americans who live in the abused hills of Appalachia and along the Ohio Valley. To cash in on the "energy crisis," the draglines are marching into wider and wider virgin territory. Substantial amounts of coal are now being stripped out of not only West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Virginia, Alabama and Tennessee, but also from Iowa, Montana, Oklahoma, Wyoming and Arizona — with still other fields being surveyed.

Grass Roots Uprising Sets Back Unification

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

For the first time since the school district unification act was written into law in 1945, two unified districts have been dissolved by vote of their electorates.

In both Newman-Gustine Unified School District in Merced and Stanislaus counties and Modoc-Tulelake Unified School District in Modoc County, the vote to dissolve was overwhelming: 1,355 to 606 in Newman-Gustine and 1,119 to 274 in Modoc-Tulelake. Several smaller school districts will result from the breakups.

THAT THESE WERE the first unified school districts dissolved does not mean that there has been no sentiment for dissolution in any other. There might have been three dissolution elections this month instead of two, were it not for the State Board of Education. An election on dissolving a school district cannot be held without the state board's approval. Petitions for dissolving Yuba City Unified School District in Sutter County were presented to the board in May, along with those from Newman-Gustine and Modoc-Tulelake. But the board, while letting the latter two go ahead, turned down the Yuba City petition.

In doing so, the board failed to spell out just what was wrong with the plan. But it won't do that any more.

As a result of the Yuba City turndown, Assemblyman Ray E. Johnson, R-Chico, introduced a bill (AB 3090) requiring the state board to give its reasons in writing for rejecting a petition for a dissolution election, and leaving the way open for revising the plan without starting all over with new petitions. Johnson's bill passed both houses and has been signed into law.

WHAT CALIFORNIA calls a unified school district is simply a district that includes both elementary and high schools. Such an organizational setup has obvious advantages.

However, the penchant of California educators and legislators for making everything difficult has resulted in school district unification having a rough time in the Golden State.

'Way back in 1920, the Herbert C. Jones Committee, appointed by the legislature, recommended unified districts, with county boards of supervisors to draw up school district lines. It proposed that a district might include a whole county, or that there might be one in each city and independent districts in the unincorporated areas.

This simple plan, however, ran onto the political rocks, as did several subsequent attempts at simplifying school district organization. Then in 1945, the bill setting up local committees on school district organization became law, with the expressed purpose of putting all schools in the state into unified districts.

THE 1945 BILL and its subsequent amendments, however, set up a lot of arbitrary rules as to what could constitute a unified district, and the State Department of Education added some more of its own. The effect of these was to make it impossible for small-population areas to unify around their local high schools. The law forced big unifications to get what some educators considered the necessary number of students — and resulted in such monstrosities as the now-dissolved Modoc-Tulelake district, with two high schools more than 70 miles apart.

Unification proceeded slowly. So in 1959 it was made mandatory that each county committee prepare a master plan for reorganization of school districts, and that elections be held on such plans. Later amendments required elections at every presidential primary until a unification plan was passed.

This year's legislature killed the requirement for unification elections at every presidential primary by passing SB 878 by Senators Fred W. Marler Jr., R-Redding, and Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ventura.

Several other bills in the current legislature aim at permitting more latitude in organizing unified school districts, and at abolishing the compulsory features. The trend seems to be established against forced centralization of school administration in big and often unwieldy districts.

And it's a pretty safe bet that Newman-Gustine and Modoc-Tulelake won't be the last dissolution elections.

Bill Passes To Fight Farm Worker Pesticides

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A major bill designed to protect farm workers from pesticides by setting up specific safety requirements for their handling has won narrow approval in the Senate.

The measure, described by Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, as a "giant step forward" in the protection of field hands, was passed Tuesday on a 21-10 vote, the bare minimum needed.

Local public health officers would be given sweeping powers under provisions of the bill to carry out the safety requirements for handling of pesticides. The measure was sent to the Assembly.

The bill mandates handwashing facilities for workers and posting of fields treated with potentially harmful pesticides. And it permits county health officers to inspect fields and limit access or even close down areas completely.

An opponent, Sen. Howard Way, R-Exeter, objected that the measure "erodes the responsibility of local agriculture commissioners."

The report should have read that the ceremonies will begin at 2 p.m. The I-J also incorrectly reported that Venezia lives in San Rafael and is a student at Tamalpais High School.

Senate Approves Bill To Help Protect Credit Card Holders

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Sen. Alfred Song's personal tangle with a credit card company is over. The score: 25-0.

It was on that vote the Senate gave final legislative approval Tuesday to major consumer legislation which will protect credit card holders against billing errors, deception and sex discrimination.

The bill by the Democratic lawmaker from Monterey Park now goes to Gov. Ronald Reagan who, a spokesman for Song says, is expected to sign it.

The measure grew out of a dispute between Song and a major credit card company over what the lawmaker said was a billing error. Heated letters and telephone calls were exchanged, and Song finally turned in his card and introduced his bill.

Under the measure, credit card companies would be required to correct billing errors within 60 days or forfeit the amount in dispute. The companies would be barred from gving out false or unfavorable credit information about the holder during the dispute.

For the first time credit card holders would have the right to refuse to pay for defective items which cost more than $50 if they could not get satisfaction from the merchant.

The bill would also help out unmarried, separated or divorced women, groups which supporters say have had difficulty in securing credit cards.

Song's bill was a compromise measure which had backing from both credit card companies and consumer groups, some of which would have preferred a stronger bill.

Archaic Inmate Law Repealed

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan signed legislation Tuesday repealing a 1913 law which gave the state authority to castrate inmates considered morally degenerate or habitual criminals.

His action removed from the statutes an act that was never used, according to the bill's author, Sen. George R. Moscone, a San Francisco Democrat.

Under the old law, a prison doctor could have ordered a convict "asexualized" if he had been committed at least twice for rape, intent to commit rape or seduction. Also, the prisoner could have been castrated if he had been convicted three times for any other crime.

A repeat offender would have had to have been found "immoral, a sexual degenerate or a pervert."
